Mr. Thomas A. Hastings, Chief Inspector, was appointed one of the assistant license inspectors in 1885, when the growth of the city required an additional inspector. He was made chief inspector upon the retirement of Mr. Dexter, five or six years ago. Before becoming license inspector Mr. Hastings was for a good many years a member of the Public School Board. Mr. James McConvey, inspector, was born and has lived all his life in Toronto. He is a cilder by trade. He was appointed in 1895 upon the retirement of Mr. John Wilson, from inability. Mr. Albert E. Hacker, the third inspector, has been a resident of Toronto for many years, and before his appointment was an unsuccessful candidate for alderman. He is a printer by trade. He was appointed in 904, succeeding Mr. F. G. Inwood, who had been appointed assistant inspector upon the retirement of Mr. Dexter. Mr. Inwood retired to become Liberal organizer.

Commissioners' Work Reviewed.

The present Board of License Commissioners was appointed in the early part of the present year, and held their first meeting on April 8. The members of the Commission are; Mr. J. W. Flavelle, Chairman; Lieut.-Col. John J. Davidson, and Major John A. Murray. When the new license board took office Provincial Secretary Hanna issued a circular letter to them, outlining the policy of the Government, the most striking paragraph in this letter was the following;

"In many counties there are places called hotels which are merely drinking places, the bar being made the first consideration, and accommodation for man and beast but secondary. Make the licensees of such places live up to the requirements or refuse their licenses. Make them keep hotel."

Letter to the Trade.

The Toronto Commissioners issued a circular letter, or statement to the public and the trade on April 26, in which they took the above paragraph as a text. They stated that they deemed it their duty to visit personally a number of hotels in Toronto, and in many cases found them merely drinking places. While the technical requirements as to six bedrooms above those required by the hotel help were met they were seldom used. The sanitary appliances were in many cases wholly bad. Over 100 out of the 150 hotels in Toronto could not be entered by the public outside licensed hours until the proprietor in response to a knock unlocked the door. This showed the prevalence of the idea that as soon as the bar was closed the house could be locked. They found that many houses were "tied" by brewers, or others by means of chattel mortgages. The Commissioners stated that they found themselves confronted not so much with direct violations of the law, or violations of the technical requirements as a failure in the spirit to "keep hotel," as required by the Provincial Secretary.

Drinking Among Women.

The Commissioners were led to believe that six bedrooms above those required for the hotel help was altogether inadequate in a city like Toronto, and that if the requirements as to adequate accommodation for the public in each hotel were met there would be found to be so many hotels in the central part of the city that the question of the reduction of the number of licensed houses would have to be considered by the City Council.

In visiting the hotels the Commissioners were struck with the prevalence of drinking among women, who are served through side doors. The use of side drinking rooms by women was also too common. Three of the sentences of this statement may be given as indicating the spirit of the Board;

"While the power of reducing the number of licenses rests with the Commissioners, it would seem, having regard to existing conditions and what has led up to them, to be an overstraining of their authority if they were to reduce the number of licenses in the city for any other than one reason, namely, a failure to comply with the law is spirit as well as in letter, after due notice had been served upon the present holders of licenses.

"The Commissioners view their duties in the light of a public trust, and will not allow individual hardship however regrettable and unfortunate, to interfere with their plain duty as they may understand it.

"The License Commissioners will seek to enforce the law in a high-minded and just manner, and in doing so will know neither politics, creed nor corporation."

Plain Words of Advice.

With this statement the Commissioners issued a letter to the license holders in which they gave them notice to "Keep hotel" in the spirit and letter of the law. It must not be presumed that because licenses had been issued in the past to places not "keeping hotel" that these licenses would be renewed in May, 1906. The law did not permit saloon licenses, and houses conducted as such must cease. The Commissioners announced their intention of requiring strict observance of the law, as regarded selling only in licensed hours. Attention was drawn to the report of inspectors that there was selling to men and women who were drunk, and to the fact that inspectors reported difficulty in getting into the houses during prohibited hours. The concluding paragraph of the letter summed up in a word the attitude of the Commissioners. It read;

"The purposes of the Commissioners is that the law be enforced in a fair and just manner with the absence of anything bearing the appearance of persecution. License holders will be well advised, however, if they recognize that such a course is not to be mistaken for one of easy complaisance in face of violation of any of the provisions of the law. They are reminded that third offences, if proven mean a cancellation of the license. If this seems harsh there are two ways of securing freedom from the penalty—one, observe the law so that no conviction can be registered against you; two, have the law repealed. The Commissioners will enforce the law as they find it and licenseholders who violate it will do so after this serious and plain notice."

Hotels in Residential Areas.

On September 14 the Commissioners issued a circular letter to the licensed victuallers of Toronto, further outlining their attitude. This statement referred to a copy of a minute entered upon the minute book of the Commissioners and continued:

"In addition to the statement made by the Commissioners to your deputation, and, in addition, therefore to the copy of the minute now handed to you, I am instructed to say that: in considering the question of the renewal of licenses at the end of the year, the Commissioners may have regard to the location of the licensed houses in residential districts and the proximity of some of the present houses to one another, where apparently they are kept only as drinking houses, without particular regard to adequate or excellent accommodation for the travelling public."

The minute referred to, a copy of which was enclosed, deals with the statement made to a deputation of licensed victuallers by the Commissioners and it was put in writing by the Board. The minuted stated that Mr. Patrick Mulqueen, president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, presented the case for the Association. He said the license holders were desirous of knowing what improvements the Commissioners required them to make in the hotel properties to bring them to the necessary standard to qualify for a license.

Lacked Accommodation.

In reply, he was told that the Commissioners did not feel warranted in laying down specific requirements, which, having been approved by them, would constitute a right for the license-holder to expect a renewal of his license next year, or in subsequent years; that the law governing the holding of licenses was open for the members of their association to read and interpret; that the Commissioners had pointed out at the beginning of the license year, in a circular addressed to all the license-holders, that in a great number of instances there was no attempt on the part of the existing license-holders to observe the manifest spirit of the law; that many houses lacked both reasonable and adequate accommodation under the law; that no attempt in many instances was made to keep hotel and that to all intents and purposes such houses were saloons. Because sible that instructions might be given by the municipality to reduce the number of licenses at the end of this year, and the Commissioners would feel themselves embarrassed if, after having directed certain improvements to be made, and the improvements were made in accordance with their direction, they then found it necessary to cancel the license.

Their Own Fault.

The Commissioners further pointed out that whatever unhappy state of uncertainty some of the present holders of licenses found themselves in, it was through faults chargeable altogether to themselves. They had been licensed under a law which they did not keep, and the Commissioners did not propose that some license-holders, having got into a tangle, should transfer the burden of anxiety from themselves to the Commissioners. Therefore they must for themselves interpret what sort of equipment and management of their houses were reasonably necessary to meet the requirements of the law. As far as the Commissioners were concerned, they did not propose to take unfair or improper advantage of any license-holder, or to look with magnifying glasses for faults. They did not intend to govern their conduct by the personal opinions they held covering the desirability or otherwise of licensing houses. They would seek to determine at the end of the year what applicants for licenses had houses proper and suitable to hold a license under the Act, and whether such houses were conducted with reasonable efficiency as hotels. If they found premises reasonably suitable, and the business well conducted, the license would be issued. If they found premises which were not reasonably suitable, and in which the business was badly conducted, the license would not be issued. The Commissioners would not be deterred from such action in refusing a license because it had a market value, and which value would disappear on its cancellation.

Reduction Probable.

It was pointed out by the Commissioners that in their judgment probably forty, and perhaps more, of the houses which were licensed on the 1st of May of this year would not be licensed on the 1st of May next year, of the physical conditions of the properties were the same as they were then, or even if where the physical condition of the property was fair, there was no adequate effort made to entertain guests.

In this connection the Commissioners indicated that they viewed with distinct disfavour the "tied" houses; that they believed it was entirely contrary to the spirit of the law for brewers and wholesale liquor merchants to be the actual holders of licenses, as they were in so many instances at present, through the chattel mortgage system in vogue. In place of such houses being kept by qualified public house men, they were kept by men whose chief qualification was to build up a bar trade, and who cared little or nothing about serving meals or giving good accommodation to guests. The Commissioners were of the opinion that one of the reasons why so many of the existing houses were simply saloons was that they were still held as "tied" houses, or had commenced as such, and that the keepers therefore were only interested in conducting a saloon business.

It was pointed out by the Commissioners that the association would be well advised if they recognized that the one basis for securing the favour of the Commissioners was an observance of the law in letter and in spirit; that if they laboured under the impression that political, social, church or any other influence would affect the Commissioners in the discharge of their duty, it would be well for them to be now undeceived, that all such influence, accumulated as it might be, would not deter the Commissioners from deciding each case as they might understand its merits, hence all the attention and consideration of the members of the association should be given to a betterment of their premises, a strict observance of the law, and the keeping of houses of entertainment satisfactory to the travelling public.

No Provision for Saloons.

Mr. James Haverson, solicitor for the association, spoke at some length, frankly stating that he knew that many of the houses were practically saloons; that he thought it would be wise for the Commissioners to accept the situation as such; that while it was desirable that there should be houses of accommodation for the travelling public, it was also fair that there should be places where men who wanted a drink could get one, and that such houses should, in a city of this size, be permitted to hold the equivalent of a saloon license.

In reply, the deputation was told that if the contention of Mr. Haverson was right they should address themselves to the Government, not to the Commissioners; that the Commissioners had no power to change the law; their duty was to interpret the law as they found it, and under the law there was no provision for saloons. No license equivalent to a saloon license would be knowingly issued by them.

In answer to a question whether the Commissioners would attempt to increase the number of bedrooms required in a hotel, the Commissioners replied that they would not, as that must be determined by legislation. What they would require would be that the accommodation necessary under the Act be real in the houses they licensed, not make-believe.

The deputation thanked the Commissioners for their clear statement which relieved some of them of anxiety as to the policy of the Board because of conflicting stories they had heard.

Abolish "Tied" Houses.

The most recent pronouncement of the Commissioners was in regard to the connection which might exist between the hotelkeepers and brewers on the plan commonly known as the "tied" house.

To a deputation which waited upon them on November 2 the Commissioners announced that the policy of the Board for the future would be to refuse to make transfers from present license-holders, or do grant new licenses, if there was a clause in the lease of the premises making it obligatory on the part of the lessee and licensee to purchase his supplies from such brewers or firms as might be indicated by the lessor. Also that for the future they would refuse to grant a transfer of a license, or to issue a new license, where a chattel mortgage was given by the licensee to a brewer or wholesale dealer in wines and spirits, having in it a clause, or attached to it an agreement, making it obligatory that the supplies required by the licensee should be purchased from the brewer or wholesale wine and spirit merchant, or both, who might be named in the chattel mortgage or in the agreement.

They reserved for the present their decision as to what course they would pursue in regard to leases already granted or chattel mortgages already in force with such a clause in the lease, or such an agreement in or attached to the chattel mortgage.

A Continuous Stream From The United States

Report From Washington Issued by Department of Agriculture Says 25,000 Americans Came to Canada Up to October 1st This Year—Exports to This Country 11 Per Cent. of Whole—New Wheat Fields of the West Attracting Settlers.

$10,000,000 WORTH OF SETTLERS' EFFECTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Canadian markets for United States products are discussed in a report made to the Department of Commerce and Labour by Charles M. Pepper, the special agent, who has been investigating trade conditions in the Dominion.

The report says that during the last fiscal year 11 per cent. of the total United States exports to foreign countries were to Canada and that these constituted a fraction more than 62 per cent. of the total imports of Canada during that period, their value being $166,000,000.

The new wheat regions of the northwest are reviewed as offering the best field for the growth of existing markets, and the development of fresh ones, special attention being given to the increase in population and to the immigration from the United States. The latter is declared to be most important. It is encouraged by the Canadian authorities because of the character of the United States settlers as home-makers their experience in practical farming and the cash resources which they bring with them.

Mr. Pepper says that from January 1st to October 1, 1905, 25,000 settlers crossed the border. This does not indicate so large an immigration as during the previous two years, but the opinion is expressed that it shows the certainty of a continuous permanent immigration from the United States to the Canadian northwest. The value of the settlers effects taken across the border is estimated at $10,000,000 annually.

Discussing the relation of wheat production to population the report estimates the yield this season at upward of 90,000,000 bushels of approximately equal to that of the State of Kansas. A production of 150,000000 bushels in 1910 is forecasted provided crop conditions continue favourable and harvest hands can be obtained.

A despatch from Memphis, Tenn., says:—

What harness horsemen may regard as the most brilliant season has been closed by Dan Patch, the unbeaten pacing champion, and it is probable that he may never face the public again. Succeeding in the present year of reducing his own and Star Pointer's time-honoured mark by seconds or fractions of seconds the black son of old Joe Patchen will probably be retired to his palatial winter home, at Minneapolis, to spend the remainder of his days in the harem provided at the stock farm of his owner, M. W. Savage.

During this season Dan paced exhibition miles, and traversed the middle section of the American continent up and down and crosswise in order to accomplish it. The average time over mile tracks and half-mile tracks from Minneapolis to Lexington thence to Toronto, Canada, and back to Memphis, was 1.59 12-13, or just a fraction slower than the record created for the mile by Star Pointer at Readville in 1897, and which held good Patch performed in exactly thirteen until recently reduced to 1.58 by Dan Patch at Billings Park.

The tabulated list of records which will be officially accepted, with the month in which they were made, the track and style rig used by the all-conquering champion is:

Month.	Track.	Time.	Rig.
September,	Minneapolis,	1.59 1-4	Sulky
September,	Minneapolis,	1.57 1-2	Sulky
September,	Indianapolis,	2.00 1-2	Sulky
September,	Allentown,	2.01	Sulky
September,	Allentown,	2.05	Wagon
October,	Chicago, (West Side)	2.01 1-2	Sulky
October,	Lexington	1.56	Sulky
October,	Lexington	1.55 1-4	Sulky
October,	Toronto	1.56	Sulky
November,	Memphis	1.59 1-4	Sulky
November,	Memphis	2.06	Sulky
November,	Memphis	1.58	Sulky

Dan Patch started his campaign at his home in Minneapolis by circling the Hamline course in 1.59 1-4, with aid of a shield and pacemaker in front. His second effort was also at home, and proved faster than his initial effort. From Minneapolis the champion was shipped to the half-mile track at Allentown, Pa., thence to Chicago and back to Lexington. After breaking his own world's record (with shield) of 1.56, reducing the time to 1.55 3-4, Dan Patch was shipped to Canada and created a new Canadian record by stepping over the half-mile course to a mile in 2.06.

That the champion must possess a rugged constitution was proved by the manner in which he withstood strain of shipment and change of climate, for after arriving at the Billings plant here he needed but three stiff miles before he clipped a second and a quarter off Star Pointer's famous mile at Readville.

Rumney has consistently booted the pigskin sixty and sixty-five yards. The one thing that the 'Varsity men had to do was to block each kick, for on their ability to do so hangs the result of the game Thanksgiving Day. Eckersall can place over the posts nine out of every ten drop kicks from the forty-yard line and at different angles, so that while Michigan might score three or four touchdowns, Chicago through Eckersall could score enough on drop kicks to win the game."

A Distinct Triumph For The Spoils Element

In This Manner the Toronto News Characterizes the Dismissal of Toronto's Chief License Inspector—Patronage Committee Brings Provincial Secretary Hanna to His Knees—Clear Indication That Enforcement of Law is Secondary to Interests of Conservative Party—An Organ Hitherto Friendly to Conservative Government, Strongly Condemns Its Action in This Case.

The Toronto News, in an editorial article last night, headed "Resignation of the Liquor License Board," says:

The dismissal of Mr. Thomas Hastings, Chief Inspector of Licenses for Toronto, and the consequent resignation of the Board of License Commissioners, is a distinct triumph for the brewers, the liquor interest and the spoils element of the Conservative party.

There is no doubt that the work of the License Board was approved by the vast majority of the citizens of Toronto, and by the mass of the Conservative party, and it is just as certain that Mr. Hastings was a faithful and efficient inspector.

It has to be remembered that upon the change of Government Mr. Hastings was directly confirmed in his office as Chief Inspector by Mr. Hanna, and it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the Provincial Secretary has been brought to his knees by the club of the Patronage Committee, and the intimidation of the liquor interest.

There has been complaint from Conservative workers, Conservative members, and even from Conservative Ministers of the Crown, that "our friends," that is Conservative hotelkeepers, could not obtain any special consideration from the License Board and that the law was as rigidly enforced against Conservatives as against Liberals.

The Patronage Committee and Conservative members were, therefore, unable to use control of the liquor law and its enforcement as a party asset, and found it impossible to exercise the authority of party in the distribution and transfer of licenses.

The License Board and its officials rashly assumed that Mr. Whitney and Mr. Hanna were in earnest when they told the province that they would give a faithful and non-partizan enforcement of the law, and they have endeavoured to give effect to the policy which the Conservative leader proclaimed in opposition and when they took office.

They insisted that license holders should "keep hotel," that the accommodation which the law requires should be provided, and that the provisions respecting the hours of closing and Sunday closing should be enforced.

They had determined also that the system of "tied houses," which gave the brewers a practical control of the retail liquor trade in Toronto, should be revised, that such houses should not be kept by men whose chief object naturally and necessarily was to force the sale of liquor, and that self-respecting hotel-keepers should not be the slaves and dependents of the brewers and wine merchants.

But they aimed only at the enforcement of the law, not at the enactment of prohibition, and they refused to exercise their clear authority under the law to reduce the number of licenses.

Their policy, in short, had three cardinal features: (1) The faithful, and non-partizan enforcement of the law; (2) the improvement of hotel premises, in order to give the accommodation which the law provides, and (3) the protection of the licenseholder against the aggression of the liquor capitalists.

In this policy the Board was faithfully supported by its officers, and for this and in order to conciliate the spoils hunters they were dismissed, and the resignation of the Board, which in all its acts and decisions has been unanimous, was made inevitable.

We venture to think that these proceedings change the whole relation of the Government to the liquor trade in Toronto and throughout the whole province.

There could be no clearer intimation that the enforcement of the law is held to be secondary to the interests of the Conservative party, and that the spoils faction, which, noisy as it is, does not constitute two per cent. of any political party, exercises a controlling influence over Mr. Whitney and his associates.

For Toronto a new problem is presented.

If the people vote to reduce the number of licenses there can be no guarantee that, failing action by the Council, the reduction will be effected by the License Board.

If the element in the party which regards the appointment of inspectors and the administration of the law as part of the family business of the party, and to be carried out in the interests of the party, had power enough to compel Mr. Hastings' removal, and the resignation of the License Board, it has power enough to name the new appointments, to dictate their policy to determine to what extent the law shall be enforced, and against what particular hotel-keepers it shall be enforced, and to prevent reduction of licenses by the Board, in case the council shall fail to give effect to a judgment of the people in favour of reduction.

This means that if license reduction is to be obtained a Council and a Board of Control must be elected, pledged to the policy of reduction, and every one of whom can be depended on to carry out their pledges in face of any liquor lobby, or party lobby, which can possibly be organized.

Judging Class Promises To Be Popular

Messrs. R. R. Hall, M.P., and T. E. Bradburn, M.L.A., have been requested to be present at the meetings and deliver addresses.

Deceased Was Related Here

Late Harrison Corey Father-in-Law of Mr. P. Campbell.

Petrolea, Nov. 28.—Mr. Harrison Corey, one of Petrolea's most prominent and public-spirited citizens, died suddenly this morning at Washington, where he was visiting with his wife. Mr. Corey had been suffering for some time with heart disease, and it is supposed this was the cause of his death, although no particulars have yet been received. The body will be brought to Petrolea for burial. Mr. Corey had been identified with the oil business here, and was well known and very popular throughout the country.

Mr. Corey was the father of Mrs. P. Campbell, of this city, and other daughters were Mrs. O. L. Lewis, of Chatham, Mrs. F. Fisher, Hamilton, and Mrs. Arthur Reinhardt, Toronto. Two sons survive him, viz., Messrs. Bloss P. and Harry E. Corey, of Petrolea.

No information as to the time of the funeral has been received here yet.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. William McGee, 40 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

Many Women have Kidney Trouble and don't know it. They attribute their ill-health to weakness." Dragging pains in the back, backache, nervousness, tiredness, headaches—are more often caused by sick kidneys. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1905.

IN FULL SWING.

The spoils system is in full swing—that is, adopted openly, and without disguise. It has been more or less, principally more, in operation with some employment of plausibility, to justify the decapitation of officials to make way for party followers. But now all disguise is cast off—the Whitney Government has thrown up its hands to the spoilsman and surrendered at discretion. At the dictation of the "graft" element in the Conservative party in Toronto the Whitney Government has dismissed the chief license inspector of Toronto and his two assistants, the latter declare, without notification, with no excuse and no justification except the superior force of might over right—the arbitrary exercise of power. This action is a pure and simple example of hold-up on the part of the Conservative office-seekers who have demanded the places and got the places. The Whitney Government claimed infinite credit for its lofty policy of removing the administration of the license system from partizan control, but ever since its advent to office it has persistently outraged the principle involved in such a policy. All over the country Liberal license Commissioners have been replaced by hard and fast Conservatives, and in the readjustment of licenses Liberal hotelkeepers have been cuckooed out of their houses. All this has been accompanied by some attempt at justification, as being done in the public interest, the interest of better enforcement of the License Act. But, as remarked in the Toronto case, all disguise has been thrown aside, and the odious Yankee doctrine, "To the victors belong the spoils," has been openly adopted.

The Whitney Government has surrendered to the baser elemnt of its party, and in so doing has outraged the sentiments and sensibilities of the respectable and self-respecting members of its own party as well as the sentiments and sensibilities of the great body of independent public opinion, whose support, as events show, it gained under false pretences, in that it has forfeited all semblance of claim to sincerity in its policy of enforcing the license law. The replaced inspectors declare that they "have lost the support of the Government in the impartial and non-partizan enforcement of the license law." Can we expect the partizan inspectors who have been appointed to give effective and impartial enforcement, when the grounds upon which they are appointed, is the claim of the spoilsman, in effect, that Conservative license holders, have not received favours, as against Liberal license holders. The action of the government in this base surrender is universally condemned. Not even the solicitor of the Licensed Victuallers' Association can justify the dismissal of the Toronto inspector. Mr. Haverson, the solicitor mentioned, as quoted in another column, says: "No man on earth could say a word against the efficiency or impartiality of Thomas Hastings." This from the liquor side of the question. The temperance party is doubtless well represented by Rev. Father Minehan, an active temperance worker, who describes the action of the government as "disgraceful" and allied to brigandage. And we shall hear more condemnation, as knowledge of the action of the government becomes more widely extended.

To show how complete the surrender of the Whitney Government to the "grafters" is, the fact that their license commissioners — appointed by themselves, because they were in sympathy with the government politically, and, consequently, with the general policy of rigorous enforcement of the license law—have very promptly resigned in a body, as a protest against the high-handed action of the Whitney Government. When the government's own friends thus desert it, what may the former expect from those who, having either no, or little, interest in the political aspect of the question, supported the government, trusting to its honesty of purpose in dealing honestly with the administration of the license law.

The temperance aspect, and the interests of the enforcement of the law, are not the only matters involved. The outrageously open adoption of the spoils system, is a direct challenge to the Dominion Government to reprisal, to adopt the policy of the lex talionis. The Liberal party of the Dominion is only human, and if thus goaded to apply the spoils system to officials in the Dominion jurisdiction, it can not, from the human point of view, be greatly blamed. If, forgetful of national interests they accept the challenge of the action of the Whitney Government implied in raising the black flag of political piracy, the Whitney Government will lie under the fearful responsibility of introducing an element in our political life, whose evil no words can describe.

MACKENZIE AND MANN.

William Mackenzie and Dan Mann, says the Montreal Herald, have every right to feel proud of the work which was crowned the other day by the driving of a silver spike at Edmonton. Mackenzie & Mann are big men, or they would not have undertaken and succeeded at the work they have now carried to the completion of its first stage. It seems only the other day that the two men, in their quiet way, announced their intention of building a line direct from Winnipeg to Edmonton. There has not been much noise about it since, and now the work is done. A vast area has been opened up for settlement, another vast area, already sparsely settled, has been provided with facilities for the transportation of products. Incidentally, a road has been constructed from Winnipeg eastward to Lake Superior, where, at Port Arthur, their company is preparing to handle not only the wheat of the Edmonton district, but vast quantities of westward moving coal and eastward moving iron ore. Such a work as that they have done entitles the partners to rank with the big railway strategists of our day. Their claim to that rank will be still further made manifest when later developments make evident, as they are bound to, the quality of the foresight they have displayed at Port Arthur, Winnipeg and Edmonton.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Perhaps nothing has so much contributed to "contempt of court" as the proceedings in the little matter of the offence of the Globe in publishing some doggerel about plumbers, when the charge against the master plumbers' combine was sub-judice.

"Contempt of court" is understood to have its essence in influencing judicial decisions. Any one who has attended court knows that the quality of evidence required to effect or influence decisions must be without suspicion. We have all heard an examining lawyer apply the gag to a witness who presumed to tell what somebody else said—"that is not evidence." Yet a man may be clapped into jail for publishing in a newspaper a doggerel rhyme relating, occultly or otherwise, to the peculiar qualities of a class, some of whose members are charged with wrong doing. Is a judge to be unduly influenced by such stuff? Would a jury, after being warned by a judge that such "poetry" is not evidence, be influenced by it? Courts of law may be very jealous of their dignity, and with good cause, but, from the layman's point of view, it does not seem worth while to sacrifice their dignity in maintaining their dignity.

THE DOCTORS AGREE

Two Physicians Both Agree on the New Scientific Dandruff Treatment.

Dr. J. M. Powell, of Spokane, Wash., says.: "Herpicide has given good satisfaction in my house for dandruff."

Dr. W. G. Alban, of Walla Walla, Wash., says: "I find Herpicide all that is claimed for it as a dandruff cure. I shall prescribe it." Dandruff is a germ disease and you can't cure it, unless you kill the dandruff germ and you can't do that unless you use Newbro's Herpicide, the only preparation in the world that destroys the parasites. A delightful hair-dressing; allays itching instantly; makes the hair glossy and soft as silk. It is a sure dandruff destroyer. Sold by leading druggists. Send ten cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

Chicken Thief Steals Fowl

Mr. Richard Redmond, the hostler at the Munro House, was unfortunate enough to have stolen from him a pair of valuable Barred Plymouth Rock chickens—a cock and a pullet. Mr. Redmond purchased the birds but a short time ago, paying ten dollars for them, and he intended to show them at the different fairs. Mr. Redmond left the fowl last night at nine o'clock, the hour at which he retired, and this morning at four o'clock he found them to be missing. The thief had broken the boards in the lower end of the hotel sheds, in which the fowls were roosting.

The guilty party is known, and if the birds are returned at once, the matter will be dropped; if not the arrest of the thief will be made at once.

The Transfer Of the Assets

Dr. Hunter in the Latest Loan Company Merger.

Dr. J. Howard Hunter, inspector of insurance companies and registrar of loan companies, said yesterday to the Toronto Globe, in reference to the proposed transfer of assets of the York County Loan and Savings Company to the Dominion Permanent Loan Company, that an amalgamation or merger of such a nature was more beneficial than attempting to wind up a company. It would be ruinous sacrifice of the assets of a company to close its affairs under a winding-up order. There had been instances enough of that kind to satisfy any thinking man as to the truth of that.

The usual procedure in mergers such as the one proposed was for each company to appoint a valuator. These two then asked some competent person, generally the County Judge, to appoint an umpire. The three valued the property of the transferring company, and the purchasing company, according to that valuation, disposed of it among the parties entitled thereto. This division was made pro rata. A person who had invested $500 in the transferring company would naturally rank higher in the division of assets than one whose investment was half that sum and so on. That was the only fair way.

The York County Loan and Savings Company, as is pretty generally known, is an organization which issues termination shares. In 1900, Dr. Hunter pointed out, an Act was passed prohibiting further incorporation in Ontario of loan companies with such shares, and forbidding the registration in the province of outside companies doing business on such a basis. A series of acts had previously been passed, all tending the same way, because it was evident that the people were getting into the idea that they were making deposits with these companies that they could withdraw at any moment, instead of realizing that they were investing in terminating shares and must conform to the regulations of the companies. How could the company be prepared to pay back at once the money which was being loaned out for building purposes. There was so much misunderstanding about the matter that it was thought the easiest way to settle the difficulty would be to discontinue to incorporate terminating share companies. The old building society system, the doctor said, had done a lot of good work, but had outlived its usefulness.

Proceeds to The Children's Aid

Girls' Guild Will Donate Proceeds of Candy Sale to This Object.

At the regular meeting of the Girls' Guild of the George street church, which was held last evening, it was decided to donate the proceeds of the candy sale held last Saturday evening to the Children's Aid Society. It was also decided to hold another sale next Saturday evening.

At the conclusion of the business part of the meeting, Miss Lizzie Scott kindly favoured those present with a very pleasing instrumental solo, after which the opening chapters of the brightly written story by Kate Douglas Wiggin, "Rebecca of the Sunny Brook Farm," were read, and were much enjoyed by the members.

The meeting proved to be so interesting that the next one is eagerly awaited, when the reading will be continued.

Miss Annie Wood was appointed to act as Guild pianist.

The Report Will Be Presented

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock when the report of the convention recently held in Toronto will be read.

More Funds For Aid Social

The treasurer of the Children's Aid Society, desires to acknowledge, through the Examiner, additional contributions to the funds. This morning Sergt.-Major Brittain handed in $1, and the Girls' Guild of the George street Methodist church, the sum of $10. This interest shown in the welfare of one of our most noble charities is both timely and pleasing. The society needs funds for its work, and it only needs in turn a little thoughtfulness on the part of those able to help, to insure the placing of its funds on a basis representing adequate equipment for the great work the society has to do.

TWO FULL XMAS STOCKS

To be Sold Before Christmas

AT THE

Peterboro Bookstore

Messrs. A. H. STRATTON & CO. have sold out their interest in the imperial Book Store on George street to Mr. F. C. Cubitt, and have left on their hands two full stocks of books, stationery, fancy goods, etc., which must be sold out before Christmas at the Peterborough Bookstore. Nobody wants old goods at the festive season, and in order to enable us to make a sweeping clearance, we are marking down these two stocks for a rush sale before the Christmas holidays. We have no outlet for these goods except through the Peterborough Bookstore, so that the sale will be continued from day to day at these premises until further notice.

Certainly the wise ones will do their shopping now before the Xmas rush. We cannot specify the extent of the reductions in detail here, but the public may accept the following as an index:

Reductions on Books, 25 to 40 per cent.
Reductions on Stationery, 10 to 25 per ct.
Reductions on Leather Goods, about 20 per ct.
Reductions on Fancy Goods, 15 to 30 per cent.

Everything has been done to make shopping and selections easy and comfortable. The store is now ready—the sale is now on.

Art Culture Club.

—The regular fortnightly meeting of the Art Culture Club will be held at the Conservatory on Friday evening of this week. The subjects are Schumann, Longfellow and Raphael, and those who are responsible for the programme are Miss Clarry, Mrs. T. J. Mowat and Rev. F. J. Scott. A most interesting evening is being arranged, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the members.

George Street Runaway.

—A run-away, which fortunately was not attended by the disastrous results which appeared for a few minutes to be certain, occurred yesterday afternoon on George street. The horse attached to the wagon of the Singer Sewing Machine Co., which was standing in front of the company's store, became frightened at a passing street railway sweeper, and broke away in a flash down the street for a short distance. It was fortunately stopped near the corner of George and Charlotte streets. The damage done was slight, and resulted principally from the overturning of the wagon.

May Save The Oliver Mowat

Mr. J. H. McClellan received a telephone message this morning from his brother, Mr. John McClellan, owner of the schooner, Oliver Mowat, that was beached at Oshawa yesterday, stating that he had a crew working to get the boat off the beach, and thought that he might be successful in saving the vessel, and its contents. It might be necessary, however, to dispose of part, or even all, her cargo, before she could be moved.

Mr. John McClellan owned the boat and its entire cargo of five hundred tons of hard coal. Had the boat been wrecked his loss would have amounted to over $10,000.

Library Party At St. Paul's

A library party was given last night in the parlours of St. Paul's church under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class. The gathering was graced by the presence of the young ladies of Miss Best's and Miss Charlotte Dickson's classes. Mr. H. Taylor was elected chairman and performed his duties in an able manner. Excellent addresses were delivered by Messrs. Turner, Harry Hall, M. Rosenburg, Stanley Fife, L. Logan, while violin and piano selections were pleasingly rendered by the Misses Irwin, Sanderson, Robertson, and Aylmer. After refreshments were served the party closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

The First Concert in the New Opera House, and one at which popular prices, will prevail, will be that under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., on Thursday Dec. 8th. The Artists are: Miss Hope Morgan, Soprano; Miss Beatrice Langley, Violiniste; Mr. Stanley Adams, Baritone; Miss Myrtle Negey, Pianiste. The Concert will be well worth hearing.

Murray Street Baptists Enjoy A Social Tea

Members of the Congregation Spend a Social Hour Together—A Delightful Church Family Reunion—Object is Primarily to Welcome the New Members—Addresses Were Given by Church Officers--Good Progress Made During Past Year.

PASTOR WELCOMED THE NEW MEMBERS

Last night the members of the Murray street Baptist church and its adherents to the number of nearly three hundred enjoyed a social evening together at the church, the occasion being a social tea. The basement of the church was transformed into a pretty tea room, the long tables fairly groaning beneath their loads of dainty viands, provided in profusion by the ladies of the congregation. This feature of the evening's programme was thoroughly enjoyed and prepared the way for the remainder of the exercises of the evening. After the wants of the inner man had been satisfied, the pastor, Rev. F. J. Scott, who acted as chairman, called the company to order and, in a brief address, explained the objects of the gathering, which was that the members of the congregation might become better acquainted with each other, and especially that the new members, of whom there were a large number, might have an opportunity of meeting the older members. The objects of the meeting, as outlined by the chairman, were fully realized, and all who were present spent a most enjoyable evening, the newer members of the congregation being made to feel perfectly at home.

No set programme was arranged, the object being to make the gathering as informal as possible, and a number of short addresses were given by the officers of the church and by the officers of the different organizations in connection with the church. These addresses all had a similar theme, the steady and satisfactory progress of the church and the determination to make the future one better than the past has been. A warm welcome was extended by these heads of the church to the new members who had recently identified themselves with the congregation, and the hope was expressed that they would identify themselves with one or more of the auxiliary organizations of the church and thus help to increase its usefulness.

A pleasing feature was afforded by the addresses of a number of the new members, those who had recently come to the city, in which they spoke of the warm welcome which they had met with in this church. They felt that they were already at home.

At the conclusion of the addresses the company assembled in groups and spent a pleasant hour in social intercourse before dispersing.

Water in Canal To Be Lowered To Help Search

The search for the body of Louis Bell, the boy who was supposed to have been drowned on Monday, is still continuing, without success, and to-night the water in the upper reach of the canal from below dam No. 5 will be lowered to five feet in order to allow a better opportunity for finding the body.

Mr. Cotton, at the Canadian General Electric Company's power house at Nassau, has a staff of men taking out the stop logs at the dam, and the low level will be reached by 7 o'clock to-night, when the search will be renewed, with the hope that with the lower water the body may be discovered.

Fortnightly Club Is Now Defunct

Passing of a Literary Organization Which Has for Almost a Decade Been a Leading Factor in Literary Culture and Enjoyment in This City—Lack of Interest, and Organization of Clubs of Kindred Purpose Reason of Discontinuance.

VALUABLE RESULTS OF CLUB'S WORK

The Fortnightly Club, which has for many years been a leading promoter of literary culture effort and the associated enjoyment in Peterborough, is now a defunct organization. For a number of years succeeding its organization, the meetings of the club were attended by audiences representative of the highest culture and literary discrimination in the town, and the list of speakers, who, through the club's efforts, have been brought to Peterborough, includes a large number of names which stand foremost in the roll of fame of the dominion. Notwithstanding the regrettable decline, and final fall yesterday, of the club, the benefits which have resulted from its efforts cannot be measured by the immediate success, whether in numerical strength or in general interest which obtained in its palmy days. The aggregate result of its efforts would indeed be difficult to compute, for it is certain that to the literary profit furnished throughout almost a decade should be added an influence and a stimulus along these lines which will not die with the decline of the club, but will continue to furnish many years of retrospective enjoyment to interested members.

While the decline of the club must be regarded as most unfortunate, this can by no means be considered as a result of a dearth of literary talent in Peterborough, but rather of the establishment of many organizations of a kindred nature, which, while in many instances undoubtedly doing an excellent work, have disturbed the centralized energy which prevailed at the time of the club's formation. Another cause to which the decline in interest which has been observable during the past two or three seasons may be attributed the lack of organization and co-operation among the members, which is just as fatal under the circumstances to the interests of the club as a lack of material.

At the annual meeting of the club, held last night at the Y.M.C.A. parlours, there were present, president J. H. Burnham, secretary Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Col. H. C. Rogers, Mr. F. D. Kerr, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Mr. D. Hughes Charles.

The financial statement was presented by Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, showing receipts of $42.25, with an expenditure of $37.25, the $5 remaining having been forwarded to the University Extension Fund. Considerable discussion took place upon the prospects for the reorganization of the club for the coming season, the consensus of opinion appearing to be that owing to the regrettable lack of interest of last year, the continuance of its efforts would be futile. The net result of the discussion was embodied in the following resolution, moved by Mr. D. Hughes Charles, and seconded by Mr. F. D. Kerr: "That, as we consider that the support given the club last year was not sufficient to warrant its continuance; and that, in view of the arrangements made by the Collegiate Institute for a course of lectures, no reorganization measures be taken."

Mr. J. H. Burnham spoke of the arrangements being made by the Collegiate Institute for a series of lectures which would, in some respects be similar to those of the Fortnightly Club. Mr. J. Coyle Brown pointed to the excellent results attending a similar series of lectures arranged by the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and which had been, since their inauguration, eminently successful. Many influences which had militated against the success of the club's efforts were alluded to, and it was considered upon the whole as strongly advisable to terminate for the present, at least, the work of the club.

Hotel Men To Surrender License

In the Event of the By-law Passing in January.

From a Special Correspondent.

Lakefield, Nov. 29th.—The fight in this town on the local option question promises to be a warm one, and already the forces are lining up for the contest. Since the petition against the local option bylaw was presented to the council there have been a number of names added to the list which now numbers over 130 and is about twelve less than on the petition for the bylaw.

The proprietors of one of the hotels stated to-day that in the event of the bylaw passing, they would surrender their license and would close the hotel about January 15th.

They also informed the writer that on the petition for the bylaw their were a number of names of persons who were confirmed drunks, and men who had frequently to be driven home from their hotel in a helpless condition. They also pointed out that on this petition there were about 30 spinsters and widows' names and contended that counting the number of male voters the counter petition was the larger.

Will Arrange The Hours To-night

498-498 GEORGE STREET, - - PETERBOROUGH

AN IMPORTANT EVENT

IN COMMISSIONERS' VISIT IN PETERBORO'S HISTORY

The Tariff Commission's Sitting in This City Marks an Important Epoch in Peterborough's Industrial Existence—Through Efforts of Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., the Sitting Has Been Arranged—Short Sketches of the Members of the Commission.

To-morrow the Tariff Commission will hold its sitting in Peterborough. This sitting has been arranged by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., who, with the interests of his constituents at heart, has, since his election, sought to further those interests in every possible way.

That these efforts have been appreciated is evidenced by the fact that, to the invitation to appear before the Commission, there has been a very generous response, and not only will there be a number of deputations not only from the city, but also from other towns in this district. The arrangements for the visit of the Commission, and the schedule of time at which the different deputations will be heard have been made by the Board of Trade of this city.

In view of the fact that this is the first time in the history of Peterborough that a Commission of this kind has met in this place, and of its importance to the citizens of this city, a short sketch of the members comprising it may not be out of place:

Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Hon. William Stevens Fielding, P. C., (Shelbourne-Queen's, N.S.) Of English descent. Born at Halifax, N.S., Nov. 29, 1848. Educated there. Became connected with the Morning Chronicle, Halifax, and remained on its staff, 1872-1884. Was also Nova Scotia correspondent for Toronto Globe. Contested Halifax County for Nova Scotia Assembly at general election, 1882, and was elected. Declined Premiership on resignation of Holmes-Thompson Government, July of same year. Afterwards entered the Pipes Administration, without portfolio. Became Premier and Provincial Secretary, July 26, 1884, which position he held up to July, 1896, having been elected for Halifax at the successive general elections of 1881, 1886, 1890 and 1894. Resigned, and entered the Laurier Administration at Ottawa, July 1896, as Minister of Finance. Elected to House of Commons for Shelbourne and Queen's (Mr. F. Forbes making way.) Aug. 5, 1896, by acclamation. Introduced new preferential tariff in House of Commons, session of 1897, and moved resolutions during session of 1898, amending it so as to make it an Imperial British preference. Visited England in 1897 to float a new Canadian loan, which was obtained on terms better than any ever before secured by Canada. A Baptist. A Liberal.

Hon. Sidney Fisher.

Hon. Sydney Arthur Fisher, P.C., Brome, son of Arthur Fisher, M.D., L.R.C.S., Edin., of Montreal, and his wife, Susanna Corse. Born in Montreal, June 12, 1850. Educated in High School and McGill University, Montreal, and Trinity College, Cambridge, (B. A. 1871.) Devoted much of his time to agriculture and the study of the scientific principles applicable to farming, dairying and stock raising. Was one of the founders of the Provincial Fruit Growers' Association, and Vice-President of that body; President of the Ensilage and Stock Feeding Association, Montreal; Vice-President of the Provincial Dairy Association, and a Director of the Brome Agricultural Society. An unsuccessful candidate for the House of Commons in Brome, 1890. Elected to House of Commons for Brome at general election, 1892. Took an active share in the proceedings of the House of Commons up to 1891, when he presented himself for reelection and was defeated by a majority of one. Took an active part in the political campaign throughout Canada which led to the Liberal victory at the polls, 1896, and on the formation of the Liberal Ministry, July 13, 1896, was entrusted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier with the portfolio of Agriculture and sworn of the Privy Council. Mr. Fisher has for many years been considered a leader in the temperance movement, and was Vice-President of the Quebec branch of the Dominion Alliance. Introduced the Government measure providing for a popular vote on the question of total prohibition, in the House of Commons, session of 1898, and carried the measure through. Introduced a bill in the House of Commons, 1898, which became law, for the protection of the fruit growers of Canada from the pest known as the San Jose Scale. Since assuming office has pursued a vigorous policy providing for the marketing abroad of Canada's perishable products in good condition by means of cold storage and other transportation facilities. An Anglican. Unmarried. A Liberal.

Sir Richard Cartwright.

Hon. Sir Richard John Cartwright, G. C. M. G., P. C. Son of the late R. D. Cartwright, Chaplain to the Forces, Kingston, Ont., and his wife, Harriet, daughter of Conway Edward Dobbs, of Dublin, Ireland, and is the grandson of the Hon. Richard Cartwright, formerly a Judge of Common Pleas in Upper Canada, and afterwards a member of the Legislative Council of that Province. Born at Kingston, Ont., Dec. 14, 1835. Educated at Trinity College, Dublin. Became President of the Commercial Bank of Canada. Is President, Director or Trustee of several commercial and financial corporations. During its existence was President of the Reform Club, Toronto. Is President of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association formed in 1897. Elected to Parliament of Old Canada for Lennox and Addington, 1863, and continued to sit for that constituency until 1867. From Confederation down to 1878, represented Lennox in House of Commons. Defeated in Lennox at general election, 1878. Was returned for Centre Huron at bye-election on resignation of H. Horton. An unsuccessful candidate for Centre Wellington at general election, 1882. Again elected at bye-election, Dec. 1883, for South Huron on resignation of sitting member, J. McMillan. Elected at general election, 1887, for South Oxford; re-elected 1891 and 1896. Was Finance Minister in the Mackenzie Administration from Nov. 7, 1873, until Oct. 16, 1878, when ministry resigned. Created K.C.M.G. 1879. Was chief financial critic, and one of the leaders of the Opposition in Parliament from 1879 until general election, 1896, when his party was returned to power and he became Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. July 13, 1896. Was the recipient of one of the honours of Her Majesty's Diamond Jubilee, June 26, 1897, when he received the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. During the summer of 1897, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier represented Canada at the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee, was acting-Premier and Leader in the House of Commons. Went to Washington in 1897 to promote better relations between Canada and the United States. Proposed a joint commission and represented Canada on that commission when it sat at Quebec in the summer of 1898. A Liberal. Married 1859, Frances, daughter of Col. Alex. Lawe, of Cork, Ireland.

The other members of the Commission are Hon. Wm. Patterson and Hon. L. P. Bradeur.

HANDS CRACKED AND PEELED

Suffered for One Year — Water Caused Agony, Heat Intense Pain —Grew Worse Under Doctors — Could Not Do Any Housework.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"About a year ago my hands began to crack and peel. I tried many remedies, but they grew worse all the time. At last they became so sore that it was impossible for me to do my housework. If I put my hands in water, I was in agony for hours; and if I tried to cook over the stove, the heat caused intense pain. I consulted a doctor, but his prescriptions were utterly useless, and I tried another, but without the least satisfaction. I got my first relief when I purchased Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them for a week, I found to my great delight that my hands were beginning to feel much better, the deep cracks began to heal up and stop running, and in six weeks my hands were entirely well, one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment making a complete cure.—Mrs. M. Drew, 18 Dana St., Roxbury, Mass."

ONE NIGHT TREATMENT

For Sore Hands and Feet with Cuticura.

Soak the hands or feet on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure. Wear on the hands during the night, old, loose gloves, or bandage the feet lightly in old, soft cotton or linen. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, with brittle, shapeless nails and painful finger ends, and for itching, burning, and scaling eczemas, rashes, inflammations, and chafings, this treatment is simply wonderful.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Sole Props.

One Crew Has Perished In A Lake Storm

Steamer Mataafa Driven Ashore Off Duluth Harbor.

60-MILE AN HOUR HURRICANE

Two Other Steamers Wrecked in the Upper Lakes, and Other Disasters Expected When Interrupted Telegraphic Communication Shall Have Been Resumed — Wreck of the Oliver Mowat.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 29.—In one of the most terrific gales in the history of the great lakes, three large steamers were yesterday driven ashore in sight of the lighthouse at the Duluth entrance to the local harbor, and several members of the crew of one of the boats, the Mataafa, were believed to have perished. The wrecks are the Crescent City and the Mataafa of the Pittsburg Steamship Co., and the R. W. England, owned by the England Transportation Co. of Cleveland. As soon as interrupted telegraphic communication with other lake ports is resumed it is expected that further reports of wrecks will be received.

Wind 60 Miles an Hour.

For thirteen consecutive hours, between 11 o'clock Monday night and 12 o'clock yesterday, the velocity of the wind averaged sixty miles an hour. The Mataafa is being slowly pounded to pieces. The crew of the Crescent City escaped, but the boat is a total wreck. The England is lying on the sand, and is in no danger of going to pieces.

The Mataafa left here Monday night with the Nasmyth in tow. A mile or two out in the lake she left the Nasmyth, which immediately anchored, and came on alone, endeavoring to make the entry. At the entrance the waves were almost mountainous in height, and great clouds of water kept sweeping the laboring vessel from stem to stern. She cleared the pier and went on the beach broadside.

Rescuers Late.

There, with thousands of people watching them, almost within a stone's throw and unable to do anything the poor fellows huddled on the stern of the boat awaiting rescue. The life-saving crew was at the wreck of the England and did not reach the Mataafa until nearly 6 o'clock, and by that time the stern was almost under water, and some time before that the men slipped down ventilators in the hold of the boat, and none were seen on the stern. Their only chance is that there may be some compartment there watertight to hold them until rescued. Two of them crawled along the boat through the fearful waves and made the forward part. A third tried it and gave it up.

26 Men Frozen to Death.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 29.—A Sentinel special from Superior, Wis., says: "The life-savers have been unable to get the crew off the Mataafa. The boat has broken in two, but the decks are still out of water. It is thought that the 26 men have frozen to death, as there is no sign of life on board.

Michigan Storm Swept.

Detroit, Nov. 29.—Lake Superior from Duluth to the Soo, the upper peninsula of Michigan, the upper ends of lakes Huron and Michigan, and the northern counties of lower Michigan, have been swept Monday night and yesterday by a terrific storm. The blizzard raged with a velocity of from 40 to 60 miles an hour, and all the harbors from Port Huron north on Lake Huron and the Soo north on Lake Superior are filled with vessels which have run in for shelter.

Finance In Its Relation To Insurance

As Figured By Officers of Equitable and New York Life.

STOCK DEALER'S TESTIMONY

Stock Sold to Equitable Officers Who Re-Sell It at a Big Profit—Friends Fared Well at the Hand of the Insurance Corporations — True About Seven Hundred Thousand Dollar Stock Removal.

New York, Nov. 29.—Just before the insurance investigation committee adjourned yesterday, Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the committee, produced a policy written by the Mutual Reserve, upon the life of an un-named man, which policy stipulated upon the first page that the insured should pay a fixed and stated premium "fixed to other benefits and requirements elsewhere stated." On page two of the policy he read a clause that the executive committee of the company could require the holder of the policy to pay any multiple of the amount of the premium stated on the first page which the committee saw fit. George D. Eldredge, vice-president and actuary of the company, to whom Mr. Hughes read the policy, said that the number of such policies issued was small.

Previously Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the New York Life, had said that it was true that he removed $700,000 worth of New York City stock from the vaults of the company and put a cheque of the Central National Bank for that amount in place of it in Jan. 5, 1905.

Mr. Randolph understood that the bank wanted the stock for clients, one of which was the Merchants' Trust Co. He promised to give the committee later the names of any officers of the New York Life then in the Merchants' Trust Co.

Squire's Deposition.

The deposition of George H. Squire, formerly financial manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, in which he described some of the operations of the syndicate, which included officers of that society, was read. Mr. Squire stated that in 1891 the Equitable Society bought 2,000 shares of the stock of the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co. and re-sold 1,500 shares to several of its officers and directors at the purchase price of $174. Some of the Equitable men sold their stock later, said Mr. Squire, and subsequently large blocks of the stock were sold to the Equitable at $310 to $350 by the firm of Williamson & Squire. That firm might have bought it from the officers of the Equitable, Mr. Squire said, but he did not know.

Mr. Hughes also brought out that a profit of $22,000 had been paid to Mr. Squire from the sales of stock of the Lawyers' Mortgage Co. to the Equitable Society, and that Mr. Squire had divided profits from an unknown operation, aggregating $18,900, among four officers of the Equitable—J. W. Alexander, J. H. Hyde, T. D. Jordan and W. H. McIntyre.

Hamilton Fared Well.

The fact that the New York Security & Trust Co. paid $18,000 to Andrew Hamilton, the legislative agent, out of moneys belonging to the New York Life, was also brought out.

W. S. Fanshawe, a dealer in investment securities, told the committee that in 1904 he bought New Orleans Traction bonds of a face value of $1,250,000 from the New York Life Insurance Co., and George W. Perkins, trustee of the Nyile fund, giving them his cheques, amounting to $937,500, in payment, and then borrowed $937,500 from the New York Life, using the bonds as collateral. He then sold the bonds, giving the New York Life 95 per cent. of the profits and keeping 5 per cent.

HOT TARIFF ROAST.

Wellington Farmers Against a General Advance in the Tariff.

Guelph, Nov. 29.—The Tariff Commission held an enquiry in the Court House yesterday, when representatives of various bodies and concerns presented views. The attendance was fairly large.

A deputation from the farmers of Wellington County was introduced by Warden James McEwing, who read a resolution that the unanimous opinion of the farmers of Wellington is that the tariff is the direct cause of the creation of those combines now under investigation, and the object of which is to obtain extortion of profits from the consumers. That the proper remedy for such combines will be found not in criminal prosecution or the removal of protection from certain specified articles; that an effective remedy will be found only in the reduction of the whole tariff to a purely revenue basis; we are furthermore of opinion that the evidence given before this commission by manufacturers themselves, evidence of which shows after the writing off of large sums to meet depreciation of plant, the payment of a dividend of 8 per cent. and upwards is abundant proof that any manufacturing industry adapted to our conditions can easily bear such reduction. Certain it is that farmers whose surplus is represented on the average by the bare wages properly due their families should not be expected to continue bearing even their present burdens. To suggest an increase in these burdens would, under existing conditions, be an act of injustice."

Many farmers gave their individual opinions.

Lightning Destorys Lighthouse.

Kingston, Nov. 29.—Milford people say the lighthouse at the False Duck was struck by lightning on Sunday night and along with the keeper's residence was destroyed. The Marine Department will arrange for the immediate re-erection of the light.

Is The Work of Spoilers Say Commissioners

"Designed By Men Inflamed With Passion For Office."

DISMISSAL OF TORONTO MEN

From the Position of License Inspectors, Say the Resigning Commissioners—They Explain Their Resignations — Premier Approves Dismissals—"Simply Astonished" at Commissioners' Act.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—A statement by Premier Whitney defending the action of the Government in dismissing the Toronto License Inspectors, and a statement by the resigning License Commissioners vigorously protesting against and condemning that action, were given out yesterday. The Premier's statement was as follows:—

The Premier's Statement.

"I have read the Toronto newspapers with reference to the change of license inspectors in this city. Precisely similar action has been taken by the Government with regard to inspectors in a great number of counties during the past six months. There were good reasons for making those changes, and no such outcry occurred as we have heard with reference to the changes in Toronto.

"The Government would have been entirely justified in changing the inspectors months ago. But for good reasons—reasons which will appeal to every fair-minded person—the Government determined to keep them on and see what would be the result. They have found that the change was necessary in the public interest, and they have made the change.

"All sorts of motives are imputed to us by men who are actuated by various reasons, but we are prepared for all that sort of thing.

"The astonishing feature of the hubbub is the ground taken apparently by the commissioners that they should have been consulted, and the change is a reflection on them. They are no more responsible for the act of the inspectors than the inspectors are responsible for the acts of the commissioners. Otherwise the Government would be obliged to appear before the commissioners and lay before them the reasons which prompted the Government in desiring a change, and ask permission to make the change. This would not be responsible Government.

"The commissioners did good work while they held office, and the Government regrets the course they have taken, which is simply astonishing."

REVOLT SPIRIT SPREADS.

No Reliance Can Be Placed Even in Russian Line Regiments—70,000 Men Out.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 29.—The military officers here admit that no reliance can be placed on the line regiments, not even on those now stationed in the capital.

According to the officers the spirit of revolt pervades the whole army from Vladivostock to the European frontier.

The officers further point out that the state of affairs at Sebastopol, Odessa, Simferopol and Tiflis shows that the revolutionary spirit has spread to southern Russia, trans-Caucasia. The garrison of St. Petersburg has formulated a series of demands, involving the complete remodelling of the service.

Seventy Thousand Men Are Out.

The workmen's council threatens the country with another general strike to compel the employers of St. Petersburg, who locked out about 70,000 men Monday, who refused to return to work under the old conditions, to reopen their door. Delegates have been despatched to cities in the interior to ascertain whether they will support the movement.

Many Workmen Destitute.

Destitution is causing many workmen here to turn against the agitators. During the last strike actual starvation prevailed. The men had neither money to buy food nor to bury the dead. There was cases of workmen remaining naked in bed at home, having pawned every stitch of clothing to relieve the hunger of their families and themselves.

Amnesty For Nihilist.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—Sergius Schevitch, who was exiled from Russia for forty years for complicity in one of Prince Krapotkin's Nihilist conspiracies, and whose large estates were confiscated, has been granted amnesty.

STONED BY FRENCH ROWDIES.

Presbyterian Evangelist Victim of Another Montreal Outrage.

Montreal, Nov. 29.—The attacks upon the Presbyterian evangelist, Mage, reached another stage Sunday evening, when the residence of Rev. Calven Amaron was stoned by a lot of hoodlums, though, fortunately, the inmates escaped unhurt. Rev. Mr. Amaron is pastor of St. John's French Presbyterian Church, and on Sunday evening he ejected from the Mage meeting, which he was attending, a young man who persisted in raising a disturbance.

In retaliation for this act he and his wife were followed home by a gang of men and boys, who hissed as they proceeded through the streets to their home on Milton street.

The party reached their residence without any personal violence, but they had no more than entered their door when the house was showered with stones. Fortunately, Mr. Amaron possesses a telephone, and he was thus enabled to summon the police.

A half-dozen constables dispersed the gang and a couple of officers now guard the house regularly throughout the night. No arrests were made.

Three large window panes were broken, for which the city will be asked to pay.

Cressman's

CLASSES AND MASSES.

Austrian Election System Attacked by Workmen — Demand Equal Suffrage—Big Demonstration.

Vienna, Nov. 29.—The Austrian Parliament opened yesterday, one of the most important sessions in its history, as it will have to decide the questions of suffrage and the nation's attitude towards Hungary. As the members took their seats, a monster popular procession, variously estimated to number from 100,000 to 200,000 workmen, was filing past the Parliament Buildings in silent, orderly, impressive array, thus voicing their universal demands for equal and universal suffrage.

Emperor Frances Joseph spent the day at the Vienna Palace, from the windows of which he could witness the silent filing of his people. Premier Baron Gautsch von Frankenthurn in the meanwhile was laying before the deputies the Government's bill providing for equal suffrage.

Every Austrian male over 24 years of age has a vote, but the voters are divided into five classes and the votes cast by certain classes, notably the landed proprietors, various chambers of commerce and urban dwellers are infinitely more effective in securing the election of a deputy than the votes cast by the ordinary people, to the extent even that sometimes a dozen land owners votes count as much as 300,000 votes cast by the ordinary people. The result of this system is that the wealthy classes can secure parliamentary protection and favoritism at the expense of the masses; consequently, the masses are demanding in no uncertain tones the abolition of all suffrage privileges enjoyed at their expense. The movement applies only to Austria.

TARIFF STORY BY FARMERS.

Tell Commission At Brantford That They Want It Lowered.

Brantford, Nov. 28.—The farmers were perhaps the most important feature before the Tariff Commission here yesterday. The farmers wanted a lower tariff, their remarks being mostly along a general line. They all insisted that farming could not be made to pay under existing tariff conditions, and pointed out that it was impossible to obtain hired help because the tariff discriminated in favor of the manufacturer, who thus gobbled up all available employes.

W. C. Good, once a professor in the Agricultural College at Guelph, now a Brant County farmer, declared that he had made only $120 a year out of a 120 acre farm. He held the tariff laws to blame.

James Armstrong, president of the East Lambton Farmers' Association, also entered a strong protest.

The binder twine manufacturers stated that they could not live another year under present conditions. They suggested an ad valorem duty of 20 per cent., or a bounty of at least $25 a ton on all twine made in Canada.

About a dozen cement manufacturers were present and through Mr. Kilborn of Owen Sound pictured the industry as in a very bad way. They thought a straight duty of 10 cents a barrel would give relief.

L. E. McKinnon of St. Catharines wanted higher protective duties on certain lines of saddlery, hardware, and builders' hardware. Local manufacturers had no very serious objections to raise outside of the binder twine people and the Malleable Iron Works. The latter desires an increase in the duty on steel and iron castings.

WANT OUR CATTLE.

British Society Formed to Advance the Interests of Canada.

London, Nov. 28.—(C. A. P.)—A largely attended meeting, including representatives of nearly 100 English and Scotch Chambers of Commerce, co-operative societies, agricultural, butcher and other associations met yesterday at the Westminster Palace Hotel. A working constitution of the association to be known as the Free Importation of Canadian Cattle Association of Great Britain, was drawn up. An executive committee of 35 was appointed. It was decided to approach all candidates on the question at the next general election. Subscriptions are to be voluntary.

Tramp Ties Up a Woman.

London, Nov. 28.—An unknown tramp was the perpetrator of an outrage yesterday morning at the home of George Kelly, a farmer living a couple of miles beyond Dorchester Station. On finding Lena Williams, his neice, aged 25, alone the tramp forced his way into the house and tied her securely with a rope. She was still tied up when Kelly returned home, although the tramp had apparently ransacked the house

$3,000 Worth of Jewelry Stolen.

Woodstock, Nov. 28.—The home of ex-Mayor John White of this city was robbed yesterday afternoon of over $3,000 worth of jewelry. The family were out of the house at the time and only three servants were at home. There are no signs of any ransacking and the robbery is beyond doubt that of some one who knew exactly where the valuables were kept. There have been no arrests yet.

Spoils System in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Toronto's three license inspectors dismissed, three new ones appointed in their stead, and the resignation of the Toronto board of license commissioners sent in to the Government as a result of the change, which they regard as a direct reflection on their work and an interference, occurred yesterday.

WHO RECEIVED THE STOCK?

New York Life Made $700,000 Worth of Stock Untaxable—G. W. Perkins As a Witness.

New York, Nov. 28.—Yesterday Theodore F. Banta, cashier of the New York Life, testified before Armstrong insurance committee that about the beginning of 1901 Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the company, opened the vaults of the company, removed New York City stock valued at $700,000 and put a cheque of the Central National Bank for $700,000 in its place.

Mr. Banta said he helped to open the vaults at the order of Mr. Randolph, and that he supposed Mr. Randolph acted for the finance committee. The stock was kept out for a few days and was then returned and the cheque withdrawn. The transaction was not recorded on the books of the company, so far as Mr. Banta knew. The effect of the operation would be that anyone having that stock would have $700,000 worth of untaxable property at the end of the year. Mr. Banta did not know who received the stock. Mr. Randolph is expected to be one of the witnesses to-day.

Perkins a Witness.

George W. Perkins, vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co. and member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., bankers, yesterday described to the committee the transaction which resulted in his receipt of $40,793 from Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston as half of the profits of the sale of $2,000,000 worth of bonds of the Mexican Central Railroad Company. Milton Mattison, a bookkeeper of the New York Life, had previously testified that $936,000 of the life insurance company's money was used in the transaction and that Mr. Perkins got the profit. Mr. Perkins said yesterday that he went into the transaction for the "Nylic" fund, which is owned by the agents of the New York Life, and that he invested the profits for that fund.

Reports to Hon. Mr. Fielding.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—W. Fitzgerald, Government Superintendent of Insurance, in compliance with the Minister of Finance's request, writes a special report to Mr. Fielding on the subject of insurance. It deals with the inspection of insurance companies by the office of the superintendent. The principal object of the inspection, says Mr. Fitzgerald, is to verify the last sworn statement made by the company of his office, to see if it is correct with the records of the company's office. If not correct then the Minister and Parliament are to be advised. Cases are rare where wilful misrepresentation have been made in the returns for the purpose of concealing the true standing and condition of a company. One company made a false return, but it is out of business now and the officials have disappeared from Canadian insurance.

Two of Crew Drown.

Halifax, Nov. 28.—R. J. Leslie of Leslie, Hart & Co., received a telegram yesterday stating that the schooner Marie Joseph of Magdalen Islands, which left Halifax two weeks ago for that place with a full cargo of general merchandise, is a total wreck on Amherst Island (Magdalens), and two of the crew were drowned. She was a schooner of 56 tons register.

Hon. James Young Hurt.

Galt, Nov. 28.—Hon. James Young met with rather a serious accident while shooting in the woods not far from Killean. He slipped forward and fell heavily on his left arm. The bone was broken at the wrist and the wrist dislocated.

His Attempt Successful.

Barrie, Nov. 28.—Alfred E. Carscadden, who cut his throat in jail while awaiting trial on a charge of arson last Wednesday, died in the hospital Sunday morning. He was 41 years of age. An inquest will be held.

Twelve Years In Penitentiary.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Frank Mooney, the Cleveland man who attempted to kill Policeman Vickers of Westmount, while arresting him some weeks ago was sentenced to twelve years in penitentiary yesterday.

Girl Resents Scolding.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 28.—Because she was scolded at home Jessie Hannah, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. Hannah, matron of the Shingwauk Indian Home, ran away and has not been seen since Friday.

Will Be a Total Wreck.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Advices to the Merchants' Exchange say that the schooner Bella is ashore at the mouth of Suistaw River and that she will be a total loss.

Noted Sociologist Dead.

New York, Nov. 28.—Kiliaen Van Rensszaeller, philanthropist and sociologist died suddenly from heart disease Sunday.

PLUMBERS ENQUIRY.

Plumbers Drew Out $7,500 Just Before the Crash Came.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Among the disclosures brought out yesterday in the trial of the Master Plumbers' Association and the Central Supply Co were two which showed a direct attempt to thwart the purpose of the Crown authorities by placing the funds of the Master Plumbers' Association beyond the reach of the arms of justice and a removal of some papers.

Shortly after the injunction was issued by J. B. Reeves against the Master Plumbers the board of directors, wishing to fortify themselves, made out a cheque for $7,500 on the Bank of Montreal, in which the account was placed. Being made for cash, it cannot be traced. Frank Armstrong, the president of the association, took the cheque away from the offices of the master plumbers. The amount was drawn from the bank that day.

A number of documents important to the prosecution are in Hamilton, where they were taken from the office of the Provincial Master Plumbers' Association, and so are lost to the prosecution for the present.

A number of witnesses were examined and the case was adjourned till Monday.

Press and Plumbers.

Mr. W. R. Riddell, K. C., leading counsel for the Master Plumbers and Steamfitters' Association, in accordance with notice, moved before Mr. Justice Clute, for an order to commit to the common jail of the County of York, Mr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe newspaper, for allowing the publication of a certain alleged scurrilous poem about the master plumbers, in contempt of the court. Mr. Macdonald appeared in his own behalf, and after hearing his explanation, the court held that there had been contempt, but that, attention having been called to the fact, the purpose of the motion had been served.

BUSY U. S. FISH WARDENS.

Seize Nine Tons of Fish and Arrest Canadian Fishermen.

Detroit, Nov. 28.—Over nine tons of fresh caught lake fish were seized from the steamer City of Mackinaw by Chief Deputy Game Warden Hoyt, and Deputy Truddell. They were consigned to A. Booth & Co., in this city. The firm claimed that the fish were caught at Duck Island, Canada, but other information reaching the wardens, they made the seizure. The fish are held pending an investigation.

Gordon Gauthier, secretary of the North Essex (Ont.) Conservative Association, his father, C. W. Gauthier, and a half dozen of their men were arrested by an American game warden while fishing in Michigan waters, off Fighting Island, eight miles down the Detroit River on Saturday. The Gauthiers have leased fisheries on Fighting Island, but either forgot just where the boundary ran or that the oper season ends according to Michigan law Nov. 20. C. W. Gauthier went bond for the whole party to appear Wednesday. Many Americans have had trouble heretofore, because they fished in Canadian waters.

BRITAIN'S SUNDAY STORM.

Many Vessels Driven Ashore, But Few Lives Lost.

London, Nov. 28.—Great aggregate damage was done to the coast towns of Great Britain by Sunday night's storm. Many small vessels were driven ashore, but thus far only a few lives are reported to have been lost.

The small consting steamer Peridot of Glasgow was totally wrecked on the Island of Magee. The crew were lost. Seven bodies have been washed up. During the night huge waves swept the sea fronts of many favorite resorts and houses and hotels were flooded.

The provinces report great damage by the gale. The telegraph wires are down and the telephone line to Paris is interrupted.

Cuxhaven, Nov. 28.—A great storm, accompanied by lightning and hail, is raging in the North Sea. The regular English service is overdue and shipping from this port has been entirely stopped. There has been great damage.

Natural Gas Wrecks Church.

Sarnia, Nov. 28.—An explosion of natural gas, recently introduced for heating purposes, made almost a complete wreck of the Second Line Baptist Church, Sarnia Township, Saturday noon. George Leggott went in beneath the floor to find a leak. The match he struck caused an explosion, which blew out the end walls of the church, completely destroying the interior and tre furniture. Leggott's beard, hair and clothing were burned badly.

American Consul Attacked.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—Robert Woods Bliss, second secretary of the American embassy, who has just returned here after three months' vacation in Paris, was the victim of an outrage by rowdies in one of the most fashionable streets of the capital late Sunday night and escaped being beaten to death owing to the timely arrival of the police.

Marshall Field, Jr., Dead.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Marshall Field, Jr., died yesterday at Mercer Hospital. Mr. Field, who was the only son of Marshall Field, the multi-millionaire of this city, was accidentally shot last Wednesday. He was examining a new revolver which he had purchased, when it was discharged, the bullet striking him in the right side.

Crushed to Death.

New Glasgow, Nov. 28.—Daniel McRae, an employe of the N. S. Steel and Coal Company, was instantly killed yesterday while engaged in repairing an iron buggy at the shears. He was kneeling down under it, when some one accidentally let a train of buggies start down upon the place where he was working.

Sixteen Are Dead.

Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 28.—After a day spent by wrecking crews in clearing away the remaining traces of Sunday night's disaster at Baker's Bridge station, it was settled that sixteen persons lost their lives, twelve were seriously injured and a score cut and bruised as the result of the collision.

Hon. Mr. Prefontaine Abroad.

London, Nov. 28.—Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, who arrived at Plymouth yesterday, informed a press representative that he proposed to examine the various aids to navigation and the different systems of pilotage in use by the United Kingdom and the continent.

ALLIED FLEET ACTS.

Seize Customs Offices At Mytilene After Presenting Ultimatum.

London, Nov. 28.—The Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from Mytilene, dated Nov. 27:

Eight warships of the combined fleet arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning. Admiral Ritter Von Jedina, accompanied by the Austrian Consul, proceeded to Government House at 10.30 o'clock and handed an ultimatum to the Governor.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon 500 sailors landed and seized the customs and telegraph offices.

Everything is quiet.

Disturber Must Suffer.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Judge Hall rendered judgment yesterday in the case of the Salvation Army against Pierre Gauthier, an appeal case, in which the army sought to reverse the judgment to the Lower Court, dismissing Gauthier, who was accused of disturbing an Army meeting at St. Louis de Mile End. Judge Hall reversed the former decision and sentenced Gauthier to a fine of $10 and all the costs or ten days in jail. The costs are heavy and there is no appeal in this case.

$20,738 Verdict In Drug Suit.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The law suit of C. G. A. Loder, an independent druggist, resulted in a verdict for $20,738 against the National Druggists' Association, the Philadelphia Wholesale Druggists' Association and the Philadelphia Retail Druggists' Association. Mr. Loder sued for $100,000, alleging a conspiracy among the defendants to ruin his business.

Mystery In Drowning.

Merrickville, Nov. 28.—Thos. Forbes, a farmer of the Township of Wolford, who has been missing from home since Saturday was found drowned in the canal here at nine o'clock last night. The strange thing in this connection is that some one gave information that lead to the finding of the body after a few minutes' search. There will likely be an inquest.

Three Boys Drown.

Hawkesbury, Nov. 28.—Three boys were drowned here Sunday—H. Giroux, aged 10; and his brother, D. Giroux, aged 8; and Jos. Jodoin, aged 6. The boys left home about 10 o'clock in the morning, and though diligent search was made their bodies were only recovered yesterday morning.

CANADIAN FORESTRY.

Some of the Subjects to Be Considered at the Congress in January—Interest of Ontario.

The Canadian Forestry Convention, which, it has been announced, has been called by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to meet in Ottawa in January next, will give opportunity for discussion by representatives from all parts of the Dominion of important questions relating to forest management which are among the most pressing with which Canada has to deal.

The riches of a country are in its natural resources. At the basis of all the industries of Canada are the rich agricultural lands, the vast forests, the mines and the fisheries, which supply the raw material for commerce and manufacture. Destroy these and the foundation of prosperity perishes. The history of many an ancient state, once flourishing, but now lost in the sands of the desert, gives evidence of the truth of this statement. The forests disappeared from the hills and the streams departed with them, agriculture languished and finally became impossible and the population melted away, leaving nothing but desolation behind. While such direful results may not be possible in Canada, yet it is difficult to realize how far-reaching may be the evil results of forest destruction and the difference will only be in degree, not in kind. And why should we needlessly reduce our national resources when in the increasing intensity of national and business life we will have need for every advantage which can be obtained?

The present forest wealth of this country and of this province is not the product of this generation. It is the result of processes that have been going on through years and centuries of the past. It is a public resource, hoarded up by Mother Nature in the days gone by and it should be used for the public benefit and not destroyed or exploited as individual fancy or interest may dictate.

The Province of Ontario has a vital interest in this question. She has 25,000,000 acres of land that are invaluable only for their forest growth. In the north are great forests of spruce, suitable for pulpwood, estimated at 288,000,000 cords. The annual provincial revenue from the forests is close to two million dollars. If means can be taken to perpetuate the forests and make the revenue derived from them a permanent and increasing factor, it is surely only wise to make an effort to discover them and put them in practice.

The convention will take a wide survey of the question. The first division under which it will be considered is the relation of the nation to the forest. This will bring up the subject of forest protection, the forest reserves and their administration, the methods of raising public revenue from the forests, etc., all of which are practical matters upon which information and discussion are required. One thing should be kept clear, that the interest of the nation in the forest is the paramount interest.

The lumber and pulp industries and other businesses and manufactures that require wood supplies will have an opportunity of presenting a statement of their requirements. Few people realize what immense quantities of wood materials are used in Canada, or that a large part of the hardwoods are imported from the United States. It will be well to understand clearly to what extent our industries are dependent on the raw materials supplied by the forests and to realize its large place as a national resource.

Agricultural forestry will, as its importance deserves, be given a special place on the program. No side of the question is more important. Anything that can be done to make farming more profitable by the planting or proper management of wood lots and shelter belts will be directly and indirectly a great source of benefit. Increased supplies of wood will mean greater comfort and better returns to the farmer, while indirectly the woods will protect the crops and conserve the moisture.

Dominion Note Circulation.

A test of Canada's prosperity is the amount of Dominion notes in circulation, and particularly bills of smaller denominations. At the end of last September the Dominion note circulation reached the enormous total of $50,610,851, as against $24,608,876 in September, 1897. In the eight years which have elapsed since then the note circulation has increased by $26,001,975, or at the rate of 105 per cent. By the end of October last there were in circulation Dominion notes to the amount of over $52,000,000, a still better showing. But this is not all. The number of one and two-dollar Dominion notes in circulation is an unfailing indication that times are prosperous and that money is moving freely. In September, 1897, the circulation of ones and twos aggregated but $7,343,959. Each subsequent year the amount increased until last September it stood at $13,441,923, a gain of over $6,000,000, or 83 per cent. in eight years. It must be remembered, too, that during this time the number of small depositors having their own bank accounts has largely increased, while several branch banks have been established.

The Two Wests Compared.

"For a man who wants to farm there is no comparison between the western States and western Canada," said Mr. David Peat, J. P., of Ratho, Oxford County, on his return from a four months' tour on both sides of the line. Mr. Peat was in fourteen different States, as well as over a great portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan. He met hundreds of the new American settlers in the Canadian west, and unhesitatingly says they are prosperous and contented. He also has faith in the eventual assimilation of the Doukhobors, and says the Galicians are making excellent settlers.

ndians Pay Honor To The Stars

ICORPORATED IN THEIR LEGENDS OF GENERATIONS.

nowledge of Astronomy on the Part of the Various Tribes Dates Back Hundreds of Years—Back to Hiawatha—Indian's Loyalty to Longfellow—Wyandotte Tribe Once Lived In Toronto.

At a recent meeting of the Royal stronomical Society, J. C. Hamilton, . A., LL. B., read a paper on "Stellr Legends of the American Indians," hich created much interest.

Mr. Hamilton referred to the general xistence of "medicine" or mystery mong the red men. "The medicine an," he said, "is trained in his youth memorize, and to fast for days at time, when he has visions and comunes with the Great Spirit. His emory thus becomes very capacious nd retentive, and by these men old gends are carried down through genrations. The lecturer gave instances remarkable relates of old myths, t confined his remarks to those rearding celestial objects, especially the even Stars known as the Pleiades. he Aztecs, or ancient Mexicans, in a ational festival kindled the sacred re as the Pleiades approached the senh. So also did the Tuscayans of the outhwestern plains. The Arapahoes, eruvians, Kiowas and Yuncas regardd this constellation with reverence. he Adipones of Brazil and some other ations claim that they sprung from he Pleiades. In California it was eemed calamitous to look at them redlessly.

Indians and Astronomy.

The origin of the North American ibes and their notions of astronomy nd religion were discussed. The Salians of British Columbia say they ame from Asia in the thirteenth cenury. The Algonquins, including the lackfeet, Bloods, Ojibways, Crees, Ottawas and other tribes found north of he great lakes, preceded them 600 ears in their crossing to America.

The legends are not easy of classifiation. The Cherokees of North Caroa have as distinct stellar myths as ave our natives on the Pacific slope. owards the Atlantic the long contact ith European customs and religion as caused the Micmacs and other ribes there to forget many old myths. he Micmac word for Indian, Elienu, eminds one of the Greek Hellen. Their anguage is also full of compound ords of many syllables, and, as Cotton Mather said, some words looked as they had been growing since the onfusion of Babel. There were doubtless, said Mr. Hamilton, two or more treams of early migration from north nd south, which sometimes met. It as in South America that the cult of he Pleiades was most highly developed. Here this most wonderful group was watched with constant interest and omage. It marked their seasons, the ime to sow and to reap, and their most mportant feasts and ceremonies.

Twinkling Stars and Dances.

The ceaseless twinkling of these tars suggested dancing. They were ometimes called the singers, just as n classic poetry we read of the "Chorus of the Pleiades." Canadian Indian egends were then considered seriatim, commencing with the Blackfeet, who called the Pleiades "The Seven Perfect Ones." Crowfeet, the great Blackfoot chief, claimed that his people came originally from the south. Myths of the Hydahs and other far western tribes were discussed, some of whom worship the sun and moon. Many of these myths have a similarity to Greek legends, though more simple in thought and construction, as may be expected from such races.

Among the Crees and Ojibways, a common name for the group was the Fisher Stars, from a fancied resemblance to that animal. Many of their stories have counterparts among the Cherokees of North Carolina and more southern nations. Imagination was affected by the surroundings. The Arabs called the Pleiades a band of riders on camels; the Germans, used an ancient term, the "hen and chickens"; the Carrier Indians styled them a "herd of Caribou"; the Eskimos "a number of dogs pursuing a bear," and the finer Greek sense made them the "garden of Hesperides," or "Isle of the Blest." Persian imagination made them a cluster of twinkling jewels, a term borrowed by Tennyson. Many beautiful illustrations were given, gathered from various parts of North and South America. A Hydah tradition tells of seven giant brothers, who while fishing harpooned a great monster, who dragged their vessel swiftly over the ocean, towards a whirlpool, where death awaited them, but as they drew near the rope broke, the whale sank into the ocean, but the impetus given was such that they sailed over up to the sky and became the Pleiades.

Back to Hiawatha.

The same story is also to be found in northern part of California, where the seven adventurers were called the Holgates. We are told of Hiawatha: "Many things Nokomis taught him, of the stars that shine in heaven." Longfellow informs us that the stories woven into this Indian Edda were mostly taken from Mr. Schoolcraft's "Algic Researches of the Stellar Myths so compiled." "Osseo, son of the Evening Star," is stated by Mr. Schoolcraft to be Algonkian. But Longfellow, no doubt obtained some legends at first hand from Canadian Red men themselves. Of these Bukjinene, the Garden River Chief, son of Shinwauk, and grandson of Shinguacose, from whom an Ontario township is named, must not be forgotten. Shinguacose, from whom an Ontario township is named, must not be forgotten. Shinguacose, or the Little Pine, was leader of our Indian allies at the taking of Mackinac by the British in 1812, and was a noted medicine chief and warrior. Shinwauk was with Brock at Queenston Heights, and on his return, never tired telling of the deeds of that day and composed a song to celebrate the victory, which is still sung by his tribe. The Indian Home near Sault Ste. Marie bears his loyal name.

Indian's Loyalty to Longfellow.

Bukjinene died in February, 1900, in his 86th year. Many of the exploits of Hiawatha were common lore in his mind. He often spoke of Longfellow with whom he smoked many a pipe as he told his stories "fresh with the odors of the forest." As he grew old and feeble, Bukjinene longed again to see or hear from the poet, so he sent two of his sons all the way to Cambridge to greet him. They were astonished to find that Longfellow had been dead since 1882.

Kwasind, the strong man of the Edda, was it is stated an actual character of Pauwating Village, near Sault Ste Marie. After numerous other illustrations, Mr. Hamilton concluded with two beautiful Wyandotte legends, as collected by W. E. Connelley, author of "Wyandotte Folk Lore." This tribe lived two hundred and sixty years ago where Toronto now is, and gave that name, meaning "Land of Plenty," to this region. They were known in the Jesuit writings as Tinnotontates, or the Tobacco Nation. Their neighbors to the north were the Neutrals and beyond them, south of the Georgian Bay were the Hurons, all of whom suffered from Iroquois.

The Wyandottes lived in this region only some ten years then emigrated westerly and finally settled in Kansas and Nebraska, where they are now civilized, and flourishing and interesting citizens. The first governor of the State of Kansas was William Walker, a Wyandotte. This people have mostly lost their custom of story-telling and forgotten their legends, but Mr. Connelley gathered them from their old men many years ago and to him we are indebted for some beautiful examples.

Once Lived in Toronto.

The Wyandotte tribe, who once lived in the vicinity of Toronto, are in the better class. When they lived here "The Little People," or fairies, played on the meadows on moonlight nights, the woods, the water and the air had their weird creatures of the red man's fancies. Two of their stories "The Singing Maidens," and "The Sword and Belt of Orien," seem from their allusion, to have been composed when the Wyandottes dwelt in and about this place. "The Singing Maidens," were Pleaides, daughters of the sun and moon, fair, happy dancing girls, who looked from the sky on the inhabitants of the earth, and in their father's absence dropped down and played a while with the Indian children.

It was, said the lecturer, instructive, to find an interest taken in celestial phenomena by our original predecessors. He doubted whether people now give as general attention to the wonderful objects of the firmanent as was bestowed by the bands of Lake Ontario 260 years ago.

Help for the Kidneys Through Gin Pills.

A GUARANTEED CURE.

Read this letter. Read it twice. You have never heard such good news before—if your kidneys are sick. It tells how to be free of pain—how to have all your old-time health and vigor.

"I have been for years a sufferer with pain in the back and across the kidneys. There was scarcely a minute, day or night, that I was free of pain, and when I attempted to pass urine, the pain was almost unbearable. A friend of mine in Portage la Prairie, who was similarly afflicted, strongly advised me to try Gin Pills, as they had cured him. I bought a box of Gin Pills, and in less than a week, to my great delight, found myself without pain. I have had to go as often as every 20 minutes to urinate and several times during the night. Since taking Gin Pills, I sleep through the entire night and am not more than ordinarily inconvenienced during the day. I can earnestly recommend Gin Pills to anyone suffering from pain in the back, kidneys or bladder.

Mr. G. O. C. Gowler, Portage la Prairie."

Your druggist has Gin Pills, or will get them for you. 50c box—6 for $2.50.

If you will send us your name and address and tell us the paper in which you have read this we send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free. You will get such relief that you will gladly continue the treatment until cured. Do it to-day—now—and start to cure yourself.

Father O'Leary Finds Relics of Ancient Regime Located Near Quebec.

Rev. Father O'Leary, former chaplain of the first Canadian contingent of volunteers to South Africa, who was recently appointed to a position in the Dominion Archives Department, to make researches in Quebec, has just communicated to the Department at Ottawa that he has discovered a solid silver ostensorium which was presented to a parish by Intendant Francois Bigot. This intendant was in Canada from 1748 to 1759. The gift was to the parish of St. Pierre in the Island of Orleans and bears an inscription describing its origin. Father O'Leary made the discovery in an old cupboard. He had the article photographed, and sent pictures of it to the capital.

The Archbishop of Quebec has issued a circular to all the priests of his diocese instructing them to admit Father O'Leary to all the records relating to early Canada for the purpose of research for the Dominion Archives.

A French work, containing a story of interesting information about early fortifications at Quebec, has been procured for the Archives. The work was written by a French engineer, Delery, in 1716 for the French Government, but was never published. The original manuscript, therefore, remained in Canada. It comprises eight books illustrated by 132 plates, and is a valuable acquisition to the collection in the Archives.

The report of the Canadian Archives for the year 1904 has been completed by Dr. A. G. Doughty. In the report reference is made to the transference from Rideau Hall of over 400 volumes of original despatches and the answers to them, dating from 1791 to the Archives. These precious records were sent by Lord Minto, and they are naturally much prized. He also sent a series of despatches relating to Prince Edward Island, Vancouver and British Columbia, a mass of correspondence between the provinces, original instructions from England to Governors, and other interesting documents.

These papers are all well-preserved, one document bearing the signature of George III. Attached by his own hand in 1763 is an instruction sent to James Murray, "Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of Quebec, in America, and all other territories dependent thereon."

Lord Minto was also instrumental in procuring for the Archives a large number of valuable military registers and volumes of correspondence dating back to 1795.

The report contains some old documents printed in full, for Dr. Doughty prefers this method of introducing the ancient records to any form of condensing. Dr. Doughty recommends to the Government a conference of university representatives to arrange for the publication of a new history of Canada in the light of the important historical documents, which have recently been discovered.

CAUSE FOR THANKS.

Rev. Dr. Herridge of Ottawa Preaches on National Affairs.

Rev. Dr. Herridge of Ottawa preached a notable Thanksgiving sermon this year. Here were some of the things for which, in Dr. Herridge's opinion, Canadians should be grateful:—"We have an immense asset in our timber, our minerals, our native industries, and especially in these wheat-growing lands of the west, only a small fraction of which have as yet been cultivated. Though wealth may not be increasing for some of us, there can be no doubt that it is increasing as a whole in every part of the country. We are free from any acute form of social or political disturbance. No desolating plague has come nigh our dwellings. We enjoy peace throughout our borders. The quality of our immigrants, as a rule, gives good hope that they will do useful work amongst us. The beginning of a new transcontinental railway will open up fresh districts for settlement, and those two commonwealths which have been created this year in the west are bound to play no unimportant part in the future history of the Dominion.

"Canadians surely did not need to be told," went on Dr. Herridge, "that material wealth alone would never make this nation great. If that was what we aimed at, the result might be a kind of vulgar prosperity, but nothing more. Unless the growth of manhood kept pace with the growth of money, wealth would only make the littleness of soul more plainly, more pathetically, more grotesquely evident. We were accustomed to speak of Canada as having a great future, but that depended upon the Canadians themselves. Among our various enterprises none required more care and none would prove more lucrative than the manufacture of men. The spread of education among our people was necessary, for true culture had a value in itself, apart from any material results attending it. With our schools open to everyone, it may be thought that we have not much reason in Canada to be over-concerned about educational affairs, but I am not so sure of this. For one thing, it seems to me that the meagre salaries given to our teachers are little short of a national disgrace. We ought to see to it, of course, that they are properly qualified. The trustees of our schools should be men of broad intelligence and sympathetic insight into the character of a teacher's work; but if we almost starve those who train our youth, and this is what in some cases we do, does it not look as though we regarded their task as quite a secondary matter? Now education is a primary matter; if our schools and colleges were destroyed, or even crippled in their efficiency, we might bid farewell to any hopes of national greatness. The growth of self-culture was a hopeful sign, but it was not enough to insure a nation's greatness. Canada needed men of steadfast industry and of broad intelligence, and most of all men who feared God and worked for righteousness.

"We are beginning to see this more and more clearly. We are finding out that such a thing as a public conscience is not superfluous. It is true that commercial dishonesty and partisan creed and base desertion of principles are not unknown amongst us. Philistines are still in the land, but we seem more resolved than ever to conquer them, and if necessary to drive them out. We begin to see that self-respect will not allow evil to go unrebuked; even although it does not directly affect our personal interests we have something to do. We are emerging out of the selfish indifference which will tolerate almost anything, and are learning to insist upon it that our commercial and civic and political methods shall at least bring no discredit upon the name Canadian. We feel that we cannot afford to have a doubtful reputation in anybody's eyes. But that, on the contrary, with our vast Dominion, our free institutions, and our fine possibilities as a people, we ought to set the example of a people who think too much of themselves to be taken up with mean, petty and sordid aims, but are determined rather to work out their destiny in the spirit of God's gentlemen.

"I do not think that the most sanguine prophet is likely to exaggerate the outlook for Canadian life during the next half century. The tide of immigration is at last flowing towards us. Our magnificent resources are becoming better known both to ourselves and to others. We discern with growing distinctness the part we have to play in that imperial dream, which moves toward a great unity of the British race, and yet at the same time we are more and more conscious of our own individuality. Now if we are but true to the trust committed to us, if we are resolved that Canada shall lose nothing through our selfishness or our folly, if these vast plains of ours can be filled with men of thrift and intelligence, men of clean hands and pure hearts; if we fuse our various creeds into a simpler creed, which teaches us to love God and to love our brother also, then there need be no fear for the future of this Dominion. Our big country will be also a great country, and with deeper reverence and more ardent faith we shall return thanks to the source of every blessing for the good land which He hath given us."

Red Men Were Away.

The commission which was sent north to the Abitibi region on behalf of the Indian Department and the Ontario Government to negotiate the surrender of the Indian title to the land through which the Grand Trunk Pacific will pass, must return again next summer to complete its labors. Some of the bands were off on the hunt when the Government commissioners visited these northern posts last summer, and consequently it was impossible to obtain their consent to the proposed treaty. Later on the authorities will probably have to secure treaties with the bands in Keewatin before the red men recognize the right of the whites to run their railway through that district, and to occupy the land that has hitherto been ranged over by successive generations of Indian hunters and trappers.

Wireless In Canada.

Canada now possesses twelve wireless telegraphy stations on the river and gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic coast. Of the twelve stations, which are under the direction of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, nine are high power and three low power. The former can communicate with vessels up to a distance of 750 miles, while the radius of the latter is about 180 miles.

The TERRIBLE PANGS OF DYSPEPSIA CAN BE CURED

To be dyspeptic is to be miserable, hopeless, confused and depressed in mind, forgetful, irresolute, drowsy, languid and useless.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic.

Dyspepsia is a disease that in one way or another resembles nearly every other disease, and the only way to get rid of it is to tone up the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. This will be quickly done by the use of

It regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. M. A. MacNeil, Brook Village, N.S., writes: "Last winter I was very thin and was fast loosing flesh owing to the run down state of my system. I suffered from dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get but to no purpose. I finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters, and from the first day I felt the good effects of the medicine and am strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

KITCHEN CLOTHS.

They Should All Be Made of Coarse but Durable Material.

Many are the housekeepers that fail with regard to their dishcloths and consider any old rag that falls to their hands good enough for the purpose. It cannot be too strongly insisted on that dishcloths, and, in fact, all kitchen cloths, should be made of coarse but durable material which will bear the scrubbing, scalding and disinfecting to which they must be continually subjected. It is not an uncommon thing for careless persons who do not recognize the necessity for scientific cleanliness, but who are in other respects admirable housekeepers, to use old bits of underwear or stockings for dishcloths, thinking that if these have been thoroughly washed in water they have been sufficiently disinfected. This, however, is a great mistake. Stockinet is too close a material as well as not strong enough to bear the continual wear of the kitchen dishcloth. Buy strong linen crash for this purpose and cut it in suitable lengths, hemming each piece and keeping it especially for this use and no other. Put a supply of dishcloths through the wash each week, replacing those that have been in use with fresh ones.

Other kitchen cloths should be of strong cotton stockinet. For this purpose remnants of an underwear factory may often be purchased for a few cents per pound. Castoff clothes become too thin by use to make durable scrubbing cloths.

Remnants of stockinet bought by the pound vary in size and may be utilized for various cloths in the kitchen. This stockinet can be scalded repeatedly, but when it becomes too stiff for use it should be burned.

LAUNDRY LINES.

A spoonful of kerosene in boiled starch keeps it from sticking, but do not use enough to make it smell of the oil.

Never dry flannels in the sunshine, but in a shady place. They should be washed and hung out to dry as quickly as possible.

When making starch for light fabrics add a teaspoonful of borax, which not only keeps things cleaner, but puts a nice gloss on them.

Two potatoes grated in a basin of warm water give better results than soap in washing delicate flannel or woolen goods, ribbons, etc.

Spots may be removed from gingham by being wet with milk and covered with common salt. Leave for an hour or so and rinse out in several waters.

To make boiled starch so that the clothes that have been starched with it will not stick to the iron add to it a small quantity of gum arabic, which has been previously dissolved, and salt.

Color in the Home.

The modern scientific decorator assures us that, while yellows are all right for a hall or vestibule, they should not be used in rooms where one reads or works. The reason assigned is that yellow does not absorb light, but is a strong reflector, and these reflected rays are trying to the eyes, but, more than that, are distinct brain disturbers. For the library or workroom the most soothing or satisfactory tint is coffee. The influence of color upon temperament and physical condition being an accepted fact, it follows in natural sequence that the treatment of living rooms is of real importance. Undoubtedly some natures respond quicker to these influences than others, but any one planning a change in furnishings will do well to give the matter some attention.

Awful.

Isn't it awful when a woman keeps fixing her back hair at the theater and then when the performance is over finds that she has left her diamond ring on the dresser at home!

A PERFECT FOOD.

That Scott's Emulsion should act so quickly and satisfactorily in all cases of lost flesh and continued wasting is not surprising when its food value is understood. With pure Norwegian cod liver oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda and glycerine, there is combined in Scott's Emulsion the best elements of nourishment and strength building known to medical science. Any physician will tell you this. The use of these ingredients in the proper proportions; the employment of only the purest grade of each, and to combine them perfectly is the secret of the success of Scott's Emulsion. You will not find a more certain way to stop waste, build flesh and strength and supply nourishment than through Scott's Emulsion.

BEQUESTS OF HEARTS.

The Dying Wish of Bruce and the Fate of Douglas.

Bequests of hearts have been by no means uncommon. Richard Coeur de Lion bequeathed his heart to the canons of Rouen cathedral, and in July, 1838, this remarkable relic was once again brought to light after the lapse of six centuries. The heart, which is said to have been surprisingly large, was inclosed in boxes of lead and silver and withered, as it was described, to the semblance of a faded leaf.

Bruce's heart was by his dying wish intrusted to Douglas to fulfill a vow which he had been unable to execute in person of visiting the sepulcher of Christ. Douglas, "tender and true," promised to fulfill his sovereign's last request and after Bruce's death, having received the heart incased in a casket of gold, set forth upon his mission. Proceeding to Spain, however, he fell in the thick of a fight with the Moors, having previous to his final charge cast the heart of Bruce from his breast, when he carried it into the ranks of the infidels, crying, "Onward as thou wert wont; Douglas will follow thee!" Bruce's heart was afterward recovered by Sir Simon Lockhart, by whom it was brought to Scotland and buried along with the bones of Douglas in the abbey of Melrose. When the remains of Bruce were disinterred at Dunfermline in 1819 the breastbone was found sawed through so as to permit of the removal of the heart.

DIED WITH HIS CHUM.

A Deed of Heroism That Stirred an Entire Army.

In the reminiscences of General Sir Evelyn Wood, himself a brave English soldier, a touching instance of courage and self sacrifice is given. One June day in 1865 a detachment of English marines was crossing the Woronzow road under fire from the Russian batteries. All of the men reached shelter in the trenches except a seaman, John Blewitt. As he was running a terrific roar was heard. His mates knew the voice of a huge cannon, the terror of the army, and yelled:

"Look out! It is Whistling Dick!"

But at the moment Blewitt was struck by the enormous mass of iron on the knees and thrown to the ground. He called to his special chum:

"Oh, Welch, save me!"

The fuse was hissing, but Stephen Welch ran out of the trenches and, seizing the great shell, tried to roll it off his comrade.

It exploded with such terrific force that not an atom of the bodies of Blewitt and Welch was found. Even in that time when each hour had its excitement this deed of heroism stirred the whole English army. One of the officers searched out Welch's old mother in her poor home and undertook her support while she lived, and the story of his death helped his comrades to nobler conceptions of a soldier's duty.

The Lavish Jenkins.

In October, 1898, a religiously minded Buckinghamshire farmer named Jenkins brought his firstborn to the parish church to be christened, and this was to be the name: Abel Benjamin Caleb Daniel Ezra Felix Gabriel Haggai Isaac Jacob Kish Levi Manoah Nehemiah Obdiah Peter Quartus Rechab Samuel Tobiah Uzziel Vaniah Word Xystus Zechariah. It will be observed that the names are all arranged in alphabetical order and are as far as possible selected from Scripture. It was only with the very greatest difficulty that the clergyman dissuaded Mr. Jenkins from doing the lasting wrong to his child that he had unwittingly devised, but eventually it was decided to christen the boy simply Abel.

Handy Feat.

Mr. Nolan's description of an acrobatic performance was clear enough to any listener, although his excitement over it led his tongue, as usual, into unfrequented mazes of speech.

"He was a wonderful man, that man was," said Mr. Nolan to his audience. "You'd see him go up a ladder wid the lind of it up in the air and the bottom of it risting on a kind of a sofa piller, an' you'd say, 'There's a man going to his death.'

"But was he? Not a bit of it! Anny man that can get such a foothold on the air wid his hands and be as handy wid his feet as a monkey there's no fear for him!"—Youth's Companion.

The Heart an Inner Garden.

He who would have beautiful roses in his garden must have beautiful roses in his heart. It is the inner garden. He must love them well and always. To win he must woo, as Jacob wooed Laban's daughter, though drought and frost consume. He must have not only the glowing imagination, the enthusiasm and the passion, but the tenderness, the thoughtfulness, the reverence of love.—Dean Hole.

His Party Ties.

"I didn't know young Snobberly really took any interest in politics."

"Nonsense! He doesn't."

"But I just heard him talking for the past ten minutes about 'party ties.'"

"Oh, he means white lawn bows."

His Last Resource.

Doctor—I really don't understand. There is no reason why you should go in for a reduction of corpulency. Patient—Still I want you to put me through a course of antifat treatment. My Eulalia shall see with her own eyes how I pine away for love of her.—From the German.

Serious Case.

"There was a serious love affair on between Jinx and the Minx girl when I was here last."

"Yes, and it ended seriously too."

"You astonish me! I was sure they would get married."

"They did."

TEACHING THE PRISONERS.

Central Prison Night School's Good Work For Its Inmates.

The report of the Central Prison Night School has been made for the session to the Prisoners' Aid Association by the teacher, Mr. Finlay Spencer, who takes the opportunity to thank the warden and prison officials for their usual and uniform courtesy and co-operation. He was especially indebted to Guard Webb for valuable assistance and interest.

During the school year just completed no changes in particular have been made in the method of work. The general attendance has been composed largely of the most illiterate class, and the progress made by those in the various classes has been quite satisfactory.

The attendance at the sessions has been very regular throughout the year, the average being seventy. The total number registered was one hundred and twenty-six. Of this number twenty-eight were totally ignorant as regards the alphabet and numbers, the remainder being scarcely able to read or write their own names.

Forty per cent. of those in attendance were under twenty years of age, the others being chiefly between twenty and thirty. The youngest was sixteen years old, and the oldest man registered was sixty-three. The latter could neither read nor write when he came to us, and before his term was completed he could conduct his own correspondence with his friends at home.

The subjects taught are reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, and the geography of Ontario. As daily papers are not admitted to the prison, the more important topics of the day are occasionally brought to the attention of the school by means of two or three minute talks just before the close of a session.

As assistants are necessary, the services of two or three of the best educated prisoners in the prison are made use of, and the results in most instances have proven satisfactory.

This branch of the association's work is very much appreciated by the young men, as it is a privilege for them to be allowed to attend school. The following remark made by a man on his discharge will best convey the meaning of this paragraph.—"If I had the money I would not begrudge one hundred and fifty dollars for what I have learned in school while doing my time."

The Religious Census.

The results of the religious census taken in Berlin and Waterloo recently were given to the press as follows:

Berlin—Lutherans, 4,331; Roman Catholics, 2,478; Methodists, 914; Evangelists, 796; Presbyterians, 690; Anglican, 489; Baptists, 471; Mennonites, 422; United Brethren, 349; Christian Scientists, 167; Jews, 40; New Jerusalem Church, 275; Church of God, 15; Gospel Hall, 13; Christadelphian, 9; Disciple, 5; Universalist, 3; Amish Church, 2; no preference, 70; not at home when census was taken, 153. Total, 11,375.

Waterloo—Lutherans, 1,829; Roman Catholic, 637; Methodist, 269; Evangelists, 131; Church of England, 261; Presbyterian, 221; Menhonite, 129; Christian Scientists, 57; Swedenborgian, 47; Baptist, 31; no preference, 12; United Brethren, 103; Plymouth, 4. Total, 3,870.

Grand total for two towns, 15,245.

A Little Exaggerated.

The witty George Canning, illustrating the Hibernian tendency when excited to hurry beyond the limits of good sense, tells this anecdote:

An Irish divine, preaching against the vice of swearing and denouncing its prevalence in a certain town, said in the height of declamation:

"Even the little children that can neither speak nor walk run about the streets blaspheming."

Her Coarse Laugh.

George—You are not calling on Miss Rosebud any more, eh? Jack—No; I got disgusted. She has such a coarse laugh. George—I never noticed that. Jack—You would if you'd been within hearing when I proposed to her.

A Recommendation.

Prospective Guest—Do you set a good table here? Hotel Clerk—Well, rather. Why, folks come here perfectly healthy and go away with the gout and dyspepsia.—Life.

Horrible Dreams.

"I dream my stories," said Hicks, the author.

"How you must dread going to bed!" exclaimed Cynicus.

Not Just as Good

When you go to your druggist to buy "Ozone" ask and demand "Solution of Ozone, the coupon kind". This will give you a twenty-five cent package of "Celery King". It will give you the best preparation of "Oxone" in the world and it gives you about twice as much for your money as other brands, sixteen ounces for fifty cents, over twice that much for a dollar and a package of the well known remedy "Celery King" free.

We put "Celery King" coupons in our "Ozone" because the people know "Celery King", because it gives better results with "Celery King" and because no other firm can give "Celery King" with "Ozone". It cures, that's the reason we give you a package free and that's the reason you should never buy any other kind.

Ask for "Solution of Ozone, the coupon kind". Fifty cents and one dollar at your drug store and don't take any other kind, because if you do you won't get a package of "Celery King".

After Suffering For 10 Years With Pain In The Back He Was Completely Cured By "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" cures diseased and irritated kidneys when all other treatment fails.

The proof that "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest kidney cure known to science is demonstrated by these tablets removing all pain in the back—making the kidneys healthy—and curing chronic constipation.

ST. HYACINTHE, P.Q., June 10th, 1905.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the great good which "Fruit-a-tives" have done me. I was a constant sufferer from severe constipation and severe pain in the back for the last ten years. I tried many kinds of pills and tablets and physician's medicines but the relief was only temporary. Not long ago I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and now I am entirely well, no pain, no constipation and my stomach and bowels act naturally. I cannot say enough in praise of "Fruit-a-tives"—they are a grand medicine, mild as fruit in their action and easy to take.

(Signed) H. MARCHESSAULT, High Constable.

Do you know that every drop of blood in your body goes to the kidneys to get rid of some of the impurities?

When the bowels don't move regularly, the blood takes up poisons in the bowels and carries them to the kidneys. Then the kidneys get overworked—inflamed. Then comes the pain in the back—headaches—constant desire to urinate—nervousness—sleeplessness

"Fruit-a-tives acts directly on the Kidneys—cleans, heals and strengthens them—makes the liver give up more bile to move the bowels regularly—and stimulates the glands of the skin to increased action. These rid the system of all poisons and every trace of Kidney Disease disappears.

Fruit-a-tives have cured hundreds of cases of Kidney Disease by stimulating and healing the Kidneys

DEATH OF REV. DR. MACKAY.

Prominent Presbyterian and Prohibitionist Passes Away—Former Manager G. T. R. Passes.

Woodstock, Nov. 29.—Rev. Dr. W. A. MacKay, for the past 30 years pastor of Chalmer's Church of this city, and ex-president of the Dominion Alliance, died yesterday morning at 2.30 o'clock, after an illness extending over a year. He is survived by his wife and the following sons and daughters: John F. MacKay, business manager of The Toronto Globe; Robert MacKay of Toronto, W. MacKay of this city, Mrs D. S. Coutts and Miss E. MacKay of this city.

He was 62 years of age and was one of the most prominent Presbyterian divines of Canada. Dr. MacKay was born in West Zorra, and received his primary education in Woodstock, after which he graduated from Toronto University. He was ordained in 1870. For 20 years he was president of the Oxford Prohibition Association, and for several years was president of the Dominion Alliance. He was the author of several books, among them being "Pioneer Life in Zorra" and "Zorra Boys Abroad."

A. M. Mackay Dead.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 29.—A. M. Mackay, a Conservative member of the Newfoundland Assembly for 20 years, is dead, aged 72 years. Mr. Mackay was superintendent of the Anglo-American Cable Co. He was an operator in the Toronto office of the Montreal Telegraph Co. in 1864, and was among the first operators to receive by sound.

Death of L. J. Sergeant.

Montreal, Nov. 29.—Grand Trunk officials received word yesterday morning of the death in London, Eng., of L. J. Sergeant, former general manager of the road. Mr. Sergeant succeeded the late Joseph Hickson in the management. When the Hays management took charge of the system Mr. Sergeant went to London as an advisory member of the board of directors.

PRACTICAL CO-OPERATION.

Master Plumbers and Workmen Act Together In Harmony.

Toronto, Nov. 29—"That no plumber, steamfitter or gasfitter shall perform any labor pertaining to his trade, or put in any material supplied or work for any other than his employer, who shall be a bona fide Master Plumber and a member of the Master Plumbers', Steam and Gasfitters' Association.

"The members of the Master Plumbers', Steam and Gasfitters' Association agree to employ none but members of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Steam and Gasfitters, and Steamfitters' Helpers, in good standing."

These were the two main clauses in the agreement between the Plumbers' Union and the Master Plumbers' Association, contained in the constitution of the Plumbers' Association, around which the preliminary investigation conducted by Crown Attorney Curry in the Police Court turned yesterday. Some explanations were made by the present recording secretary of the union, George Kingswood, other disclosures of happenings taking place before Mr Kingswood's accession to office were passed without comment.

The feature disclosed yesterday was that there was co-operation between the Master Plumbers' Association and the Journeymen Plumbers, by which dissenting members in both associations were forced back into membership in order to gain their living. Otherwise, if a man was a master plumber his labor was cut off. If he was a journeyman he was refused employment by the master plumbers.

Mr. Hardy Goes Over.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—The case against James Hardy of Jenkins & Hardy was adjourned in the Police Court yesterday morning for another week at the request of Crown Attorney Curry. Mr. Tilley appeared for Mr. Hardy.

Coal Combine Quits.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—The alleged Ottawa coal combine has disbanded. It has existed in various forms for several years, but it is now said that each dealer will go on his own hook.

Longshoremen's Strike Ends.

St. John' N.B., Nov. 29.—After nearly two weeks of idleness, during which some of their families suffered more or less, and serious conflicts between local and imported labor narrowly averted, the longshoremen of this city have thrown up the sponge and called off the strike. They will go to work on last year's schedule. Nearly 1,000 men will start in this morning.

WILL IT CURE ME?

That's the personal question a woman asks herself when she reads of the cures of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Why shouldn't it cure her?

Is it a complicated case? Thousands of such cases have been cured by "Favorite Prescription." Is it a condition which local doctors have declared incurable? Among the hundreds of thousands of sick women cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription there are a great many who were pronounced incurable by local doctors. Wonders have been worked by "Favorite Prescription" in the cure of irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"I commenced taking your medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,' nearly a year ago for chronic inflammation of womb, and can truly say it is the only thing that ever did me any good," writes Mrs. L. C. Wagner, of 125 Edwin Street, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. "I could not walk any distance before using it. After taking six bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I find I can walk without difficulty and am greatly benefited in general health. Would advise all suffering women to use Dr. Pierce's medicine."

Pierce's Pellets These are the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up over 40 years ago, by old Dr. R. V. Pierce. They've been much imitated but never equaled. Smallest, easiest to take and best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules; a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance or trouble, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick and bilious headache, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured. Permanently cured, too, by their mild and natural action, these little Pellets gently lead the system into natural pure acids. Their influence lasts.

London, Nov. 28.—Cattle are quoted at 9 1/2c to 11 3/4c per lb., refrigerator, 8 1/4c to 8 1/2c per lb.; sheep, 11c to 12c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were large, 91 car loads being reported by the railways, consisting of 1886 cattle, 1627 hogs, 1709 sheep and lambs and about 60 calves.

Exporters.

About two loads of exporters sold at $4.25 to $4.45.

Butchers.

Considering the quality of the cattle offered and the stormy day there was a fair trade. More good to choice cattle would have sold. Choice picked lots sold at $4 to $4.40, but few brought the latter price; medium, $3.50 to $3.80; common, $2.75 to $3.25; cows at $2.50 to $3; canners at $1.25 to $2.25.

Feeders and Stockers.

Harry Murby bought about 100 stockers and feeders at about the same prices as last week, as follows: Good feeders, 1000 to 1155 lbs., at $3.70 to $3.90 per cwt.; medium feeders, 1000 to 1150 lbs., at $3.55 to $3.80; best feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., at $3.25 to $3.40; medium feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; best yearling steers, 600 to 800 lbs., at $3 to $3.25; good stock heifers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.50 to $2.80; medium stock heifers, 700 to 850 lbs., at $2.40 to $2.65; common stock steers, 700 to 900 lbs., at $2.40 to $2.75; common light stockers, 400 to 850 lbs., at $2 to $2.25.

Milch Cows.

Trade in milch cows was brisk, with prices firm at $34 to $57 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices steady at $2 to $10 each or $3.50 to $5.50 per cwt. Prime calves would bring $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Deliveries were liberal and prices for lambs were slower in being sold. Prices were as follows: export ewes, $4 to $4.25; bucks, $3 to $3.50; lambs, at $5 to $5.60 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Nov. 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; good demand and steady; prices unchanged. Veals—Receipts, 50 head; steady; $5.50 to $8.75. Hogs—Receipts, 6800 head; fairly active and steady; heavy, $4.95 to $5; mixed, $4.85 to $4.95; yorkers, $4.75 to $4.85; pigs, $4.80 to $5; roughs, $4.20 to $4.35; stags, $3 to $3.50. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000 head; sheep steady; lambs strong and 10c higher; lambs, $5.75 to $7.50; yearlings, $5.75 to $6; wethers, $5.50 to $5.75; ewes, $4.75 to $5; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $5.25.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Nov. 28.—Beeves—Receipts, 755; nearly all consigned direct; no trading; feeling steady; exports, 1120 cattle, 25 sheep and 4500 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 91 head; steady; veals, $5 to $9.50; no grassers or westerns on sale.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1037; market steady. Sheep, $3.50 to $5; lambs, $7.50 to $7.75; culls, $5; yearlings, $6; no Canada lambs.

Hogs—Receipts, 3375; all for slaughterers, except one car; no sales reported; nominally weak at $5.10 to $5.40 for good heavy to light state hogs.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 7000; steady; common to prime steers, $2.90 to $6.75; stockers and feeders, $2.15 to $4.15; calves, $2 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 25,000; steady; moderate prime to heavy, $4.85 to $4.90; medium to good heavy, $4.75 to $4.85; strong weight butchers, $4.85 to $4.90; good to choice heavy mixed, $4.75 to $4.85; packing, $4.35 to $4.85.

Sheep—Receipts, 20,000; firm; sheep, $5.75 to $5.90; yearlings, $5.50 to $6.75; lambs, $6.75 to $7.50.

ELECTED BY 494.

Official Count In North York Election Presents Interesting Figures.

Aurora, Nov. 29.—The official count of the votes polled at the recent Dominion bye-election in North York was made at Aurora yesterday afternoon, Nov. 28, and resulted as follows: Number of votes polled for Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, 2,729, for Mr. McCallum, 2,235, giving Mr. Aylesworth a majority of 494. The total vote polled was 4,964

In the Dominion general election last year the total vote polled was 4,338, of which Sir William Mulock obtained 2,660 and Mr. Roche 1,688.

There were 626 more votes polled at the present bye-election than at the general election, and Mr. Aylesworth polled 79 votes more than Sir William.

WRECK OF THE OLIVER MOWAT.

Crew Rescued After Eight Hours' Cruel Exposure.

Oshawa, Nov. 29.—A Grand Trunk special, bearing a life-saving party from Port Hope, thirty miles distant, and a mile's overland haul of the large fishing yawl brought by the rescuers, were sensational features of the successful attempt made to bring ashore Capt. Robinson, his wife and the crew of four belonging to the schooner Oliver Mowat, which grounded about 300 yards to the east of Bluff Point, about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Those rescued were: Capt. George Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Port Hope; James Bloomer, Bathurst street, Toronto; Isaac McEvey, Port Hope; Charles Hollenbeck, Colborne and Ed. McClelland, Port Hope.

The sailors, drenched to the skin and benumbed through eight hours of exposure to driving snow, cutting wind and waves that flooded to the deck at intervals were promptly taken to the Oshawa House, where they were cared for.

LLOYD RE-ARRESTED.

Newmarket Lawyer Out on Bail Taken on Two New Charges.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Fearing that T. H. Lloyd, the Newmarket lawyer, accused of serious defalcation, was on the point of leaving County Crown Attorney Drayton ordered his arrest on two new charges. This was effected last night by County Constable Burns, after a search extending over two days. Until he is placed on trial next week, at the December sessions, he will be held without bail.

Since Lloyd's release last spring on bonds amounting to $2,500, supplied by his father and his cousin, it was thought Lloyd might make an attempt to escape. He disappeared two days ago and charges of theft from Mrs. Hammond and Silas Toole for $300 and $80 were laid.

Late last night Detective Mackie and Constable Burns found him at the Rossin House and placed him under arrest.

He was locked up in No. 1 Police Station. An attempt was made to obtain bail, but it was refused. He will appear before Magistrate Ellis in the County Magistrate's Court this morning to answer the charges.

G. T. R. GETS LEAVE.

Validity of Dominion Railway Liability Act to Be Argued.

London, Nov. 29.—(C. A. P.)—The Privy Council in Grand Trunk Railway versus the Attorney-General of the Dominion, granted special leave to appeal. Lord Davey expressed the view that the case was most important and should be argued on its constitutional points.

It is one of the validity of amending the act passed in the session of 1903, which prevents any railway company within control of the Dominion to be relieved from liability for damages for personal injuries to workmen or employes in case they sign such conditions in an insurance policy with the company.

Tramps Burn Landmark.

Brockville, Nov. 29.—Tramps were responsible for the burning of the house and barn of Mrs. Hugh Connell, near Athens, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The inmates had to leave in their night clothes. The house was one of the landmarks of the district, a stone structure erected over 100 years ago.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—The coroner's jury last night brought in a verdict that Fred Millar came to his death from a shot fired from a revolver in the hands of Daniel Carter during a scuffle, and held Carter guilty of manslaughter. The men were race stable employes.

To Enliven The Liver

KIDNEYS AND BOWELS—TO PREVENT DISEASE BY CLEANSING THE SYSTEM—YOU MUST USE

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

There's need in every home for a medicine that will promptly cure biliousness, kidney derangements and constipation.

A medicine that by cleansing the filtering and excretory organs will remove all poisonous waste matter and by so doing prevent fevers, colds and such deadly diseases as dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease.

No medicine satisfies this need so well as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is no idle boast, but an absolute fact that is backed up by the testimony of a hundred thousand homes.

The reputation of Dr. A. W. Chase as author and physician is the guarantee which first made this great medicine popular.

Now it stands on its record of cures—a record which has seldom, if ever, been paralleled in the history of medicine.

As a treatment for backaches, headaches, indigestion, aching limbs, liver derangements, kidney disorders and constipation, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, thorough and effective.

Once their merit is tested they are kept in the house and relied on in cases of emergency. By keeping the liver active and the bowels regular they positively prevent serious disease.

Mrs. Geo. Lawson, Consecon, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills made a well woman of me, completely curing me of constipation, rheumatism, stomach troubles and a very severe kidney trouble after years of suffering. I am now sixty-eight years of age and very grateful for what Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done for me and for the remarkable cure of my husband by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster, promptly eradicates pain and may be used on any part of the body.

LIFE IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

The Way In Sickness and Old Age Was Pitiable Indeed.

Concerning the life of poor people during the middle ages a writer says: "In those bygone days of feudal rule the dwellers in the country were almost invariably serfs, bound to the estate on which they were born and under the absolute rule of the owner. They were possibly better fed than at the present day, for butter, cheese and eggs were plentiful, and the fertile soil of Italy supplied them with abundance of fruit and vegetables. The poor man held his plot of ground by the tenure of so many days in the year of service to his lord. But in sickness or old age his case was very pitiable and we have a curious proof of this in a letter written in 1405 by the mother of Filippo Struzzi, at Florence. She is speaking of some old people on her estate in the country: 'Piero and Monna Cilia are both alive and infirm. I have overflowed the field for next year, and, as I must put it in order, those two old people, if they do not die, must go and beg. Heaven will provide.' This is no passing thought of the good lady, who was pious and highly esteemed, a friend of the Medici, but it is a firm resolution in her own mind. A few months later she writes to her son: 'Piero is still alive, so he must put up with it and go away and beg. It would be best, of course, if heaven will take him.' Apparently a merciful Providence had already provided for Monna Cilia!"

Shot Destroys Eyesight.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Last night about 11 o'clock W. G. Heintzman, a piano maker, saw a man leaning against an advertising board with blood coming from a wound in the right temple and a revolver lying on the ground. The injured man said he was John Wright of Brantford, and arrived from there at noon yesterday. He claims he was examining the revolver and it went off. The ball destroyed the sight of both eyes, and may prove fatal. He was taken to the General in an ambulance.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Ministers of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

STORY COMPETITION For Examiner Prize

"SILK OR GINGHAM."

WRITTEN BY MISS MARY CASEY.

Miss Mary Casey the author of the accompanying story, is thirteen years of age and is a daughter of Mr. David Casey, Chamberlin Street. She attended the Lake Street School and later the Convent. She passed the Entrance Examination last year and is in the First Form. Miss Casey is studying to be a teacher.

"If I can't wear my silk dress I wont go," ejaculated Irene Robinson.

"But, my dear, I think that your gingham dress, with a fresh white tie, is more suitable."

"My gingham dress, mother, I wouldn't wear it for anything."

Mrs. Robinson sighed. She was an invalid and thought it easier to yield to her headstrong little daughter than to oppose the girl.

"I am only afraid you will ruin the dress and I can't afford to buy you another this summer."

"Oh! no, I wont soil it, I'll be very careful and any dust I get on it can be easily brushed off. Lily Wilson is going to wear her's and as I am going to walk with her, I want to be as well dressed as she is."

Finding that any further reasoning would be unavailable, Mrs. Robinson reluctantly yielded.

The next day was one very memorable in the history of Peterborough, as that on which our present Majesty, then Prince of Wales, honoured our town with a visit. A procession of school girls was to be formed to march with the rest of the crowd to greet Prince Edward as he arrived at the old G.T.R. railway depot, then in Ashburnham.

The morning of the much expected day dawned. The sky was bright and clear and the golden sunbeams played among the budding trees. It was a morning in early spring and the town looked its best. A committee had been appointed to superintend the decorating and no detail had been over-looked. Flags and banners, among which the Union Jack was most conspicuous, greatly enlivened the general appearance.

Irene Robinson was so well pleased with her own appearance, when she arrived at the town hall, where the procession was to be formed, that she condescended to admire that of her partner, Lily Wilson, who also wore a pretty China silk.

"We ought to be put at the head of the procession since we have silk dresses on, while the others have only muslin, or — Oh! Lily, would you please look at those Taylor girls in gingham, actually gingham," exclaimed Irene, inwardly thankful that she had persisted in wearing the silk.

"Isn't it horrible," returned Lily. "I hope we wont have to walk behind them."

Neither of the girls were pleased to find Alice and Gertie Taylor placed directly in front of them. The girls were arranged in order of height and Alice and Gertie were a little taller than Irene and Lily.

"Isn't it provoking to have to walk behind those gingham dresses?" inquired Lily of her partner. Instead of answering Irene, addressed Alice Taylor.

"What is that you have on your arm?"

"My waterproof cloak," was the smiling reply. "Mother said it might rain, so we came prepared."

"There might be some sense in wearing a waterproof if you had anything nice on, but I didn't know that anything could spoil gingham."

Alice's face flushed under this rude, unfeeling remark, but she had learned to control her temper, which was not easily aroused. Receiving no reply, Irene resumed.

"I think nothing is so nice for summer as a China silk dress."

"I never had one, so I can't tell, but I like ginghams, they are so nice and cool, and can be washed if they get soiled," was Alice's truthful reply.

"It's good you like them, since you have to wear them."

At this last insulting remark Alice turned to speak to her sister, who also carried a waterproof.

The chief dignitaries of the town rolled along in open carriages, while the rear of the procession was closed by a motley crowd of men, women and children. The parade arrived at the station just as the special train, which was ornamented with flags and evergreens, pulled in. The Prince alighted from the train amid the cheers of the assembled multitude.

The day had now become very warm and the road quite dusty, but the novelty of the (return procession was so exciting that the girls did not mind it.

Just as the procession broke up, the girls were startled by a rumbling peal of thunder, followed by a vivid flash of lightning, which illuminated the leaden-coloured sky. Quick as thought, large drops of rain began to patter on the dusty road.

Irene, altogether taken by surprise, was almost speechless with bewilderment.

"Oh! my dress, my silk dress will be ruined!" exclaimed Lily.

"And mine too," broke in Irene. "I am sorry I wore it."

"Never mind, you can have our waterproofs," broke in a clear voice behind them, which Irene at once recognised as that of Alice Taylor, the girl whom she had so grievously offended.

"Hut,—but you will need them for yourselves," stammered Irene.

"Oh! no, you yourself said a while ago that nothing could spoil gingham."

Again Irene essayed to resist, but Alice and Gertie, unheeding all remonstrances, quickly wrapped the raincoats around the frightened girls.

The rain fell unceasingly, and Irene and Lily were obliged to wear the waterproofs all the way home. Together the four girls walked along in silence. Irene was both astonished and subdued by this generous conduct. When they reached the gate of Mrs. Robinson's cottage she could hold in no longer, and throwing her arms around Alice she, burst into tears and asked her forgiveness for her ungracious conduct.

"Oh! Alice, you have to-day taught me a lesson which I shall remember all my life. You have taught me not to despise the poor or humble, but always to respect the noble and generous person."

Mrs. Hubbard's Own Story of Her Experiences in Labrador

miles from its head, we came across the Montagnais. Three days more brought us among the Nascaupees. These tribes are true Indians, and not at all like the Eskimos. They live in wigwams and dress in skins. George Elsen understood enough of their language as to be able to talk to them.

"The men go down to the coast to trade in furs, but they never take their women with them. These men had, of course, seen white people before, but never before had a white person visited them. When they first saw us they were evidently frightened but as soon as they heard friendly words in their own language they were reassured."

"Of what were they frightened?" asked the World representative.

Old Iroquois Tradition.

"They thought that we were Iroquois coming to attack them. It seems strange, but it is true, that the dread of the Iroquois is still a tradition among them. This tradition must be centuries old, but it is still alive. How it originated is lost in the mists of the past, and that it has lived is merely traditional evidence of how utterly cut off from the rest of the world these northern Indians are.

"Going down the George River we encountered many rapids and our progress was perilous but swift. We had one upset when two of my men had a narrow escape from drowning, and we lost some of our supplies but not enough to make it necessary to turn back. We were altogether two months living in the canoes and in camps, and at the end of that time, on August 27th, we reached the George River post of the Hudson Bay Company on Ungava Bay, which projects for a distance of about one hundred miles southward from Hudson Strait. We were entertained there by John Ford, the company's factor, until October 22nd, when the Hudson Bay Company's steamer, Pelican, touched at the post on her return from her annual cruise. On her we returned by sea around the coast to Rigolette where we were fortunate enough to catch the steamer King Edward, on which we returned to Quebec."

A Very Successful Trip.

"Are you thoroughly satisfied with the results of your trip?"

"Yes; thoroughly. I accomplished all that I started for. I explored the Nascaupee and George Rivers, which were marked on the maps are incorrectly placed. I saw the caribou crossing at the height of land, and I visited the Indians in their homes. This is what my husband tried to do, and that he failed was due to his missing the Nascaupee River and to the impossibility of finding food in that unfortunate year."

"And are you going to write a book on your experiences?"

"Whether I shall write a book or a magazine article will depend upon the advice I receive from my friends, whom I have not yet had an opportunity to consult."

Patent Medicines.

The name "patent medicine" is misleading, and grossly understood, for it is the name of the medicine and not the formula that is protected by law. The manufacturers of the better class of family medicines do not hesitate to let interested parties know the ingredients of their successful medicines, and the proprietors of Dr. Chase's famous medicines even go so far as to invite doctors to visit their offices and examine their formulas and medicines. Do you think that it would be possible for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Ointment, Nerve Food, etc., to establish such a record in the cure of various and chronic diseases if they they did not contain the most effective ingredients obtainable? The composition of these medicines is such that doctors could not do otherwise than commend them, and for this reason investigation is courted.

Canada Has a Good Banking System

Mr. Stewart Compares United States and Dominion Banks—Both Methods Afford Equal Securily to Public—More Elasticity on This Side—Branch System Adopted From Motherland Useful.

That the Canadian banking system could not be replaced with advantage by the United States system is the opinion of Mr. D. M. Stewart, general manager of the Sovereign Bank of Canada. He addressed the Canadian Club Saturday afternoon, comparing the systems of the two countries. The audience was large. The bank manager is a pleasing and graceful speaker as well as a high authority on finance. His address was much appreciated, as was evidenced by a hearty round of applause at the close. In the absence of Dr. Courtenay, the president, Mr. Plunkett B. Taylor presided.

After a few preliminary opening remarks Mr. Stewart proceeded to compare the banking systems of Canada and the United States and spoke in part as follows:—

"There are two kinds of chartered banks in the United States, namely, those operating under State Laws and those incorporated under the National Banking Act. Both may issue notes and conduct a general banking business, but as there is a heavy tax on the circulation of State banks, these institutions are practically prohibited from issuing notes. There is only one kind of chartered bank in Canada; we have no state or provincial banks. All banks operate under the Dominion Act, the provinces having relinquished their rights to the Federal Government at the time of Confederation (1867.)

"A National bank may commence business on a capital as low as $25,000, the amount being regulated by the population of the place of establishment. In Canada the minimum paid up capital is ten times that amount, namely, $250,000, which must be deposited in gold with the Dominion Government before a bank can issue a note or do business of any kind. The incorporators must at the same time lodge with the Government a list of bona fide subscriptions for stock in the bank to the extent of not less than $500,000, and as subscribers are liable for double the par value of their subscriptions, the Canadian people have a guarantee of at least $1,000,000, of which they know $250,000 has been paid in cash, before the institution can open its doors for business.

"The Canadian system of incorporation, almost of necessity, creates a larger number of shareholders, and the wider the distribution of a bank's stock the better for the public. The minimum number of directors is five, but there is no limit placed on the number of shareholders a bank may have. However, I do not think our finance department would grant a certificate to any bank whose subscribers were very few in number.

"In the United States, one man frequently controls the entire capital, which is not difficult when the amount is so small as $25,000. The system of regulating a bank's capital by the population is responsible for the creation of hundreds of weak and badly managed institutions all over the United States.

"The 33 chartered banks of Canada are owned by some 25,000 shareholders who afford the public a total security of over $169,000,000—in the form of double liability alone. By the way, when you hear some one railing against our banks as a "huge monopoly," just remind him that they are controlled by only 25,000 partners—mostly good Canadian voters,—but many of whom unfortunately are widows and orphans whose bank stock forms their chief or only income. American banks in the smaller towns are so susceptible to local conditions that a trade depression of comparatively small area will often bring them into difficulties. In Canada we have such a diversity of crops, climate, industries and resources, that no purely local depression, however severe, could seriously affect any of our banks. So much for the difference in point of capital and numerical strength.

"The National banks of the United States are not allowed to open branches, and it is for the purpose of providing banking facilities in the smaller towns that charters are granted on the low capitalization already mentioned. The branch system we brought from the motherland, and it exists in every English-speaking country in the world except the United States. The advantage of a branch bank to a small community is apparent when you consider that it is identical with, and has all the strength, backing and responsibility of the parent institution in the great financial centre, and that before even this parent bank could open its doors, it had a minimum paid up capital of $250,000, and a shareholder's liability of $1,000,000. Contrast this with the minimum capital of the United States National bank of $25,000 and a shareholders' liability of $50,000. Chartered banks may issue note circulation in Canada as in the United States to the extent of their paid up capital. The circulation of the American National banks is undoubtedly secure, as they deposit with the comptroller of the currency United States government bonds, whose par value equals the amount of the note issue. The United States government would, therefore, have to become bankrupt before the note circulation would become worthless. The Canadian bank circulation is equally safe. Every bank has to deposit and maintain with the Minister of Finance a sum in gold equal to five per cent. of its outstanding circulation and the fund thus created, though contributed to by all chartered banks, is available for the redemption of the circulation of any one bank. In this way the banks are responsible for the circulation of one another. But this redemption fund is only a small portion of the security. The note circulation is a first or prior lien on the entire assets of the banks. These assets — including shareholders' "double liability,"—amounted on the 31st of October, 1905, to $896,540,065, as security for $76,889,440 of circulation.

"There has not been a bank failure since 1867 in which the assets were not sufficient to meet the note circulation, and nothing short of the bankruptcy of the whole Dominion could now imperil its safety.

The Elasticity.

"As regards elasticity, our circulation possesses this to a much greater degree than that of our neighbours, and this is generally admitted by American bankers. For instance, the Canadian banks deposit but five per cent. of their circulation with the government—and even on this they are allowed interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum. It is therefore a great incentive to them to get their notes into circulation, and when the crops have to be moved instead of taking cash out of their business they issue their notes, thereby increasing the volume of money in circulation proportionately to the demand for it. The result is that year after year there is a steady flow of paper money every fall towards the great grain producing sections of the country and the channels which conduct it are the branch banks. All this takes place whether the crops are abundant or meagre, without any excitement or financial trouble, and, as already pointed out, without the slightest fluctuation in the interest rate.

No Cash Reserve.

"In Canada there is no cash reserve fixed by law, this being left to the prudence of the bankers. Our own experience, as well as that of the United States, has shown the wisdom of this policy, and the comparative freedom of the Canadian banks from this and other unnecessary restrictions has gone far towards the establishment of our banking and currency system on the sound and efficient basis on which you find it to-day.

"There is just one more point of difference I would like to mention, and that is the inspection of banks. In the United States national banks have to report to the comptroller of the currency at certain periods—not less than five times a year—and their affairs are inspected at least once a year by a government official known as the 'Bank Examiner.' This official's examination, although made suddenly and without warning to the bank, has not, however resulted in the discovery of frauds, and in some cases frauds have been perpetrated for several years continuously without interruption or detection, in spite of the official examination having taken place every year. We have no government inspection in Canada, but our banks send a detailed report of their condition to the Finance Department, and a circulation return to the Canadian Bankers' Association as well at the close of business on the last day of every month. It would be impossible for a government official to properly inspect a chartered bank with branches, as to be effective the examination should take place simultaneously and without warning at all offices. This would entail the employment of a large staff, who would necessarily have to be experienced bank officers, and it does not seem to me to be practicable. The chartered banks now maintain a very thorough system of inspection, but this is done by officers of the parent institution, who are especially selected by the executive for their technical knowledge and ability to detect irregularities. No system will make men honest or dishonest; the system that counts is the one that detects fraud, and detects it at its inception, or in the initial stages.

"In conclusion I need scarcely say that in comparing the banking system of Canada with that of the United States, I have not been actuated with any unkindly feeling towards the latter country. I think too highly of it, and the bankers, for that—I do not even claim that the Canadian system would be best for our American friends, or that it has reached a point where it could not be improved upon without advantage to our own country. But I do claim that the United States system would not be suitable for Canada, and that even with the imperfections that may exist our present banking and currency system is the very best that could be devised for the legitimate requirements of our great agricultural, manufacturing and commercial interests, and the proper development of the enormous resources of the great Dominion."

Of Interest To Business Men

In the hundreds of excellent magazines now being published there are many articles the modern business man should read. But how can he hope to do this, unless he has unlimited means? Fortunately there is a way, which has recently been opened to Canadian business men, through the enterprise of The MacLean Publishing Company. In The Business Magazine, published by them, will be found each month a varied and carefully selected series of articles from the best magazines of the world. In addition there is a complete descriptive index of all the other important articles of the month for which there is no room in the current issue of The Business Magazine.

The November number is crammed from cover to cover with good things. It gives more solid reading matter for the money than any magazine published. There is a cleverly written article on the business career of the late Senator Fulford, of Brockville, who made a name for himself as a world-wide advertiser. The late Senator left over $5,000,000, and the article tells how he made it. Then follows an amusing short story, "The Smartness of Lawkowitz," and a series of 23 articles on subjects of general interest. A few of these are:—"Big Salaries and Fees," "A Night in a Marconi Station," "The Richest Woman in the World," "How Great Business Men Keep Well," "The Rothschilds of France," "Saving, the Key to Success," "The Typewriter Girl," "The Largest Vessel Ever Built," "A Female Training School for Sleuthing," etc.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION

HEARS REPRESENTATIONS FROM

FARMERS AND MANUFACTURERS

Opening Session This Morning at the City Council Chamber---Members Present Were: Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Wm. Patterson, and Hon. L. P. Brodeur---The Agricultural Interests Were Discussed at Considerable Length---Canadian General Electric Desires Some Tariff Reductions---Representations of Mr. John Finlay, M.P.

The opening session of the Tariff Commission was held this morning in the city council chamber. The members of the Commission present were Hon. Wm. Patterson, Minister of Customs; Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and Chairman of the Commission; and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Inland Revenue. Mr. John Bain, secretary of the Commission, was also present.

The first representation made was that of the Canadian General Electric Company, this being followed by a lengthy statement of requests, upon behalf of the agricultural interests, which consumed the greater part of the morning. Messrs. Dawson Kennedy of Otonabee; W. R. Lott, of Lennox county; and D. D. Rogers, ex-M.P., of Frontenac county; spoke in this behalf. A request for a specific valuation by Mr. John Finlay, M.P., Norwood, completed the representations made this morning.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, president of the Peterborough Board of Trade, in a few brief remarks, extended, upon behalf of the Board which he represented, a cordial welcome to the members of the Commission; also expressing the hope that the Commission would find it possible to visit different points of interest in the city before their departure.

Mr. W. S. Fielding, chairman of the Commission, replied briefly, expressing his thanks for the cordial welcome extended.

C. G. E. Company's Request.

The first representations made were those on behalf of the Canadian General Electric Company, by Mr. Geo. W. Watts. He pointed out that the company has practically no protection on electrical apparatus. While the tariff is nominally 25 per cent. on the finished product, this, with the British preference deducted, reduces it to 16 2-3 per cent.

The materials used in the manufacture of electrical apparatus are dutiable under the tariff to an average of 20 per cent. on the value of material, leaving a net protection of 5 per cent. against the world, except Great Britain, where there is no protection. The rates on material range from 5 per cent. to 55 1-2 per cent., but average 20 per cent. If any of these were increased, the company requested a compensating advance on the company's finished product.

Tinned copper strip is subject to 30 per cent; copper strip, not tinned, is free. The 30 per cent. on the total value, makes 110 per cent. on the tinned copper; whereas bare copper wire and tinned copped wire came in at the same rate. A special insulating compound was used, being brought in in iron tanks. These tanks are of no use, except as containers. The company is charged duty on these tanks, making an extra duty of almost 3 cents a gallon, and is 5 1-2 per cent. of the value, thereby raising the duty on compound to 30 1-2 per cent., instead of 25 per cent.

The same remarks applied also to oil containers. These packages are of no value, but are shipped back to the country of origin. A quantity of Hydrofluoric acid is used by the company, which is shipped in lead jars, which are of no use except as containers. The value of the acid is about $7.60 per jar; the rate of duty is 20 per cent. The duty on jar is 30 per cent., equalling $1.50 duty on jar, and $3.10 on jar and contents, which is over 40 per cent. of the value of the material.

Mr. Watts also called attention to the fact that marble for switchboards is dutiable at 35 per cent, whereas the finished switch board board is only dutiable at 25 per cent. A considerable quantity of ozokerite, which is produced only in Austria, is used. This, Mr. Watts claimed, should be entered free, the same as asphalt. The duty charged was 20 per cent., though he was informed that it entered the United States free of duty. Foreign competitors in shipping goods thus have an advantage of 20 per cent.

The Agricultural Interests.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy claimed that farmers were handicapped by the present duties. He claimed that if the city interests were developed and encouraged all other industries would necessarily flourish. He said the position he occupied was that the tariff should be placed upon a revenue basis. The principle of protection should be eliminated from the tariff. Protection was called legalized robbery for fifteen years during a season of depression by a well-known Canadian statesman. What could it be called to-day with prosperity on all sides and the workshops and factories busy? The farmers do not want any special benefits as producers. Remove protection from wheat, pork and other products and the Canadian farmer will meet the world in competition. Representatives of manufacturing implements had said before the Commission that if a scaling up duty of twenty-five per cent. were added, it would enable them to have a much larger share of the home market and more satisfactorily face foreign competition. The protection given to manufacturers and the bonusing privileges had a tendency to draw the young people from the farms, for the land was not furnishing subsistence for its occupants. Foreign competition, he argued, was a great benefit to the farmers in the question of manufacturing machinery. They would not get their supplies on such reasonable terms were it not for the competition of the Deering and McCormick Companies. He closed by making a strong plea in favour of a revenue tariff. He had no enmity towards the manufacturing interests. Hon. Mr. Fielding asked if fifteen per cent. on wool and fifteen per cent. on manufactured cloth would encourage and stimulate the woollen business of Canada.

Mr. Lott was not in a position to answer the question. The sugar beet industry should receive no encouragement from the Government, he argued, as the cultivation of beets was not a profitable venture to the farmers because of the fact that the prices obtained at the factories were not sufficient to encourage the farming community to cultivate them.

The report of the proceeding of the sitting of the Tariff Commission will be continued to-morrow.

The Situation Is Dangerous In Russia

Russians Slew Each Other to the Number of 5,000 Yesterday at Sebastapol—The Leaders of the Mutiny Have Already Been Put to Death.

FROM BAD TO WORSE FROM DAY TO DAY

Special to The Examiner.

London, Nov. 30.—A St. Peterburg despatch dated 2.15 p.m. to-day says that the situation is dangerous. Another despatch says it is reported that 5,000 persons perished in yesterday's battle at Sebastopol. The leaders of the mutineers, it is added, have already been executed.

Mr. Wm. Bell Returns Thanks

Mr. Wm. Bell, of Auburn, desires to sincerely thank his neighbours and friends for their kind assistance in searching for the body of his son Louis, who appears to have been drowned in the Canal, while skating, on Monday evening last, and although the search has been unsuccessful owing to the many difficulties to be contended with at this time of the year, yet he feels satisfied, that, under the circumstances, everything possible has been done.

He also wishes to thank the Canadian General Electric Company for their kindness in raising the stoplogs at their dam at Nassau, in order to lower the water in the Canal to further assist, if possible, the searching party in their work.

Was Louis Bell Drowned? Is The Question

Report That a Boy Answering to His Description Was Given a Pass to the West From Toronto Yesterday—All Efforts to Find Body Last Night Were Unavailing—Another Attempt to be Made Sunday—Water Again to be Lowered.

THE MYSTERY STILL REMAINS UNSOLVED

The effort to find the body of Louis Bell, in the canal, last night, by lowering the water above the Nassau dam, was unsuccessful. The water was brought down about two feet, and the whole reach of the canal, in the vicinity of where he was supposed to have broken through was searched, but without result.

On Sunday the water will again be lowered, and, if possible, the level will be brought down lower than it was last night, when another attempt will be made.

There is an air of mystery about the whole affair which is puzzling those interested.

Yesterday there was another theory advanced. Mr. Henry Crowe, of Williscroft, Bruce County, was in the city, and he related a story which may have a decided bearing on the case. He stated that while in Toronto yesterday, a boy about 14 years of age, who said that he came from Peterborough, asked him for a pass to go west with a carload of cattle which he was shipping. Mr. Crowe gave the boy the transportation asked for, and he left on a freight train with the cattle for the west. When he heard last night of the disappearance of young Bell he remembered this incident, and was of the opinion that the boy to whom he had given the pass was Bell.

This opens up an entirely new feature in the case, and while it seems hardly possible that there can be much foundation for the belief that he could have gone to Toronto, there is at least a colour of possibility in it.

There is no reason, as far as can be learned, why he should have wanted to leave town, and that he would have gone with his skates and boots, and left the boots he had previously worn on the bank, is improbable.

Warden Buck's Address on the House of Refuge

At Opening of the County Council Session This Afternoon—Reviews the Work Done Since the June Meeting—Children's Aid Society Asks for Increased Grant—The Location of the House of Refuge—Other Business Considered.

THE GRANT TO THE DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION

This afternoon at two o'clock in the County Council Chamber the semi-annual session of the County Council opened. There were present Warden Buck and Councillors Andrews, Carey, Johnston, Menogue, Shaw, Garbutt, Stinson, Moloney and Moore.

In opening the session the Warden gave his address referring to the business which would probably come before the council at this session. The address follows:—

Members of the County Council of the County of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—You have been called together at this semi-annual meetign of the County Council, to consider matters in connection with County business. I congratulate the County upon the prosperity which has been so much in evidence during this year, and of which I trust the members of this council have had their fair share.

Since the June session of the Council the County has been favoured with a visit from the Minister of Railways and Canals, the Hon. H. R. Emmerson, and transfer of the swings over the Trent Canal Waters in the County to the Government was made this year. The saving effected by this will be considerable, and you will be pleased to learn that it represents an investment of $2a,000.

On the occasion of the visit of the Hon. Mr. Emmerson the warden appointed a committee composed of himself and Councillors Johnston, Carey, Moloney, Garbutt and Shaw to accompany him on his trip over the waters of the Canal. The question of the proposed new bridge at Juckhorn was discussed and a promise was secured from the Minister that when the new bridge was constructed, piers would be made sufficiently high in order that they might be utilized for the county bridge. This also effected a saving of between two and three thousand dollars to the county.

The Warden has been asked by the authorities of the Protestant Home to consider the question of a House of Refuge for the county and to appoint a deputation from the County Council to act in conjunction with a similar deputation from the City Council and with the officers of the Protestant Home to take the whole matter of a House of Refuge up. At this session you will be waited upon by a deputation from the Protestant Home to lay this matter before you. Proposals have been made to have the House of Refuge erected at Lakefield, Norwood and Peterborough, but since the Act provides that this Institution need not be erected until January 1906, in the two years yet intervening, there will be ample time to fully consider the question of location of the House.

At this session the question of an increased grant to the Children's Aid Society will be brought before you. The officials of that society have represented that, largely by reason of the number of children who have been cared for in that Institution, from the County, there is an overdraft on the county account of $281.00. In view of this fact they will ask that the county deal more liberaly with the Society, and in the event of their request not being granted, there will be no other alternative but to tax the cost of the maintenance of these children upon the municipalities from which they come.

The new Indian River bridge has been practically completed and in the opinion of the County Engineer a very satisfactory job has been done. The cost is in the neighbourhood of $2,800.00.

The Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, through their President and Secretary will wait upon this council to ask for a grant to assist them in holding the annual convention of the Association here in January. At a meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee, held in the summer, this matter was discussed and the members of the Council then present agreed that they would recommend to the Council that a grant of at least $100.00 be made the Dairymen, in the belief that this recommendation would be ratified at this session.

The finances of the County, I am pleased to state, are in a most satisfactory condition, details of which will be presented to you in committee at this session.

Wishing you the compliments of the season.

W. T. BUCK,
Warden.

In connection with the question of the House of Refuge the following letters were read by the Warden:—

Peterborough Protestant Home,
Peterborough, Nov. 11th.

Wm. Buck, Esq., Warden, County of Peterborough, Norwood:

Dear Sir,—I am directed by the Committee of Management of the Peterborough Protestant Home to write to you with reference to the provision which must be made for the care of the poor of the County and City. At present this home is overcrowded and there are a number of applications for admission which we cannot deal with. The Provincial Inspector of Public Institutions has taken strong objection to the number of inmates now in the Home so that something will require to be done at once.

At the Annual Meeting of the Home on the 7th inst., it was proposed that a Conference be held of representatives of the Coun., and City Councils and the clergy of the different denominations and the trustees of the Home—Dr. Halliday, Mr. G. M. Roger and Mr. J. B. McWilliams—were appointed a Committee to represent the Home. Will you be good enough to have a Committee named to represent the County and arrange with the Mayor for a meeting and I will notify the other parties.

Yours truly,
M. MILLIER,
Secretary.

Address, Mrs. W. H. Miller, Box 303, Peterborough.

Norwood, Ont., Nov. 29 1905.

To the Warden and Members of the County Council of the County of Peterborough in council assembled:

Gentlemen, — As chairman of the public meeting of the residents of Norwood and the surrounding townships, which was held in the town hall on the 24th inst, I have the honour to report, it was resolved to send a deputation to wait upon your honourable body at your present session, upon the long-deferred matter of the necessity of this county erecting a House of Industry, or Refuge, for the poor, destitute or aged, without waiting until the Government, as we are led to believe, intend to force, where it has been neglected by the counties, of which there are but few, among which there is the county of Peterborough.

Learning your present session is to be of short duration, the deputation have decided to defer this matter until your regular meeting in January next; and in the meantime, the members of the council may be the better prepared to take up this important matter, and be prepared to act promptly.

It will be submitted by the deputation that, as the matter cannot longer be deferred, and that the city of Peterborough, having failed to take joint action with the county, there are very suitable situations in this immediate locality where the required forty-five acres of land can be procured at a considerable less expense than in the immediate vicinity of thee city. We desire that its location that is being suggested, receive your earnest consideration, and, in the meantime, I have the honour to be,

Yours truly,
E. P. CUFFE,
Chairman.

These communications were referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

IT CAN HAVE BUT ONE RESULT. IT LEAVES THE THROAT or LUNGS, OR BOTH, AFFECTED.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP IS THE MEDICINE YOU NEED. . . . . .

It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cts.

Mrs. Henry Seabrook, Hepworth, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past three years and I consider it the best remedy known for the cure of colds. It has cured all my children and myself."

For Family Colds

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shiloh's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elsley, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont."

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get back all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell. 923

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

In Memoriam Of The Departed Fortnightly Club

Reminiscenes From the Records of a Brilliant and Useful Existence—Some Interesting Early History of the Organization—Mr. C. Fessenden Its First President—Rev. Dr. Symonds One of the Early Leaders.

MEMBERSHIP AT FIRST CONFINED TO MEN ONLY

The announcement in yesterday's Examiner that the Fortnightly Club had formally disbanded was read with regret by many persons, who appreciating the benefits to be derived from a literary society such as it was, feel that it is an apparent indication of a decreasing interest in literary and scientific study, when, from lack of interest, the society disbands.

In this connection it may not be out of place to refer to the organization of the club and the work which it has done in the eleven years since it was instituted.

On September 11, 1904, according to the minute book, a meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the organization of a literary and scientific association. Those present were Mr. C. Fessenden, Rev. H. Symonds, John Burnham, K. C., E. H. D. Hall, J. A. Fife, W. H. Murray, L. M. Hayes, Mr. O'Brien, B.A.; H. R. H. Kenner, B.A.; E. A. Peck, J. W. Garvin, B.A.; Dr. Burnham, J. H. Burnham, M. A.; Rev. Mr. Hedley, Rev. J. C. Davidson and W. Parker.

After some discussion, Rev. Mr. Symonds moved that the company present form themselves into a literary and scientific society, (which was carried. Another motion was made, though the scribe does not mention the mover, which, perhaps, is just as well, to the effect that the membership should be confined to men, and that party politics and denominational religion be excluded from the discussions. This motion was also passed.

The election of officers took place and resulted as follows:

President—Mr. C. Fessenden.
Vice-President—Rev. H. Symonds.
Secretary—Mr. W. H. Murray.
Committee of Management—Messrs. L. M. Hayes, J. W. Garvin, and J. A. Fife, with the other officers.

First Regular Meeting.

The first regular meeting of the society was held on September 25, when the laws (were adopted. At this meeting Mr. Burnham read a paper on "The Evolution of the Species." The secretary records that "There was not sufficient time to enter upon the topic for discussion, and it was left over until the next meeting."

There were eighteen members present. The attendance increased one at the second meeting, when there were nineteen present. At this meeting Mr. J. Jeffries read a paper on "Macbeth." The topic for conversation was "The War in the East," and was introduced by Mr. J. W. Garvin.

At the meeting held on November 6 a paper was read by Rev. Mr. Symonds on "The Religious Element in the Poetry of Tennyson and Browning." This meeting was held in the county council chamber, which was well filled. Other speakers and subjects that season were:

Mr. J. C. Brown, "The English Language."

Mr. D. W. Dumble, "The Effect of Ice Expansion on Canadian Lakes."

Mr. C. Fessenden, M.A., "Flying Machines."

Rev. J. C. Davidson, M.A., "Citizenship".

Rev. H. Symonds and Sheriff Hall, "A Prophet of the Century," papers on the life and work of John Ruskin.

Mr. J. A. Fife, B.A., "The Iron and Nickel Deposits of Ontario."

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.; J. Jeffries and F. H. Dobbin, "The Censorship of the Press."

Mr. J. W. Garvin, "Other Worlds Than Ours."

VALUE OF "OZONE"

The value of Ozone (it is really liquid oxygen) is well known to medical science. It kills the germs of internal disorders. If taken in concentrated form (and that means "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind" it insures a speedy cure for asthma, bronchitis, Bright's disease, kidney trouble, malaria and rheumatism. This stringent remedy needs with it a tonic laxative to secure the best results. Your druggist will give you sixteen ounces of "Solution of Ozone" for fifty cents and if you insist on the coupon kind, will guarantee a free package of "Celery King." The Public Drug Co., Bridgeburg, Ont. Sold by W. B. Warne.

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Crisp, delicious and tasty.
Absolutely and distinctly superior to any other make.
Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

Rev. C. W. Hedley, B.A. and Mr. B Kidd, "Social Evolution."

Twelve meetings were held, and at a business meeting on (May 8 the question of a junior division was discussed.

During this season the "Fortnightly Club Column" in the two daily papers was inaugurated, the editor of that column to be Rev. H. Symonds.

The first meeting for the season of 1895-6 was held on September 24, when the election of officers took place. There at this meeting were Messrs. Fessenden, Symonds, Jeffries, Dumble, Lowry, J. C. Brown, Murray, Drope and Dr. Caldwell and A. C. McCallum.

The officers elected were:

President, Mr. C. Fessenden.
Vice-President, Rev. H. Symonds.
Secretary, Mr. J. Jeffries.
Assistant Secretary, (Mr. E. A. Peck.

In this season six public meetings were held, and five meetings for members. Those who gave papers or who addressed the meetings were Mr. G. A. Scholfield, Sheriff Hall, Rev. H. Symonds, A. C. McCallum, J. H. Burnham, H. R. H. Kenner, Rev. W. R. Young, Rev. Carl Smith, D. W. Dumble.

The officers in 1896-7 were:

President, Rev. H. Symonds.
Vice-President, Sheriff Hall.
Secretary, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.
Assistant Secretary, Mr. E. A. Pock.

The principal meeting that season was that at which the silver question was discussed. It had special significance at that time, because it was just prior to the McKinley-Bryan election in 1896.

At a meeting held on October 6, 1896, a motion, introduced by Rev. Mr. Symonds to allow ladies to become members, was passed.

Mr. David Spence, on November 17, gave a paper on "Bells."

At the first meeting in the 1897-8 season it was decided to meet in the Y.M.C.A. hall, and also to reduce the price for tickets to 25 cents. Rev. S. J. Shorey and Mr. Walker were the new speakers this season. It was at this time that open meetings were abolished, and tickets were supplied to all on payment of the fee. The same officers (were re-elected. The membership in this year increased to 159.

The next annual meeting was held on October 11, 1898, when the officers elected were:

President, Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.
Secretary-Treasurer, (Mr. F. D. Kerr.

The programme for this season was:

Nov. 1—Paper, "Rudyard Kipling," Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson.

Nov. 15—Paper, "Dante," Rev. H. Symonds.

Dec. 13—Men's Canadian Historical evening. Papers by Messrs. J. W. Garvin, W. Salisbury, S. R. Armstrong.

Jan. 10—Ladies' Canadian Literature. Paper by Mrs. Kendry.

Jan. 31—"Carlyle," Rev. W. L. Armitage.

Feb. 21—"The Relation of Education to Economical Conditions," Mr. J. McCaig.

April 4—"Stray Thoughts," Mrs. Wallis.

April 25—"Rise and Fall of Mahdism," Mr. H. S. Greenwood.

The membership this season was 110.

The officers of the year 1899-1900 were:

President, Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.
Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. F. D. Kerr.

Papers were read by Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun and F. D. Kerr.

In 1900-01 the officers were the same except that Mrs. R. S. Davidson was secretary. The members numbered 140. In this year the policy of introducing features by outside speakers was inaugurated, and those who addressed meetings of the club were Mr. Wilfrid Campbell, of Alton; Sir John G. Bourinot and Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Galt.

At the annual meeting of the club, held on October 5, 1902, the officers were elected as follows:

President, Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President, Mr. J. Jeffries.
Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. R. F. McWilliams.

The minutes give no details of the work of that year.

From this time on the interest in meetings seemed to wane, and the secretary records that the annual meeting called for October 7, 1902, owing to counter attractions and bad weather it was very poorly attended, and was postponed. It was held on October 21, and there were present the president, vice-president, secretary and one reporter. The advisability of reorganizing the club in its original form was discussed by the three members present, but no action was taken.

The annual meeting held on October 13, 1903, was the last recorded in the books of the club. At that meeting the officers elected were:

President, Rev. J. C. Davidson.
Vice-President, Mr. J. H. Burnham.
Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Jas. L. Garvin.

For the year 1904-05 there is a list of members of 209, and a financial statement, but no record of meetings, and for the year 1905-06, as has already been recorded, there is no record, the club having decided to disband.

This ends an organization which began eleven years ago with splendid prospects, and which flourished for a season, but which, for some years has been gradually declining in interest, until its disbandment.

It is an interesting process to pore over the records which revive pleasant memories and arouse interest in matters which contributed in so stimulating a way to the intellectual betterment of Peterborough. There is both humour and pathos in the situation. The gloomy misogynist can work in his cynicism by pointing out that the decline of the club dated from the time that the Eve element was admitted. The pathos consists in noting that many of the names on the muster roll of the club are now enrolled in another world.

Plea For The Bible Society

Secretary of the Local Branch Asks the Friends to Help.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—In view of the fact that the ladies and gentlemen undertaking the collecting for the work of the Bible Society are beginning their visits to the homes of the city this week, I would like, as secretary of the local branch, to state that last year some $340.00 was sent forward. Last year's annual meeting thought that a sum three times as large ought to be raised this year so, the friends of the work will do all they can I am sure to encourage the collectors. The Bible Society is in the truest sense catholic, and and unites almost all the branches of Christ's Church for one single object—to supply every man with the Holy Scriptures in his own language. It concerns itself solely with circulating that Book which is the charter of Christ's Church throughout all the world.

The Bible is circulated in 370 different languages and dialects and the Society is promoting translations in over 100 languages to-day.

It supplies all our Foreign Missions with the vast bulk of the copies which their representatives need. From January to December 2,000 copies every working hour are issued from its presses.

The following table gives us some idea of the hosts yet to be reached with the word of God:—

Agency.	Population 1904.	Scriptures Circulated 1904.
France	39,000,000	201,738
Belgium	6,500,000	31,440

Central America	5,500,000	30,758
West Indies	5,000,000	41,911
The Andes	10,400,000	8,130

In all the places mentioned they are stretching out eager hands for the gospel, and all doors are open. I trust your readers will all help according to their ability.

Yours very sincerely
JAMES G. POTTER.

THAT STAB-LIKE PAIN IN THE SMALL OF THE BACK COMES FROM THE KIDNEYS

AND CAN BE CURED BY

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

It is not the back that is aching, but the kidneys which are situated beneath the small of the back.

Therefore, dull pain in the back, or sharp, quick twinges, are warnings of sick kidneys—warnings of kidney trouble. Plasters and liniments will not cure a bad back, for they cannot reach the kidneys which cause it. Doan's Kidney Pills reach the kidneys. That is what they are for and that only. So, if you would be free from backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, frequent or suppressed urine, painful sensation when urinating, specks floating before the eyes, frequent thirst, brick-dust deposit in the urine, or anything wrong with the urinary organs or bladder, you must keep your kidneys well. Help them to work freely, and help them to flush off all the body's waste and impurities.

Doan's Kidney Pills are made from the purest roots and herbs, and have a remarkable healing and toning effect on the kidneys. Mrs. Barting, 28 Locomotive Street, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I had been troubled considerably with my kidneys, using many remedies, but finding no relief. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to act directly on the kidneys, and making them strong again."

Price 50 cents per box, three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1905.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM.

Yesterday the Examiner referred to the high-handed action of the Whitney Government in arbitrarily, and without cause given, dismissing the Licence Inspector of Toronto, and his associates. In order to give our readers an opportunity of estimating the action, a full report of the circumstances was given yesterday. This information will enable them to judge how far Mr. Whitney and his government have redeemed their pledges not to introduce the spoils system.

It is, in one sense, a small matter that a Liberal office holder should be replaced by a Conservative, but it is of much moment to the public to know, whether in the matter in question the Government prefers finding places for its hungry followers to securing efficient enforcement of the law.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago, Hon. Mr. Whitney informed a deputation that no man would be dismissed from his position under the government, unless he were guilty of partizanship — that is, unduly interfering in politics. Now, he is to be held to account in respect of the dismissal of the license inspectors in Toronto. Why were these men, who were discharging their duties in a thoroughly satisfactory and impartial manner, as the best authorities assert, dismissed, without even notice, not to speak of investigation, based on any allegation of misconduct, or partizanship—an action which was so strongly resented by the very commissioners appointed by the Whitney Government that they promptly resigned to show their disapproval. Why was it necessary to remove admittedly competent officials to meet the wishes, or, rather, demands, of Mr. Beattie Nesbitt, and Hon. Messrs. Crawford, Pyne and Foy? Can it be that Hon. Mr. Whitney has lost control of his Cabinet? It would appear so. Else why has he permitted, by his Cabinet, the violation of his publicly declared policy made only a few short weeks ago? His policy has been disregarded. His temporary absence from the city is no excuse for disregard of his policy, if he were in earnest in his declaration. He knew that what has been done, was contemplated, and was the subject of political intrigue and wire-pulling, in opposition to the policy he had announced. It was generally admitted that Mr. Whitney, in opposing his Toronto Board of License Commissioners, had made a good selection, although they were no better than their predecessors — that they were desirous of doing their duty faithfully, and that the license inspectors were satisfactory to them, and both were working together energetically and amicably to secure a proper enforcement of the license law in the public interests.

What have the temperance advocates to say about the dismissal of inspectors who are doing so good work, that the commissioners resigned when their chief assistants were arbitrarily dismissed? The Examiner did not need to be much of a prophet to foretell, as it did, that Mr. Whitney's promises in regard to dismissals were largely buncombe. While he was talking one way, his Cabinet was acting another. He hasn't even the satisfaction of having made improvements in his substitution of officials, as is shown in this county. It is well known that the recommendations of the defeated Conservative candidate in East Peterborough were entirely ignored, and that the appointment of a Havelock man as inspector, was made over his head, and without his approval—very cavalier, if not insulting, treatment. Mr. Moore put up a good fight, and deserved more respectful consideration. His recommendation being ignored, can be accounted for only on the theory that his nominee interfered with the political plans of the Cabinet, who seemed to prefer making a political profit, to appointing the nominee of Mr. Moore, who knew the local situation best, and was the best man to suggest a good inspector.

It is well known — and Hon. Mr. Whitney could not be ignorant of the fact — that the names of the three persons who have been appointed inspectors, were before the Cabinet for weeks, and it is current report in Toronto, that, anticipating the resignation of the commissioners, in view of their expected resentment of the action contemplated, the names of their successors were also before the Government for some time. The Examiner could have published weeks ago the names of the inspectors which have been appointed, and could have made a pretty fair guess at the names of the new license commissioners. It is an open secret that the means would be adopted which has been used to get rid of Messrs. Flavelle, Davidson and Murray, who were distasteful to the government because of their effective administration of the license law. Those who have been praising, preaching and pinning their faith to the Whitney Government may now very properly pull out another stop, and pray to be saved from their friends. It will be interesting to see what they will do.

All this goes to show how the license law and party patronage are being used by the Whitney Government, as they were in Chatham, and other places, for the benefit of the Conservative party. What explanation has Mr. Whitney to make with regard to there being no dismissals without cause, or without investigation?

Trewern Factory Oyster Supper

An Enjoyable Evening Spent by the Patrons Last Night.

Last night the closing meeting of the Trewern cheese factory patrons for the year was held in the factory. It took the form of a social evening, an oyster supper, followed by a programme, being held. There was an attendance of about sixty patrons and their families, and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent. The factory report was presented by Mr. Thos. Braden, president and treasurer, and was most satisfactory, showing that about $16,000 worth of cheese had been manufactured and sold at the factory during the past season. The price received was satisfactory, and the season in every respect was a very successful one.

After the oyster supper, in which everyone participated very heartily, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott was voted to the chair, and a delightful programme was given. The chairman, in his opening remarks, congratulated the patrons of the factory upon the very successful season which they had just passed through. It was indeed pleasing to him, as it must be gratifying to them to learn that the affairs of the factory were in such a satisfactory condition. He complimented the president upon the able management of the factory, evidence of which was furnished by the splendid report which he had seen. Mr. Elliott referred to two sad occurrences which would mar, to a certain extent, the pleasure of the gathering. One was the fact that Mrs. Arnott, daughter of one of the patrons, Mr. Telford, had passed away, and the second (was the affliction which had befallen Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, who (was one of the most popular cheese buyers on the Peterborough Board, and was well known to the majority of the patrons of the Trewern factory. The following programme was then rendered, these participating acquitting themselves most creditably.

Welcome To Mr. Caverly

New Live Business Man Takes Possession of the King Edward Restaurant.

Another new business man and citizen has been added to Peterborough's attractive graft.

Mr. John Caverley, who has, until recently been carrying on a prosperous bakery, confectionery and restaurant in the town of Walkerton, has bought out "the right, title and interest" of the King Edward Restaurant and confectionery, formerly carried on by Mr. Robert Maitland, and No. 325 George street. Mr. Caverley has his wife and family with him, who have already become comfortably settled in their new premises. The confectionery has been restocked with a fresh supply of the most toothsome chocolates, creams, caramels, taffies and other "sweeties" of the wholesome kind. The interior of the lunch room is undergoing attractive improvements for the comfort of guests, and the King Edward menu will be made more attractive than ever. Mr. Caverley has had fifteen years experience in this line of business, part of which was gained in Toronto. He is a practical baker, cake and pastry maker, and thoroughly understands every detail of the business. Serving of meals is a special hobby of his — his services having been retained for numerous important functions in which a very large amount of catering was required. Drop in and have a meal or lunch with him—he's a live wire.

Liquor Case Was Dismissed

A Large Number of Cases Were Disposed of at Police Court This Morning.

A man that raised Cain in a local place of business had to pay $2 and costs, amounting in all to $5.75 at the police court this morning.

A man that used profane language pleaded guilty and had to pay four dollars.

"This swearing and cursing on the streets must be stopped," said Mr. H. Rush, J.P., who, in the absence of P. M. Dumble, occupied the bench.

A young man from the south end of the city was charged with assaulting a boy who lives in the same part of the city. The accused said he was aggravated by the complainant who, he alleged, called him a foul name.

The complainant, in giving evidence, said he didn't use the name at all. One of the other witnesses swore he did, while another said he didn't. The evidence was very conflicting as there were several others present at the time of the alleged assault. The case was enlarged until to-morrow, when the other witnesses will give evidence.

A well-known local hotel man was charged with selling liquor last Sunday. There was no evidence against the accused, and the case was dismissed.

Services Are Largely Attended

Entertain Fears For Recovery of Charles Leary

Ald. Leary Left This Morning for Santa Anna, Mexico — Received Telegram Stating That His Brother Was Dying--Fears That Attack of Yaqui Indian Will Result Fatally—Further Details of the Sad Affair—Friends Hope for Recovery.

EIGHT DAYS' JOURNEY FROM PETERBOROUGH

Ald. R. H. Leary left this morning on the 11.45 train for Santa Anna, Mexico, where his brother Charles, is lying seriously ill, as the result of an injury which he received some weeks ago. Mr. Leary had not intended to leave so soon to visit his brother, a letter having been received a few days ago from the gentleman who has been with his brother since the accident, stating that he was apparently recovering, and that they hoped to remove him to Los Angeles, California, where he would receive better medical attention, and the writer advised Ald. Leary not to go until he had been taken to that city.

Yesterday, however, a telegram was received from Mr. Lewis, saying that the injured man was failing fast, and this morning another wire came giving the sad news that Mr. Leary was dying. After having received the wire of yesterday, Ald. Leary decided to go at once to his brother, and left to-day, as stated.

There are but slight hopes, however, that he will be able to reach him before he dies. It is an eight days journey to the Mexican mining camp, where he was injured, and to reach it a drive of 65 miles is necessary, from the nearest railway station, Santa Anna, which is about two days' journey from Los Angeles.

In a letter which arrived a few days ago, Mr. Lewis stated that the injury, which it is now feared will prove fatal, was inflicted by a Yaqui Indian, whom Mr. Leary had discharged from the mine, of which he is superintendent. That everything possible is being done for him, is evident from the fact that he is attended by three nurses and a doctor.

Mr. Lewis has proven himself a true friend to Mr. Leary in his trouble. As soon as he heard of the injury which he had sustained, he at once left his position in Los Angeles, and hurried to his friend's assistance, where he has remained ever since, and has done everything in his power to prolong his life. He has written frequently to Ald. Leary giving him full details of his brother's condition, and, until yesterday, when the telegarm came, has held out hopes of his recovery.

Ald. Leary will be away for some weeks.

Eko Camp's Annual Dance

Enjoyable Function Last Night at Foresters' Hall.

The annual at home of Eko Camp, held last night at the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, was, regarded from every view-point, one of the most successful and thoroughly enjoyable affairs of the season.

About eighty couples were in attendance, dancing taking place from 8.30 till 12.30 o'clock. Greig's orchestra furnished delightful music.

The committee in charge, of which Mr. L. B. Ramsden, was Hon. Secretary, are to be heartily congratulated upon the successful outcome of their efforts.

Street Cars In Collision

A street car collision occurred at noon to-day near the corner of Smith and George streets. Car No. 17, a Canadian General Electric car, was going north on its noon trip to Auburn, when it collided with No. 12, a white board car, coming from the north. There was evidently some misunderstanding among the motormen, hence the accident. The car going south was going at a rapid rate, and crashed into that going north, smashing the front and the windows considerably. No. 12 was damaged slightly, but fortunately none of the passengers or motormen were injured.

First English Periodical Firm to Publish in Canada.

The latest and according to cabled reports, the most successful of any of Sir Alfred Harmsworth's publications, has been selected as the first to be printed and published in Canada. At the same moment that announcement is made in England that a 40 per cent. dividend is being paid by the Harmsworth firm, it becomes known that a number of Harmsworth men are preparing an active Canadian campaign from the James Building, Toronto.

Mr. Murray, who is in charge of operations, describes the work as "really the most remarkable of its kind ever attempted." He says that every possible subject upon which a man or woman can need information is included within its pages, being a practical guide to all professions and trades, with the last word upon all arts and sciences, in addition to teaching six languages, shorthand, typewriting and all the practical details of everyday life at home, school or at work in any field. The Harmsworth Self Educator will be sold in fortnightly numbers for fifteen cents each, costing altogether less than eight dollars.

The Hibernians' Social Evening

A Delightful Progressive Euchre Party and Musical Programme.

Last night the members of No. 1 Division, Ancient Order of Hibernians, with their lady friends, enjoyed a social evening in their hall, Hunter street. The evening's entertainment took the form of a progressive euchre party, preceded by a short, but excellent, programme. There were about 200 persons present. The chair was occupied by Rev. Father Kelly, chaplain of the Division who, in his opening address, welcomed, on behalf of the Division, those present. He pointed out the many benefits to be derived from membership in the order, and outlined some of its objects.

Miss L. Hallahan rendered with good effect, a vocal solo, "Terrence's Farewell to Kathleen," and Mr. Geo. Lynch followed with a character song. "The Black Sheep," which was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Miss Carrie White's recitation, "Yes, I'm Guilty," was given in her usual efficient manner. Mr. John King delighted the audience with his solo, "The Message of the Rose."

At the conclusion of the programme progressive euchre was indulged in, thirty tables being filled.

The hall was very tastily decorated with flags and bunting, and presented a pleasing appearance.

The whole evening was a most delightful one, and was much enjoyed by those who participated in the event.

The prize winners were, Mrs. W. Merrell, two cut glass vases, and Mr. Thos. Holland, pair gold cuff links.

Preparations For Humorous Lecture

ations for their concert and lecture to be given on Dec. 12th, in the school room. The lecture will be given by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, whose subject will be "The Evolution of the Boy." This will be a humourous address and will deal with the different stages through which the boy passes—his love affairs, his first long trousers, his moustache, etc., will all be described, and the prospects are that there will be a large attendance.

Mr. J. H. Burnham will act as chairman.

The Lecture Was Much Enjoyed

Mission Work the Subject of Lecture in Omemee.

Omemee, Nov. 28.—The lecture in the Presbyterian church last night under the management of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was a grand success. A most appreciative audience, made up of all the kindred societies, gathered to listen to Rev. Mrs. Kannawin, B.A., of Woodville, wife of our former pastor, Rev. W. Kannawin, B.A., B.D. The audience, old and young, was spellbound from start to finish. The four ministers of the other congregations, including Rev. Tenney, McCullough, Johnston and Whitelaw, were on the platform and gave short addresses. The collections were good. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the society, and a very satisfactory report was given by our secretary, Miss Jardine.

Latest News Of Fall And Winter Sports

HOCKEY

According to some weather prophets we are to have a spasmodic hockey season from now till end of January.

• • • •

It's now rumoured that Phillips will play on the Montreal Wanderers' line-up. According to newspaper gush he should certainly qualify for his old position of rover.

• • • •

Down in Peterborough they are booming the game of hockey, and there will be lots of it there this winter.—Toronto News.

• • • •

The Toronto News says that the Marlboros will have a "good" intermediate team this winter, many of last year's juniors being available. Now that reads like a joke from the country correspondent. Still they may have a chance, seeing that many of last year's fast intermediate sevens have expressed their intention of playing senior.

• • • •

Varsity will probably have the strongest line-up this winter that has ever represented the college seven. Somebody whispers that they are after Whitcroft.

• • • •

Guelph is to have a City League. So are a great many other towns and cities in Ontario. Wake up, Peterborough.

RUGBY.

FATAL AMERICAN FOOTBLL.

American football is more fatal than war—than the first battle in the American civil war.—Bulls Run—when nobody was even hurt. The gentle game of football in the United States is shown by statistics to have been, this year, even more destructive to human life than usual. The list is an awful one, showing 19 dead and 137 injured; many of them booked to die or be lifelong cripples. One unique feature is the fact that one of the killed was a girl player, Miss Bernadette Decker, who was fatally injured at Cumberland. And this is not the full season's record for Thanksgiving Day in the United States—to-day—is the great football day of the year and no doubt the record will be added to. This is a great contrast to the civilized Canadian game, in which during the entire season so far no one has been seriously injured, not to speak of being killed.

• • • •

One error is costly when two teams are evenly matched. In the Yale-Harvard game last Saturday in which Yale was victorious by a score of 6-0, a fumble on the part of Harvard's quarter-back lost them the game and Harvard was having the best of the play all through.

• • • •

Walter Camp, famous American football expert says that ten yards instead of five in three downs would tend to eliminate rough play from the American game. He must have received this inspiration when he was at Hamilton a short time ago.

• • • •

The locals go to Ottawa full of confidence in their ability to turn down Ottawa II. Captain Hurtubise is a graduate of Ottawa City League rugby and his many friends in Ottawa will no doubt watch his work on Saturday with interest.

• • • •

The Ottawa newspapers philosophically accept the defeat administered their pets, the Rough Riders, by Varsity on Saturday. In fact they have little chance to do anything else.

• • • •

While the game as played under Burnside rules requires a man to be shifter on his feet than the old scrimmage game, there is more "buck and wing" work in the latter.

• • • •

The Hamilton Tigers are desperately anxious for a game with Varsity, and no wonder, for they can't be blamed for wanting to know which is the best team in Canada. They offered Varsity the entire gate receipts to play in Toronto next Saturday; but the students will play no more this year, so the Tigers will have to be satisfied with the answer of "no chance".

• • • •

In commenting on the different players of the Varsity team, champions of Canada, the Toronto Star says:—

A. W. McPherson, manager of the champions, hails from Peterborough. He has been playing rugby for about five years, and previous to that was a star Association player. He acted as captain of the team this year during Baldwin's absence. He is a clever all-round player, being especially shifty on his feet.

Frank Burnham, the centre scrimmager, is a Peterborough man. He was on the Peterborough team last year, and was a power at snap-back game. He has been playing the game for about five years. The players give him credit for playing a phenomenal game against Ottawa on Saturday.

• • • •

Mr. McPherson says he has quit the game for keeps. Exit one of the best half-backs that ever booted the pig-skin on a Canadian gridiron.

THE TURF.

Mr. Dan McEwan, London, Ont., will enter Texas Rooker, 2.05¼-0 in the Eastern circuit ice races. Here's a chance for the fast ones. There is always a lot of speculative gossip on the part of the turf followers and this winter the Eastern Ice Circuit railbirds have plenty of opportunity for comments and predictions.

• • • •

The "Horse World", Buffalo, has the following to say of interest to Peterborough turfmen:—

Mr. A. Rountree, the well-known secretary of the Peterborough, Ont., Turf Club, writes that the ice racing circuit this winter will be a record breaker for Canada. Port Perry will inaugurate the season the first week in January, followed by Lindsay, Peterborough, Belleville, Ottawa, and Montreal. The track at Peterborough has been flooded with water and is already in fair condition and horsemen are using the same before the lakes are frozen over. Peterborough is a splendid city, and visiting turfites are invited to locate there with their winter champions. Among the good old campaigners there are at present Dr. Johnson, H. Cook, J. O'Shea, R. H. Jackson, R. J. Munro, G. N. Graham, J. Clancy, M. Tooley, M. Connors, J. M. Brooks, J. B. Lahosque, Alex. Elliott, M. Henry, H. Neil, Wm. Leahy, P. J. Clunan, A. Dunn, J. Conroy, R. White, Steve Holland, W. J. Overend, T. Cavanagh, Geo. Lipsett, P. Horan, Geo. Brown, and other distinguished men.

• • • •

Horsemen in Canada and United States are of the opinion that Mr. N. Dyment struck a gold mine when he secured Kinleydale.

• • • •

The work on the Montreal Jockey Club track is rapidly progressing. With the exception of Belmont Park, it will be the finest in America. Everything will be in readiness for the opening meet next September.

• • • •

Atlantic, sire of Pinafore Girl, 2.11-4 dam of Gradicator, the fast black stallion, owned by Mr. A. Rountree, brought fifty thousand at the recent Faisg-Tipton sale, Madison Square Gardens, New York. If Gradicator possesses any of the speed of his worthy grandsire he should make good on the turf.

• • • •

Expelled and Gradicator were given a stiff workout on the small sod track at the Exhibition Grounds, yesterday, by Messrs. Cooke and Lipsett respectively. The track is in good shape and the sod is much preferable to the frozen mud.

• • • •

New York, Nov. 29.—The Rancho del Paso Stock—James B. Haggin's $1,250,000 worth of thoroughbred brood mares, yearlings, fillies, and stallions—after a 4,000 mile journey in palace horse cars, with running water and gas illumination, yesterday unloaded at the foot of West Thirty-sixth street.

This shipment of horses, 524 head, is the biggest ever made. The cost of transportation, exclusive of the equine commissary, and the wages of three score of attendants, was $48,000.

The stud is chiefly made up of brood mares, there being 464 dams of American race horses on the train. In addition there were 17 yearlings, 27 fillies and 20 stallions the latter being on the last section of the train which gets in this afternoon.

• • • •

The ice races of the Peterborough Turf Club this winter will mark an epoch in Peterborough racing circles. Many of the fastest horses in Canada will probably be entered and the meet will be a summer. The races of the whole circuit promise to be most successful and a good many thousands will probably change hands. Just keep your eye on a few from Peterborough. The only thing troubling horsemen is the great uncertainty of the coming weather.

• • • •

Nat Ray nephew of Mr. Sam Ray, the popular local tobacconist, may be in Toronto this week. He has a couple of fast horses that he will probably enter in the Canadian Ice races. Nat will probably take a run down to Peterborough as he's very fond of "Uncle Sam" and seeing that Nat is a true Canadian this may be said without ambiguity.

• • • •

A despatch from New York says:—"Joseph S. Seagram, M. P., of Toronto, and Thomas Sexton, the new owner of Ostrich, get sore every time they think of Kinleydale, the high-priced two-year-old of the Paget string who was knocked down to Nat Dyment at Aqueduct, says the Telegraph. "I wanted Kinleydale badly", Mr. Seagram said last night at the Williard, in conversation with Phil Dwyer, the boss of the Brooklyn and Aqueduct tracks, who is here enjoying a well-earned vacation.

"I did not intend to bid more than $8,000 on him when I went to the sale, but I might have gone to $12,000 if I had thought it possible to get him at that price.

"I did not go beyond $31,000 because I realized that I could not get him at any price within reason. I verily believe that Mr. Dyment would have paid $20,000 for the colt. He come all the way from Canada to try the colt, and I saw determination written all over his face when he took up the bidding. I know Mr. Dyment, too well to attempt to buck against him in such a matter when his mind is made up. His purse is larger than mine.

"I like Kinleydale because of the breeding and conformation. There is no finer stallion blood than that of Isonomy, Sterling and Oxford, which he inherits, through Kinley Mack, and his dam Bernedale was bred in the purple. If I had got him, and if he had turned out a good race horse, he would be very valuable to me as a stud proposition. I am as keenly interested in breeding, you know, as I am in racing. I do not think there can be a doubt about his making a good race horse, either. He has run this season like a horse that will travel fast and far. He will go the Cup and Derby distances to a certainty.

"There cannot be a doubt on that score," replied Mr. Dwyer. "There was no more desirable two-yearold in the market this fall. I have always admired Kinleydale. He is just the least bit rasty, but he will get over that. He is a high-strung young horse. Age and experience will settle him down. Unless I am a poor judge, Kinleydale will easily outrace his former stable companion, Jacobite. He will go further. I do not call him a first-class horse, exactly, but outside of Burgomaster and Mohawk II. and Ormondale and Perverse, I am not sure that any of us can pick a coming three-yeanold that will beat him. His two-year-old record is quite as brilliant as was that of his sire, and you know what a great horse Kinley Mack became. I would feel pretty well satisfied if Kinleydale was eating my oats this winter."

BASEBALL.

A meeting of the Charlotte Street Guild Baseball team is called for tonight in the Charlotte Street School room. The team will rehearse for the game with St. John's to be presented in tableau form, at the coming concert of the Guild.

BASKET BALL.

On Saturday night there will be a fast game at the Y.M.C.A. when at 8.45 the Harriers will play the Tongolas, of Toronto. This team is one of the best in the Queen City and will give the locals a good game. At 7.45 there will be a game between two junior teams and the admission for the two games will be two tickets for 25c.

John O'Donnell, M.P., who is now serving a three months' term for a speech delivered at Irishtown, has suffered the mortification of losing his "recess allowance" from the funds of the United Irish League, according to the report of a meeting of the Ballinrobe, county Mayo, board of guardians. The guardians have made a strong protest against the "harsh treatment." Mr. O'Donnell, M.P., is a supporter of the policy of Mr. William O'Brien, which is said to explain the withdrawal of his allowance.

BE READY FOR CROUP

AND INSIST ON HAVING THE TIME TESTED MEDICINES.

It is not a question of whether you will need a treatment for coughs, colds and croup in your homes, but the question is will you select the most effective medicine or simply be satisfied to take whatever your druggist happens to hand out to you?

Time and experience have proven that you can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at all times.

It is only necessary to remember this when the critical time comes and to insist on getting what you ask for.

Should you have children that are subject to croup you had better keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house for when the choking spasm comes on there is little time to send for doctor or medicine.

It seems scarcely necessary to dwell on the merits of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, etc. Most of us have known it from childhood up. It is almost as familiar as Dr. Chase's Receipt Book.

Mr. G. N. Morrison, 31 Fuller-street, Toronto, Ont., writes:

"Gentlemen, — If it should be of satisfaction to you to know (as it certainly has been to me in the past) permit me to say that I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in my family for years, and have found it from experience to be the best cough medicine. I suppose that I have used eight bottles this past winter; my children will have nothing else, and the best of results invariably ensue. I have also recommended it strongly. If this unsolicited testimonial be of any service to you the pleasure is mine in transmitting it."

Being pleasant to the taste, it is readily taken by the children. Because it brings quick relief to the suffering from asthma, bronchitis, whooping cough, and all the more serious disease of the throat and lungs, it is invaluable as a household medicine. 25 cents a bottle at all dealers.

Revolution Ensign Is Taken Down

Mutineers Routed and Fleet Surrenders After Battle.

SEBASTOPOL BOMBARDED

Cruiser Otchakoff, Rebels' Flagship, a Burning Wreck—Report at St. Petersburg of Complete Victory of Loyal Troops Over Mutineers—Cossacks Give Battle in St. Petersburg—Telegraphers.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Sebastopol yesterday was the scene of a desperate battle between the mutinous sailors and the troops in the forts on shore. During the battle the town and forts were bombarded by the guns of the cruiser Otchakoff, which now lies a burning wreck off Admiralty Point, its hull riddled with shells and its flaunting red ensign of revolution hauled down. Many of the crew of the Otchakoff were killed or wounded.

Revolutionists Begin It.

According to the most detailed report received and purporting to come from the Admiralty, the battle began at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Lieut. Schmidt, not receiving a reply to the demands of the mutineers, opened fire on a fleet of 10 ships, to which the northern batteries of Fort Alexander artillery posted on the shore and several vessels which remained loyal replied.

During the naval battle the sailors on the shore, entrenched in the barracks, defended their position with machine guns and rifles against the attacking infantry. After an engagement lasting two and a half hours, with the Otchakoff riddled and on fire, and the cruiser Dneiper and another vessel sunk, Lieut. Schmidt, who had been badly wounded, surrendered the entire squadron. The mutinous sailors on shore surrendered to the Brest and Bielostock regiments.

According to this report the Panteleimon, formerly the Kniaz Potemkine, was injured below the water line, and a torpedo boat is ashore on the rocks.

No details of the casualties or the damage sustained by the town are obtainable by the Admiralty, but owing to confined space in which the battle was fought it is improbable that the town escaped without heavy damage.

The demands of the mutineers are said to have included besides the 15 proposals dealing with the service conditions the convocation of a constituent assembly and the complete realization of liberties promised by the Imperial manifesto.

COSSACKS GIVE BATTLE.

Government Attacks Soldiers Wearing Its Uniform With Some Success.

Autocracy early yesterday morning began its death struggle with revolution by hurling such regiments as remained loyal to it against the army patriots entrenched in buildings connected with one of its favorite institutions. The attack developed into a battle that showed not only the preparedness of the insurgents, but their determination to withstand tyranny at all points and to shoot down their own comrades if those comrades remained the lackeys of the bureaucrats. Six regiments of Cossacks and other guards were employed in the assault on the mutinous soldiers.

The mutineers held several buildings belonging to the Military School of Electricity and were well provided with ammunition and supplies. They made a stubborn resistance, and had not a detachment of them commanded by a revolutionary officer lacking experience adequate to such daring work made an ill-advised sortie. It is believed they would have maintained their entire position until reinforced by revolutionists from other points. As it was, the survivors of the detachment making the sortie, as well as several score of mutineers driven from another building by the concentrated fire of five or six Cossack batteries, were captured. They were rushed to the fortress of St Peter and St. Paul, and the guards of that stronghold were augmented by several sotnias of Cossack cavalry.

No one supposed the Government would so far expose its fear as to make a physical attack on soldiers wearing its uniform and still ostensibly loyal to the Czar.

Inspired, it is believed, by Count Witte, the War Department Tuesday night privately massed all trustworthy regiments of the local garrison at a point within a half mile of the school, and shortly before midnight moved its troops against the mutineers. It was assumed the army insurgents would be unprepared for a night attack, and that the whole force could be captured and shot down with comparative ease.

But the mutineers must have suspected such intention on the part of their superiors, for hardly had the first battalion of Cossacks debouched on the school grounds when it was challenged by several sentries. A satisfactory answer not being forthcoming shots were fired, and in a few minutes the soldiers of the school fully dressed and bearing arms, poured out of the building and formed on the defensive.

Bombarded For 20 Minutes.

The Cossack batteries trained their guns on the buildings and the bombardment lasted twenty minutes, without apparent result, though there could be little doubt that the artillery was raking the defences of the school troops with fearful effect. All that time the mutineers maintained their fire, the attacking regiments, though protected in part by the wall, suffered severely.

It is believed that, when news of the fight spreads to other parts of the army, the general military revolt long feared by the bureaucrats will break forth.

The attack is regarded as perhaps the most foolhardy step the Government could have taken in this stage of the revolutionary movement.

A NEWS TIE-UP.

Telegraphers on Strike—Crisis Precipitated by Government's Action.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—The situation has again suddenly grown exceedingly grave. The Russian capital is shut off from telegraphic communication with the interior. The pan-Russian strike of the telegraph operators declared Tuesday has gone into operation, in protest against the alleged unwarranted arrest of the members of the Peasants' Congress at Moscow and also calling on the people to compel the employers of St. Petersburg, who locked out 70,000 men to open their doors.

The telegraph strike draws an impenetrable curtain between the capital and the provinces, which in such a crisis renders the position of the Government almost desperate, as being in constant and instant touch with the military and local authorities in the interior is imperative.

If the telegraph strike can be maintained the Government will be compelled to grope blindly in the dark. The employes of the office here have not yet struck, but are expected to walk out to-day. Only two lines are working out of St. Petersburg. Telephonic messages from Moscow, which are momentarily expected to stop, say that the operators on the Siberian lines and on all the lines south, north and east of Moscow have struck. Communication with Sebastopol and Odessa has ceased. The operators on the lines throughout the Baltic provinces have also struck.

Circular Started It.

The telegraphers' strike is the direct outgrowth of the Government's circular prohibiting telegraph operators from joining a union, which prohibition is attributed to M. Durnovo, Minister of the Interior, for whose removal from office the Radicals are vigorously working.

The Minister recently summarily discharged the leaders of the Moscow union and yesterday their colleagues sent a twelve-hour ultimatum to M. Durnovo and Premier Witte, demanding the reinstatement of the dismissed men and the withdrawal of the obnoxious circular. No answer being forthcoming at the specified time, the strike was declared. The telegraphers of Moscow after leaving their keys held a meeting in an adjoining building and upon the appearance of the police and troops sent to break up the meeting they declared firmly that they would not disperse even if the authorities used force.

No Wires Working.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—The Imperial post-office announces that all telegraph communication with Russia has been interrupted since noon yesterday.

Vienna Cut Off.

Vienna, Nov. 30.—Vienna is cut off from communication with Russia, except by way of Cracow, Galicia, and thence by mail.

Father Gapon In Hiding.

St Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Father Gapon is here in hiding. In an interview yesterday he expressed the opinion that the revolutionary leaders were making a tactical mistake which he made before Jan. 22 of preaching an armed rebellion, a democratic republic and an immediate eight-hour day. He added that his residence abroad had opened his eyes. Time was necessary to realizes the socialistic ideals.

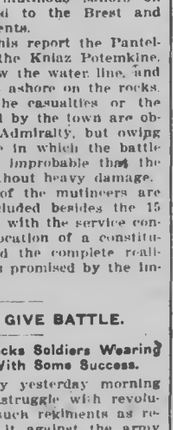
DANGER SIGNALS.

No engineer would be mad enough to run by the flag which signaled danger. It is different with the average man or woman. They attempt constantly to run by the danger signals of Nature and that attempt costs thousands of lives every year. When the appetite becomes irregular or entirely gives out, when sleep is troubled and broken, when there is a constant feeling of dullness and languor, Nature is hoisting the danger signal. The stomach and its allied organs are failing in their work and the body is losing the nutrition on which its strength depends.



Such a condition calls for a prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the body with sound, solid flesh.

"I have had so much benefit from your medicines am glad to say a few words that you may use for publication." writes Mrs. J. R. Downes, Crystal Lake, Conn. "Had been troubled with a complication of diseases for over two years, but kidneys and liver bothered me most. Some of my worst ailments were headache, frequent pains around heart and under right shoulder-blade. My hands and feet were cold nearly all the time, and I had such chilliness between shoulders. Some days cared but little for food; I lost flesh; felt so tired and miserable it seemed I couldn't do any housework. Took medicine from my physician but received no benefit. Bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after taking it I felt so much better we determined to give it a fair trial. Appetite soon improved and gradually the disorders disappeared until now I am well."

Large Number Of Wrecks On Lake Superior

Ten Ships Strew the Shores of the Upper Lake.

ELEVEN LIVES WERE LOST

Fate of Steamer Matasfa—Nine of Her Crew Perished From Exposure—Nineteen Vessels Reported at Chicago as Wrecked—Million Dollars' Damage on Lake Superior—Boy Dies of Exposure.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Reports received yesterday show that 19 vessels were wrecked in the storm which swept over the great lakes Monday night and Tuesday. Several lives are known to have been lost, and it is feared many others have perished as a result of the storm. Six vessels are reported missing.

DEATH ROSTER IS 11.

Money Loss of Over $1,000,000 on Lake Superior.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 30.—Eleven lives were lost and ten shipwrecks constitute the net results of the storm of the last two days on Lake Superior. Of the wrecks, those of the steamer Matasfa, Crescent City, Edinboro and Lafayette seem to be total. In addition the Elwood sank in Duluth harbor, the barge Manila in tow of the Lafayette was beached near Two Harbors, the steamer W. R. England and the Bransford were stranded, while the barges Madiera and Constitution are missing.

The stranding of the Bransford on Isle Royale was not serious, the ship escaping with a puncture in the forward compartment and reaching Duluth. The Maderia was in tow of the Edinboro. The Constitution was in tow of the steamer Victory. The Constitution is owned by Pickands, Mather & Co. The Bransford is a Hapgood boat. The W. R. England is an England Transit boat. All the other boats named belong to the Pittsburg Steamship Co.

Eleven Lives Lost.

A fireman on the Lafayette was drowned and the second assistant engineer of the Edinboro was lost, while nine members of the crew of the Matasfa were frozen to death or drowned.

President Coulby of the Pittsburg Steamship Co. arrived at midnight in a special train with wrecking apparatus, and an effort will be made to save some of the stranded boats. The storm has subsided. The loss to shipping will probably exceed $1,000,000.

The steel steamer Lafayette and the steel barge Manila went on the rocks on the mainland north of Encampment Island, nine miles from Two Harbors, Tuesday night. The crews of both boats, with the exception of a fireman, whose name is unknown, were saved.

Lafayette Broke In Two.

Lafayette broke in two as soon as she struck the rocks, but the two vessels were so close together that the men from the steamer, except the fireman, were able to jump to the Manila safely. The fireman slipped and fell into the water.

The Manila was so close to shore that the branches of several trees hung down over the deck. The sailors taking hold of the branches pulled themselves to land. They took shelter in fishing huts until relief reached them yesterday. The Manila probably will be saved. Both vessels were bound up Lake Superior light for iron ore.

Rosemount's Bad Plight.

Port Arthur, Nov. 30.—To float the Rosemount, which went aground at the mouth of the Kaministiquia River, it will be necessary to lighten her of a portion of her grain cargo. She is resting on a bottom covered with boulders and it would be dangerous to pull on her. It was said that the plates heave sprung and that she is leaking and the grain damaged.

Boy Dies of Exposure.

Little Current, Ont., Nov. 30.—The Tug Edna Ivan left Meldrum Bay Monday night with the schooner George Penman, loaded with wood in tow for Gore Bay. The Penman broke her tow line, and the tug was unable to pick her up in the blinding snowstorm. The schooner was left at anchor near Cape Roberts with two men, George Burns and Jas. Butchard, and a boy, Alex. Connor. In the meantime the schooner sunk as far as the deck, dragged anchor and drifted to Cockburn Island a distance of twenty-five miles. When picked up at 8.30 yesterday morning by the tug Edna Ivan, Alex. Connor was found dead from exposure, Burns suffering severely with cold but Butchard apparently unhurt.

498-511 GEORGE STREET, - - PETERBOROUGH

THE SURRENDER IN QUEEN'S PARK.

Mr. Whitney's explanation of the Government's reasons for dismissing the Chief Inspector of Licenses for Toronto is weak and unsatisfactory to the last degree. In this case Mr. Whitney has not had "courage enough to be bold." Nor do we think he can have much respect for the statement which he has sent out to the public.

No one denies that the Government is responsible for the license officials. That responsibility was not challenged by the License Board. The point is not at issue in the controversy.

The facts simply are that these citizens who hold at least in reasonable measure the respect of the community were asked to assume the office of License Commissioners and to perform very arduous and unpleasant duties. They were told that it was the policy of the Government to have a thorough and non-partisan enforcement of the liquor law, and that they intended to retain the Chief Inspector in office. The intention of the Government to retain the Chief Inspector was even stated on the floor of the Legislature by the Premier and the Provincial Secretary. This was satisfactory to the Commissioners and on this understanding they have proceeded for six or eight months.

But summarily, absolutely without intimation, without any sign of the courtesy which should obtain between gentlemen, the Chief Inspector was removed, and a new set of license officials appointed.

The Chief Inspector who has been dismissed performed his duties to the satisfaction of the License Board, and we believe to the satisfaction of the Government; at least no charge has been made against his character or his administration.

There is no doubt that the Government intended that he should continue in office. But this was not satisfactory to a certain element of the liquor party, nor to the spoils element of the Conservative party. United, they bludgeoned the Government into submission, and forced Mr. Whitney to dismiss him.

It will not be doubted that under Hastings and the Commission that has just resigned the law was being well enforced and was being enforced in a thoroughly non-partisan spirit. This led to complaints from Conservative members, from Conservative ward workers, and from Conservative hotelkeepers who were persistent violators of the law, that they could receive no consideration from the Commissioners and were not treated as faithful members of the Conservative party should be treated.

Every ward worker who desired to use the license machinery for personal and partizan purposes, and every hotelkeeper who desired to use party influence in order to protect himself against the consequences of violation of the law, demanded the dismissal of the Inspector and cursed the License Board.

To this element the Government has surrendered, and it is useless for Mr. Whitney to offer any other explanation for Mr. Hastings' dismissal and the resignation of the Board than is here stated.

Further, we do not believe that any License Board can secure efficient enforcement of the law through license officials selected by party ward organizations and who, through the very circumstances of their appointment, will be expected to be primarily concerned for the interests of the ward organizations and the party interests of the Government.

The action of the Government in dismissing Mr. Hastings at the demand of the machine element of the party, when it had determined upon its retention, is an intimation to License Boards and license officials throughout the whole Province that the enforcement of the law is secondary to the interests of the Conservative party, and that when its enforcement inconveniences Conservative hotelkeepers and threatens party interests, the officials must halt, and the party interests be protected a tall hazards.

Altogether the Government's surrender is as pitiful and is surrounded by as humiliating circumstances as can well be imagined and must grievously disappoint thousands of the people of Ontario, both Liberals and Conservatives, who had developed exceptional confidence in Mr. Whitney, and were more than satisfied with the Government's record during the period that it has held office.

No Government ever came into office under more hopeful conditions. It has to be said also that thus far Mr. Whitney and his associates have received exceptionally good treatment from the Liberal press throughout the Province. Their surrender, therefore, to the machine element, was as needless as it is unfortunate from every good standpoint, and the incident must greatly affect the public attitude towards the Administration.—Toronto News.

A Brantford Deputation Visits the City

To Inspect the Work and Working of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company—System Inspected—Favourable Opinion of Mayor Waterous—Delighted With Construction Work.

VISITORS AND VISITED MUTUALLY PLEASED

A deputation or party of Brantford citizens are in the city to-day the object of their visit being to investigate the merits and workings of the system of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company recently installed in this city and it is a pleasure to state that the opinion of the visitors so far as could be got, at so early a stage of the day, are very favourable.

The deputation consists of the following gentlemen:—

Mayor Waterous, Ald. Harris, Montgomary, Deitch, Sudaby, Muir, Hartley, Schultz, Robertson, Currey, Waddington, Lyle, Andrews, Pitcher, and Messrs. J. B. Detweiler, T. B. Costin, E. L. Good, E. Hart, MePherson and A. Brumley.

This morning the deputation were shown over the system, and investigated its working. Mr. C. H. Waterour, Mayor of Brantford, was afterwards seen by the Examiner and asked as to their impressions of the system he heartily concurred. He was said that so far as he had heard opinions expressed they were extremely favourable, and in these opinion he heartily concurred. He was delighted with the plant, as a whole and as a civic official was particularly pleased with the manner in which the street work had been done.

Asked as to the manner in which an application on the part of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company for a franchise in Brantford, would be received, Mayor Waterous said that the chances of its being favourably entertained were good. In addition to the intrinsic merits of the machine telephone system, sentimental and financial reasons would exert a favourable influence. The machine telephone was a Brantford invention and on this account the city had, to this extent, a proprietary interest in it. Besides many Brantford citizens were financially interested in the Company. Then another potent element in regard to the favourable reception of a request of the Machine Company for a franchise was the decided partiality of the city authorities towards an independent telephone service. It was to be remembered that on three occasions — one within the past two months—the city of Brantford had refused the application of the Bell Telephone Company for an exclusive telephone franchise, under the feeling that opportunity might be afforded to treat with an independent company. Mr. Waterous concluded the interview with a reiteration of his appreciation of the splendid construction work of the Machine Company in Peterborough. He was also kind enough to add that he was also very well pleased with Peterborough. It was a nice city, and though having a less population than Brantford, Peterborough possessed many advantages which he would be glad to have for his own city. No doubt Mayor Waterous' good opinion of the city will have improved before he and his party leave for home—when he and they have shared our hospitality—they were entertained at luncheon at McCallum's—and seen the city thoroughly as they will do this afternoon, when they will be driven to the chief of our industries—the electric works, the Cereal Companies, etc., and the lift lock.

Hole in Chimney Cause of Fire

Considerable Loss by Fire Sustained by Mr. H. Rush.

The home of Mr. H. Rush, 31 Brock street, was the scene of a disastrous conflagration this afternoon. The blaze spread very rapidly, but was quelled about two o'clock by the fire brigade after over an hour's hard work.

Between nine and ten o'clock this morning the chimney at the back of the house was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was sent in, but when the firemen arrived Mr. Rush informed them that their services were not needed, and they returned to their quarters under the impression that the fire was out. And it, apparently, was; but about a quarter to one the flames started afresh, and it was only after considerable hard work on the part of the firemen that they were subdued.

Mr. Rush's residence is double roofed, and between the two roofs is a hole in the chimney. The sparks coming up the chimney escaped through this opening, hence the blaze.

The piano and several valuable articles which were in the front part of the house, or which were removed there by the firemen, were saved, but considerable damage was done by fire and water.

Mr. Rush informed the Examiner that he did not know yet the amount of damage done to his property.

TARIFF COMMISSION CLOSED

LAST NIGHT AFTER HEARING MANY REPRESENTATIONS

Victoria County Farmers Request a Tariff for Revenue Only---Representations by a Number of Local Manufacturing Concerns ---Commissioners Left Last Night for Ottawa and Will Return to the West---Manufacturers Generally Do Not Ask Duties Increased But Lay Considerable Emphasis on a Provision to Prevent "Dumping."

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon sederunt yesterday of the Tariff Commissioners, opened at 2.30 o'clock, at the city council chamber.

A large number of representations from manufacturers, were heard during the course of the afternoon, including many from outside points.

A feature of the afternoon was the representation made by a deputation of Victoria county farmers, who submitted a resolution, requesting the appointment of a parmanent Tariff Commission, which was passed at a meeting held in Lindsay on Tuesday last.

A considerable proportion of the time, both in the morning and in the afternoon, was devoted to the hearing of the requests of the agricultural interests represented. These were all practically to the same effect — the lowering of the tariff to a revenue basis.

Local firms who were represented yesterday afternoon were: Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, the Canadian Corduge Company, and the Colonial Weaving Company.

Mr. D. D. Rogers, ex-M.P., of Frontenac County, stated that the farmers of his county had hoped that the Commission would visit Kingston. He wished to reiterate representations made by the previous Commission. The duty on agricultural implements was a burden upon the farmer. The duty on the implements upon his farm, which were valued at about $1,900, amounted to twenty-five per cent. A list of the implements upon his farm of 150 acres of tillable land, with respective cost, was read by the speaker. He did not ask for free trade, but for a tariff for revenue only. The difficulties presented by competition with cheap foreign labour were pointed to by the speaker. What proportion of the farm products of Canada go abroad? inquired Mr. Patterson.

About one-third, the speaker thought. He argued that the products consumed at home were, however, affected by the conditions spoken of. Mr. Rogers then referred to the question of protection, in which, he claimed, a great revulsion of feeling had occurred in the United States.

"It has not shown itself in the elections," said Mr. Patterson.

The speaker continued with a vigorous attack upon the combines and trusts.

In reply to a question by Mr. Brodeur if he could not see that advantages might result from a tariff upon certain lines of agricultural products, Mr. Rogers said that he could not. He felt that if the Government had the best interests of the farmers at heart, the duty would not be increased.

Mr. John A. Wilmot, president of the Farmers' Institute of Frontenac county, stated that the majority of the farmers of that county felt that they would not be benefitted by protection. They felt that if a revision were made it should be in the direction of lowering the tariff. He felt if the Government wished to keep the duty upon sugar for the benefit of two or three counties in western Ontario——

Mr. Fielding—But we yesterday had a deputation representing 18 counties — the largest deputation of farmers which we have yet had, in favour of the beet sugar industry.

Mr. Wilmot, continuing, said that he did not wish to see any duty placed upon binder twine. After examination of conditions he had found that the farmers who were making money were the farmers who were doing their own work.

Mr. Fielding—But your own wages should be taken into account.

The speaker contended, amid laughter, that were this done the profits would be so small that he would have to abandon book keeping. He intimated that deducting the cost of personal labour, the interest upon the capital invested in his farm was not above two per cent.

Mr. Lott said that upon a farm worth $18,000, of 250 acres, with 4 working men in the family, the net proceeds had been in four years $4,130, by actual computation. During the past season, the produce on the farm mentioned, above the produce of hogs and milk, had been large and grass had been good. The price of farm land, Mr. Lott claimed, had been declining.

County Council To Grant $150

At the meeting of the Committee on Finance of the County Council this morning, the question of the grant to the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association was discussed and it was decided to recommend to the Council that $150 be given to assist the Association in paying the expenses of the convention.

The City Council will, in all probability make a similar grant to the Association.

Street Railway Skating Rink Is Now Complete

New Rink and Toboggan Slide Will be Ready for Use in the Course of a Few Days—Cafe, Waiting Rooms and Band Room are Now Finished—Slide Will be 1000 Feet in Length--Rink Contains 18,000 Square Feet of Ice.

ACCOMMODATIONS ARE EXCELLENT

Healthy out-door winter sport has always been a prominent feature of the life of the younger element of Peterborough population, and the coming winter season promises to furnish an even greater interest in the various forms of amusement along these lines. A new feature which will undoubtedly be a large factor in adding to out door enjoyment will be the new skating rink erected by the Street Railway Co. at Jackson Park.

The new rink, which is situated inside the loop at the end of the car line at the entrance to the park, will comprise an aggregate ice area of 18,000 square feet. It is now practically ready for the opening of the skating season. A good foundation is being made and the rink flooded, and if present cold weather continues the ice surface will be ready for use almost immediately.

The building, containing waiting rooms, cafe, and band room is now complete. It is a structure 20 x 75 feet in size, two storeys high in the centre. In the second storey is situated a room designed for use for supper parties as well as for the band. A caterer will remain at the rink continually, and refreshments may be procured. The ladies' and gentlemen's dressing rooms and waiting rooms have also been completed.

The Toboggan slide is situated just east of the rink and will run to the north east. It is 1,000 feet in length.

A livery of 40 toboggans will be conducted upon the premises, and these will be for rent at the rate of 10c per hour. But the rink and the slide will be free to purchasers of Street Railway tickets for the trip out. It may be used by parties with their own toboggans. It is probable that both rink and slide will be in full operation in the course of a few days.

STREET RAILWAY NOTICE.

After Saturday December 2nd., the car running to the Canadian General Works, will run from Corner of George and Charlotte Streets to Canadian General Works, all day, except at 7 a. m., 12 p. m. and 6 p. m. when it will go from the Works up to Smith Street. This will give a fifteen minutes service all day on this Line.

Anchor Ice Played "Hob" With Lights

Power Houses Tied Up Last Night—No Water in the Forebay at the New Power House —Car Service Was Demoralized—Racks at No. 3 Dam Were Carried Away--"Frazie" Was the Cause—Sudden Cold Snap.

EVERYTHING RUNNING SMOOTHLY TO-DAY

"What's the matter with my lights?" was a question asked the clerks at the Peterborough Light and Power Company's office a good many times last night, and the same question was asked in reference to the street car service.

The fault was not with the company, however. "Frazie," or anchor ice, as it is more commonly called, was the cause of the whole trouble. With the sudden fall in temperature recorded yesterday afternoon the loose particles of ice became formed and the racks at the forebay were clogged. Despite the most strenuous efforts to keep it clear, the rack at the power house of the Power Company, became packed with the ice and this prevented any water from going through to the wheels, the forebay being perfectly dry. At the Auburn dam, from which power to operate the cars is generated, the same conditions prevailed, and, as a result, the service was demoralized. At the old power house the condition was not quite so bad, and the lights were run from there. Later in the evening the racks were cleared and the wheels started again, and by midnight the lights were as good as ever.

At No. 3 dam, the Lakefield Portland Cement Company experienced great difficulty, and their rack was carried away, the weight of the ice breaking it from its support.

The Nassau Power House also had its trouble, and last night the plant was practically closed down. This morning a force of men was sent up from the works to clear away the ice and they succeeded in getting the water running freely again.

This trouble will, it is expected, not occur again when the river has been frozen over, and it is probable that during the whole of the winter such a trouble will not be experienced again.

In Ottawa the situation was worse even than it was here, and the lights were all out there, and the car service was stopped as well.

Mr. Fitzgerald Is Improving

Game Warden May be Removed Home in a Short Time.

Mr. Clarence Fitzgerald returned last night from Pembroke, where he went with his brother Percy, to see their father, who, as was reported a few days ago, had been stricken with paralysis. He stated that he was recovering satisfactorily, and hopes were entertained that he would be well enough to be removed home in the course of a couple of weeks. He is able to talk, and can use his leg some, but the arm is yet almost useless. The physician states, however, that he has strong hopes that in a short time he will have the full use of his members.

Subject Was: "The Making Of a Nation"

Mr. J. A. McDonald, Editor of Toronto Globe, Delivers an Interesting St. Andrew's Night Address—Subject Treated in a Comprehensive Manner and With Scholarly Finish—Pleasing Musical Selections Were Contributed.

MR. T. E. BRADBURN, M.P.P. OCCUPIED THE CHAIR

Comprehensive in its scope, and treated with a discrimination born of a close observance of present-day social and political conditions, was the address delivered last night at St. Andrew's church by Mr. J. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe. Upon the subject, "The Making of a Nation," were brought to bear the keen analytical faculties and breadth of information of the speaker, and the result, as might naturally be expected, was a forceful presentation of a most instructive address. In dealing with his subject, Mr. McDonald held uppermost throughout the higher elements of successful national progress, the healthy and substantial, commercial and moral growth, resulting from a true regard for the ethical responsibilities of the individual citizen. The undesirable conditions which accompany a disregard for the principles of democracy were roundly scored. The first portion of the address was devoted largely to a comprehensive presentation of the dangers threatening the social and political life of a young nation, the speaker concluding by pointing out no less clearly the safeguards which tend toward the preservation of the highest ideals of citizenship and a satisfatory national progress. The many counter St. Andrew's night attractions in the city interfered, to some extent, with the attendance, but the audience was a most representative one, and listened with close attention and profit to the remarks of the speaker. The chair was occupied by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Mr. McDonald, in his opening remarks, spoke in optimistic terms of the wide area and ample scope afforded in Canada for the building of a new nation, as which we may now regard ourselves.

The facts which were embodied in the making up of a nation were treated upon. The first to engage the speaker's attention were the physical facts—the great woodland, and the wide expanse of farming territory. We must also, he continued, consider the commercial fact in the making of a successful agricultural and commercial nation. The social and the political were also essential facts.

In our land we are beset by the external condition. In our size and natural wealth of material big things, which are so greatly glorifiee in the present day, we are in danger of forgetting what history has to teach us—that the men and the movements for what is best and most enduring have come from the countries of small area, where personal character rules. We must be upon our guard against materialistic and external standards of the nation.

The dangers in sectionalism, the divisions in race and creed, class; and the universally prevalent capital and labour strife were pointed out.

A third danger which grows with the increase of population is that of political power without political intelligence. If we are to enjoy the advantages of political power in its democratic significance we must accept the responsibility which attaches to the condition. When the power of the monarch as extended to the people in a universal franchise it creates a danger. The right to vote pre-supposes intelligence and conscience in the voter.

There is a disregard upon the part of the intelligent, observed the speaker, of their political opportunity. The prevalent graft and political corruption were denounced in scathing terms. Turning his attention to another class of people—those who are frequently heard to express a complete disregard as to current political events—the speaker gave expression to the opinion that they were more culpable and more contemptible in not accepting their responsibilities than the lowest class of political heeler. To those dangers must be added the immense growth of corporation influence, exerted upon every hand by "lobbyists" representing organized co-operation. Every piece of legislation which creates a class advantage is a blow to the life of a nation.

The leading politicians of this country, the speaker charged, have abdicated the leadership which belongs to political parties, and have neglected the political education of the people, this duty having devolved upon the press. There is hope for higher ideals if the press is free. What is the power behind the press, is one of the most important questions in connection with the life of a nation. In the Republic to the south and in England, great corporation interests own and control many great and powerful organs. And by the means has an opiate been frequently administered to public opinion.

Another great danger is a dull acquiescence in things as they are—the attitude of mind which sees some sinister motive in every word or deed, and with an absence of hope for the attainment of a higher moral condition. Hope is essential in the making of a great nation. The truest service in the life of a nation comes from a higher motive than a desired self.

The speaker next passed on to briefly discuss the safeguards and defence of a young nation. A chief source of strength to Canada lies in the institutions and ideals of the Old Land. Another source of strength lies in the education in the schools and in the homes of the land—what the homes and the schools are is what the nation will be. Public opinion is another strong defence against impending danger. Parliament is one of the channels through which public opinion speaks. But its organ of expression is the press. Intelligent, responsible and free, the prerogative of the press in democracy is just as inviolable and just as inalienable as that of Parliament. There is no instrument which stands to-day with so large a responsibility, both to the people and to Parliament. If the law is defied and circumvented, and public interests thereby threatened it is the duty of the press to take all responsibility in order that public opinion may be informed and aroused. The press and the pulpit have more to do in creating the atmosphere of our land than any other two institutions, and in an awakened sense of political responsibility in the minds of our best citizens a further safeguard to the nation is created.

Speaking with regard to political conditions, Mr. McDonald expressed his belief that, in spite of all its defects, the party government was the best and most effective form. There should be an organized body of opinion both opposed to, and behind the Government. Nothing is more wholesome than independence outside the parties. Righteousness makes for the success of a political party, and the abuse of political opportunities shall surely bring a Nemesis. Ideals have made nations; doctrines have saved them. Political parties go down of necessity when they become untrue to their ideals.

In conclusion, the speaker urged that to-day there comes a call to each of us to do our part in the making up of the nation that is rising and is meant to shine, not only in the Empire, but in the world.

At the conclusion of the address a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the speaker on motion by Mr. W. Campbell, seconded by Mr. Peter Kerr.

"The Maple Leaf Forever" was rendered with charming effect by Miss Mary Rush. Miss Dalziel contributed two solos during the evening in good voice and with excellent expression. "McGregor's Gathering," by Mr. Gilbert Scott, was also much enjoyed, and in response to an encore, "Scots Wha Hae" was given in a manner which appealed strongly to the audience.

Mothers Are Helped

THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Happiness of Thousands of Women Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself.

The mother should not be blamed, as she no doubt is suffering with backache, headache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all disorders such as this letter describes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Being mother of five children, I have had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation and frequent flowing spells. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so, and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment, and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."—Mrs. Anna McKay, 326 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Ont.

The Brantford Aldermen Like Peterborough

Visitors Yesterday Were Loud in Their Praises of the Electric City—Telephone City and Local Aldermen Fraternize — Were Inspecting the Machine 'Phone With Which They Were Highly Pleased—Many Converts Were Secured —Visited Industries.

SOME OBSERVATIONS BY MAYOR WATEROUS

The Brantford aldermen left for home last night on the 5.15 C. P. R. train, and they were a highly pleased lot of men. They were most enthusiastic over the treatment they had received here, and were loud in their praises of the Machine Telephone, to inspect which was their object in coming to Peterborough.

As was stated yesterday, in the morning the visiting aldermen were taken by Mr. F. D. MacKay to the central office of the telephone company, where they inspected most minutely the equipment. To the majority of them it was a revelation, and they were not slow to express their admiration for the completeness of the system. They used the 'phones, and put them to every reasonable test, and although there were a number of straight out-and-out oppositionists on the deputation, they were apparently convinced of the efficiency of this system.

After the luncheon at McCallum's restaurant, the deputation was taken in hand by the Mayor and council and, to use their own words, they were given the time of their lives. The Lift Lock, of course, was one of the first points visited, and they were shown around that massive structure. They were greatly surprised at its magnitude, and the simplicity of its operation. Coming back they were taken through the American Ceral Works, through the kindness of Mr. W. H. Denham. The majority of the members of the Brantford council are men engaged in manufacturing so that their visits to the industries established here were of special interest to them. They were taken later to the Canadian General Electric Works, and Mr. R. E. Layfield, in the absence of Mr. Patterson, at the sitting of the Tariff Commission, conducted the visitors through a portion of these immense works, with which they were highly pleased. They congratulated the council on the fact that the city possessed such an institution, which they said would be a credit to any city, even Brantford.

Returning to the Oriental, a few minutes were spent in a social way, before the visitors left to catch their train.

Mayor Waterous was interviewed by the Examiner before he left, and he had no objection to speak with reference to his visit here. Speaking of the Machine 'phone he said he had long been a convert to its advantages, and was confirmed in his opinion that it was a complete success. He had used the telephone here and it had fully met his expectations. In reference to the city the Mayor showed the same eagerness to sing its praises. Brantford and Peterborough were boon companions in their march of progress, with the former slightly in the lead, but he agreed with the observation that Peterborough was coming fast on its trail. He was unable to understand just why Brantford had made such progress, in view of the fact that cheap power, Peterborough's boon, was denied that city.

Ald. Lyle and Muir were also spoken to in reference to their opinion of the Machine Telephone, and they both expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the work which it did. They had put it to every conceivable test, and it had demonstrated its ability to do all that was required.

Before they left the hotel three hearty cheers were given for the city of Peterborough, and promises were given that if the council of Peterborough ever visited Brantford they would be welcomed cordially, of which there is little doubt.

Leg Fractured In Two Places

This morning Dr. Crawford, C.P.R. physician, brought to the Nicholls Hospital, Mr. Frank Hooper, who sustained a compound fracture of the leg while working with a bridge gang at Havelock, for the C.P.R.

It appears that the ground caved in and pinned the man's right leg, fracturing both bones, between the knee and ankle, the ends of the fractured bones protruding through the flesh.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Mr. Whitney's Surrender To The Spoils Element

Opinions of Some Members of the Independent Press—A Surrender to the Demands of the Spoilsmen.

The following reproduction of the comments of independent journals, upon the incident of the dismissal of the Toronto license inspectors, shows with what reprobation the action is regarded:

AN UNPLEASANT INCIDENT.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The circumstances of the dismissal of the license inspectors of Toronto and the subsequent resignation of the commissioners are a bit discouraging. It is known—probably no one nowadays seriously disputes the fact—that under the Ross Administration the license machinery was used for party purposes, sometimes quietly, in many cases in the open. At first blush the cleaning out of the offices was plainly justifiable when Mr. Whitney came to power.

But in Toronto, the inspectors had served nine months after the election and had been undisturbed. More than that, they had evidently performed their duties to the satisfaction of the new commissioners, Messrs. Davidson, Flavelle and Murray. This was a commission composed of three well-known highly respected and conspicuously able business men, and supporters of the Whitney Government. They should have been the best judges as to the qualifications of the inspectors. Indeed, it would be a good general rule to make the commissioners everywhere the judges as to these qualifications.

As a protest against the dismissal of the inspectors, the Toronto commissioners have resigned, with the distinct declaration that the proposal to remove the inspectors is a direct reflection by the Government upon the work of the commissioners. The inspectors were Liberal appointees, some of them having held office for years. The commissioners were appointed by Mr. Whitney. Their resignation therefore is a notable protest against some evil which for the present is hidden.

It is said that the dismissals were made at the unanimous request of the Toronto members of the Legislature. It is to be hoped that Mr. Whitney will have some better explanation of the matter than the mere expression of his astonishment at the action of the commissioners. His colleague, Dr. Reaume, has laid down the principle that officials shall not be dismissed except for cause shown upon affidavit. This is a good principle, and if it has not been followed in Toronto, much disappointment must be felt by lovers of good government in Ontario.

MR. WHITNEY'S SURRENDER.

(Hamilton Herald.)

It is only two or three weeks ago that Premier Whitney gave a rather scornful answer to a certain element in his party which was demanding the heads of Liberal officials. "If you have any charges to make against any official," said Mr. Whitney, in effect, "formulate them and they will be investigated. If it be shown that the accused officials are guilty they will be dismissed."

That sounded like a defiance of the Tory champions of the spoils system, in whose eyes the fact that an office-holder is the appointee of a Liberal government is an offence sufficient in itself to warrant his dismissal. Mr. Whitney's words were regarded with deep satisfaction by the best elements in his own party and by all lovers of good government in this Province. Here was a man with a backbone, as well as high ideals, it was thought.

Alas for the sudden change! Mr. Whitney makes a flying visit to his old home, Morrisburg. During his brief absence the Toronto license inspectors are dismissed and two men nominated by the Tory machine in Toronto are appointed to succeed them. Disheartened and disgusted, the license commissioners appointed by the Whitney Government promptly resign, and, in a statement prepared for publication, they affirm that the action of the Government indicates an intention to put the license system on a party basis and make it an instrument of party interests—a course which they refuse to countenance. Back in haste comes Mr. Whitney, and in a public statement he expresses approval of the dismissal of the inspectors, and makes the pitiful plea that the Government didn't have to consult the commissioners with regard to the matter.

It is known that for months the Toronto machine, of which Beattie Nesbitt is the soul, has been demanding the dismissal of the Toronto license inspectors and the management of the license system on a party basis. For a time these demands were resisted. But the pressure grew stronger, and Mr. Whitney has yielded to the machine; that seems to be the bald truth. The plea that the dismissal of the inspectors was "in the public interest" will not serve. If it were necessary in the public interest it would not have taken the Government nine months to find it out. It is not charged that the inspectors have been influenced by partizanship in the discharge of their duties; indeed, the Conservative commissioners say they have not been. They enjoyed the complete confidence of the commissioners. The only reason why they were dismissed is evidently that they are not machine Tories, and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt and his henchmen want the license system in Toronto run by machine Tories.

In the Herald's judgment this episode will do an enormous amount of injury to the Conservative party in Ontario. It will certainly lower the prestige of the Government. It will stand as an evidence that the sonorous expressions of high principle uttered by the Premier and the Provincial Secretary were mere sound, not intended to be followed up by acts. And Mr. Whitney, from whom courage and honesty, so much has been expected, appears now as a politician who, whatever his instincts and aspirations may be, dare not do right in the face of difficulty.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM IN ONTARIO

(Montreal Herald.)

A curious situation has arisen in Toronto over the dismissal of the old liquor license inspectors, who received their appointments long ago from the Liberal Government, and the substitution of others, staunch Conservatives all. The Board of License Commissioners, all appointees of the Whitney Government, have resigned as a protest against this inauguration of the spoils system, and Toronto is once more in an uproar.

The curious part of it is that Mr. Whitney and his Cabinet have been getting rid of Liberal license inspectors all over the province, replacing them with Conservatives, and no word of protest was uttered until now, when the finishing stroke is given. Surely if there was no great harm in Mr. Whitney giving way to the office hunger of his followers outside Toronto, there can be no greater harm in yielding to the office hunger of his followers in Toronto. The one case is precisely like the other, and if there is any scandal, any menace to the public good, in substituting a partizan for a non-partizan administration of the license system, then the Whitney Government has been to blame ever since it attained office.

The fact seems to be that Mr. Whitney and his colleagues have decided with what, if any, degree of reluctance, does not appear, to humour their office-seeking friends, and apply the spoils system where they can. They evidently intend to apply pressure to the hotel trade for their own supposed party advantage. Mr. Flavelle and his friends are right to protest, of course, but why was the protest delayed so long? Everybody knew of what was being done all over Ontario by these people who fairly glowed with virtue and righteousness up to election day.

An Address On Brotherhood Of St. Andrew

Mr. N. Farren Davidson Spoke at St. John's Guild Room Last Night—Under the Auspices of the Brotherhood of the Church Work Achieved by That Organization- Its Humble Origin, Twelve Young Men Inaugurated It.

THE MOTTO IS PRAYER AND WORK

The meeting for men in St. John's Sunday School Room last night in connection with the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was largely attended and it was very much enjoyed by those gathered at the invitation of the Brotherhood to listen to the address by Mr. N. Farren Davidson, of Toronto.

The meeting opened with the Brotherhood Hymn "Jesus Calls us o'er the Tumult" followed by the usual service Mr. W. Harold Clutton occupied the chair and in introducing the speaker referred to the fact that the day was being celebrated in more than one way. One organization, he said, was feasting another had a concert, but they were celebrating it in the way the Brotherhood of St. Andrew should. He then spoke encouragingly of the work of the local chapter in this parish. He said it was encouraging to see the young men, who are coming forward to-day when the struggle that goes on in many of the young men's lives is known. He referred briefly to the impetus that had been given to the work in the parish and he hoped that they would work, not for themselves, or any men or society, but through the church for the cause of Him whose we are and Whom we serve.

The chairman in a few words spoke of the pleasure it was to welcome Mr. N. Farran Davidson, as an old personal friend of all in the parish.

Mr. Davidson in rising to speak thanked the chairman for his kind remarks. He spoke of the Ottawa convention and said that Rev. Mr. Lloyd in opening his remarks at the Mass Meeting there said he would need make no apology when he rose to speak in the name of his blessed Master and that put him immediately in touch with his audience and I am not going to do so", he remarked. We have, he said, been behind hand in speaking for our Master and advancing His work among men, whether in the junior or senior departments. The Gospel was spread in the earlier days of the church by the man to man touch, and not from the Scriptures, for they had none. This was how the Gospel spread at first. Jesus Christ came upon earth to give to men His Gospel and He gives us a message to pass it on to others. "We must awake and spread this Gospel". This is the pressure which the Bishops gave us a few weeks ago, and what has the Brotherhood of St. Andrew done in the past 21 years. I had the pleasure of attending the Chicago convention, and visiting the Crypt, where the great organization of which we are an integral part, was born.

Since 1883, in Canada it has made an impress upon the whole corporate life of the church, which cannot be measured by the number of Brotherhood men (who are members and it has transformed the life of the church, and has enabled the clergy to press the Gospel home to many in other lands. The church has been crying out for men to go forward in the work of the sacred ministry. It has given to the church Bishops. Just think of it, he said. The Right Rev. Mr. Edsall was the results of the influence of the work of the Brotherhood. He is now Bishop of Minnesota. His first services were held in the present St. Peter's Church, presided over by Rev. Mr. Dumoulin. The speaker then referred to the many results of the work of the Brotherhood. It was started by 12 young men nearly all under 19 years and the work was spread out of Chicago on foot. A young man walked out of Chicago and worked along the way and when he got to Philadelphia he would not let the rector rest until a chapter was started. This was the first chapter outside the place of its birth. The boys here present can do as much as those 12 young men, said he. They were earnest and worked to the best of their ability and that is all the Brotherhood expects.

As the members give you a cordial welcome on your arrival in any town is worth more than five or six weeks afterwards. The Chapters are all over and when any of your men move away all you have to do is to write to the head office and let him know where your friends are and they will be looked up and many cases can be spoken of where the Brotherhood has saved many young men. Infinite pains are being taken to follow up every man who is reported to us and if they do nothing more than this they are doing much. Its work is also extended to the hospitals, gaols, hotels, boarding houses and many other places. Speaking of the local work he showed how the systematic work done by the Brotherhood had given good results. And now let me give you some chapter work, he said. The great power of the Brotherhood work is the definition of it. The work must take a definite form.

He spoke of a Mr. Garrett, of St. Stephen's, who has only missed one Sunday since 1883 from the door of his parish church. He proceeded to show what a grand work Mr. Hubert Carleton is doing among the boys, who is now general secretary of the Junior Department of the Brotherhood.

The example of Mr. John Birmingham, who is now in Vancouver, B.C., and doing a grand work, was cited.

So could the results of many chapters throughout the land be enumerated and I could not tell you one tithe of what is being done and what you in the Chapters here in this town may do. The Brotherhood men and boys have your personal work. You have your discouragements and no work for Jesus Christ, is successful unless there are discouragements. The time will come when you will be called upon to some meeting you will have to give up something for the cause of Christ.

The rule of prayer and of service is the work of the Brotherhood, and a motto I will give you, "Touch the next man" and "Touch Him at the right time, the right place and the right church." Be persistant at your work that is the secret of the success of every great man in our country. What will make you the most happy is what you will do for somebody else. The religion of Jesus Christ has made many men through the agency of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is the only real organization for men in the Church of England and they promise definite work to be done, and you can be sure he said they are doing it. This work is a reality and is being done by very finest men throughout the country who are trying to pray, and make one honest effort each week to do their work.

Mr. G. H. Williamson, the secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, and the rector, Canon Davidson, also gave short addresses.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Davidson. It was seconded by Mr. Joseph Ball, after which the meeting closed.

A Problem Solved

Ozone is ozone and in buying it the problem is to get the purest form. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest form in which Ozone is put up In addition each bottle contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free, and it is well known that you should take "Celery King" along with Ozone.

We put "Celery King" coupons in our Ozone bottles because no other firm can give "Celery King" with Ozone. By buying "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" you get the purest and most concentrated form of Ozone, and in addition, you save the expense of buying "Celery King" to use with it.

No other kind of Ozone offers this advantage. Ask your druggist for it, and if he hasn't it, write to the Public Drug Company, Bridgeburg, Ont. Sold by W. B. WARNE.

A RED HERRING.

The Mail and Empire describes the protestations against the outrage in connection with license officials in Toronto, as "a scream from the machine"—the Liberal "machine" is indicated—which the organ says is sore "because certain of its favourites have been deprived of the opportunity of managing the policy of their opponents." Now, is the Toronto News, the fidus Achates of the Whitney Government, which heads the "scream," and is doing the very loudest "screaming," and which has been since its foundation, the uncompromising opponent of everything Liberal, which set itself to wreck the Ontario and the Liberal Governments — is the News to be described as part of the Liberal "machine?" Is the Toronto Telegram, which, in an article quoted in to-day's issue, makes the most vicious denunciation of the action of the Government, a part of the Liberal "machine?" Is the Ottawa Journal, an independent newspaper, whose editor was a candidate in Mr. Whitney's interest at the general elections, a part of the Liberal "machine?" Is the independent Hamilton Herald a cog in the mechanism? All of these journals denounce the spoils practice of the Whitney Government as exemplified in the discharge of efficient license inspectors, who stood in the way of brewers and distillers in retaining their profitable grip on the "tied" hotels, and in the appointment of a Conservative ward worker, who is supposed to have a great capacity for winking at the short comings and long hours of hotel keepers.

All sane and respectable public opinion denounces the spoils policy of the Whitney Government in the case in question. Prominent and self-respecting Conservatives in this city, and all over the country, are humiliated and disappointed at the fall of Hon. J. P. Whitney from the high ideals he has set, and his lapse from veracity involved in the disregard of his solemn promise made only three or four weeks ago, that no official would be dismissed without charge preferred, and investigation made. Mr. Whitney has declared that he is "bold enough to be honest." In the Toronto case, he has shown himself—bold enough to be dishonest, to go back on his own solemn pledge, and that of Dr. Reaume, made in his name, that there would be no application of the spoils system. The Mail and Empire can't escape by such a flimsy subterfuge, as attributing the discontent and condemnation to the "Grit machine." If not a single Liberal journal had written a line on the subject, the condemnation of Conservative and independent journals, and of honest and fair-minded Conservatives, constitutes an indictment as strong as has ever been preferred against a political leader by his most bitter political opponent. An ostrich is not hidden because it thrusts its head in the sand. The organ's red herring won't deceive. The sleuths of public opinion can easily distinguish between the smell of the fish and the scent of the Tammany tiger, the Whitney Government has unleashed.

THE WHITNEY SURRENDER.

Toronto Telegram. (Conservative.)

All honour to J. W. Flavelle, John I. Davidson and J. W. Murray.

These retiring license commissioners of Toronto acted like gentlemen, or, better still, like men.

The members of the Ontario Government who surrendered to the spoilsmen, and thus compelled the resignation of Messrs. Flavelle, Davidson and Murray, acted like the dupes of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt.

It is not conceivable that Hon. W. J. Hanna wanted to drive out the commissioners, whose acceptance of office originally brought so much glory to the Provincial Secretary and Premier of Ontario.

It is certain that Dr. Beattie Nesbitt wanted the Flavelle-Davidson-Murray commission out of office, and he well understood that a sure means to that end was the substitution of his own partisans for the inspector or inspectors who possessed the confidence of the commissioners.

Three of the Toronto members, Hon. J. J. Foy included, are so much clay in the hands of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, and the Ontario Government was no better when it virtually decided to partially Tammanyize the license administration of Toronto, with Dr. Beattie Nesbitt as the boss thereof.

The whole proceedings, beginning with the dismissal of the inspectors and ending with the resignation of the commissioners, is a brutal, cowardly and discreditable episode in the hitherto bright history of the Whitney Government.

Do the Conservative spoilsmen ever think how many heads would have fallen if the Laurier Government had gone through the Toronto post-office and custom house in 1896, as the Whitney Government went through the Toronto License Commission in 1905?

When the Whitney Government strikes its flag to the spoilsmen its surrender is an unspeakable disappointment to the Canadians who had reason to hope for better things from Hon. W. J. Hanna, and who regarded the incoming of Hon. J. P. Whitney as the dawning of a better day in Ontario politics.

The directorship of Beattie Nesbitt over the Whitney Government must drive thousands of Ontario Liberals back to the party lines which were broken last January for the country's good, and which must be broken again and again if the country's good is to be served.

The independent journals which urged Liberals to leave their party and vote Mr. Whitney into power are made to look like dupes or rogues by proof that the Beattie Nesbitt type of spoilsman is in the ascendant.

A Government that can be taken by the throat and shaken until it does the bidding of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt is not the sort of Government that Hon. J. P. Whitney promised to the people of this province.

A Government that stoops to the meanness of warring on women and children by wantonly throwing bread-winners out of office on account of their politics cannot be accepted as the exceeding great reward of the Independent and Liberal patriots who voted that Government into power.

The partisan trickery and greed that drove Messrs. Flavelle, Davidson and Murray out of office supplied an example of bad faith and bad tactics on the part of the Whitney Government.

The manifest virtues of the Whitney Government were developing a strength that was largely obliterating party lines in this province, a strength that could have kept Mr. Whitney in power by the excellence of his appeal to Canadians who were being taught that they could afford to break loose from party lines and party names, to stand and fight together for the good of their country.

If the Ontario Government has once and for all revealed its true character in its first great surrender to the Nesbitt bowlers, Canadians who might be united for the good of the country will again be divided for the gain of the party.

The one redeeming feature in this whole miserable business is the conduct of J. W. Flavelle, John I. Davidson and J. W. Murray. Their public ideals would be a safer guide for the Whitney Government than the partisan appetites of Beattie Nesbitt and Company.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE SPOILS.

(From the Toronto News.)

It is generally admitted that Dr. Beattie Nesbitt represents the machine element in the Conservative party. He is essentially a Tammany politician. He seems to have no ideal in politics but to organize the ward element and use the power with such organization gives in order to distribute patronage among the party workers and to make the machine the dominant influence in the government of the country.

He has capacity, he has courage, he is aggressive and persistent.

No one takes pleasure in attacking an individual, and it is far from our desire to do Dr. Nesbitt injustice. But it does seem to us that this is a fair estimate of his position and ambitions in public life. It is hardly conceivable that he would set any public object before the interests of party, and it is not beyond belief that he would even drive his party on the rocks in order to serve his personal ends and establish his ascendancy in the party management.

But he is by no means alone in the movement to eject Liberal office-holders in Toronto, to fill their places with the nominees of the ward organizations, and to make the patronage committee the executive organ of the Government.

But it is Dr. Nesbitt who acts as the mouthpiece of the Government at the ward meetings. It is Dr. Nesbitt who announces that "the workers" must be considered. It is Dr. Nesbitt who formulates the policy of the Government on patronage, who gives official sanction to removals which have been effected and hints at future removals as the spoils hunting element may demand.

It is true that for more than thirty years Conservatives have been excluded from office in Ontario, and until some just and rational system of civil service reform is adopted it is to be expected that vacancies in the Provincial service will be filled by Conservatives.

The News argues for reform of the service, and for regular promotion therein where this can be done consistent with efficiency.

But under existing circumstances we expect that the ordinary vacancies will be filled by Conservatives, and that outside of the organized service appointments will go to Conservatives.

In this there is no immediate grievance and no injustice to a party which for thirty years has monopolized the Provincial offices.

We recognize also the legitimacy of ward organizations, and we know that from such organization many faithful and efficient public servants are obtained.

But we insist that the Patronage Committee is a public nuisance and a menace to good government, and that the member of Parliament who acts as the agent of such a committee fails in one of the chief duties for which he was sent to Parliament, and is disloyal to the elementary principles of responsible government.

These considerations deserve the very serious consideration of Mr. Whitney and his associates. In ordering the dismissal of Mr. Hastings they surrendered to the patronage element against their own better judgment. IN REMOVING AN EXCELLENT OFFICER AND FORCING THE RESIGNATION OF A FAITHFUL AND EFFICIENT LICENSE BOARD THEY WERE NOT ACTUATED BY REGARD FOR THE PUBLIC INTEREST, AND THEY DID NOT ACT UPON ANY SOUND PRINCIPLE OF PUBLIC POLICY.

The element which demanded the dismissal of an officer whom the Government had determined to retain were actuated solely by the desire to make vacancies for party workers, to interfere in the administration of the license law, and to traffic with the liquor element for personal and party purposes.

They dictated the action of the Government. They outraged the self-respect of the License Board. Without the courtesy of a consultation with the Commissioners they selected for strict party reasons, the staff of inspectors through whom the Board were expected to carry on their non-partisan work, and give effect to their non-partisan policy.

Throughout there was a brutal disregard for the Commissioners, a brutal exercise of authority over the Government, and a brutal dismissal of an excellent officer who had received assurances that he would not be disturbed.

It is now for the Government to consider if it can afford to go further in this direction.

It is for the Government to consider if it can afford to act as the obedient servant of the element which is chiefly concerned for the lower and mercenary interests of party.

Does the Government deliberately intend to introduce the spoils system, to turn upon the street, take away their means of livelihood, and impoverish the families of all officials who happen to be Liberals, to serve the one or two per cent. of Conservatives who constitute the spoils faction of the party, to set at defiance all independent opinion, and to make elections in Ontario sordid and mercenary struggles for the public offices?

The Government has gone far, very far, in this evil direction, and it may read in the protest which its treatment of the License Board has elicited how its action is regarded by many persons who bear no ill-will to Mr. Whitney and his colleagues, who are seeking no favours at the hands of Ministers, who desire only good Government, and the fair treatment of faithful and efficient public officers.

For the moment the Government is strong, indeed, invincible, but there is some public opinion in the country which is not subservient to patronage committees, and which believes that the Government should halt in the unfortunate course in which it has been driven to such dangerous lengths, and should use its strength to create and maintain a permanent civil service, and to govern the Province in the interests of the whole people rather than in the interests of the mercenary element of its following.

Peterborough's Was the Best

A prominent Peterborough business man, who was in Hamilton, and attended the sittings of the Tariff Commission there, stated to the Examiner to-day, that the sitting here outdid that at Hamilton in every respect — interest in the work, numerical attendance of witnesses, and presentation of evidence. Much of this success is due, apart from the public spirit of the district, to the painstaking work of Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, secretary of the Board of Trade, which had the arrangement of the matter in hand.

The first turbine liner on the Pacific, the Makono, of the Union steamship company, will commence service in March between Australia and Canada.

Very Near Zero.
—We have what is called an open winter, but that does not prevent the thermometer becoming low-spirited. Yesterday morning it marked, between six and seven o'clock, 7 degrees above zero. This morning at the corresponding time, it dropped to within 3 degrees of zero. Yet yesterday morning with the brisk wind moving, the cold was much more keenly felt than this morning's colder, but moveless, air.

Preparing for Concert.
—The baseball team of the Charlotte street Guild held a rehearsal last night in preparation for the game to be played with St. John's Guild team at the coming concert of the Charlotte street Guild. This will be the first time that an attraction of this nature was ever presented in Peterborough. The date of the concert has not yet been definitely arranged, but it will be either on the 12th or 14th of December.

Who is "A.D.?"
—As yet there have been no new names mentioned for next year's town council, says the Lindsay Post, and some one of five or six citizens who were talking the situation over this afternoon were heard to remark that town affairs might go all right without a council next year, the taxes being applied on interest account. Another suggested, "How would it be to let A. D. runthewhole thing next year?"

Sunny Jim "Forces" His Passage.
—Sunny Jim, owned by Mr. Geo. N. Graham, and who is daily ridden by Mr. "White" (McGee, evidently doesn't believe in putting the cart before the horse. Yesterday morning about 11.30, while Mr. McGee was riding Sunny Jim on Aylmer street at the corner of Simcoe, a string of about four carts blocked the passage of the lively steed. His rider held him for a moment, but as the horse was chafing under the restraint, he let him go, and Sunny Jim, who, by the way, is a jumper of considerable cleverness cleared one the dray with ease, and pranced up the street. It was a nice stunt, brilliantly executed.

Scotchmen Dine At The National

Delightful Gathering Held There Last Night.

Last night, the night dear to all Scotchmen, about thirty-five of the countrymen of "Bobby" Burns gathered at the National Hotel, where they enjoyed a banquet in honour of St. Andrew.

The dining room was very prettily decorated with sprays of heather and Scottish flags, and the whole atmosphere was a congenial one. The banquet prepared by the National Hotel chef was in every respect a delightful one and ample justice was done to it.

The usual toasts were honoured and a number of patriotic songs were sung.

The object of the gathering was to consider the advisability of forming a St. Andrew society here in succession to that now defunct.

It is probable that in the not distant future something definite will be done along this line.

Tariff Commission Closed Last Night

Hon. Mr. Patterson stated that the Government in framing tariff legislation had a large variety of interests to consider. The thought rose up before some of his agricultural friends that the manufacturers received an undue consideration. Hon. Mr. Patterson pointed out that the number of actual employers of labour at the head of manufacturing concerns was comparatively small, and that it was the thousands of employees who ought to be the chief subjects of consideration. All these have their interests, and their main interest is steady employment. The employer might, it is true, go out of business, were it not profitable, as has been frequently suggested, but the interests of the army of employees must, however, necessarily be protected. "If thrown out of employment where would they go?" asked speaker. Thus it is that while the manufacturers are, comparatively speaking, a minor number, their interests in their close connection with those of the large number of employees, must be considered carefully.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy again remarked, that in the adjustment, the farmers of Canada were entitled to a reduction. The comparatively small ratio of imports as compared with exports, was advanced as an argument.

Mr. Fielding — "You are speaking too much in generalities." The variety of farming interests to be considered and the wide divergence of opinion between the eastern and the western sections were spoken of.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy made a few remarks with regard to the sugar Beets. The soil here is particularly favourable to sugar beets. It requires a lot of money to put in operation a factory for manufacture of beet sugar, and if a guarantee is not given of a decided action upon the part of the Government, it would militate against the building up of the industry. He believed that there was no industry more profitable than that of the sugar beet, and if it could be firmly established in Ontario, he felt that a great benefit would result. He expressed the hope that the Commission could lend all possible aid to the industry.

Mr. John Finlay, M.P.

Mr. John Finlay, M.P., of Norwood, manufacturer of carriage spokes, rims, hubs, etc., preferred a request that a specific entry valuation be placed upon certain lines of articles manufactured by his company in order to prevent the possibility of dumping. A list presented was as follows:

Oak wagon spokes, 2 to 2 1-2 in., $2.75 per set, for 52 spokes.

Oak wagon spokes, larger sizes, $3.50 per set for 52 spokes.

Oak wagon rims, 2x2 to 2 1-2 x 2½-2 in., $2.50 for 4 wheels.

Oak wagon, larger sizes, $3 per set for 4 wheels.

Wagon hubs, $4.50 for 4 hubs.

Finished buggy and carriage poles, $1 each.

Bob runners, 4x2 in. and smaller, $2 set for 4 runners.

Bob runners, larger sizes, $3.50 set for 4 runners.

A Communication:

At the close of the morning session the following communication from Mr. Robert Stewart, treasurer of the American Cereal Company, was read by Mr. T. Q. Quantemaine, secretary of the Board of Trade:

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine,
Secretary Peterborough Board of Trade.

Dear Sir,—I regret my inability to be present at the meeting of the Tariff Commission, to be held in Peterborough on the 30th; besides, I do not feel that this company is especially interested in any revision of the Tariff. As long as the import duty is relatively higher on manufactured cereal products than it is on the raw material, Canadian mills should be able to take care of themselves on the domestic trade. What we are vitally interested in is the question of freight rates, it being impossible to build up large export cereal mills in Canada as long as mills located in European seaports are able to get supplies of raw material at about half the rate of freight that Canadian mills have to pay on the manufactured product.

If the Government wants to encourage this company in an extension of their mills at Peterborough, all they have to do is to complete the Trent Valley Canal. This, and the development of other waterways, will, in my judgment, do more to build up Canada than anything else the Government can do. Canadian railways only see the direct loss, and are apparently blind to indirect advantages of building up the country.

Yours very truly,
Robert Stuart,
Treasurer.

A delegation representing the Victoria County farmers was introduced to the Commission by Hon. Senator McHugh, of Lindsay. Three members of the delegation addressed the Commission on behalf of the agricultural industry, presenting a resolution which was passed at a meeting held on Tuesday last. The members of the deputation were: Senator McHugh, Warden Stabback, Wm. Shannon, president Farmers' Institute, John Campbell, George Johnston, E. H. Hopkins, A. H. Davidson, Johnston Ellis, R. J. McLaughlin, Newton Smale.

Warden Stabback explained in his opening remarks that at a meeting held recently of the farmers of Victoria County it was unanimously resolved that no changes should be made in the tariff in favour of the manufacturers, and that the farmers at the meeting were a unit in the belief that the Government should favour any move in the direction of a closer preferential tariff with the Mother Country, and that if reciprocity arrangements can be made with the country to the south that it would be to the advantage of the farmers of this country.

Mr. Newton Smale then addressed the Commission, stating that their deputation was not representative of any special line of farming, but rather of the producers of staple farm products. He thought the farmers generally would endorse him in saying that the agricultural interests of the country would not have withstood the stringency of past years had it not been for the campaign of education carried on by the Government and its careful investigation of conditions. The benefits of the cold storage system in vogue were commented upon.

The farmers, however, feel that they are in many respects placed in an unfair position, and were opposed to any further advance in the tariff as had been requested. Canadian farmers were in competition with the world. The condition of farming, he believed, was not depressed. They felt, however, that they were not allowed to buy as cheaply as they might. They wished to protest against the fostering of manufactures which were not natural to Canadian conditions.

At a meeting held at Lindsay on Tuesday a resolution was unanimously passed commending the preferential tariff. Manufacturing in Canada is fairly prosperous. Many large American manufacturing concerns, which are not ignorant of conditions here, are now locating in different parts of the Dominion. The Canadian manufacturers were not in a position to ask further favours of the Government.

Mr. George Johnson next addressed the Commission. He considered that the present tariff schedule would indicate the farmers of Canada were receiving considerable protection. The slaughtering of American pork in bond, nullifies any protection designed for Canadian pork, which is upon an export basis. The farmers thought that after 27 or 28 years of protection the manufacturers should be sufficiently strengthened to allow of a gradual reduction in duties. Preferential tariffs they recognized as being useful, and the farmers generally favoured them.

The speaker thought the farmers of Essex county should not be protected in their sugar industry in such a manner as to re-act upon the rest of the province.

Mr. Brodeur pointed out that the Essex county farmers had not asked for a further increase.

Mr. John Campbell, of "Fairview Farm," Victoria County, next addressed the Commission. He said that it was not necessary at present to consider the manufacturers to the same extent as it was some years ago. He, as a farmer, did not believe in class legislation. The past three years had been the most prosperous in his recollection. The farmers anticipated greater consideration in the future. They were getting to be a thinking class, and were commencing to sink party affiliations for their own interests as a class.

The following resolution passed at a meeting of the Victoria County Farmers' Institute on Tuesday last was read by Mr. Campbell:

"Resolved,—That we ask for the appointment of a permanent Tariff Commission, to investigate charges of alleged discrimination by combines, and that the Government exercise its authority to suspend the tariff in cases where that Commission may recommend.

Mr. Campbell then passed on to utter some soothing observations with regard to the trusts and combines which exist in the country, making a reference to a mill in the west which, while not running, was drawing a large income from the combine.

Questioned by Hon. Mr. Fielding, Mr. Campbell stated that he could not give any definite information with regard to it.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur read a section of the statutes providing protection against combines by the removal of the duties upon their manufactures.

Mr. Campbell then referred to the question of coal oil duties. Speaking with regard to the sugar beet industry Mr. Campbell thought it would be wrong that the public as a whole should be heavily taxed in order to protect a small portion of the sugar beet producers.

Mr. Fielding explained that on Wednesday a deputation of 1800 — the largest deputation of farmers which had yet come before the Commission, representing eighteen counties—had urged at Berlin the continued production of the beet industry, which to many farmers was their most valuable product. This created for the Commission an embarrassing problem, explained Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Campbell concluded by expressing the hope that no further increase would be made in the readjustment of the tariff.

Mayor Waterous of Brantford.

Mr. C. H. Waterous, Mayor of Brantford, Canada representations with regard to the conditions of the engine and boiler manufacturing industries, which were at the present time considered unsatisfactory. From the fact that the duty of twenty-five per cent. does not protect the Canadian industry from the slaughter of surplus productions of American factories. The capacities of the Canadian factories are such as to provide completely for the needs of the Canadian market, yet, in spite this fact the imports had increased from $24,401 in 1890, to $437,132 in 1904. Five reasons for the increase were given, including the high cost of labour and the fact that the high cost, relatively, of the raw material to the finished product, affords a net protection of only from 14 to 18 per cent. A request was made for a readjustment upon a higher basis of duty in the tariff clauses affecting boilers, engines and machinery. The representations made by Mr. Waterous were endorsed by the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Representations on behalf of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company were made by Hon. J. R. Stratton, the president of the company. The explanation of the case and the requests preferred were embodied in the following statement:

We represent the largest manufacturers of locks and builders' hardware in Canada, and submit the following memorandum from the revised trade and navigation returns for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900 to 1904, showing the value of importations of hardware: 1900, $592,332; 1901, $542,281; 1902, $653,637; 1903 $773,167; 1904, $780,569.

From the returns we cannot tell what proportion of the imports is the same class of goods that we manufacture, but consider it would be safe to say that at least one-third of the goods included in the memorandum is the builders' hardware, and could be made in Canada by the factories now in business.

The whole output of the Canadian factories manufacturing builders' hardware is not more than $200,000, so that more goods in this line are imported from the United States than are made here. This large importation is principally in staple lines and due to favourable freight rates from United States points, and to the very low price at which they sold in Canada.

Notwithstanding the dumping clause of the Tariff they still continue to send goods in Canada in competition with lines we make and at lower prices than the same goods are sold in like quantities to the same class of customers in the United States. To remedy these conditions a specific scale of duties was requested.

Hon. Mr. Stratton explained the difficulties arising from an ad valorem duty outside the large centres, where it is impossible to have an appraiser sufficiently conversant with the hardware values to determine the proper valuations. A specific duty was for this reason a necessity. Locks of American manufacture which sell across the line at $1.10 per dozen have been "dumped" in Canada at 85 cents per dozen.

The Woolen Industry.

Alex Horn, of the Horn Bros. Woollen Mills Company, Lindsay, requested an addition of 5 per cent. specific duty on all blankets under 6oc. per lb. "If you want to see the large mills going again, increase the net duty on all yarns, hosiery and other woollen goods to 35 per cent. ad valorem," continued Mr. Horn.

Tobler's Milk Chocolate.

A. McClure, representing McClure & Langley, importers of Tobler's Swiss Milk Chocolate, Toronto, submitted to the Commission that owing to certain climatic and other conditions all efforts to manufacture this chocolate in other countries than Switzerland have been found impossible and it was requested that as the margin of profit was small, no change would be made in the present tariff upon it. An increase would mean the loss of much money spent in establishing a Canadian trade.

M. D. Bierd, representing D. Masson & Co., manufacturers agents of 528 St. Paul street Montreal, P.Q., agents and importers of Fry's Milk Chocolate, requested that the duty upon this class of goods be not increased, as this would render its importation prohibitive owing to the present narrow margin.

Mr. A. C. Hart, of Belleville, next addressed the Commission on behalf of the pottery interests in which he thought the Dumping Clause was not properly enforced, butter crocks and other articles of manufacture of a similar nature being, in his opinion, placed upon the Canadian market at "Dumping" prices.

Mr. John Bell read a letter containing a number of observations with regard to fiscal conditions affecting market gardeners.

Canadian Cordage Company.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., on behalf of the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, Limited, represented to the Commission that so long as Standard Twine is admitted into the United States free of duty that the Cordage Company was quite content to have binder twine remain upon the free list. It is important, however, that a large industry of this kind should have better transportation facilities. Were the Trent Canal completed it would mean a saving of Ten Thousand Dollars per year in freight rates alone to this company.

In regard to rope and bath yarn the company asked that the tariff be increased from 20 per cent. minimum and 25 per cent. maximum to 25 per cent. minimum and 30 per cent. maximum sizes over 5-8 of an inch in diameter and on smaller sizes that the increase be 30 per cent. minimum and 35 per cent. maximum.

Colonial Weaving Company.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., also represented the Colonial Weaving Company, Limited.

Under the tariff at the present time there is a duty of 35 per cent. on woven labels coming into Canada but there is no item in the tariff expressly specifying woven labels and the result is that the customs law has been evaded by reason of the fact that labels have been entered by foreigners under the classification of webbing.

If woven labels, pull straps, shoe facings, etc., were specified in the tariff under a separate item it would be impossible for any such evasion to take place at any port of entry.

The raw silk used in the manufacture of woven labels comes into this country free of duty but when it is dyed or thrown there is a duty of 20 per cent. upon it. The Colonial Weaving Company asked to be placed in the same position as underwear manufacturers and hat manufacturers, by having their silk which is thrown or dyed enter Canada free of duty.

This closed the hearing of representations, and the Commissioners left for Ottawa upon the midnight train, and will leave on Saturday for the west. Mr. John Bain, the Secretary, will summarize and index the evidence submitted at the various sittings of the Commission.

It is estimated that $1,000,000 worth of diamonds are stolen every year from the South African diamond mines.

TELLS BY THEIR SLEEP

"I can tell by my little ones' sleep when a cold is coming on" said a mother when speaking of the advance symptoms of colds in children. "They toss about, are restless, their breathing is heavy and there are symptoms of night sweats. The next morning I start with Scott's Emulsion. The chances are that in a day or two they are all over it. Their rest is again peaceful and the breathing normal."

Here's a suggestion for all mothers. Scott's Emulsion always has been almost magical in its action when used as the ounce of prevention. Nothing seems to overcome child weakness quite so effectively and quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

The Czar Now Said to Be In Danger

Emperor's Personal Guards Are Accused of Disloyalty.

PALACE SOLDIERS ARRESTED

Rumored Attack on the Czar—Soldiers Counted Upon as Being Loyal to the Last, Ready to Be Torn to Pieces, Placed in Custody—Official Report of the Battle at Sebastopol—Telegraphers Forced.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—The most alarming indication of the spread of disaffection in the army, extending even to regiments near the person of the Emperor, was given in the arrest at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday of a number of soldiers belonging to the Yellow Cuirassiers of the Guard, the Hussars of the Guard, and the Life Guard riflemen for presenting a series of petitions, including one against the use of troops for police purposes.

The regiments in question are those which have been specially selected by Gen. Trepoff to guard the Emperor and his family. They have been counted upon as being loyal to the last, ready even to be torn to pieces in defence of His Majesty, like the Swiss Guards of Louis XVI. Their arrest, however, although not for open sedition, shows how the leaven of discontent is working, even within the precincts of the Imperial Park at Tsarskoe-Selo.

The incident gave rise to almost alarming rumors in St. Petersburg, including one to the effect that the Emperor actually had been attacked, and that a grand duke had been wounded while defending him; but the Associated Press is assured by a member of the imperial entourage at Tsarskoe-Selo that this is untrue.

Telegraphers Forced Out.

Communication with the outside world ceased at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a strike was called in the general telegraph office. By a ruse, however, the management succeeded in reopening the cable shortly after 6 o'clock.

At 3 o'clock, when the strike went into operation, many of the Russian operators were reluctant to leave, but a walking delegate promtly smashed a bottle of hydrochloric acid on the floor and the fumes soon drove the men from their keys.

The Danish cable operators remained at their posts, but the receiving clerks having fled, messages were refused for three hours. Troops occupied the building, but the employes who were willing to work were terrorized and were afraid to return.

Political Conspiracy.

M. Sevlastianoff, superintendent of posts and telegraphs, declares that the Government has ample evidence to prove that the strike is a political conspiracy planned by revolutionaries, the demand of the men for the reinstatement of the discharged leaders of the Telegraphers' Union at Moscow being a mere pretext, which, however, had deceived many operators and other employes of the service. M. Sevlastianoff declares that it is impossible for the Government to yield to be held up by its own servants, and that it is determined to fight out the matter to the bitter end.

KAULBARS DESCRIBES BATTLE.

Mutineers Lost Heavily in the Engagement at Sebastopol.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—The Admiralty announces that it has received from Gen. Kaulbars, Governor-General of Odessa, the following telegram addressed to him by Vice-Admiral Chouknin, at Sebastopol, dated Nov. 29:

We wished to terminate the affair on Nov. 28 by surrounding the mutinous divisions with troops, and issuing an ultimatum for unconditional surrender. The mutineers, however, commenced to attack on the night of Nov. 27, seizing the torpedo boat Svirepol, and three others which had drawn near the cruiser Otchakoff.

All these vessels hoisted red flags, after which the Otchakoff flew the signal that Lieut. Schmidt was in command of the fleet. Then the lieutenant, who was on board the Svirepol, sailed along the squadron, his crews cheering but the other vessels did not respond to these cheers. Lieut. Schmidt afterwards proceeded to the port and released those who had been arrested under his orders.

Armed detachments of mutineers continued to seize the small craft in the harbor, which were not guarded by troops.

Armed parties in sloops from the Otchakoff went to the Panteleimon, on which there were no arms, captured the officers and took them on board the Otchakoff.

We were compelled to tolerate such doings inasmuch as the fleet had been disarmed in view of the dangerous attitude of the sailors.

One after another the craft on the eastern shore of the southern bay were seized by the mutineers and red flags hoisted.

The plan which was first proposed was abandoned, and it was resolved to adopt energetic measures to prevent the situation from becoming worse.

Mutineers' Strategy.

The officers captured by the mutineers were taken on board the Otchakoff in the belief that their presence on that vessel would prevent fire being opened on it. Lieut. Schmidt informed the assembled officers that he would hang them if the troops on shore took action.

At 3.30 o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 29, fire was opened by field artillery on the ships in the southern harbor flying red flags. These flags were immediately lowered and Lieut. Schmidt signalled "I have many capture officers."

The Otchakoff then opened fire, to which the north shore battery and the loyal ships, whose breech blocks had been restored, replied. The Svirepol advanced to the attack, but was met with a strong fire from two cruisers, the Captain Sacken and the Pamyat Merkuriya, and from the battleship Rostislav.

The Svirepol was immediately put out of action, as were also two other torpedo boats, one of which sank.

The Otchakoff had fired barely six shots when she hoisted the white flag and the squadron ceased to fire.

A conflagration broke out on the Otchakoff, and boats were sent to rescue the survivors and to transfer those who had been wounded.

Escaped, But Was Caught.

Lieut. Schmidt, who was dressed as a common sailor, escaped but was arrested later.

When the firing began a mining vessel, which had on board 300 mines, fearing an explosion, was sunk by her commander.

Capt. Slavotschinsky, commanding the seventh naval corps, started for the mining ship, but was severely wounded on the way.

During the fight against the Otchakoff, the field batteries bombarded the naval barracks, which replied.

The number of wounded has not been ascertained.

The Otchakoff is still burning and it is impossible to extinguish it.

Gen. Kaulbars telegraphed later that he had just received a telegram from Capt. Bergel, chief of Admiral Chouknin's staff, saying that during the night about 1,500 mutineers surrendered, with ten quick-firing guns, to the Brest Regiment and that the barracks were occupied by troops.

Gen. Kaulbars also forwarded an additional despatch from Admiral Chouknin, saying that the barracks in which the mutineers had defended themselves had been occupied by the troops.

2,000 Surrender.

Gen Kaulbars' despatch says that the mutineers who surrendered together with those captured on the Otchakoff number 2,000, the majority of them being reservists who were sent to the barracks at the time of the mutiny.

A torpedo boat which was supposed to have been sunk, was found to-day on the shore. It was on fire.

The Otchakoff is floating but her interior is gutted.

The town is quiet.

Capt. Bergel telegraphs that Capt Slavotschinsky has died of his wounds.

Moscow In a Panic.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—Advices from Moscow by telephone declare that the city is in a state of panic, and that the better classes are hurrying abroad. From 100 to 200 foreign passports are being issued at Moscow daily.

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, haphazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1903 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. Hack, of 262 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered from failing of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Flesh imitated but never equaled.

Russia Refuses to Allow Poles Who Served In Manchuria to Return.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 1.—That Russia does not want any more of her militant subjects back in their homeland is indicated by the arrival here on the Iyo Maru of twenty Polish cavalry and infantry men who have been serving the colors in Manchuria. They have been prisoners in Japan and upon their release received notice that they would not be allowed to return to Russia. Over 20,000 Russians have applied for naturalization in Japan, but must reside there for two years before they can become citizens.

The Little Lake Freezes Over

That Jack Frost last night performed a somewhat phenomenal "stunt" is the opinion of Mr. Frank Wise, Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Wise states that the entire surface of the Lake is to-day covered with a sheet of ice, which formed after eleven o'clock last night, as at that time the lake was open, and a heavy breeze blowing across. He states that this is the first time in his recollection in which the lake has frozen completely over in one night, and he believes a record has been established. Even the area swept by a strong current has been covered.

Preparations For Humorous Lecture

The Men's Guild of St. Luke's church are making extensive preparations for their concert and lecture to be given on Dec. 12th, in the school room. The lecture will be given by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, whose subject will be "The Evolution of the Boy." This will be a humourous address and will deal with the different stages through which the boy passes—his love affairs, his first long trousers, his moustache, etc., will all be described, and the prospects are that there will be a large attendance.

Mr. J. H. Burnham will act as chairman.

On October 21st, a lady in London read an advertisement about some very cheap Indian shawls on sale on Regent street. She went to the number given and found the place was a jeweller's. Then she discovered that she had been reading an 1805 issue of the Times, got out on that day as a souvenir of the Battle of Trafalgar.

THE

is so popular to-day. It is the most up-to-date Range on the market and the most economical Fuel saver. You may secure one at a price in keeping with the merits of the Canada. Quality is more important than price when buying a Range. You cannot be but satisfied on both scores, if you buy one of the Canadas.

This Range is made in Canada.

It is guaranteed by the Moffat Stove C.

The opinions received at 137 Hunter street concerning The Canada Steel Range conincide with the maker's and seller's opinion—namely, "A Good Baker," "A Perfect Cooker.' "Just the Range to bake with," —this is the tone of the testimonials. There must be someting meritorious about the Canada, something about it that absolutely forces a buyer to say, "I'll take this Range." Your patronage is invited.

Heavy Purchase of Dummer Cattle

It is stated that Mr. W. J. Crowe, of Tara, a hustling cattle buyer, purchased about seven cars of prime cattle for the Christmas market last week in the Township of Dummer. Mr. Crowe is said to have already shipped five cars of these cattle to Toronto and two cars to Tara. He handles big lots of stock all the year round. Come again, Mr. Crowe.

Demise Of Antonio Banco

Funeral Took Place This Afternoon at 3 O'clock From St. Joseph's Hospital.

Antonio Banco, twenty-two years of age, a native of San Vito, Chiato Province, Albruzzi District, Central Italy, died at the St. Joseph's Hospital, Wednesday night, about midnight, of pneumonia, after having been confined to the hospital for three weeks.

The deceased is survived by his parents and brothers and sisters in Italy, and by two brothers in Canada, Nicolos and Gustino, both of whom are in the employ of the Dickson Company, as was the deceased prior to his death. He came to Canada about four years ago.

The funeral took place from the St. Joseph's Hospital at three o'clock this afternoon. The remains were interred in St. Peter's Cemetery.

To Discuss The House of Refuge

To-night at 7.30 the committees representing the county council, city council and the Protestant Home, will meet in the city clerk's office to consider the question of a House of Refuge. The county will be represented by the whole council, and the city council representatives will be the Mayor, Ald. Mason, Johnston, and Adams, while those from the Protestant Home will be the clergymen of the city and the trustees, Dr. Halliday, Mr. G. M. Roger and Mr. J. B. McWilliams.

QUALITY

SPECIALTY

This is being demonstrated every day in our business. Our customers appreciate the effort put forth by us to get something considerably in advance of garments sold by the ordinary clothing house. During the next few weeks thousands of Suits and Overcoats will pass from the tables of clothing stores into the hands of buyers.

Where Will You Buy Yours?

Put this question to almost any group of well dressed, well informed men hereabouts, and the answer will be with one accord—"At the Daylight Store." There's a reason for this universal sentiment. It is because our prices are so reasonable, quality considered, and the fit and finish cannot be excelled by any custom tailor. See our Beautiful Black Overcoats in two lengths—they are fashion's latest production.

Dairymen Ask County Council To Make Grant

$200 Asked for to Assist in Holding the Convention in This City—Mr. D. Derbyshire, M.P., President of the Association, Addressed the Council—The Great Importance of the Industry Referred To—Canada Leads in Exports.

MR. R. R. HALL, M.P., ADDRESSES COUNCIL

At the session of the county council this morning, all the members were present, and the first business was the reception of a deputation from the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. The deputation was accompanied by Messrs. R. R. Hall, M. P., and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P. and G. A. Gillespie. It consisted of Messrs. D. Derbyshire, M. P., president; and R. G. Murphy, secretary, of the association, and Mr. Ward, chief instructor, for this district.

The President Speaks.

Mr. Derbyshire was the first speaker, and thanked the council for the courtesy extended them. He referred to the fact that the executive committee of the association had been asked to hold the next convention of the association in this city, and the deputation asking it had agreed to assist the association. The convention will be on January 10th, 11th and 12th, and he extended an invitation to the council to attend the meetings, which would be held in the new opera house. Addresses will be given by the Ministers of Agriculture of the Dominion and Province, as well as a number of other prominent men in the dairy and agriculture industries.

The speaker referred to the great strides which the dairy industry had made in the past few years. To-day Canada has 72 per cent. of the cheese trade of Great Britain, and this year $7,500,000 more than ever before will be paid to Canadian dairymen.

Best in the World.

This year the cheese sent to the British market was the best in the world, and he paid a tribute to the work of the Dominion Government in assisting the industry, by providing cold storage facilities. Twenty-six instructors were employed this season in Eastern Ontario, and the result had been that there was a marked improvement in the quality of the cheese made. He asked that a grant of $200 be made to assist the association in holding the best dairy meeting in the history of the association. He explained that the city council had agreed to give an equal amount to that given by the county.

The Secretary.

Mr. R. G. Murphy, the secretary of the association, was next heard, and he remarked that there was no necessity to speak of the importance of the dairy industry in this county, for it was really the making of the county. He was a practical farmer, and as such, appreciated the importance of the cheese industry. He felt sure that the county would expect that the council would make the grant asked for. The meeting which would be held would help the industry in the county.

Mr. Ward, the instructor, reiterated the importance of the industry, which had been the means of building the country up to a considerable extent.

Largest Exporters in the World.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., emphasized the magnitude of the dairy industry, stating that last year $24,000,000 worth of dairy products had been exported. This had not been reached without the organization, and the Association represented here to-day had by education, placed the industry upon a substantial basis. To-day Canada is the largest exporter of cheese in the world, and this was due to the fact that the dairymen have worked together. What was needed was to meet together and to find out the defects which existed, and he felt sure that the electors would not be satisfied unless the council made the grant asked for.

Mr T.E. Bradburn.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., urged the council to make the grant asked for, which, he was sure, was a reasonable one.

Mr. Gillespie also spoke and said that the city people had expressed their willingness to help the dairymen, and he felt sure that the county should at least, meet the city in their grant.

Mr. Derbyshire in closing the case, said that every County Council they had asked for the same favour, had granted it cheerfully.

A motion that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee was carried.

Peterborough Cheese Factories.

In reply to Mr. Garbutt, Mr. Ward, the instructor, gave some information in reference to the condition of the factories in this the district, and said that they were well equipped, and in splendid sanitary condition. They would compare favourably with those in any other district, and he felt that the great need was to educate the men in the industry. The cheese makers, as a whole were careful and were doing the best they could to produce a good quality of cheese.

The meeting then adjourned and the Council went into committee work.

New Jewellery Establishment

Warne Bros. Working Hard to Open Next Week.

The preparations which have been under way during the past few weeks for the opening of the jewellery store under the firm name of Messrs. Warne Bros., are now nearing completion. The premises adjoining Mr. W. B. Warne's patent medicine store is being thoroughly remodelled to suit the requirements of a first-class jewellery store. The interior has been handsomely decorated with a pleasing shade of blue ingrain paper and the woodwork covered with suitable shades of paint. The Toronto Showcase Company have the contract for shipping the glass showcases, counters and silent salesmen, and Mr. D. Bellegham has the order for fitting the walls with special shelving, brackets, etc. The work is being pushed forward with special haste in view of the Christmas trade, and it is expected the first formal opening of the new store will take place on Friday or Saturday of next week, particulars of which will be announced in due time in the Examiner.

Mr. Stanley Warne, a practical jeweller with a creditable local reputation, will manage the new store. He has been well and favourably known to jewellery shoppers in Peterborough for the past eight years, during which period he has filled the responsible position of head salesman and expert watch repairer in Mr. Frank Schneider's jewellery establishment.

Concert Company's Good Reception

Charming Wedding This Afternoon

Miss I. May Best, B.A., Becomes the Bride of Rev. John Watt, of Manswood, Ont.

A pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. S. H. Best, 210 Antrim street, when his second daughter, Miss Isabella May Best, B.A., was united in marriage to Rev. John Watt, of Manswood, Halton county.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance of St. Paul's church, in the presence of a few immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The bridesmaid was Miss Ethel sister of the bride, the groom being assisted by his brother, Mr. Watt.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a dainty recherche wedding breakfast was served, and partaken of by the assembled guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Watt, who are both graduates of Queen's University, Kingston, left upon the five o'clock C. P. R. train for the West, and will take up residence at Manswood, the groom being the pastor of the Presbyterian Congregation at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Watt were the recipients of many handsome wedding gifts and congratulatory favours, and will leave, followed by the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

The charming event of to-day is, it is understood, the happy culmination of a pretty sequence of events, savouring of the romantic, originating during college days at Queen's University.

Japanese Social Was Delightful

Olive Mission Band of Charlotte Street Methodist Church Scored a Distinct Success Last Night—Charming Programme Was Presented--Financial Results Were Most Gratifying—Pretty Decorations in Sunday School Room.

PROGRAMME WAS MUCH ENJOYED

Dainty and charming in every feature was the Japanese Social given last night at the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school room, under the auspices of the Olive Mission Band.

A bright and pleasing Oriental effect was imparted to the interior of the room by artistically arranged decorations. The Guild Room was particularly attractive in its dainty and picturesque arrangement, it having been converted for the occasion into a Japanese tea room.

But the feature which lent the crowning charm to the effect of Orientalism, was undoubtedly the bright and attractive costumes in which the petite hostesses of the evening were bedecked, as they flitted everywhere about the room.

A pleasing programme was presented during the course of the evening, this being of a nature in harmony with the character of the evening.

The chair was occupied by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., pastor of the church.

An opening chorus, "Little Missionaries," was charmingly presented by the members of the Band, who acquitted themselves very creditably.

A vocal solo, "The Ten Gee-Gee," was given by Miss Maud Titterson, in a manner in which this clever artist more than sustained her reputation. An equally creditable effort was her recitation later in the evening, "Annie and Willie's Prayer," in which much elocutionary power was manifested.

A recitation by Miss Annie Christie was also a delightful number, and gave much pleasure. Miss Irene Edwards contributed a solo with much effect.

In the chorus, "Ten Little Bright Pennies," the charming naivete of the youthful members of the Band, as well as the excellence of the presentation, won a general admiration.

A Lullaby Chorus was given by the following bevy of bright little Jups: May Williams, Lena Cox, Elsie Morrison, Agnes Neil, Lawrence Adlum and Stella Cuncannon. This also captivated the audience.

A solo, "Japanese Song," by Miss Maud Titterson, and a second recitation by Miss Annie Christie, were much appreciated numbers. A closing chorus, "Ring the Penny Chimes," was given with the utmost credit to themselves by the members of the Band. Miss Susie Campbell performed the arduous duties of accompanist with sympathetic feeling.

Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the programme by the dainty hostesses, and this portion of the evening's enjoyment bore a charm corresponding to that which preceded it. The financial aspect of the evening's enjoyment was no less gratifying than its other features, the sum of $28 being realized, and to the members of the Mission Band, of which Mrs. Robert Neil is president, are due the heartiest congratulations upon the result of their efforts in the performance of an excellent work.

An Organization To Be Proud Of Results the Mark Street Ladies' Aid Have Accomplished.

On Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Aid of the Mark street Methodist church, held a meeting at which the affairs of the recent bazaar and tea were closed up. It was found that the gross receipts had been $226.90, and the expenses, $19.72, leaving the net proceeds $207.22. It was decided to remodel the primary class room in the Sunday School. This organization of the church is in a most flourishing condition, and has achieved, since its formation a few years ago, unexpected results. An indication of the progress which has been made is furnished by the fact that last year at the bazaar the net proceeds were $175, or $32.22 less than those of this year.

There are 33 members and they have proved of great assistance to the work of the church. They purchased a $350 piano for the Sunday School and have paid the whole cost except $105. They also bought a $43 range for the parsonage. They contemplate other work in the future, and will probably help the Sunday School to purchase new chairs. A Floral Committee has been doing a much appreciated work in providing the sick with flowers and fruits. The President, Mrs. Girvin; Treasurer, Mrs. Smith; Secretary, Mrs. Harry Gibbs.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on Tuesday next at 2.30, at the home of Mrs. Gervin, 444 Rogers street.

A PROMINENT CITIZEN

The gentleman represented to-day by the above cut is one who is known to almost every citizen of the city. He has lived here for years, and was at one time a member of the town council. He is an enthusiastic sport, and has achieved some remarkable records along this line. He enjoys a wide personal popularity. The picture from which this cut was made was taken at Rice Lake.

Last Saturday's picture, as was announced on Monday, was Mr. John Kincaid.

Peterboro' Club Elects Officers

His Honour Judge Weller Elected President.

At the annual meeting last night of the Peterborough Club, the reports showed a prosperous year financially and otherwise. The following officers were elected or retained in office:—

President—His Honour Judge Weller.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. E. J. Toker.

Committee—Dr. Young and Messrs. P. Campbell; T. F. Matthews, G. W. Hatton, H. LeBrun J. J. Lundy,, D. Walker, Hazen Ritchie and T. D. Mulholland.

On the retirement of Col. H. C. Rogers from the presidency, a position which he has filled most satisfactorily since the formation of the Club, he was elected an honourary member. At a subsequent meeting of the shareholders, the above officers and committeemen were elected directors of the joint stock company.

County Council Closed Session

The closing meeting of the special fall session of the County Council was held this morning, when the reports of committees were presented and adopted. The bylaws confirming the reports were passed and a special bylaw authorizing the transfer of the swings over the Trent Canal system to the Dominion Government was also passed.

A complete report will be published on Monday.

Large Market; Brisk Demand

Farm Produce Went Rapidly This Morning at Good Prices.

All available space at the market was this morning fully occupied, and the interior of the building was filled with an almost solid mass of humanity—sellers, and purchasers each being represented in large numbers.

The quantity of farm produce offered was large, poultry being a chief commodity. The number of geese offered, though they sold rapidly, appeared to considerably exceed the demand. The price ranged about 90 cents. Ducks sold at about 85 cents. There was a fairly large offering of turkeys, which sold at prices ranging from 85 cents to $1.40. Chickens were much in evidence. The prices asked in the majority of cases were about 40 and 50 cents. Butter sold rapidly at 22 and 23 cents, eggs going at 24 and 25 cents.

Potatoes were offered in considerable quantities at $1 per bag. The supply of apples was not large, the price ranging according to variety, from $2.50 to $3.50 per barrel. A large quantity of beef was on sale at 4 and 5 cents. Pork was 9 and 10 cents. There was a brisk demand for hay, a large number of loads being disposed of at $8.50 to $10 per ton.

Mission Circle's Annual Meeting

On Tuesday night the annual thanksgiving meeting of the Mission Circle of the Park street Baptist church will be held. Mrs. Morrow will give an address on "Chinese and Japanese Work in British Columbia. The pastor will give an address on "Objects and Methods."

County and City Will Consider, By a Joint Committee, The Question of a House of Refuge

At Last Night's Meeting of Representatives For the County and City With the Protestant Home, the Matter Was Discussed---County Council Has Practically Decided to Erect the House Independently---Both Parties Sparring for Advantage---The Position of the House of Providence and the Protestant Home to be Considered.

The question of the House of Refuge was considered last night by a committee representing the county council, city council, House of Providence, Protestant Home and the clergymen of the city. The meeting was held in the council chamber, and was devoted mainly to efforts on the part of the representatives of the city and county councils respectively to induce each other to commit the matter to some line of action, and as far as the clergymen were concerned to find out what the meeting was all about. When this was finally decided, which took some time, because there was considerable misunderstanding between the different bodies represented as to whom it was that really called the meeting, and the specific purpose for which it was called, the discussion reached a business basis, but up to that time it was largely a series of attempts on the part of the county council and the city representatives to get the others to commit themselves on the question, which they refused to do.

To Act Independently.

It finally developed, however, that the county council had discussed the matter informally, and the conclusion reached seemed to be that they had decided practically to erect the House of Refuge and that it would be erected independently of the city, but as far as the latter was concerned this was not by any means definite, and if some amicable arrangement could be entered into between the city and county the latter were willing to consider it.

There was, at the opening of the meeting, a general misunderstanding as to who had been responsible for calling the meeting, some of those present being under the impression that since it was the county which would be compelled to erect the House of Refuge, it was the county council that had asked for the meeting. The members of that body, however, soon disabused their minds of that idea, and made it pretty plain that they were there only as a result of an invitation to meet the other bodies and consider the question.

A Joint Committee.

The decision finally reached was that the county and city councils should appoint committees to meet and consider the whole proposition. A resolution was introduced by Rev. Dr. Torrance, setting forth the fact that in the opinion of the meeting it was desirable that a House of Refuge be erected, but it was not pressed the opinion of the majority being that it would be unwise to pass the resolution at the present time.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Best, Ald. Adams, Mason and Johnston, Warden Buck, County Councillors Moloney, Andrews, Johnston, Webster, Carey, Shaw and Menague; Rev. Dr Torrance, Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. Crothers, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev. Mr. Major, Dr. Halliday, Mr. G. M. Roger and J. B. McWilliams.

Object of the Meeting.

Until the arrival of Mayor Best, ex-Mayor Rogers occupied the chair, and asked Mr. J. B. McWilliams to explain the object for which the meeting was called. Mr. McWilliams stated that the inspector of public charities had intimated that a House of Refuge would be demanded in the county, and in the event of the house not being erected the Government grant would be withdrawn. He explained the growth of the Protestant Home, which, from a small beginning, had outgrown its capacity and was overcrowded. These facts were considered at the annual meeting of the Home recently, and it was then decided to ask for the county and city councils to meet with the clergymen of the city to discuss what course should be taken. It would be necessary either to erect a new House of Refuge or to discontinue the care of old men in the Protestant home and confine it to the old women as was the original intention. There are at present twenty-six inmates in the Home.

Rev. Father McColl stated that in the House of Providence they had seventeen from the city, some of whom were free and others were paid for.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt suggested that it might be better to do away with the Protestant Home, and to erect a House of Refuge.

Can Accomodate Women.

In answer to a question, Mr. McWilliams said that he had no proposition to make, but it had been suggested that the city and county should be notified that after a certain date the Protestant Home would refuse to take in any more men. They could, however, accommodate the women all right in the present home.

The warden of the county said that he could not say definitely as to what

Mr. McCuish Has A Heavy Loss

Office of the Fort William Herald Destroyed by Fire.

The despatch published below from Fort William tells the story of the wrecking of the office of the "Herald," the editor and proprietor, Mr. McCuish, being a son-in-law of Mr. A. Macfarlane:—

Fort William, Nov. 30.—Yesterday as the Evening Herald was being locked up ready to go to press, gasoline connection with a typesetting machine exploded, setting fire instantly to the office, and all efforts made by the proprietor and printers to put out the fire were without avail. Fire and water did a great deal of damage to the interior of the office, typesetting machines, presses and type. Four thousand dollars will probably cover the loss; partly insured.

The annual junior demonstration of the Salvation Army will be held on Wednesday evening at the barracks, and promises to be most enjoyable. A special musical programme will be presented.

Ald. Jos. Batten Will Retire

Will Not Again be a Candidate For Civic Honours.

The city will this year lose a tried and true aldermanic representative in the person of Ald. Joseph Batten, who, at last night's meeting of the Property Committee, announced that he would not again be a candidate for a seat in the city council.

Ald. Batten has rendered to the city five years of faithful service, during which time he has continuously occupied the position of chairman of the Property Committee. His experience has rendered him a most valuable factor in the deliberations of the city council, and both among his associates there and the public generally, will his retirement create regret. Seen to-day, Ald. Batten stated that his motives in retiring were wholly due to a pressure of business duties, which prevented his giving the necessary attention to civic affairs.

The Bramford Aldermen Were Well Pleased

Without Exception They Speak Very Highly of the Working of Machine 'Phone — The Speed and Secrecy are Noticeable Features—Company to Ask for a Franchise in That City at Once—Delighted With the City.

THEIR ENTERTAINMENT HIGHLY SPOKEN OF

The Brantford Expositor of yesterday contained an article referring to the trip of the Aldermen of that city to Peterborough to inspect the Machine Telephone Company's equipment. Speaking of it the paper says:—

The company intend asking for a competitive franchise in this city at once.

To-day their engineer, Mr. W. H. Lytle, is in the city, looking over local conditions. This morning he obtained considerable information from City Engineer Jones. To-morrow Mr McKay will be in Brantford, and likely the terms of the franchise they intend asking for will be made known. Nothing could be obtained from local officials this morning relative to what they will ask for.

Aldermen Well Pleased.

The aldermen who took in the trip were well pleased with their outing. The party arrived home last night, good time having been made both ways. They were hospitably entertained by the officials of the company and by the Aldermen of Peterborough. Yesterday afternoon they were driven around the city and saw all there was to see.

Opinions of the 'Phone.

Without exception the aldermen seemed well pleased with what they saw of the workings of the Canadian Machine company's plant. They stated that the connections were rapidly and accurately made. At first it seemed a little clumsy after being used to the Bell, but the aldermen stated this morning that the connections could be made with remarkable speed. The absolute secrecy of the system was another feature greatly admired. Since the terms of the proposed franchise are not as yet known, it is difficult to tell how the city legislators stand with reference to the company's doing business in this city.

The Meetings Are Interesting

Last night's meeting in Mark street church was an exceptional one, both as to the attendance and interest. The prospects are most encouraging for next week's meetings. The pastor preaches at both services to-morrow. All are invited to the fellowship meeting at 10 a.m. The evening meeting will be evangelistic throughout.

Winter Houseparty Tour Cuba and Mexico.

The cheapest and best trip ever run south. So much interest is centred in these two points of speculation. Here is an opportunity to visit them both and see and compare for yourself. Every point of interest will be visited, the trip going further south than any other ever run. American trips cost as much for Mexico alone. Patronize home industry when it is the best. The train will contain every possible luxury, the menus an elegant dining car equal to those of the best hotels. The management is thoroughly experienced in the running of special trains and quite familiar with Mexico, the doctor who will accompany the train having lived in Mexico for fifteen years.

The going trip takes in all the best of Kentucky, (Mammoth Cave), Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, with nine days in and about Havana, Cuba, stopping at the best American Hotel. Mardi Gras in New Orleans, Louisiana, Texas— Houston and San Antonio, and all of Mexico, taking circle trips to interesting and beautiful points that sometimes extend three and four hundred miles. On the return, Austin, Eureka, Hot Springs and St. Louis are visited.

Everything paid when you buy your ticket. Write for information to E. M. Cuthbert, 25 Maitland street, Toronto. 4d126

Peterborough Rugby Team RELUCTANTLY DECIDES TO Abandon Ottawa Trip

Decision Was Result of Action of C. R. F. U. in Appointing Two Ottawa Officials for the Game—Though Enquiry Was Made on Wednesday, no Information Could be Secured Until Yesterday Afternoon—Situation Referred to C.R.F.U. Officials—Much Disappointment Felt.

Much disappointment was occasioned among local rugby players and enthusiasts over the cancelling of the proposed trip to Ottawa to meet the Rough Riders II. of that place today in a "sudden death" game for the Dominion championship.

The action of the local club, taken most reluctantly, was a result of the selection of officials for the game made by the C.R.F.U. by which two Ottawa men, McDonald and Rice, both of whom were unknown to the local club, were chosen. The officials of the club expressed strong dissatisfaction with the proposed arrangements, as by previous understanding between the two interested clubs, one Toronto or Brockville, and one Ottawa official were to have been appointed. No information with regard to the appointments made could be secured by the local club up till last night. President Hollingshead on Wednesday last wired President "King" Clancy, of the C.R.F.U., requesting information as to the selections made, and no reply has been forthcoming. The first information received was yesterday afternoon, when, in reply to an inquiry by Mr. Chris. Graham, President Huband, of the Rough Riders, wired that McDonald and Rice, both of Ottawa, and unknown to the locals, had been chosen. Further negotiations were entered into, the Ottawa team agreeing to the choice by the local team of a referee for the Burnside portion of the game. In view of the previous action of the C.R.F.U. officials, there was no feeling of confidence that the arrangement suggested would be carried out, and as it was too late to make the arrangements for the trip, the team was reluctantly forced to abandon the idea of going.

In view of the concession made in consenting to meet the Rough Riders upon their own grounds, with thoroughly neutral officials, the locals feel that they were doing all that could reasonably be expected towards securing a fair contest for the Dominion championship. The matter has been placed in the hands of the C.R.F.U., and it is felt that the decision of last night will be sustained in the minds of all who have at heart the interests of fair sport.

Anniversary Was Celebrated

Last night Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bunting, 70 Albert street, celebrated their thirty-second wedding day at their home, which was filled with about fifty of their friends, who gathered to congratulate them on their anniversary. A delightful evening was spent and refreshments were served. Mrs. Robt. Wright presided at the organ, and Mrs. Wm. Jewett and Mr. R. Rowe each sang a number of solos which were much enjoyed. Congratulations were conveyed from friends in Hamilton in a telegram, which was read during the course of the evening. The Scriptures were read by the pastor, Rev. A. H. Brace, and deacons Gillaspie and A. Haddon offered prayer.

This thirty-second wedding anniversary will live long in the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Bunting as a pleasant one.

Death Occurred At Untimely Age

Miss Maud Baxter Passed Away Last Night.

Last night the death occurred in the Nicholls Hospital of Miss Maud Baxter, the only daughter of Mr. Robt. Baxter, at the age of 24 years. The deceased had been a sufferer for five years from nerve and heart trouble, and for the last four weeks had been in the hospital.

The late Miss Baxter was the only child of Mr. Baxter and was born in Fenelon Falls, but has resided in this city with her parents for the last twenty years. Her mother died eleven years ago, and since that time she has kept house for her father until her illness. The deceased was a bright, loveable young lady, and had many friends, who will learn with deep regret of her untimely death.

The funeral will take place on Monday at 10 o'clock from the family residence, 29 Harvey street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

An Evidence Of Efficiency Is Furnished

Another evidence of the value of the advertising columns of The Examiner was furnished to-day. Yesterday's paper contained an advertisement for a gold watch which was lost, and this morning the missing timepiece was returned to this office, where the owner may have it on application. That it was found so quickly is a tribute to the efficiency of this paper's advertising columns."

A Memorial Service Sunday

Rev. W. M. Mackay will conduct a memorial service in Knox church (corner Wolfe and Reid streets) Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. This service will be in memory of the late Mrs. Arnott, who had been a member of Knox church and choir, and whose death, so sad and unexpected, has caused the first removal in this recently organized church.

A Lecture At All Saint's

To-morrow at 8.30 the All Saints' branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will take Holy Communion, and all the members are requested to be present.

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock Rev. Canon Dixon will give one of his excellent illustrated lectures in All Saints' church. His subject will be "Reminiscences of the Boer War from a Religious Standpoint." This lecture will be interesting, no doubt, and that there will be a large attendance at the meeting is certain. There will be a silver collection in aid of the mission funds of the diocese.

Procure Perfect Potatoes.

We unloaded two cars of fine, sound mealy potatoes this week, and expect another car this week. Is this sufficient proof that our potatoes are the best in the city? S. A. OKE, 376 George street: Bell telephone 18; Machine Telephone 16.

Service for Men.

—On Sunday evening a service for men will be held in St. John's church. Special music has been prepared by the choir.

TAMMANY METHODS IN TORONTO.

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 30—The dismissal of the Toronto license inspectors has been the subject for considerable comment in political circles here, and leading Conservatives are freely expressing their disappointment over the course pursued by the Government."

Mr. Hampden Burnham, one of the most prominent members of that party, to-day, said to The News: "The explanation of the Premier to the statement of the Commissioners was not satisfactory. Mr. Whitney started so splendidly that we all hoped he would be able to resist the demands of the spoilsmen."

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt said: "The action of the Government in dismissing the license inspectors of Toronto appears to me very similar to the Tammany methods in New York. No excuse, whatever, in my opinion, can be offered for it except that it was done at the dictation of the "Machine Boss" of the Conservative party in Toronto."—From the Toronto News.

OUR RUGBY TEAM,

The Peterborough team has shown in the affair of the game scheduled at Ottawa, a commendable spirit—in the first instance, a true sporting spirit, in making the concession implied in consenting to play the game to decide the Canadian championship, on the grounds of their opponents, only stipulating that in the appointment of game officials, such arrangements would be made as to insure fair play. A commendable spirit of self respect was shown in resenting the treatment received at the hands of the president of the Canadian Union who, in addition to absolutely neglecting the courtesy of a reply to the request of the president of the local club to be informed of the names of officials selected, took the peculiar course of appointing two Ottawa officials, in direct violation of the agreement as to officials made by the two clubs interested. Even then he did not notify the local team, who were informed of the appointment of officials through the club, which, in view of the arrangement mentioned, had been given such an advantage in the matter of officials. The local club were willing to fight for the Canadian championship on fair, even terms, even on their opponents' own grounds, but they refused to be handicapped by possible partizan officials. The Canadian Union may yet come to its sense of fair play, and, if the weather permits, it is hoped that the game may yet be played on terms such as only the local club will consent to—a fair chance for an honest test of which is the better team.

This failure to be allowed to play for the championship is a very sharp disappointment to the local team, which has brought credit upon the the city by the splendid record it has compiled this season — never losing a game — an unbroken series of victories, saving the tie with Dundas on the latter's grounds. It was natural that they should be eager to keep up the swing of victory — they made the concession of playing upon their opponents' own grounds, and that they have been prevented by the action of the O. R.F.U. officials is a disappointment, both to the team and their thousands of admirers, both of whom had good hopes of the local team winning a double championship.

Captain Hurtubise has managed his team splendidly, the team has done all that he demanded of it—and the final outcome, as it stands, is discouraging, but he and the team, still possess the admiration, and sympathy, of our citizens, in the bad luck which prevented the boys from winning—in all probability — the championship of Canada — they only wanted a fair field, and no favour, and they got neither as regards the deciding game.

Farmers as a rule do not take kindly to ideas of increasing public offices and the consequent public expenditure. Then the fact that they have suggested the creation of a series of public offices indicates how much they are alive to their own interests and also their capacity for initiation. At the meeting of the Tariff Commission Thursday, Victoria farmers blazed out an entirely new trail—suggesting something not heard of before at the series of Ontario meetings which closed here on Thursday. On the face of it their proposition for the appointment of a permanent commission to deal with combines, has much to commend it. Recent events go to show how thoroughly the body politic has become saturated with the poison of organized "grafts." Something like that seems to be desirable. Combines take so many shapes and are so fertile in devising shifts permitting them to evade the laws and regulations made against their operations, that only special machinery operated with especial vigilance will avail to neutralise their machinations.

The Sultan of Morocco owes his well-organized army of 20,000 men, to which in war time 80,000 irregulars could be added, entirely to the Scotchman, Raid Sir Harry Maclean, who draws a salary of $35,000 a year.

The Whitney License Outrage Condemned By The Review

The Examiner's Position on the Subject Practically Endorsed —The Surrender to "The Baser and Venal Element" of the Conservative Party.

The Mail and Empire maintains its unique position as almost the sole journalistic defender of the spoils system outrage, perpetrated by the Whitney Government in dismissing perfectly competent and satisfactory license inspectors at the instance of the ward heeler element of Toronto, and replacing them with the creatures of this ward element, who will, of course, obey the will of their creators. Yesterday the Examiner quoted the condemnatory articles of independent journals. It now remains to show that thorough-paced "Tory" journals condemn the action in question of the Whitney Government. Our readers know that it takes a mighty strong reason to warrant the Peterborough Review in printing even a suggestion of criticism of the actions of a "Tory" Government. Referring to the dismissed inspectors and the action of the Government in dismissing them the Review uses this—for it—strong language of condemnation:

"It has not been shown that they were partizan or negligent in the enforcement of the law. They, ostensibly at any rate, discharged their duties to the satisfaction of the License Board—the personnel of which was probably the strongest and most representative of any in the province. Messrs. Flavelle, Davidson and Murray, were fearless, honest and efficient men, rendering service from a high sense of public duty. They had no axes to grind, no private ends to cater to, and no ambition in any other sense than doing their duty faithfully and fearlessly. They attempted to live up to their powers and obligations and remove the liquor license business from the realm of politics so far as possible. They had confidence in the inspectors. It is not, therefore, surprising, that the members of the Board, in view of the summary dismissal of the inspecting officers—after nine months of service under the new regime — should have promptly resigned. Men of their stamp and ability could scarcely have done anything else and retained their self-respect.

"In the first place, if the Whitney Government deemed it expedient to get rid of the inspectors—providing the contention that the cry of yielding to the ward element and the spoilsmen does not hold good — why was it necessary to wait nine months before taking action? The move should have been made long ago. The function of any Government is of higher and greater importance than the mere dispensing of party patronage and firing men out of public positions in order to make room for a few seekers after office. True, the provincial offices have been monopolized by Liberals for thirty years but no man should be summarily dismissed, except on the ground of incompetency or partisanship. Hon Dr. Reaume took a commendable stand when he announced that no public servant would be removed without sufficient cause. Even if every office in the gift of the Government were declared vacant to-morrow, it would not satisfy one-tenth of the claimants and would please only a small percentage of the Conservative party, while alienating the support, confidence and affection of the thousands who are seeking no favour at the hands of ministers, and desire, as has been said, 'only good Government and the fair treatment of faithful and efficient public servants.'"

After thus committing lese majestie, the Review goes on to say in effect that if the administration of the license law must be carried out, it must be divorced from political control and the present system of appointing commissioners — meaning doubtless the Whitney system — abolished. The Review says:—

"Under the present system it would appear—in view of the circumstances which have recently been brought to light—that the Government cannot carry out its desire to enforce the law strictly and independently of the baser and venal element in political associations."

The Government "cannot carry out its desire." Why not? It could have done so if it had had the desire. Never a better opportunity was presented the Whitney Government to "carry out its desire" than the City of Toronto. They had appointed their own commissioners, who had the co-operation, the hearty and whole-souled support of inspectors in whom they had every confidence. The commissioners were fearless and honest, as it is generally admitted. They had the help of loyal inspectors. The conditions could not have been surpassed for a strict and impartial enforcement of the license law. The Government had the best machinery available to carry out their "desire" if, they had it, to "enforce the law strictly and independently of the baser element." But the "baser element" demanded the destruction of these ideal conditions for the proper enforcement of the law—they demanded the spoils, they demanded the dismissal of these inspectors and the substitution of ward workers who would carry out the will of "the baser and venal elements," and make the administration of the license law serve the dirty designs of ward heelers. If the Whitney Government had had an honest "desire" to enforce the liquor license law, it would not have held up its hands at the stand-and-deliver bidding of "the baser element" and would not have thus destroyed the best possible available machinery for the purpose, and substituted machinery—in the basest acceptation of the term—whose object was to bedevil the administration of the law to serve its own party ends.

Here is another idol shattered. In this very county there were temperance "Tories" and political grafters disguised as temperance men, who hailed the Whitney Government as the ideal of temperance reform with its grand policy of strict non-partizan administration of the law. The Ross Government was a delusion and a snare—they would have none of it. Whitney was the bold and incorruptible, who would make the license law respected. Now they see this same bold, incorruptible Whitney cowering, shrinking and surrendering under the party lash, becoming a vulgar spoilsman, at the beck of the "coarse grained political element" which represents the worst in ward politics in a city where corrupt methods have been brought by Conservative experts of a certain class, to the point of a fine art, and at the same time sacrificing the interests of temperance reform as represented by honest enforcement of the law and turning it over to the claws of the "Tammany" tiger, whose adoption into the family of the Conservative Government Dr. Beattie Nesbitt has demanded and obtained. Dr. Beattie Nesbitt demanded that the boys should have access to the spoils, and the door has been thrown open.

Rosy Reports From the West

Farmers Look Upon It As The Banner Year.

Messrs. A. C. and Arthur Carveth and Miss Violet Carveth, of Hall's Glen, returned last night from the Northwest, where they have spent the last three months. They were in the Eastern district in Saskatchewan, and report that the crops in the West this year are all that the despatches represent them as being. This year is looked upon as the banner year by the farmers of that part of the country, and as a result of the excellent yield they are feeling particularly jubilant. One of the Carveth brothers who went to the West this year has decided to remain there.

Dorcas Society's New Officers

They Were Elected for the Park Street Baptist Society.

The Dorcas Society of the Park Street Baptist Church met this week at the home of Mrs. Henry Jewett, Chamberlen street. The officers were installed and are:—

Mrs. (Rev.) A. H. Brace, Hon. President.
Mrs. M. Mowry—President.
Mrs. J. Johnston—Secretary.
Mrs. R. Wright—Treasurer.

On motion it was resolved that the Executive should meet the pastor and deacons to alter the constitution of the society as the object for which the society was organized have been meet, viz: to pay the $40.00 per year to the Church Edifice Society till the church was paid for.

The ladies nobly shouldered the responsibility and stood by the trustees till the mortgage was burned. With such workers the outlook is hopeful for the new church.

If you see it you won't forget it. It possesses new and pleasing features that is making it "sell like hot cakes." Besides being a handsome looking Range and easy on fuel, it has these five valuable points:

1—All Nickle-plating is removable, and can be easily lifted off without turning a screw or bolt.

2—It is fitted for a gas attachment at the back so that it can be used as a Gas Range in summer.

3—Gas connection can also be made under the oven so as to bake with gas in summer.

4—It has the Patent Duplex Grate.

5—Made for coal and wood in all sizes.

It is found to be a popular Range and the Guelph Stove Company have appointed us Sole Agents for Peterborough.

Club Grouping For This Season

Last night the executive committee of the O.H.A. met in Toronto, when the grouping of the clubs for the season, was arranged. Those that affect this club are:

INTERMEDIATE.

Group No. 2.

Convenor — C. G. Graham, Peterborough. Meet at Port Hope, Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough.

JUNIOR.

Group No. 2.

Convenor — A. W. Hayden, Cobourg. Meet at Port Hope, Belleville, Picton, Port Hope II., Cobourg II., Peterborough II.

HOCKEY

Galt will play Berlin in Berlin on the afternoon of Christmas Day. The return game will be played in Galt on New Year's Day. Both these teams are in the senior O.H.A.

• • • •

The Berlin hockey team evidently has championship aspirations. They are in training already.

• • • •

The Victors and Alerts have secured their uniforms for the season and they will be on exhibition in Lang and Maher's show window in about a week. The colours of the Victors are purple and white with a beautiful crest, a large V enclosed in a circle, upon the sweaters. The Alerts have chosen red and white as their colours with a large red A on the sweaters. They will also wear red and white toques.

The outfits of both teams are very neat and excellent taste has been displayed in their choice.

The Victors and Alerts will enter the junior city league provided one is organized.

When "Chauncer" Elliott turned down an offer to referee in the International League the other day it was the first time he had been heard of for a long time. Come out of your shell for the winter, Chaucer?

• • • •

St. Catharines and Meaford will probably play in the Intermediate O.H.A. this winter.

• • • •

Hamilton will have a team in the Junior O.H.A. this year. Everybody's playing the game this winter.

RUGBY.

Galt is looking far into the future. According to the Galt Reformer the western town expects to land the Junior O.R.F.U. Optimism is all right and without it sport is no good, but to deliberately make a forecast like the above one needs to be a fortune teller.

Outside of the Tigers a basketball team and Charlie Conkie, Hamilton is a dead one, in the line of sport.

For the first time in five years Michigan has been defeated, the eleven of Chicago University turning the trick. The score was 2-0. Clarke of Michigan tried to run back one of Eckersall's punts and was pushed back over the line for two points.

The New York World has picked an all American football team, but does not include Eckersall the famous Chicago University kicker.

President Wheeler of the University of Wisconsin, says:—

"The game of football as it is played on the Coast must be made over or it will have to be given up entirely. A slight changing of the rules for the purpose of eliminating slugging will not suffice. An entirely new game must be devised."

Offside interference is the ruination of the game.

THE TURF.

It's strange that no race horse has ever been named "Cassie Chadwick."

Mr. Harry Rice, well-known horseman, of Welland, Ont., will take in the Canadian ice races this winter with Flora Hunter, 2.14 1-4, the pacing queen over a half-mile track. This pacer made her record at Ottawa two years ago in a race, driven by Mr. Rice, and should win her share of the money this winter. Mr. Rice has a colt sired by Hal B. 2.04 1-4, dam Flora Hunter, turf record 2.17 1-4, which is a star pacer right out of the shell. Success to him always.

• • • •

Flora Hunter will probably be stabled in Peterborough.

The following programme for the Dufferin Park, Toronto, races to be held to-day has been arranged:—

First race, half-mile heats—Matt, Hattie R., John Riley, Reflect, Farmer Boy, Altonia, My Candidate, Dixie Boy.

Second race, free-for-all, mile heats—Gipsy Girl, Looking Glass, Velma, Black Joe, Williams C., Harry L., Little Boy.

Third race, half-mile heats— Velma Roy, Little Hector, Star Walker, Brian Boru, Major Hamburg, Similine, Crowns entry, Sargent's entry, Gertie C.

Several of the above horses have trotted in Peterborough and some of them will like enter here for the winter meet.

Jack Staunton, Hamilton, is trying to arrange a game with either Keough or Clearwater. Staunton is the champion of Canada.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

A PETERBOROUGH VOCALIST.

An interesting and delightful novelty was the concert of Living Songs arranged and directed by Mr. August Wilhelmj, which took place at Massey Hall on Tuesday evening. The title is applied to a species of musical entertainment which is very popular in Germany. A scenic background is provided, and the singers appear in costumes appropriate to the nationality and sentiment of their songs, and also offer additional illustration in the shape of action. The vocalists whose services had been engaged by Mr. Wilhelmj for the occasion were the Misses H. Adele Blashford, Nellie Gilmore, Mabel Paley, Annie Tough, Bertha Rogers, sopranos; E. Pearl Brook, contralto; and Messrs. W. M. Van der Water, tenor; R. N. Jolliffe, baritone, and P. McDougall, tenor. The incidental music was played by Messrs. Thomas Randall, piano; Ronald Roberts, violin; Lubraico, flute; Dr. Nickolai, 'cello; Mrs. Blight, piano, and Mr. Frank Blashford, violin. While all the numbers were felicitously treated, one may mention as specially enjoyable "The Minstrel," sung by Miss Blashford with violin obligato by Mr. Frank Blashford; "The Happy Couple," sung by Mr. Van der Water and Miss Nellie Gilmore, and the operatic trio, by Miss Blashford and Messrs. Wilhelmj and P. McDougall. The stage was prettily set with a drop curtain and a picturesque background, and the lighting effects were excellent. Herr Wilhelmj's singing was of course a feature of the concert. — Toronto Saturday Night.

A Sherlock Holmes play — that in itself is almost enough. A road company made up of capable actors who knew and properly interpreted their lines, that was more, so the afternoon and evening crowds, at the Lafayette left, without the slightest disappointment, for they looked upon one of the most presentable melodramas they have seen in a long time.

There is plenty of thrilling stuff in any of the Holmes stories to draw and hold a lot of people, and in this instance flavour was lent to it in the announcement that the company was assembled and is managed by Edward E. Rice.

What person has looked into things theatrically in the last score of years and not been interested in the word, Rice? Evangeline, the first, and one of the greatest of its sort, came through Mr. Rice, and his ventures since have been none the less noteworthy.—Detroit News.

This play will be seen at the Grand Opera House, here, on December 13th.

Mock Parliament at St. Paul's.

—Great interest is being taken in the sitting of the Mock Parliament in connection with St. Paul's Guild, next Tuesday night, at eight o'clock, in St. Paul's school room An agreement between the premier, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, and the leader of the opposition, Mr. E. S. Clarry, has been made, whereby the sitting will be an open one. A lively debate on the burning topic of the day, the question of temperance legislation, will be held. A special invitation to be present is extended to the ladies. The subject for this debate was introduced by Mr. J. H. Larmouth, the attorney general, at the last sitting of the Parliament.

Ozone is a germ killer and a valuable remedy, but to get the best results from it you must have a tonic laxative to take with it. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest and best form in which Ozone is sold Every bottle of this remedy contains a coupon which entitles you to a package of "Celery King" the well known remedy, free.

In buying this solution, you get about twice as much Ozone for your money as by buying other brands, in addition to getting a package of "Celery King" for nothing. You thus save money in two ways besides getting Ozone in its purest and most concentrated form.

Ask your druggist for "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" and if he does not keep it you can get it from the Public Drug Co., Bridgeburg, Ont., by writing for it. Sold by W.B. WARNE. 5

The Farmers And the Tariff Considered

A Representative Farmer Before the Tariff Commission—An Ample Presentation of the Case of the Agriculturist—Profits of Farming Contrasted With That of Manufacturing—One Farmer Advocates Pensioning Manufacturers.

INFANT INDUSTRIES STILL WANT CODDLING

The Manitoba Free Press in the course of an article concerning "the farmers and the Tariff," thus summarises the situation as respects the agriculturalists:—

"The interests of the farmers of the East have been adequately and most forcibly represented at the sittings of the Tariff Commission in Ontario and Quebec during the past few weeks.

Representatives of the manufacturers have appeared before the Commission in large numbers asking for a higher tariff. The representatives of the farmers, without exception, have asked to have the tariff left as it is, or lowered. The demand of the former has been for a prohibitive tariff on all manufactured goods. The attitude of the farmer is, as expressed by Mr. Thomas McMillan, of Seaforth, who appeared before the Commission in London, that they "are not prepared to hear of any more tariff taxation on behalf of any other industry." On the one hand, the Commission is urged to raise the wall of protection anywhere from 30 to 60 per cent.; on the other, to lower duties or abolish them altogether, except where they are essential for revenue purposes. The lack of good and sufficient reasons in support of the former demand has been striking; but even still more striking are the strength and aggressiveness of the opposition to that demand. The interests desiring tariff increases have for some time past been carrying on an expensive, elaborately planned propaganda; they must find it sorely disappointing to note the accumulating proofs that it is a crusade of failure they have embarked upon.

In presenting the case against other industries being empowered by a higher tariff to prey upon agriculture, Mr. McMillan, who is a representative Western Ontario farmer quoted authentic figures of the receipts and expenditures for a year on a $14,000 200-acre farm, one of the best in Huron county. The receipts, mostly from cattle sold, were $5,031.64 and the expenditures $4,336.50, the largest item being cattle bought, leaving a net balance of $695.14, no allowance being made for the wages for anyone of the family. "Dozens of farmers in Huron county," said Mr. McMillan, "although they have exercised all their ingenuity and economy during the last five years, have only been able to mark time." He analyzed the products of the farm in the Ontario Bureau of Industries' returns, and showed that, deducting that portion which is fed and is, therefore, raw material, there was left $126,500,000 a year, which, divided among 185,000 farmers, made an average gross revenue of $738 for one year in Ontario. "You will see," he continued, "that there is not very much chance of our becoming millionaires in a short time."

By Mr. McMillan and by the other gentlmen who appeared before the Tariff Commission last week in Toronto, figures were quoted to show that while agriculture in Canada has four times the investment, three times as many employees, and pays two and a half times as much in wages, yet its profits are only one and two-thirds times as much as those of the manufacturers. Mr. James A. Glen, of Glanworth, who appeared as the spokesman of the Grange, in protesting against any increase in the tariff, said, "If the manufacturers are not able to stand alone, we might pension them. It would be cheaper." Mr. William Baty, of London, proved that the farmer cannot be made the beneficiary of tariff legislation by showing that on the principal items of farm produce which are exported, the price paid in Canada is fixed by the price paid in the world's market. Said Mr. Baty — "We ask that in any tariff revision the changes be on the line of reduction, and very considerable reduction. Infant industries seem to be very loth to leave their haven. They are quite willing to be babies longer still. They remind me of a farmer who was feeding milk to a calf, and he said, 'The more milk I give it the bigger a calf it gets.'"

It is noteworthy that the men who have appeared before the Tariff Commission and voiced the desires of the farmers of Ontario have demonstrated convincingly their knowledge of the matters under consideration. The facts and the arguments they have presented make out a decidedly strong case against the demands for tariff increases.

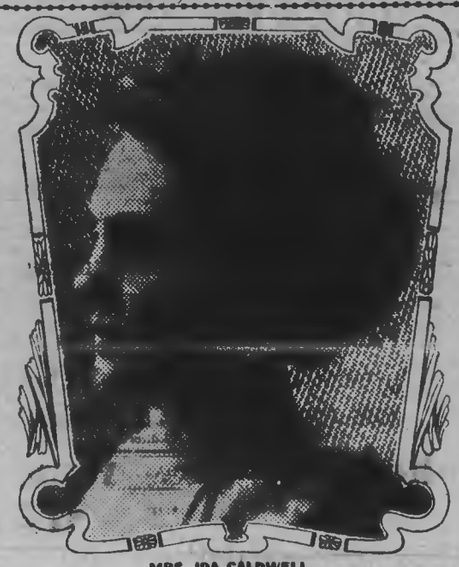
Pe-ru-na, Used as a Last Resort, Cured Her of a Severe Attack of Catarrh of the Lungs.



MRS. IDA CALDWELL.

The Sensational Cure of Mrs. Caldwell is the Talk of Her Acquaintances.

Mrs. Ida Caldwell, 506 Pearl street, Sioux City, Ia., Vice-President Order of Washington, writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the respiratory organs off and on for the last three years until I thought it was chronic. My chest and lungs were irritated and I had to use the greatest care not to expose myself to chilly air or dampness as it increased my troubles.

"My physician advised me to try a change of climate, but I was unable to leave my family. Reading of the wonderful cures performed by Peruna, I bought a bottle.

"It was with the greatest satisfaction that I found it the one medicine among them all which cured me. I was relieved within three days and after two months and a half the irritation was gone, my lungs perfectly healed and my health restored."—Ida Caldwell.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state of the Union.

We have many thousands of letters from grateful women, with permission to use them in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Catarrh would not be such a curse in this country if the people thoroughly understand its nature. It must be treated at once to prevent it from making inroads upon vital organs.

If you suffer from catarrh, buy Peruna to-day, for a day gained on the enemy, catarrh, means a day nearer recovery.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the one given here. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

Committees Met Last Night

Dan Spence Ambulance Contract Will be Renewed.

As a result of action taken at last night's meeting of the Property Committee, above their respective portals, will be emblazoned new legends, as follows:—"City Clerk's Office," and "City Treasurer's Office." Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have been commissioned to execute the work.

The members in attendance at the meeting were: Ald. Batten, (chairman,) and Aldermen Scott, Crowe and Hicks.

Finance Committee.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was also held, at which there were present, Ald. Mason (chairman) Mayor Best, and Aldermen Crowe, Adams and Batten.

In view of the expiration of the contract with Mr. D. Bolleghem for the care and service of the Dan Spence ambulance, the committee decided to recommend it's renewal upon terms similar to those of the contract.

The passing of a number of accounts was the only business transacted.

CARD OF THANKS.

Peterborough, Nov. 28, 1905.

O. S. Matchett, Esq., Record Keeper, Tent No. 69, Knights of the Maccabees of the World:—

Dear Sir,—Will you be good enough to convey to your Association the thanks of the widow and of ourselves for their exceedingly prompt and satisfactory settlement which has been made of the insurance claim on the life of the late John B. Young.

Yours truly,
James Middleton,
G. A. Young,
W. Swinton,
Executors.

STORY COMPETITION For Examiner Prize

"THE ROMANCE OF A LONELY GRAVE."

BY MISS OLIVIA L. CUFFE.

Miss Cuffe is thirteen years of age, and is a daughter of Mr. Tarleton Cuffe, of this city. She attended both the public and convent schools in Peterborough passing the entrance at midsummer with honours and is now in the Upper First.

Near Young's Point there is an island, one of a group. The readers attention is not drawn to it from the fact that it is more beautiful than its sister isles, but because of a very pretty Indian legend with which it is connected.

In the early history of Peterborough this island, as well as all the land to the north of it, was owned, or more properly claimed, by an Indian chief named John Cow, usually called Captain Jack. He was a tall, well-proportioned and very handsome man, proud of his possessions and jealous of all interference with his real or imagined rights. The white man might fish in the lakes or the silvery streams which darted out from the recesses of the ancient forests, or he might hunt such game as birds, deer, etc., in the[illegible]s themselves, but the fur-[illegible]nimals he claimed as his esp[illegible]roperty, and woe to the unwary [illegible]et who ventured to set his traps [illegible]thin the boundaries of his domain.

Proud as Jack was of his possessions, there was something of which he was much prouder, a vision of beauty which brightened every day of his existence, his youngest daughter, Polly.

Jack had been blessed with two children, both girls, which last was a keen disappointment to him, although, later on, they grew to be the joy of his half-savage life. Both developed the traits of their handsome father—perfect in figure, tall and graceful as the swaying pines and spruce trees that clustered about their island home. Although both girls were extremely beautiful, the beauty of the younger far surpassed that of her elder sister. Unlike all her companions she possessed a rare olive complexion, heightened by the ruddy tints of health, which made her an ob[illegible]ect of envy and dislike to other Indian maidens. Her well-formed head was crowned by a wealth of long hair; her finely moulded face was lit up by dark, fathomless eyes; and her voice, though uncultured, was sweeter and more clear than the warbles of the oriole.

Let us take our stand on the shore of the lake near their humble dwelling. It is evening. A glorious moon has ascended to the summit of the arch of Heaven, and pours a perpendicular flood of light upon the silent world below. The motionless trees stretch their majestic boughs toward a cloudless firmament, and the rustling of a withered leaf or the distant howl of the wolf alone breaks upon the ear. Hark! What spirit of the air gives the music that is now wafted over the silvery expanse? An object in the distance explains all. Gradually we make out the bewitching figure of Polly, paddling her birch-bark canoe, bearing down towards us. As each successive note falls, the ripples from her paddle keep time to the wild strains of her sweet voice. From yonder mountain the sounds are re-echoed to mingle with the voices of water spirits. From island to island the goddess of the lake paddles, her graceful figure set to perfection by the beauty of the scenery surrounding her, now hidden under the drooping boughs of yonder willow, now revealed by the full splendour of the moon; chanting, now a mournful dirge, now raising her voice to one of the bird-like melodies of her native wilds.

Fall was approaching. Already

MISS OLIVIA L. CUFFE,
Writer of the Story, "The Romance of a Lonely Grave," in To-day's Issue.

the ivy, which twined about the bushes in front of Polly's home, was changing its green apparel for a gaudy red. The maples in the valley when situated near the tall, stately pine in his robe of dark green, resembled huge bouquets in their varieties of tint and colour.

The hunting expeditions were assembling to prepare for their annual journey to the northern hunting grounds. One of the parties was headed by Chief Chippagau, who at that time held a high place in the esteem of the various Indian tribes. He and his warriors were in good spirits over the prospect of a successful hunt. He was camping on one of the cluster of islands referred to, and it happened that one afternoon while his braves were making merry elsewhere, he saw a shadow pass, and, looking up, he beheld the most beautiful vision he had ever looked upon. Polly Cow, seated in her light canoe, her long hair floating behind her, showing to advantage her lovely face and perfect symmetry of form, all unconscious of stranger eyes. With great dexterity her shapely arms plied the paddle, while she carolled in concert one of her weird, sweet melodies. All that night the apparition was with him. That face with the beautiful dark eyes and perfect figure rose before his view. After trying in vain to rid himself of this weak spirit, he resolved to quit at once the land of the unknown beauty, which he did; but he had not proceeded far before the desire to look again on the spirit which had crossed his path, became uncontrollable.

He had barely commenced his return journey before he fully resolved to ask the handsome Polly in marriage. On entering the abode of Captain Jack, he at once made known the errand. Jack, who had met him before and was impressed with his manly noble qualities, was not averse to granting his consent, while Polly, although she exhibited the characteristic modesty of an Indian maiden, could not fail to be pleased with this erect figure, active limbs and manly countenance. The preliminaries were soon arranged, and it was agreed that Polly should become the wife of Chief Chippagau on the return of the hunting party.

But the hopes of all were doomed to disappointment. Before the chief again started on his trail to the north, Polly was seized with a fever which had broken out in the vicinity but a few days before, and despite the utmost efforts of the medicine men, grew gradually worse until her life was despaired of. On the third day after the attack, Gitchee Manitou called the goddess of the lakes away from those who loved her so tenderly. The bereaved father and lover were inconsolable. It seemed as if all the brightness had forever gone out of their lives.

Handsome Jack determined that his daughter should sleep in a fitting grave, and that night, guided by the stars she had loved, he paddled down to the particular cluster of islands (mentioned before, and choosing the prettiest, commenced operations. He dug a grave, walling it carefully with stones, and in this he deposited his precious burden. Then making a path to the shore, where the spirit of the departed might wander and listen to the irises and pond-lilies whisper words of comfort and love, he returned sorrowfully to his deserted home.

This story is mainly true, and Polly Cow Island is one of the popular sights sought out by tourists. It was given to the late Mrs. Traill by the Canadian Government in remembrance of the invaluable assistance she has given in opening up the country by means of her intensely interesting books.

A few years ago a party of Englishmen, upon seeing the lonely grave to which this pathetic story is attached, formed a plan in which Polly's remains were to be taken to England; but, their actions becoming suspicious, they were watched, and their plans frustrated.

Polly's body rests in peace beneath the waving boughs of the tall, graceful balsam tree, that tells the sad story of her short sojourn among the rocky wilds of the Kawartha Lakes.

OLIVIA L. CUFFE.

"THE VISIT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES."

BY MISS GRACE TODD.

Miss Todd, the author of the story published below, is fifteen years of age. She attended the Public School in Ottawa and in Peterborough. She is in the Third Form of the Collegiate Institute, and is a daughter of Mr. R. J. Todd of this city.

In the midst of a very woody country lay a small, but thriving, town. This place was not very well cultivated, as there were large stumps, and a lot of marsh to be seen in several places, still there were several stores in same. A good-sized river ran on its endless voyage as one boundary, while a small creek formed another limit.

As soon as it was definitely known that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, was to pay this little town a first visit, a meeting of the councils was held, at which a committee was appointed to look after the necessary preparations for giving His Royal Higness a fitting reception, and a considerable amount of money was left at the disposal of this "Board of Management."

Among the many decorations which were set up by this committee were a couple of arches, whose appearance was strikingly imposing. One was a Tudor arch, whose two towers had panels surrounded by wreaths of roses, thistles, shamrocks and maple leaves. There was another arch of the Gothic style, covered with grain, while on each tower was the Crown, the Bible and the Sceptre.

All the main street was adorned with hundredss of flags, mottoes, and festoonings. Where the main street was intersected by two other prominent streets, large poles had been erected. These were wreathed with evergreens, surmounted with large flags, and chains of flags were extended from the poles to the buildings. From these festoons hung garlands of evergreens.

The lumbermen's arch requires notice. It was a triple arch made of lumber. The lumber was so piled as give the curves a very fine appearance. On the very top of it were two deer, and on each side of these was a birch bark canoe. Not a nail was used in the erection of this.

The day of the proposed visit rose bright, and as beautiful as could be expected, and the town looked as clear and nice as one would hope to see it. The streets had been sprinkled the preceding evening, which lent a nice coolness to the atmosphere, and laid the dust.

A very large crowd gathered along the streets, and on the station platform. The Rifle Company was at the depot to form an escort for His Royal Highness, and just about half-past eleven the train pulled in with its treasured burden. As it drew up a mighty cheer from the throats of the loyal "Canucks" rent the air, and some little difficulty was manifested in keeping the passage to the carriages open. As the little town's guest approached his carriage the Rifle Company presented arms, and and held them in that position until His Royal Highness had entered his carriage. Owing to the multitude of people the procession was delayed for a short time. Wildest enthusiasm prevailed until the Queen's highly treasured son reached the Court House grounds. Ladies waved their handkerchiefs and threw bouquets to the Prince, while cheer after cheer broke heartily from the crowds which lined the streets.

An immense multitude had gathered at the Court House ground, where a large pavilion had been erected. This building was handsomely carpeted, and there was a chair covered with scarlet cloth placed upon it for His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. It was covered with a canvass awning, and was most attractively festooned. Facing this structure, were arranged seats for the accommodation of one thousand school children, and the rest of the grounds afforded ample standing room for five thousand people.

As soon as the Prince ascended his dais throne, the scholars sang the National Anthem:

"God save our gracious Queen,
Long may Victoria reign,
God save the Queen;
Send her victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the Queen.
Thy choicest gifts in store,
On her be pleased to pour,
Long may she reign;
May she defend our laws,
And ever give us cause
To sing with heart and voice—
God save the Queen."

The singing was very well conducted, indeed, and the appearance of the children left its impression on the Royal visitor, as he seemed, as well as those with him, delighted with the sight. After the singing, addresses from the county, town and several townships, were read, to which the Prince replied: "Gentlemen, I thank you sincerely for the addresses which you have presented to me. In the Queen's name I acknowledge the expressions of your loyalty to her Crown and person; and, for myself, I am grateful to you for this welcome to your neighbourhood."

After the Governor-General had intimated that His Royal Highness had but a limited time at his disposal, the royal party were escorted to the station by the Rifle Company. The procession went through the principal streets, and, as the Prince's carriage passed under the lumbermen's arch, the men on it, who were dressed with red shirts and black trousers, the very picture of able-bodied, well-developed men, sent up a cheer, showing that their lungs were in fine shape.

In less than one hour after the Prince had arrived at this little town he was speeding away, leaving behind him thousands of hearts beating with loyalty to his royal mother and personal attachments for himself.

In the evening of this memorable day there was a display of fireworks, which many interested witnessed, and which lasted for several hours. Not a single accident, or mishap, occurred during the day to detract from the enjoyment of the day.

A very sensible movement was inaugurated at the meeting of the council on Monday night, by a motion of Councillor Smith looking to the procuring of a special Act from the Ontario Legislature to enable the town to consolidate the debenture debt, and reduce the rate of interest payment. The rate of interest paid at present on town debentures is 6 and 7 per cent. At the present price of money a first class security as the town of Peterborough debentures offer, can easily be placed on the market at par, at 4 per cent. At 5 per cent. debentures should be placed without difficulty.

Rev. D. L. Clare Gives Views On Local Option

Combats the Statements That Town Will be Killed if Local Option Carries--Gives Examples of Other Places to Prove His Statements--The Situation in Toronto Junction.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In view of the fact that a Local Option bylaw is to be presented to the electors of Lakefield, I desire to make a few remarks to the business men of that town.

The great weapon that will be used by the liquor interests is that Local Option will kill the town. Now if that statement were true I would hesitate to ask men whose business is at stake to vote for Local Option. At least the other consideration would have to be very strong before I should ask them to.

Supposing that fact is true, has the management of the Lakefield hotels been such as to merit a future lease of life. That is one point that must not be overlooked.

But returning to the relation of the liquor interests to the business of the town. I crave a little of your valuable space. Are we to believe that business is to be ruined because the liquor interests pose as prophets. I insist that they must prove by facts that liquor is inseparable to a town's property before I, for one, will believe that cry. I ask no one to believe me unless I can give solid facts which will carry weight with any jury. And I insist that the liquor interests must do likewise before they have any right to be listened to by any business man. Has business been hurt by Local Option in many of our western towns? I will quote from a clipping, facts regarding two western towns:

On the Red River stands two cities, on opposite banks. The population was about equal, and so was the amount of taxable property, when some years ago Fargo, being in the State of North Dakota, came under the regime of State prohibition. Moorehead, on the opposite bank, being in the State of Minnesota, remained under license. Now note what was the sequel, for it is an extraordinary lesson.

The liquor people and their sympathizers ventured on the most lugubrious predictions about poor Fargo. It would become part of the wilderness. Its people would cross the Red River to Moorehead, where they could get drink if they wanted. Then its taxes would be so inordinate that new immigrants seeking homes would be scared away from it. But in twelve years Moorehead, with its licensed temples of Bacchus, has seen its population increase only from 2,500 to 3,500. It is still nothing but a big village. And the expense involved by the increase of criminality caused by the worship of liquor has far more than eaten up the income from the saloon tax. Meantime she has all these years been looking across the river at her rival, and what has been developing there?

Fargo, which was to be ruined by prohibition, has grown from a village of 2,500 to a handsome city, containing 12,000 inhabitants. These have put in electric light plant, fine waterworks, paved fifteen miles of streets, built splendid schools, and are able to boast of the best public improvements in the Northwest. Yet two years ago the mayor signed and published a statement that all the time their taxes had been lower than those of the saloon town just across the river.

Mr. W. E. Raney, Barrister, of Toronto Junction, stated: What is the effect on business? I confess not to have much patience with this inquiry, and for two reasons. In the first place, it assumes that the barroom is an institution whose absence might, by some possibility, injure legitimate trade. I need not, before this assembly, answer the question in that view. And in the next place, if the barroom is removed surely there will be just so much more money for the grocer and the butcher and the savings bank. How could it be otherwise?

On this head I need only say, without making any application of the fact, that the town has never been more prosperous, and never, I believe, so prosperous, judging from what one sees and hears, as at present.

Dr. Hazlewood, twisting in the Christian Guardian of November 22, states:

Dear Sir,—So many of my friends are writing for information concerning the working of local option in this town, that I concluded, now that the fight is on in so many municipalities, to send you a few lines that orders might read and be helped in the struggle.

I have been in this town nearly five months, and though on the street every day, have seen but one drunken man in that time. If the vote was taken again I am convinced all who voted in its favour would do so again, and many who were opposed would now support the measure.

The treating system has been abolished. One of the ablest opponents of the measure admits this. A leading physician said that a young man, an employee of the C. P. R., whom he had been treating for typhoid fever in the hospital, told him that had it not been for local option he would have been without money to pay his expenses. When the bars closed, he quit drinking. When the fight was on, one of the liquor-sellers said the trade they wanted was not that of the drunks, etc., but of the working man who would drop in to have a drink when going to and from work. In anti-local-option days crowds of these men visited the bar every day. That is all stopped now.

Business was never better in the history of the town. The growth is more rapid than in "boom" days, and is more solid. The population since the closing of the bars has increased by nearly 2,000. This is not all to be attributed to local option. Other causes have helped. But local option has not killed the place, as many of the opponents of the measure predicted. Merchants say sales are greater, and collections easier. Women who had little money to spend in license days on the necessaries of life are in fairly affluent circumstances now. Also, three hundred dwellings have been erected this year. These, with some business places also erected this year, represent an outlay of close to three quarters of a million of dollars. A large hardware and tinware business advertised last week in a city paper for twenty-five tinsmiths and helpers, to whom steady employment is promised. First-class entertainment is provided for the public at the hotels. One hotel advertises "seven meals for one dollar." One of these hotel keepers has recently purchased one of the largest business blocks in town, proving that he has faith in the business stability of the town even if it is "dry."

An ex-policeman, not a supporter of local option, says, "Vice is driven from our streets. I used to have to go into those bars in license days three or four times a night, and clean them out."

The sergeants of the police force said to me the other day, "Tell the people local option is all right." Some liquor may be, and doubtless is, sold here, but it is done secretly. The men who sell have been punished.

A leading citizen said to me: "I am pleased to say Toronto Junction is a much more desirable place to live and do business in under local option, than ever it was under the license system."

Toronto Junction, as the result of a satisfactory experience, cries with a loud voice to all municipalities "Banish the bar!"

J. H. HAZLEWOOD.

Now you will remember a few weeks ago I referred to Toronto Junction. I now give to you the testimony of an alderman, a lawyer, and a clergyman, touching on the business interests of that place.

Mr. Charles Gordon, clerk of Owen Sound, asked for an unbiased answer as to the effect of local option on the town. Mr. Whettar, alderman of Toronto Junction, states:

In reply to your letter of 23rd inst., I might say that I have conscientiously answered all your questions as far as my own unbiased opinion goes, and they apply to conditions in our town. I saw a member of the police force and several citizens and they strengthen me in my opinion.

I could give you names of men that were opposed to the bylaw before its inception, who say that they think that it has done good, and would vote for it again.

I have lived in Toronto Junction for over fifteen years, and while I was always hopeful of the town's future, things never were better than during the past year. In the case of our own business I might just give you the following figures. Cash, for September, 1905, $3,427.36; September, 1904, $2,690.71; September, 1903, $2,148.11.

Believe me, sir, I do not attribute all the growth and prosperity to the fact that we have a local option bylaw, but I do say that any town or community can get along and is better without a bar room.

Any person who says that our town has suffered disastrously states what is not true.

What I consider a strong argument against it is the fact that Mr. Heydon, ex-hotel keeper and owner of two hotels in town, has, since local option came in force, purchased two business blocks at an approximate price of $40,000. Therefore if you can give accommodation, which I believe Owen Sound is prepared to do, you need have no hesitation whatever in doing away with the bar.

The questions submitted with the answers given, were as follows:

Question 1. Has the general business of the town suffered? Answer—No.

2. Has the population increased or decreased? A.—Increased.

3. Has there been as much new building done as in the corresponding period of time previous to the passing of the bylaw? A.—Considerably more.

4. Have illicit dives been produced by the passing of the bylaw? A.—No.

5. Do the travelling public get accommodation? A.—Yes.

6. If so, is it reasonably good and sufficient accommodation? A.—Good as it ever was.

7. Do you find it more difficult to enforce than the License Act? A.—No.

8. Has the number of drunks increased or decreased? A.—Decreased; very seldom see drunken men on the street.

9. Has the present law increased the number of the clubs where liquor is served to the members? A.—No.

10. Has farm trade been diverted to other markets? A.—No.

Now, sir, I close these references for this time. In next week's issue I hope to refer to the effect of local option on the summer trade. But may I make one other remark. In Lakefield, all the business men are not opposed to local option, nor are those opposed in possession of a monopoly of good judgment.

Through your paper I would like to tell the people of the country that as the liquor people look after their own it is only fair play that we should know when we are dealing, the attitude of the merchant on this question. The liquor men will boycott the stores of local option men. It is our duty to stand by the business men who are ready to sacrifice the trade of the liquor interests for a principle.

All right, Messrs. Cornish, Kidd, Clifford, Graham, Spence, and all the rest—we are with you in this fight.

Sincerely yours,

J. R. CLARE.

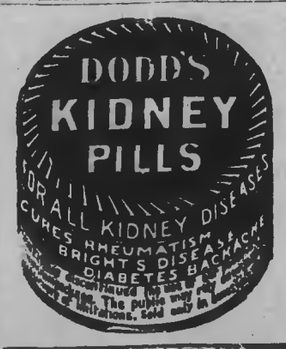
Let go or die. That's the alternative of the shipwrecked man with the money bags. A great many people have a like alternative before them. Business men come to a point where the doctor tells them that they must "let go or die." Probably he advised a sea voyage or mountain air. There's an obstinate cough that won't be shaken off. The lungs are weak and perhaps bleeding. There is emaciation and other symptoms of disease, which if unskilfully or improperly treated terminate in consumption.

Thousands of men and women in a like condition have found complete healing by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"It gives me pleasure to send you this testimonial so that some other poor sufferer may be saved, as I was, by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Geo. A. Thompson, of Sheldon Ave., Chatham, Ont., Canada. "I had a cough for years, expectorated a great deal, and was slowly failing. Was losing flesh every day. Lost in weight from 180 pounds down to 120. My flesh got soft and I had no strength. Did not say anything to any one but made up my mind that the end was not far off. One day my wife was reading in the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and I said, 'that sounds more like common sense than anything else that I had heard.' I at once bought a bottle of your famous remedy and before I had taken half of one bottle I felt better. Took thirteen bottles and it made a new man of me. I gained sixteen pounds and never have had a cough since. I feel splendid and give all the credit to your medicine."

Given away. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. The book contains 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations and several colored plates. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-bound book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure bad, foul stomach and constipation and so help to cure nearly every disease of man-kind. They regulate, tone up and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.



Mark Street S.S. Anniversary

Sermons to be Preached by Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph. B., of Pickering.

The many friends in Peterborough and vicinity of Rev. J. Edward Moore, Ph.B., of Pickering, Ont., a former and highly respected pastor of the Mark street church, will be pleased to learn that he has consented to preach the anniversary sermons of Mark street Sunday school, on Sunday, December 10th, taking both the morning and evening service in the church.

It was during Rev. Mr. Moore's pastorate at Mark street that the congregation paid off their share of the parsonage debt, and the parsonage barn was erected. Repairs and alterations to the Mark street church were also completed, at a cost of fifteen hundred dollars, which was more than covered by cash and subscriptions, the latter covering the four subsequent years, at the re-opening services in the autumn of 1898. The special effort put forth then makes 1898-1899 the banner year on the circuit, the total amount raised being considerably in excess of that raised in any other year.

During the period covered by the subscriptions there were some losses by removals and deaths, and to replace these amounts the congregation was asked for free-will offerings in 1903 and 1904, towards completing the payment on the church. The response was hearty, and the Ladies' Aid very generously paid off the last seventy-five dollars a year ago. It will therefore be especially gratifying to Rev. Mr. Moore, on this, the first occasion on which he has occupied the pulpit since the close of his pastorate here, to find Mark street, as well as the rest of the circuit, entirely free of debt.

On December 10th, a free-will offering will be asked from the school and congregation, in aid of the Sunday school funds, and there will, no doubt, be a generous response, as the annual Christmas tree and concert will not be held this year to raise funds, but a social evening will be given to the children instead, early in January. During the week before Christmas the members of the school and congregation will bring gifts to the church, to be distributed under the direction of Rev. J. G. Lewis, B.A., by a competent committee, to the deserving poor of the city, remembering that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Moore will address the Sunday school. All the addresses of the day will be evangelistic in character. The public is cordially invited.

4 EMPLOYES THE VICTIMS.

Benzine Bursts in Toronto Dye Works —Men Badly Burned, Two So Seriously That They May Die.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—These men were injured as the result of a benzine explosion in the draining rooms of Parker's Dye Works on Yonge street, above Bloor, last night:

John Watson, 63 Yorkville avenue, head, eyes, arms and body badly burned, likely to die.

Herbert Stark, 10 Blackmore street, head and arms burned, condition serious.

Ithel Davis, 13 Orde street, head and arms burned, may recover.

Thomas Ough, 82 Yorkville avenue, hair singed.

The first three are in the General Hospital, where they were taken in Ellis' private ambulance. The room where the trouble occurred is detached and is a short distance from the main factory. The last three got out of the room first after the benzine had ignited, which accounts for their lesser injuries.

The last man to make his appearance from the room, which had by this time become a blazing furnace, with flames shooting out of the door, was John Watson. He staggered out, tripping over some clothing as he came. His hair, shoulders, arms and body were blazing when he made his appearance. Evidently some of the benzine had been spilled over his clothing, and it took fire with the flash. Before the flames could be put out he had been severely burned as far down as the waist.

Three Children Burned to Death.

Quebec, Dec. 2.—Fire in the residence of Fortunate Trepannier of St. Tite, Champlain County, caused the death of his three children. The fire, which completely destroyed the dwelling, spread so rapidly that all efforts to save the children proved futile.

Winnipeg Big Fire.

Winnipeg, Dec. 2.—The large business block on the northwest corner of Pacific avenue and Main street was completely destroyed by fire Thursday night with an accompanying loss of more than $100,000. The losses: Rideout Gilbert Co., $60,000; insurance approximately $50,000; Adams & Morrison, boots and shoes, loss estimated at $8,000, with $6,000 insurance; Porter & Co., wholesale crockery merchants, stock estimated at $6,000, well insured; the Julius restaurant and confectionery store $6,000, insurance $2,000. The block was owned by the Misses Brown, and was a very cheaply built structure of three storeys, worth about $20,000. It was covered by insurance. The stock of the big departmental store of the Nash Carson Naylor Co. adjoining the burned block was damaged to the extent of $10,000 by water and smoke.

THEY ARE THE BEST

A RIGHT WAY and A WRONG WAY

Many people have many ways to bring about the same result. Most of them are mistaken ways, but this is not known until the test of time points plainly to the error. Practically there are but two ways to accomplish anything; a right way and a wrong way. Take, for instance, a man with a bad back, there are lots of them, and of various kinds, some with stitches and twitches, others with cricks and twinges; then there's the dull, heavy continuous kind that lasts all day and doesn't sleep at night. They're all bad enough, they're all hard enough to get rid of. Some people rub the back with liniment, others cover it with plasters, either or both means often bring relief, but the pain comes back—it's the wrong way to cure the trouble.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have a way to cure backache, a way that's all their own—the right way. They're made for the kidneys only. When the kidneys fail in their work of filtering the blood the back aches because they are situated in the small of the back; backache is the kidney's warning of trouble, and every day you let the warning go it brings you nearer to urinary disorders, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, etc.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of kidney ills and that's why they bring such quick relief from backache. Mr. Fred Gray, Good Corner, N.B., writes: "I was greatly troubled with pain across my back. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received so much benefit from them that I consider them the best remedy for kidney trouble there is. I would not be without them in my house."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Question of a House of Refuge

action the county council would take but the feeling he thought was that the county might erect it independently of the city. The council had not come to any definite conclusion, but in the informal discussion which had been held, this was the feeling which seemed to prevail.

Rev. Mr. Major believed that if the words of the warden indicated the action which the council would take there was nothing further to discuss at this meeting. The city would then have to deal with its own poor.

The County's Position.

The warden explained that the county council had not called the meeting. They were simply at the meeting in response to a request from the Protestant Home, to discuss the matter, but they had not officially considered the question in the council.

Rev. Dr. Torrance suggested that it might be a good idea to bring the matter to a head by a series of resolutions, the first of which might be to the effect that in the opinion of the meeting it is desirable to erect a House of Refuge.

Ald. Adams concurred in this suggestion, and thought that it would be very desirable for the county and city to act in unison, if it could be arranged. There would be many advantages accruing from the unity of action.

Mr. Johnston informed the meeting that the county council had virtually agreed to erect a House of Refuge in the not distant future, but further than this nothing definite had been settled.

Rev. Dr. Torrance finally moved, seconded by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, that in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable to erect a House of Refuge.

The Action Premature.

Before the motion was submitted, Mr. G. M. Roger addressed the meeting and said he believed that the resolution was somewhat premature, and they were putting the cart before the horse. At the present time the poor of the city were being very well provided for. There were two well equipped houses for their care, and he felt that the first thing to be done was to ascertain whether it was desirable to unite with the county and erect the House of Refuge between them.

Mr. Andrews then gave his views on the situation. The county council had not discussed the matter very fully, and had no proposition to make. They thought that some proposal would be laid before them in order that they might be better able to deal with it in the county council.

Mr. Roger further explained that there was evidently some misunderstanding of the situation, and stated that there had been no discussion between the Protestant Home and the council until this meeting, and it had been decided to ask the two councils to meet, and lay the situation before them, as Mr. McWilliams had done, and then the duty of the Protestant Home was performed. He thought that since the county council met only twice a year it would be unwise for the meetings to adjourn without coming to some understanding on the matter.

Ald. Johnston spoke on the resolution, which he fully agreed with, and felt that a House of Refuge was needed and thought that the county council should take the matter into their serious consideration.

Co-operation Sought.

The resolution of Dr. Torrance was modified to read: "Resolved, — That it is the opinion of this meeting a House of Refuge should be built by the county and city of Peterborough, and that both the county and city co-operate in the matter."

Dr. Halliday thought that this resolution committed the meeting to a great deal. It was, as the Mayor pointed out, incumbent upon the county to build a House of Refuge. It would be all right for the county council to pass a resolution to the effect that it was advisable for that body to erect such a house, and if this were done, then the city could consider the question of co-operating with them, but until this were done he felt that he could not support the resolution.

Consideration of Vested Rights.

Rev. Father McColl was then heard on the matter under consideration, and said that if the House of Refuge were erected there would have to be some consideration given to the vested rights of the House of Providence, which had been carried on for fifteen years. At the present time they had a building well equipped, and were caring for a large number of persons, and the city or county paid nothing directly to its support. He felt that it would not be just or fair to their people to tax them for the cost of the House of Refuge, when they were already paying to maintain their own House of Providence. They accepted persons from all denominations, and some of the municipalities in the county sent their poor to them and pay for their maintenance. The House of Refuge would have, say $50,000, and since one-quarter of the population of the county were Catholics they would have to pay that proportion of its cost, which he felt was hardly fair. He suggested that some arrangement might be made, however, by which they would get a proportion of the grant from the Government based on the relative number of inmates. He was of the opinion that the city was well able to take care of its own poor, and with a small outlay for buildings would be able to look after the poor of the county as well. If they had the interest on $50,000 they could very well afford to care for all those who needed attention, since it cost them only from $75 to $100 per year for each person.

Will Enter Into Agreement.

He expressed his willingness to enter into any agreement with the Protestant Home and the council, and believed they could work in harmony.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt explained here that, in seconding the resolution above, he did not understand that the erection of the House of Refuge would interfere in any way with the work of the House of Providence, but its erection would mean the withdrawal of the grant to the latter the matter should be carefully considered.

County Treasurer Elliott, speaking in reference to the attitude of the county council, said that he believed their feeling was that they would prefer to erect the House of Refuge independently of the city.

Mr. Rogers pointed out that there was one class which had not been considered in speaking of the poor, and that was those who at present, for the lack of any better place, were confined to the jail. These were the vagrants and those who would have to be forcibly confined to the House of Refuge. Some provision should be made for them.

The Joint Committee.

The Mayor suggested that if the city and council combined the former could furnish the site free.

County Councillor Moloney stated that the county council had practically decided that they would have to erect the House of Refuge, and thought that the councils could appoint committees to meet and discuss the matter of co-operation.

Ald. Adams moved, and County Councillor Moloney seconded, that in the opinion of the meeting it is desirable to appoint a committee from the city and county councils to consider the matter of the House of Refuge and to report in January, which was carried, and the meeting closed.

Bible Classes Enjoy Social

Fifty-two boys, enrolled in the Y.M.C.A. Sunday morning Bible classes, had an enjoyable social last evening in the assembly room at the building. The first part of the evening was spent in social games which provoked much merriment. Following this, each boy was asked to tell a funny story under penalty of going through the "running mill." All complied, of course. The social department served light refreshments, which were followed by short speeches by the teachers and boys along the lines of Bible study. Mr. Geo. H. Roper, assistant secretary, won distinction in the capable manner in which he presided over the affair. He received three hearty cheers from the boys at the close.

Labor Condition in Peterborough Satisfactory

All Classes Were Well Employed in Month Covered by Report of Ald. Johnston to Labour Gazette—New Companies Incorporated—Business Active in All Lines—Bright Prospects for the Future—Customs Receipts Climbing.

LABOUR GAZETTE'S BRIGHT REPORTS

Ald. Johnston in his report to the Labour Gazette this month says in reference to Labour conditions here:—

"Labour, both skilled and unskilled, was as well employed during October as in September. All outside work was being rapidly completed, and some few stone foundations were yet being built. Mechanics of all classes and labourers were very busy, and will continue so as long as weather permits.

Commercial and bank clearing were reported satisfactory and wholesale importations were heavy. Retail trade was exceptionally busy.

There were no changes in rates of wages or hours of labour, and no unrest in the labour market.

The different manufacturing concerns, including the shovel factory, the William Hamilton works, the Peter Hamilton Company, the G. W. Greene, the Auburn Woollen Company and the Central Milling Company were all active. Two new companies have secured incorporation, and will locate at this point. The Thorn Plumbing Company is capitalized at $20,000, and the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Company at $50,000. There is also the prospect of a large dry paint manufacturing company locating in Peterborough.

The custom house receipts for September were $25,669.04, or over $3,000 more than the corresponding period last year.

There is an increase of nearly $1,000,000 in the assessment, and the population of the city is placed at 14,391.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—Active conditions prevailed.

Lumbering.—Lumbering still continued active. The great demand has made it almost impossible to get any surplus stock. A large number of camps were being established in the woods.

Manufacturing.—Manufacturers were well employed.

Mining.—Activity continued in most of the mines of the district.

Railroad construction and employment.—The street railway company was still busy with a large staff of men improving the roadbed.

Other industries.—The Canadian General Electric Company has bought a large property and will probably add new buildings to its plant in the spring. The works were very active in all departments.

Condition of Particular Trades.

Building Trades.—Bricklayers, masons, carpenters, joiners, lathers, plasterers, painters, etc., were very busy.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding trades.—Iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, electrical workers, linemen, brass workers, horseshoers and jewellers were active. Machinists, engineers, blacksmiths, ship workers, tool sharpeners and sheet metal workers were well employed but bicycle workers were slack.

Woodworking and furnishing trades.—Woodworkers, upholsterers, varnishers, polishers, carriage and wagon makers, pattern makers and coopers were busy.

Printing and Allied Trades.—Printers and pressmen were well employed.

Clothing trades.—Journeymen tailors, garment workers and boot and shoe makers had a good month.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers, confectioners, butchers, and meat cutters were very active, but icemen and cigarmakers were somewhat slack.

Leather trades.—Leather workers were fairly busy.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers, broommakers, furriers, hotel and restaurant employees and laundry workers were very active, and clerks, stenographers and delivery employees were well employed.

Transport.—Railroad workers were well employed, though passenger traffic has been somewhat relieved since the tourist travel ceased. Steamboat men had a fair month. Street railway employees, cab drivers, etc., were very busy.

Unskilled labour.—A busy month was reported.

District Notes.

The general stores throughout the district reported an active trade. Good yields in all grains were reported. Large shipments of live stock have been exported. The cement works at Lakefield were very busy; two trains of 12 cars each convey the marle to the factory each day. The W. B. Kelly & Sons' lumber mill at Bridgenorth was also very busy, and is doing a large export trade. The number of boxes of cheese boarded in the district was placed at 1,030, and these sold for 11 3-16 cents and 11 1-4 cents per pound. Butter sold for 22 and 25 cents per pound; apples for 40 and 75 cents per bag; potatoes for 75 cents per bag; chickens 50 to 80 cents per pair and geese for 90 cents to $1.25 per pair.

DIED.

BAXTER—At the Nicholls Hospital, on Friday, December 1st, 1905, Maud Baxter, only daughter of Robert Baxter, 23 Harvey street, aged 24 years.

Funeral on Monday, December 4th, at 10 o'clock a. m. from the family residence, 23 Harvey street to Little Lake Cemetery.

At Andrew's Anniversary

To-morrow at the morning service in St. Andrew's church, Rev. Wm. Shearer, B.A., late of Sherbrooke, will preach at the 7 o'clock service. The St. Andrew's anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev. J. M. Whitelaw, M.A., D.D., of Omemee. On Monday night the Young People's Society will meet, and the Young Men's Guild on Tuesday. There will be a union meeting on Wednesday night in St. Paul's church at the annual meeting of the Bible Society.

"The Evolution Of the Boys"

The humourous lecture to be given on Tuesday, December 12, under the auspices of St. Luke's Men's Guild, entitled "The Evolution of the Boy," will consist of the following parts:

"The boy as l'enfant terrible."
"His Schooldays."
"His First Long Trousers."
"The Appearance of the Mistake."
"He Falls in Love."
"He Becomes Engaged."
"He Marries."
"He Is Getting Old."

The lecture will be given in St. Luke's Sunday school, and an admission of 10 cents will be charged. The programme will also consist of musical selections.

STROUD'S

"The Daylight Store"

QUALITY IS OUR SPECIALTY

This is being demonstrated every day in our business. Our customers appreciate the effort put forth by us to get something considerably in advance of garments sold by the ordinary clothing house. During the next few weeks thousands of Suits and Overcoats will pass from the tables of clothing stores into the hands of buyers.

Where Will You Buy Yours?

Put this question to almost any group of well dressed, well informed men hereabouts, and the answer will be with one accord—"At the Daylight Store." There's a reason for this universal sentiment. It is because our prices are so reasonable, quality considered, and the fit and finish cannot be excelled by any custom tailor. See our Beautiful Black Overcoats in two lengths—they are fashion's latest production.

Unity of The Empire is in The Proposal

Lord Lyttelton Makes Some Suggestions to Colonies.

TO POSTPONE CONFERENCE

Colonial Secretary Also Suggests the Name Imperial Council Instead of Colonial Conference — More Time Needed to Arrange Subjects For the Conference—Answers From Colonies—Canada's Position.

London, Dec. 2.—(C.A.P.)—The following correspondence relating to the future organization of the colonial conference has just been issued. On Nov. 29 Mr. Lyttelton addressed the following important telegram to the Governor of each of the self-governing colonies: "I request that you will inform your Ministers as follows:

"It was assumed when I sent my despatch of April 20 last, that, in accordance with the resolution passed at the colonial conference of 1902, it would in the normal course of events be proper to issue an invitation to the next conference for the summer of 1906.

"It appears, however, as the result of the correspondence following upon the above-mentioned despatches that it would not be possible for the Prime Ministers of Australia and New Zealand to attend a conference held later than the spring of 1906. It appears doubtful whether it would be practicable to make sufficient preparation before the latter date of the subjects at a later date, but in the meantime should be glad to know whether, in the opinion of your Ministers, it would be advisable in these circumstances to take advantage of the latitude allowed by the terms of the resolution already referred to, and postpone the meeting of the conference until 1907.

"Mr. Lyttelton suggested to the Government of the self-governing colonies that the title 'Imperial Council' should be substituted for 'Colonial Conference,' and that a permanent commission of enquiry should be established to assist the council. Several of the Colonial Governments have signified their agreement with the suggestions of his Majesty's Government, but in a number of instances a complete answer has not yet been received."

Regarding Mr. Lyttelton's proposals, Canada on Thursday night and suggested that the conference should be styled "Imperial Conference" instead of "Imperial Council," and promised to give full consideration to the proposal to appoint a permanent commission at the same time expressing doubt as to its usefulness.

Newfoundland expressed an opinion that the present method of calling colonial conferences offered the best advantage over other schemes suggested. Natal, Cape Colony and Australia sent favorable replies, whilst New Zealand's answer is delayed owing to the elections.

Canada's objection to Mr. Lyttelton's scheme are "That an imperial council might eventually come to be regarded as an encroachment upon the full measure of autonomous legislative and administrative power now enjoyed by all Colonial Governments," and that a permanent commission "Might conceivably interfere with the working of responsible Government."

German Army Losses.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—The Militair Wochenblatt, the army organ, published yesterday morning the losses of German troops operating against the insurrectionists in German Southwest Africa. The total number of men in the field is given as 16,000, and the total loss, including wounded, is 151 officers, 307 non-coms., and 1,394 privates

150 Business Men On Trial For Conspiracy

Arraigned in Toronto Police Court, Which They Crowd.

THREE ALLEGED COMBINES

Master Plumbers, Plumbers' Supply Men and Journeymen Plumbers Charged Together With Conspiring to Restrain Trade and Unduly Enhance Prices — Some Indictments Withdrawn.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—At the Police Court yesterday morning about 150 members of the Master Plumbers and Steamfitters Association, the Plumbers' Central Supply Association and some members of the Journeymen Plumbers Union were arraigned before Magistrate Denison charged with conspiring together to restrain trade and unduly enhance prices. All pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned till Wednesday.

The Absentees.

The individual members arraigned were each called and all answered except the following: L. Payette and W. Shaw, Montreal; Hy. Drummond, Jas. Jury, Henry Richards, J. M. Hagan, J. Lawrence, Neil McMullen, W. J. McNamara, W. Parmenter, R. Ross, Geo. J. Thompson, and G. W. Priestly, all of Toronto. In each of the absentee cases satisfactory explanations were given so no warrants were issued to compel attendance.

Indictments Withdrawn.

The indictments against the following were withdrawn, T. A. Stevens and A. W. Mann, of London, because they both gave evidence before Mr. Justice Clute; F. J. Nixon and S. G. Greer, because they were both called before the Grand Jury; W. B. Malcolm, who proved, through the secretary of the Association, that he had never been a member of either organisation; W. Bush, a member of the Journeymen's Union, because he has already been committed for trial; G. W. Priestly, who has removed to Calgary, Alta.; J. Lawrence, who has gone to reside in Cobalt, and W. Parmenter, who is very ill in Muskoka.

Magistrate Jocular.

Mr. Curry said he had not summoner the whole of the members of the Plumbers' Union, because the court room was not large enough, but he could do that later on.

Magistrate Denison: "Oh, yes, when you have nothing else to do."

Mr. Curry: "That will be some time yet."

Accept Evidence Given.

Mr. J. G. O'Donoghue for the union, agreed to accept the evidence already given against his clients in the present case. Messrs. W. R. Riddell, K. C., and A. F. Lobb for the Master Plumbers' Association, also agreed to this course.

Alderman Coatsworth, Mr. William Douglass, K. C., who appeared for some individual members of the two associations, required some time to consider what course they would take. Mr. S. C. Smoke for the Central Supply Association also desired time to consider the position before agreeing to accept the evidence as already given.

James Westwood, H. W. Anthis and one or two others decided that they would appear for themselves, reserving, however, the right to reconsider the position.

Plumbers' Case Enlarged.

Hamilton, Dec. 2.—The preliminary examination of the fifteen master plumbers, charged in the conspiracy, did not go on yesterday morning as expected The Crown asked for an enlargement until to-day, as Manager Strathy, of the Traders' Bank, had not prepared a copy of the association's account with the bank. It is expected that Secretary Davies will be recalled after the bank manager testifies. Ald. Clark has made an affidavit that he did not belong to the association, although he signed the declaration. About ten witnesses have been subpoenaed so far.

Germany and the Equitable.

New York, Dec. 2.—Referring to the report that the Imperial Insurance office at Berlin has threatened receivership proceedings against the Equitable Life Assurance Society, because of the society's failure to increase its cash reserves in Germany, President Morton said yesterday:

"The new administration of the Equitable Society has been in communication with the German Government concerning this matter for several months, and indications point to an amicable settlement of existing differences by the end of the year."

Loubet's Last Term.

Paris, Dec. 2.—In the course of an interview published yesterday M. Loubet states categorically that he will not accept a re-election to the Presidency, as he considers a renewal of the Presidential mandate undesirable in a democratic country.

Five Rioters Killed.

Georgetown, Demarara, Dec. 2.—A strike of wharf laborers, which is in progress here, assumed a serious aspect yesterday morning when the police were compelled to fire on a riotous mob. Five of the rioters were killed. Later in the day the rioters attacked the Governor's house. The Governor and other officers are now besieged in the public buildings. The arrival of warships is anxiously awaited.

Bell Telephone Wires.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The Railway Commission met yesterday morning and heard argument by the Bell Telephone Co. and railway counsel to determine some general principle for telephone wires crossing railway wires. At present an application has to be made in such cases, some 500 being, before the commission. It is likely a general order will be issued covering all such cases.

Rev. R. P. McKim Has Refused To Conduct Services

A Bad State of Affairs At St. John, N. B.

CHARGE CRIMINAL PRACTICE

Physician, Dr. Edward A. Preston, Prominent In Society Circles, Arrested In Connection With Deaths of Two Young Ladies—Howard D. Camp, the Lover of One of Them, Also Held by the Law.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 2.—Dr. Edward A. Preston, one of the most prominent physicians in St. John, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having caused the death during the past week of two young ladies by criminal operations for the purpose of procuring abortion. The victims are Miss Edith Clark of St. John North, who died Wednesday, and Miss Laura Jennings of Carlton, whose death occurred last week.

Howard D. Camp, a prominent member of the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club, and owner of the yacht Canada, champion of the fleet, who was the affianced lover of Miss Clark, has also been arrested, and more arrests will follow.

The affair has caused a great sensation. The matter was brought to the attention of the police by the Rev. R. P. McKim, who was called in to conduct the funeral of Miss Clark, and from suspicious circumstances in connection with the case, refused to do so till a full investigation had been held. A coroner has impanelled a jury, and an inquest will be held Monday night.

It is reported that as a result of this exposure several other cases of recent deaths in which other physicians are similarly implicated, will be investigated.

Dr. Preston is one of the best known men in the province. He is a member and senior deacon of St. John's Lodge of Masons No. 2, and a member of New Brunswick Chapter, R. A. M., also a member of Union De Moloy Preceptory, K. T. He is also prominently connected with the Canadian and Independent Foresters, both of which organisations he has been chief ranger. He is connected with several temperance organisations.

DR. M'LEOD TESTIFIES.

Canadian Doctor Says He Operated on Geary Girl to Save Life.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Testimony that M. E. Hunt had told her that when any of the patients died he cut up their bodies, was offered yesterday by Mrs. Harrison Stanford of Philadelphia, who was called by the defence in the trial of Dr. Percy D. McLeod, in connection with the death of Susanna Geary, the Cambridge chorus girl.

Dr. McLeod, taking the stand on his own behalf, made a sweeping denial of the charges against him. He said on the morning of Sept. 14 he was called to the house in Roxbury occupied by a woman, who he was later told was Mrs. Dean, to examine a young woman. He told Mrs. Dean that an immediate operation was necessary to save the girl's life. Complying with the request of Mrs. Dean, he called Dr. Peters by telephone and secured his assistance. The operation was performed upon the girl to save her life, he said.

The jury retired to consider the testimony at 4.45 o'clock yesterday. Judge Stevens instructed the jury to seal the verdict should one be reached last night and present it at the court to-day.

All the Jewellery Recovered.

Woodstock, Dec. 2.—That Walter Dixon, arrested by the Buffalo police, is the man wanted for the theft of jewels of the value of $5,000 from John White's home here is now established. Mr. White and his daughter, Mrs. Harding, who are in Buffalo, wired yesterday that they have identified all the jewellery found on the prisoner. With the ring and diamond sunburst, recovered at Simcoe, it includes everything stolen from the White home.

Gunner Berry Responsible.

Quebec, Dec. 2.—Gunner Richard Kidd, alias Hall, who was shot by Gunner John Berry at the Citadel on Sunday last, and died from the effect of the wound he received, will be buried with military honors to-day. The jury brought in a verdict that Gunner John Berry was criminally responsible for the death of Richard Kidd.

Postponed Till January.

Paris, Dec. 2.—Premier Rouvier yesterday announced to the Council of Ministers that the Moroccan conference had been postponed until January owing to the delay in arrival of the Moroccan delegates.

GEORGE STREET

FATAL SHIPPING SEASON.

Unprecedented Destruction of Big Lake Craft in Three Recent Storms—149 Men Perish.

Detroit, Dec. 2.—The Journal yesterday says 149 lives have been sacrificed, over 70 ships wrecked, and a loss of nearly $7,000,000 has been sustained in the three big storms on the great lakes this season. That this is the most disastrous season in the history of shipping on the lakes is beyond doubt.

Lacked Courage and Die.

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 2.—Three men lost their lives in the wreck of the scow George Herbert at Two Islands. They were Ole Miller, George Olsen, and Ole Nelson, all of Duluth. When the scow went on the rocks, Wm. Hicks and Charles Johnsen saved themselves by jumping ashore. The other three lacked courage, and as the scow broke, shouted their last good-bye and disappeared.

Grain Steamer Ashore.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 2.—The steel steamer Western Star, bound for Fort William to load grain, Thursday went ashore, two miles east of Fourteen-Mile Point, near Ontonagon, after all bearings had been lost in a struggle for hours in a terrific sea. The crew is reported safe.

Owen Probably Wrecked.

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 2.—The steamer Ira H. Owen is probably among the lost vessels on Lake Superior, with its crew of nineteen men. The steamer Sir Wm. Stevelas arrived yesterday at Ashland and reported seeing wreckage from the Owen.

Four Days Without Food.

Port Arthur, Dec. 2.—Capt. McIntyre and the remainder of the crew of the Monkshaven were brought to shore last evening, and they tell of hardships such as few sailors ever experience. For 96 hours the men were without food, and with starvation staring them in the face they boarded the sinking steamer and procured food and fuel. The Monkshaven has a big hole in her bottom.

FOUR OF CREW DROWN.

New Steel Barge Founders Near Boston in Heavy Sea.

Boston, Dec. 2.—The foundering of the new steel barge Delawanna, and the loss of four persons on board, was reported here yesterday by the tug Scranton, which had been towing the Delawanna from New York. The barge went down in a heavy sea at 8.30 o'clock Thursday night, about eight miles from Minot's Light.

Those lost were: Capt. John B. Munsey, Mrs. Munsey, his wife; engineer of the barge and the cook of the barge.

IS THE CZAR SAFE?

Danger of Immediate General Strike Over—Premier Witte Apparently Saves the Situation.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2., 2.50 a.m.—The guards arrested at Tsarskoe Selo Thursday night and Friday morning numbered 250, including 20 officers.

All kinds of rumors are current, including the assertion that one of the Grand Dukes is involved in a conspiracy against the Emperor.

Late yesterday afternoon the outlook for a temporary improvement in the situation which would give the Government an opportunity to catch its breath was brighter. The danger of an immediate general strike was considered to be practically averted as the result of three-cornered negotiations between Premier Witte, the employers and the workmen, by which it was decided that both the Government and private establishments which are now closed shall be re-opened.

It is announced that Father Gapon has fled to Finland.

A state of minor siege has been declared in trans-Caspia and Saratoff.

It develops that during the mutiny at Sebastopol the sailors of the volunteer fleet at Odessa and the engineers of the South-Western Railway refused to transport troops and artillery to Sebastopol.

The Emperor presided yesterday at a meeting of the council of Ministers. Much comment has been caused by the Emperor's summons to Count Pahlen, a member of the council of the Empire, and one of the oldest and most trusted servants of the house of Romanoff, who participated in the session, presumably, to voice his Majesty's views.

Cost of Russ Prisoners.

Tokio, Dec. 2.—Gen. Baron Kuroki, who commanded the Japanese right army in Manchuria, will leave Port Dalny to-day for Japan. The balance in favor of Japan for prisoners' expenses is estimated at $25,000,000. It is believed that this sum will be devoted to the development of the interests of Manchuria.

Bovril on the Dinner Table

Any meal is the better for the use of a little BOVRIL. It adds so much to the flavor and nutriment of so many dishes that it should be in every kitchen.

The mere odor of BOVRIL creates appetite, and it contains the nourishing element of prime beef that strengthens and builds up the system.

Here is a BOVRIL-helped dinner dish:

BEEF STEAK A LA CLARE.—Cut a steak of an inch in thickness, and cook in a little butter, allowing about ten minutes, or more if liked well done. THE FLYING FROG.

A Four Winged Reptile That Inhabits Tropical Africa.

The curiosity of tropical Africa is the wonderful flying frog, first described by Bishoff of the equatorial African expedition, which returned to Europe in the fall of 1894. This oddity of the reptile family is about the size of a common bullfrog and resembles other members of the order of batrachians in everything but its feet, each of which is webbed and enormously enlarged, so much so as to form splendid substitutes for true wings. The creature has five toes on each of the other two, which makes four separate membranes on each of his hind feet and three on each fore foot, or fourteen in all. In his description of it Bishoff says, "Each leg terminates in a sort of fan, and with these the little reptile paddles the air like a locust or like a partially fledged bird testing its pinions for the first time."

Although somewhat awkward in its flight, the winged frog can dart through the air at a speed of about ten yards per second and can keep itself going forward at that rate for from ten to fifteen seconds. The average distance covered by these spurts of grasshopper-like flight is from 75 to 125 yards, but Bishoff mentions instances where the flying frog cleared sandy stretches 200 yards in width.

A PAIR OF RUBBERS.

Wear Them During Thunderstorms if You Fear Lightning.

The one thing which a woman most dreads—barring, of course, a mouse and being out of style—is a thunder shower. Many most estimable women of character and force who can lead great crusades and revolutionize society go all to pieces at a clap of thunder, and a good many men, too, for that matter.

It is not agreeable to be struck by lightning. Not is it at all necessary. There is a sure preventive—as sure as it is simple, inexpensive and always accessible—a pair of rubbers. If a woman will simply put on a pair of rubbers when the lightning begins to flash and the thunder to roar and will stand on the floor so that she touches nothing else she will be as safe as if she were sealed in a glass cage.

Rubber is a nonconductor of electricity, and if the lightning has to go through a sheet of rubber to get at you it will leave you alone and take something else. In other words, when you have on a pair of rubbers and are not in contact with anything you are perfectly insulated.

This is not a theory merely. It is a fact proved by innumerable experiences. A pair of rubbers has saved many a life in a thunderstorm.

Kindly Fruits.

The expression in the prayer book, "Kindly fruits of the earth," has for most persons no definite meaning on account of the difference in significance now attached to the word kindly from that used when the expression was first written. The word kindly in that connection meant as nearly as possible "of its kind," and the expression "kindly fruits of the earth" meant "the fruits of the earth each after its kind."

A COSTLY DROP CURTAIN.

The One Meissonier Didn't Paint for a French Theater.

The enterprising manager of a theater called upon the famous French artist, Jean Louis Ernest Meissonier, on one occasion, says Mr. Robert Kempt in Pencil and Palette, and asked him to paint a drop scene for a certain theater and name his own terms.

"You have seen my pictures, then?" asked Meissonier.

"Oh, yes," exclaimed the manager, "but it is your name I want! It will draw crowds to my theater."

"And how large do you wish this curtain to be?" inquired the artist.

"Ah, well, we will say 15 by 18 meters!"

Meissonier took up a pencil and proceeded to make a calculation. At last he looked up and said with imperturbable gravity:

"I have calculated and find that my pictures are valued at 80,000 francs per meter. Your curtain, therefore, will cost you just 21,600,000 francs. But that is not all. It takes me twelve months to paint twenty-five centimeters of canvas. It will therefore take me just 100 years to finish your curtain. You should have come to me earlier, monsieur. I am too old for the undertaking now. Good morning."

CONQUESTS OF SILENCE.

Men Whose Greatness Was Not Measured by Their Speeches.

Washington never made a speech. In the zenith of his fame he once attempted it, failed and gave it up, confused and abashed. In framing the constitution of the United States the labor was almost wholly performed in committee of the whole, of which George Washington was day after day chairman, and he made but two speeches during the convention, of a very few words each. The convention, however, acknowledged the master spirit, and historians affirm that had it not been for his personal popularity and the thirty words of his speech, pronouncing it the best that could be united upon, the constitution would have been rejected by the people.

Thomas Jefferson never made a speech. He couldn't do it.

Napoleon, whose executive ability is almost without a parallel, said that his difficulty was in finding men of deeds rather than words. When asked how he maintained his influence over his superiors in age and experience when commander in chief of an army in Italy he said, "By reserve." The greatness of a man is not measured by the length of his speeches and their number.

Summer resort weather has been on hand for some time in the past, and wise ones will salt down a supply and put it on ice for use when the other kind comes along.

It always puzzles a man to know whether the girl who says she does not like ice cream is only leading him on.

The fool who rocks the boat is about ready to receive his yearly average of drowning.

MARKS OF LONGEVITY.

Physical Indications That You May Study For Yourself.

Every person carries about with him the physical indications of his longevity. A long lived person may be distinguished from a short lived person at sight. In many instances a physician may look at the hand of a patient and tell whether he will live or die.

The primary conditions of longevity are, that the heart, lungs and digestive organs as well as the brain should be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall in sitting and short in standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm and short fingers. The brain will be deeply seated, as shown by the orifice of the ear being low. The blue hazel or brown hazel eye, as showing an intermission of temperament, is a favorable indication. The nostrils being large, open and free indicates large lungs. A pinched and half closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs.

These are general points of distinction from those of short lived tendencies, but of course subject to the usual individual exceptions. Still, it is well acknowledged that the characteristics noted are expressions of inherent potentiality, which have been proved on the basis of abundant statistical evidence.

An Editor's Toast.

At an editorial convention one of the country editors offered the following toast:

"To save an editor from starvation take his newspaper and pay him for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes bury him. Dead people are the only ones that never make mistakes. Newspaper readers would do well to remember that there are no perfect people, editors or readers."

Patent Medicines.

The name "patent medicine" is misleading, and rarely understood, for it is the name of the medicine and not the formula that is protected by law. The manufacturers of the better class of family medicines do not hesitate to let interested parties know the ingredients of their successful medicines, and the proprietors of Dr. Chase's famous medicines even go so far as to invite doctors to visit their offices and examine their formulas and medicines. Do you think that it would be possible for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Ointment, Nerve Food, etc., to establish such a record in the cure of serious and chronic diseases if they did not contain the most effective ingredients obtainable? The composition of these medicines is such that doctors could not do otherwise than commend them, and for this reason investigation is courted.

Reflected Glory.

A gentleman sojourning in Edinburgh many years ago, having heard much of the eloquence of the members of the General Assembly, paid an early visit to it. Next to him sat an elderly, hard-featured, solemn-faced man, who was leaning with both hands on a heavy stick, which he eyed with great concentration. Soon the stranger's attention was riveted upon the speaker who had opened the day's discourse. The wonderful command of language he possessed, combined with his eloquence, excited the listener's curiosity. "Can you tell me who is speaking now?" he asked eagerly, turning to the sober-faced old man beside him. "Who's speaking now?" echoed the old man, lifting his eyes from the contemplation of the stick to fix them in contemptuous amazement upon his interlocutor. "That, sir, is the great Docther Chawmers, and I'm holdin' his stick."

An Old Roman Altar.

A perfectly preserved Roman altar, four feet in height and of square formation, has been discovered at the site of an ancient Roman camp at Newstead, near Melrose, England. An inscription upon it in accurately chiseled Roman letters reads, "To the great and mighty Jupiter, Carolus, centurion of the twentieth legion, the valiant and victorious, cheerfully, willingly and deservedly paid his vow."

Mammoth English Bonfire.

THE FOUR ELEMENTS.

Marcus Reed Sums Up the Conditions as Now Known.

I.—FIRE.

The discovery of Radium and of its change into Helium has now placed it practically beyond doubt that the old idea of immutable elements, originally differentiated, was as much a mistake as that which made a difference between the Vegetable and Animal Kingdoms. The whole creation is one uninterrupted whole, and the old classification of its component parts will be used in these short papers as a convenience without strictly defined limits. The conception of the unity of creation was not unknown to the ancients, but only in our days has it been actually proved to be the case.

For convenience, therefore, we still speak of the Four Elements as dividing amongst them what we know of matter, but it was always incorrect to include Fire in the number; the other three may be said to exist by themselves, but fire is only the result of circumstances, fortuitous or otherwise. We do not know, for instance, that it exists as an ever present element, so called, even in the Sun. Day by day we learn more of the mystery of nature, but what the sun actually is remains a mystery still. The earth was once a part of its glowing mass, and is now a globe of actual fire with a thin crust of habitable earth; but in what condition the great original mass of nebular matter composing the sun now exists we do not know. We are told it may be either hot or cold, burning like a raging furnace or emitting rays as cold as those of Radium, which is now supposed to have some affinity with the rays of the sun.

What we know for certain is the rather upsetting fact that the nearer we approach it the colder we get. In the winter we are actually millions of miles nearer to the sun than in the summer. The tops of high mountains are covered in eternal snow, and a little further, when our atmosphere ceases, the inter-stelar cold is greater than anything we experience on earth. When it is remembered that those interstellar spaces are filled with the sun's rays without interruption of clouds, day and night without ceasing, we begin to see that the heat of the sun depends on circumstances, on chemical changes or combinations of matter in its most subtle forms, and does not actually indicate the presence of fire as we understand it on earth.

The Sun, or Fire, worshippers, wise in their generation, did not stop to inquire into all these nice distinctions, and worshipped the blazing mystery when it rose above their horizon as the most sublime revelation of superhuman might and majesty vouchsafed to mortals here below. This natural religion never disappeared altogether; the Parsees are still fire-worshippers as their ancestors, the Guebres, were. Later on in the history of the human race, Jupiter was only a name or impersonation of the sun, and later still the position and arrangement of the gigantic stones on Salisbury Plain indicate a probable chief temple of fire-worship in this country itself. What is more, traces of this primitive religion are not entirely extinct in Great Britain to-day.

The English feast of Beltein, originally held in honor of the god Bel or Baal, is nearly forgotten, but we read in Notes and Queries that as late as 1853 a ram was annually sacrificed on May morning in a field kept for that purpose on Dartmoor. "That time, the place (looking East), the mystic Menhir or pillar to which the ram was fastened, surely bear evidences in favour of the Ram Feast being a sacrifice to Baal." The young men and maids of the village of Holne, when they presented each other with a slice of the meat, surely did not know what heathens they were! They would have been properly shocked to learn that one of themselves would have been sacrificed in lieu of the ram in the good old time when the feast originated. Our festivals of Yule, of Candlemass, Lammas, Allhallow-E'en are all so many remnants of the fire-worship once general in Northern Europe as well as in Carthage and India.

Before the days of matches or tinder-boxes, when fires had to be kindled by friction, a feat distinctly more difficult than it is generally supposed to be, the smallest particle of fire was held sacred, and the most singular superstitions attached to this so-called element. The domestic hearth was considered to be part of the family as a living thing; strangers might borrow some of its fire when their own went out, but relatives of the family were not allowed to do so, a breach of this unwritten law being considered equal to incest, while for the same reason the adding of strange fire to the hearth was tantamount to adulterating it or soiling its purity.

The fire so sedulously guarded by the Vestal virgins was believed to be the goddess Vesta herself; this divinity had, therefore, no image of herself in her temples. In Egypt, in Rome, and in Persia public fires were kept in public buildings, and when Augustus assumed supreme power he transported the public fire, as its supreme guardian, to his own place, which, by that fact, became public property.

If the great fault of the present age is believing too little, that of the ancients was believing too much. Without a shadow of proof they were quite positive that the four elements were peopled by beings called Element Spirits, peculiar to each; Fire being ruled in some obscure way by Salamanders, Air by Sylphs, Earth by Gnomes, and Water by Undines. We see some of these singular spirits in our Christmas pantomines, and we know that salamanders are far from fireproof. Pliny records having tried the experiment with a visible salamander, with the result that the poor newt was reduced to powder. As a sensible man this was enough for Pliny, but his contemporaries piously stuck to their faith in the incombustible creature whose name still has a weird and fearful sound for us.

Many ancient applications of fire are now out of fashion. Not much can be said for its use as medicament, for ordeals by fire or baptism by fire. This last is not a figure of speech, but was in the middle ages an actual baptism chosen by those who feared a fiery penance in the next world, and preferred to submit to it here below and have done with it.

THE HOMER OF PORTUGAL.

Camoens, the Gifted and Unfortunate Author of "The Lusiad."

"The Lusiad" is one of the noblest records ever written of national glory and success. Camoens, its gifted author, determined to do for Portugal what Homer had done for Greece. The great poem was written in the sixteenth century, which has been called the heroic age of Portugal, and its main feature is the rounding of the Cape of Good Hope by Vasco da Gama, while a most interesting episode is the crowning after death of Inez de Castro as queen of Portugal. "The Lusiad" took its name from Lusius, who was said to have founded Lisbon.

Its author was born about 1520, and his career, which began brilliantly, was blighted by the death of a broken heart of the lady of his love, for whose sake he was banished from the land. He wrote "The Lusiad" in his banishment and was recalled in 1571, losing on the way all his property except his poem. Pensioned at first by the king, this great epic poet of Portugal died in great poverty in 1570, when his patron was also dead.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

Will Find a Certain Cure in the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. Every doctor now admits this to be the fact. Doctors used to think that rheumatism was brought on by colds in the joints and muscles. Now they know that cold never started the disease—cold only sets the pains going. Rheumatism can only be cured by curing the bad blood which causes it. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always cure rheumatism, because they actually make new, rich, red blood, which drives out the poisonous acids, loosens the stiffened aching joints and muscles and restores the rheumatic sufferer to health and happiness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands and thousands of rheumatic sufferers, some of them when they were almost hopeless cripples. Mr. T. H. Smith, Caledonia, Ontario, says:—"For a number of years I was badly troubled with rheumatism, and was so crippled I could scarcely do any work. I tried quite a number of medicines, but they did not help me. Then I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised as a cure for this trouble, and got a supply. After I had taken a few boxes I saw they were helping me, and I continued taking the pills throughout the winter, and am now completely cured. I have since worked out of doors in cold weather without a coat, and did not feel even a twinge of the trouble."

If you are suffering from any disease due to bad blood or disordered nerves, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure you, because they make new rich blood, which goes right to the root of the disease and drives it from the system. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure such troubles as anaemia, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, neuralgia, headaches and backaches, kidney and liver troubles, St. Vitus Dance, paralysis, and the special secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. But only the genuine pills can do this and these always have the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. Sold by Medicine dealers everywhere, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Needle-Making a Secret Art.

The history of making needles in England is a curious one, for the art has been several times lost to English workmen since the reign of Queen Mary.

Needles were first made in England at that time by a negro from Spain who set up a shop and for a time prospered at his trade. At his death it was found that he had taught the trade to no one, and the English had to go abroad for their needles until 1565, when a German artisan taught a few mechanics the manner of their making.

The trade soon died out again, for some reason, and not until 1650 was it revived by a foreign workman, who conducted his operations on so large a scale that there was no longer any danger of the secret of their manufacture being lost.

This was the first time that the method of making them was not shrouded in secrecy, and soon the manufacture of needles became an important industry, the White Chapel needles becoming famous the world over.

There are now several centres, in addition to the London quarter, where the needle industry flourishes, Birmingham alone now producing as many needles in a day as the original workman made in his lifetime.

Sir Henry Irving's Kindness.

Stories of Sir Henry Irving's goodness of heart to the members of his company are innumerable. Mr. Mellish cited an occasion when he had been ill and called to see the actor regarding his further association with the organization.

"You look as though you need a change,' said Sir Henry. 'Go to the treasurer and get three weeks' salary. After you have spent it come back and start to work."

The actor, after receiving the money discovered that it contained $25 more than the three weeks' stipend. He so informed the treasurer.

"Oh, yes," said the official. "I forgot to mention it. Sir Henry said you looked as though you needed plenty of sun and air. The extra money is for carriages so you won't tire yourself out while you're looking for it."

GRETNA GREEN.

Boom Hits the Border Village and Romance Has Come Vigorously to Life Again.

Gretna Green, the little Scotch village just across the border from Cumberland, is witnessing a revival of the weddings which made it famous in the romantic days of yore. One Peter Dixon, a carpenter, is playing the role of the blacksmith of tradition, and so well does it pay him that he has abandoned his trade to devote himself exclusively to the tying of nuptial knots for couples who are in a hurry to get "spliced."

Dixon is a good type of the canny Scot, of middle age, with shrewd eyes, iron gray hair, and a mouth screened by a full beard that can well keep it owner's own counsel. He was not at all adverse to drinking at a stranger's expense, but not even Scotch whiskey, that most potent encourager of loquacity, could induce him to be communicative about his singular occupation.

"I don't want anything published about my business," he said.

"But publicity would increase your—your business."

"It might," he admitted, "but it might also increase competition, and I don't want any other folk getting up in the same line here. There ain't any more in it than just keeps me going comfortably, and as I started it I think I'm entitled to all there is in it."

"Are you a minister?" he was asked.

"No, I ain't," he answered. "You don't have to be a person to marry folk in Scotland. I can tie 'em together just as hard and fast as any minister in the land. If you are thinking of getting married, young man, just fetch along the girl and I'll do the job for you. You'll find it'll cost you a lot more than I charge you to get it undone."

Under Scotch law a marriage can be celebrated anywhere and at any hour of the day or night, for the ceremony in its simplest form consists merely in a couple agreeing before witnesses to take each other for husband and wife. One of the contracting parties is required to have resided in Scotland for twenty-one days before the marriage, but it is doubtful if steps are taken to compel proof of that, though the enactment was specially aimed at the runaway Gretna Green matches.

Most of the modern Gretna Green weddings take place at Dixon's own house, a small tenement in the main street of the village, but those who want a little more style have the ceremony performed at the Queen's Head Hotel. Dixon keeps a marriage register, which he declines to show to any one. Nor will he tell what his fees are. He is not giving away any one of the secrets of his "business."

It is just about half a century since the little Dumfries village of Gretna Green fell back into the native obscurity out of which a most singular fortune had temporarily lifted it and from which it is now again emerging. Ever since the reformation had repudiated the Council of Trent and most of its doings, English practices in the matter of marriages had been growing more and more lax and irregular. To put an end to the scandal the marriage act of 1754 was passed. It required all persons except Jews and Quakers to get married—if at all—in a Church of England and according to Church of England ritual. A great many people resented the new law, and as it did not apply to Scotland the most obvious way to escape it was to flit across the border. When the names of great lords and ladies began to be mixed up with such romances, weddings at Gretna Green began to be almost as fashionable as are now those at St. George's, Hanover Square. Fifty such marriages in the course of a month were by no means unusual at one time.

The little Dumfries village to which these infatuated folk made a dash, some of them with indignant parents and guardians at their heels, is a dull little place at the head of the Solway Firth, about ten miles northwest of Carlisle. In its palmy days of romance panting young couples sped furiously along the road through the fir plantations and over the dreary "debatable land" of bog and peat. The beginning of the end of the journey was the bridge over the broad English Esk, then came two level miles over the debatable land and finally the actual Scotch and English boundary, the little stone bridge over the Sark, beyond which lay the happy hereafter.

Until 1836 these marriages were mostly conducted at the little bridge toll house. Who first officiated seems to be quite doubtful, and the only reason for supposing that a blacksmith had anything to do with it is the existence of the tradition itself.

VICTOR HUGO'S HOUSE.

He Was Not Its Owner, and For a Very Good Reason.

The house in which Victor Hugo died in Paris was in the avenue which bears his name and close to his statue.

Arsene Houssaye in Les Annales says that he never addressed a letter to him in any other fashion than—

To Victor Hugo,
At His Avenue.

Yet the house itself had a modest appearance. Its chief charms were a beautiful garden, with great trees and a delightful fountain, and the extraordinary richness of its furniture.

The house did not belong to Victor Hugo. It had been built by the Princess de Lurigan, and Hugo finally tried to buy it from the princess. To his amazement she asked £30,000.

The lady smiled. "That is nothing, considering," she remarked pleasantly.

"Considering what?" demanded the still bewildered poet.

"Think, master. This little house has had the incomparable honor of having been lived in by Victor Hugo."

The master smiled in his turn as he replied, this time without a trace of bewilderment:

"Ah, madam, you see I am not rich enough to have a house which has been lived in by Victor Hugo."—T. P.'s London Weekly.

A Trivial Matter.

The first slice of goose had been cut, and the minister of the Zion church looked at it with as keen anticipation as was displayed in the faces around him.

"Dat's as fine a goose as I ever saw," Brudder Williams," he said to his host. "Where did you get such a fine one?"

"Well, now, Mistah Rawley," said the carver of the goose, with a sudden access of dignity, "when you preach a special good sermon I never axes you where you get it. Seems to me dat's a triv'al matter, anyway."

"TOWERS OF SILENCE."

Parsees Refuse to Abandon Their Funeral Customs—Claim Their System Is Most Sanitary.

Among the Parsees the recent agitation to induce them to dispose of their dead by cremation instead of exposing them to be devoured by vultures on their "towers of silence" has awakened only indignation. They are not prepared to abandon a custom which is hallowed to them by hoary antiquity and associated with their most hallowed religious rites.

Though in European minds the thought of allowing feathered scavengers to feast on the bodies if their beloved dead would excite the deepest feelings of repugnance and disgust, as practised by the Parsees this method of getting rid of the fleshly tenement is far from being so horrible as is generally imagined. Indeed, to the Parsees themselves—and they are the most cultivated and intelligent of all the sects found in India—it seems far preferable to burying the dead as practised by Christians.

"Your people," said a Parsee to me, "put your dead underground, where they provide a banquet for worms. We put ours above ground, where their flesh is eaten by vultures. The ultimate result is the same. The bones alone are left. But there is a great difference in what takes place before the skeleton stage is reached, and that difference is all in favor of our method. Before consigning the bodies of your dead to the earth you inclose them in coffins. You dare not allow your imaginations to picture the horrible changes that there take place before nature recovers what she gave. We do not seek to retard the process. The vultures do their work expeditiously. There is no putrefaction. Christian burial grounds, as I have read, are often sources of disease. Parsee dokhmas, or 'towers of silence' as you poetically call them, are never such. From a sanitary point of view they are incomparably superior to your cemeteries, and with us they are equally sacred."

"But," I suggested, "fire would do the work even better than vultures."

"Or worms," said my Parsee friend. "When you Christians take to cremation we Parsees may possibly follow your excellent example. There are far weightier reasons why cremation should take the place of burial than can be urged in favor of its substitution for our towers of silence."

The towers of silence crown the summit of Malabar hill, near Bombay, and are situated in the midst of a beautiful garden whose tropical trees swarm with vultures. They are built of stone and are about twenty-five feet high. A small door is provided for the entrance of the body. When a Parsee dies, after the performance of solemn and imposing funeral rites, the body is borne upon an iron bier to the towers, followed by a procession of relatives and friends of the dead headed by a number of priests. Upon arrival at the gardens the bier is laid down and prayers are said at the "sagri," or house of prayer, near the entrance to the garden. The attendants then carry the body to the towers of silence, lay it on its stony bed and retire. Then the vultures gather about it and do their grewsome work unseen. The bones are soon denuded of flesh and fall through an iron grating into a pit beneath, from which they are afterwards removed by a subterranean cavern.

Death Anniversary Observed.

On the third day after the death friends and relatives again assemble at the house where the dead man lived, and thence proceed to the "temple of fire." Standing before the urns in which the "celestial fires" are kept burning, priests recite prayers for the soul of the departed. His son, or adopted son, kneels before the high priest and promises due performance of all religious rites and obsequies to the dead. Friends and relatives then hand the priest a list of contributions to various charities which have been subscribed as a memorial offering. This concluded the ceremony or "rising from mourning," or the "resurrection of the dead." On each recurring anniversary of the death of a Parsee memorial funeral ceremonies are performed. In an iron framework erected in the house shrubs and flowers are cultivated, thus literally keeping the memory of the dead man green. Before these iron frames prayers are said two or three times a day.

The Parsees are a small set. They number altogether about 52,000, of whom 72,000 live in or near Bombay. Most of the remaining 10,000 are found in Persia. As a people they are remarkably intelligent and trustworthy, with a genius for business which fairly rivals that of the Jews. They are highly prosperous, much given to charity and beggars are unknown among them.

THE FAMILY IN INDIA.

A Man Does Not Leave His Parents After He Marries.

In India a man does not leave his parents after marriage to live with his wife, as he does in this country, but he stays at home and the wife becomes a member of his family, being treated as a daughter of the husband's parents, writes the Swami Abhedamanda. The old Jewish law, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother and shall cleave to his wife" (Gen. xxiv.), has no place in Hindoo society. It is considered to be extremely selfish to be separated from the parents for the sake of a wife. Parents, indeed, have a greater claim upon their children in India than in any part of the world.

This joint family system is a very old institution handed down through generations. It has great value in developing humane qualities like fellow feeling and sympathy, and in extending the field of love among all such relatives as live under one roof. To-day there are to be found families which consist of nearly fifty members living together in perfect harmony and peace, and the moral standard among them is kept so high that each husband looks upon every other woman of the household as his mother, while every wife looks upon all other men as her children.

The members of such a household daily perform their respective duties. The women divide the work of housekeeping among themselves and take the entire management in their own hands, following the direction of the most elderly lady of the family. Whatever they decide becomes a law in the home. Men attend to their business, deal with the outside world, supply the needs of the family and at the beginning of each month give to the women of the family enough money to meet all the expenses of the household.

Universal Penny Post.

In a letter published in The London Times, Mr. Henniker Heaton, M. P., marshals afresh the arguments in favor of universal penny postage, and at the same time made public a number of letters from prominent men who have consented to join the league that the hon. member is forming to promote the much-desired reform. The existing machinery is ample to meet any development of correspondence, Mr. Henniker Heaton contends, and to show the profits earned by the principal postoffices in Europe, Africa, and Asia gives the appended figures, the amounts being reckoned in francs:—

Germany	76,812,000
Austria	4,776,000
Belgium	13,612,000
Spain	16,260,000
France	73,862,000
Great Britain	120,000,000
Hungary	15,350,000
Italy	4,000,000
Japan	12,700,000
Holland	5,000,000
Russia	75,000,000
Portugal	2,300,000
Sweden	2,600,000
Turkey	4,950,000

International halfpenny postage already exists for printed matter, and there is a penny postal rate between Canada and the United States, while Germany and Austria form one postal union. Here the hon. member denounces so glaring an anomaly as the charge of 2 1-2d. for sending a letter to France, only 21 miles away, while 1d. is charge for sending a letter to Fiji, 11,000 miles. He believes that the loss to the revenue due to universal penny postage would be £125,000 in the first year, which, with the development of correspondence, would probably be turned into a profit at the end of the third or fourth year. To establish a penny post to the United States would cost, he estimates £25,000, and to counterbalance this let it be considered that last year Americans of British origin sent to poor relatives in Britain no less than £1,559,579 in money orders of from 5s. to £5. If the charge were reduced to a penny, British emigrants would write three letter home where at present they write only one. Nor would trade be imperilled, as the English merchant could address five foreign customers for the same money as he now spends in addressing two.

A Puzzled Husband.

Patient Man—Suppose a woman makes it so hot for her husband that he can't live with her and leaves her. What can she do?

Lawyer—Sue him for support.

"Suppose she has run him so heavily into debt that he can't support her, because his creditors grab every penny as quick as he gets it?"

"If for any reason he fails to pay her the amount ordered, he will be sent to jail for contempt of court."

"Suppose she drives him out of the house with a flatiron and he's afraid to go back?"

"She can sue him for desertion."

"Well, I don't see anything for me to do but go and hang myself."

"It's against the law to commit suicide, and if you are caught attempting it you'll be imprisoned. Six and eightpence, please. Good day!"—London Tit-Bits.

Minister Squiers Resigns.

Havana, Nov. 30.—The United States Minister, Herbert G. Squiers has cabled his resignation to Washington. The Minister declined to be interviewed on the subject, but it can be asserted that the Cuban Government cabled a message of complaint to Washington against Mr. Squiers' attitude on the Isle of Pines question, following his persistent opposition to the Anglo-Cuban treaty, which the Cubans have chosen to consider unreasonable. E. V. Morgan, United States Minister to Cuba, will succeed Mr. Squiers.

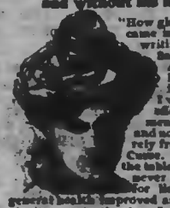
Samaria Stopped His Drinking

A London Lady cures her husband permanently of the drink habit and without his knowledge.



"How glad I am that I overcame my hesitation about writing you for a Free Sample of Samaria. At that time my husband was drinking very hard, and I was in despair. The effect of your treatment was immediate, and now our home is entirely free from the Drink Curse. I gave my husband the tablets in his tea, and he never knew. As the taste for liquor left him his general health improved and is now splendid—many, many thanks. I will be glad if you will tell others of my experience.

ECHOES OF THE STORM.

Pittsburg Steamship Lost 6 Vessels—Crew of the Monkshaven Is Safe—Searching For the Marcela.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 1.—The following telegram was received at the office of the Pittsburg Steamship Company yesterday with reference to the fate of the big ore carrier, the W. E. Corey: "We are ashore on the east end of Michigan Island; were running under check very slow; went on very easy; don't think bottom injured; notify Ashland to send tug to stay by us; send tugs from Duluth, also wrecking outfit."

So far as known the Pittsburg Steamship Company has lost six boats as a result of the recent storm.

Boats Overdue.

Duluth, Dec. 1.—Boats overdue at Duluth as far as known are: Admiral Holmes, Amasa Stone, F. Peavey, Superior, W. D. Reed and Fleetwood.

Crew is Safe.

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 1.—The steamer Monkshaven, one of the freight-carrying steamers of the Algoma Central Steamship Line, was wrecked in the gales of Monday night last near Pie Island, in Lake Superior. News reached here, to the relief of many homes, that the crew were all safe, and had arrived at Fort William last night. The steamer was en route light for a grain cargo at Fort William.

Rosemount Release.

Port Arthur, Dec. 1.—The Rosemount was released yesterday after lightering her of seven thousand bushels of wheat. No damage was done to the steamer.

Searching For Marcela.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 1.—Three steamers were sent out last night by the Pittsburg Steamship Company to search Lake Huron for the missing steel barge, Marcela, which was abandoned off Pointe Aux Barques by the steamer Maunalos, with steering gear disabled. She is known to be short of fuel, but is not thought to be in any serious danger.

Two More Arrests.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 1.—Two more arrests have been made by Detective Powers in A. & W. Smith's robbery case. A retail grocer was taken into custody, but was released on $500 bail immediately. Yesterday morning the father of Harbor Capt. Henry Munro, who was arrested a couple of days ago, was taken into custody, but was also released on bail. Before the investigation is closed at least two more arrests will be made. The case was enlarged in the Police Court.

LIFE ON THE RAIL IS A HARD ONE

C.P.R. Engineer's Experience With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Brought Back His Strength When he Could Neither Rest Nor Sleep.

Winnipeg, Man. Dec. 1.—(Special)—Mr. Ben. Rafferty, the well-known C. P. R. engineer, whose home is at 175 Maple street, is one Winnipeg man who swears by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Long hours on the engine and the mental strain broke down my constitution," Mr. Rafferty says. "My back gave out entirely. Terrible sharp, cutting pains followed one another, till I felt I was being sliced away piecemeal. I would come in tired to death from a run. My sole desire would be to get rest and sleep, and they were the very thing I could not get. Finally I had to lay off work.

"Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and the first night after using them I slept soundly. In three days I threw away the belt I have worn for years. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

UNSAVORY ENGLISH NOVELS.

Publishers Not So Careful as Newspaper Proprietors and Editors.

The London Review prints some strictures upon modern English novels from the pen of Mr. Basil Toser, a critical reviewer of books. The writer says that the "problem" novel is being supplanted by a type which shows "an increasing tendency to deal with unsavory topics with quite unnecessary freedom" and declares that out of eighty-seven selected novels of average merit at hand seventy-two are morally objectionable. He finds that an author's second book is usually more "daring" than the first, while the third goes to the limit in pruriency.

A directly opposite tendency is noted by Mr. Toser in the serial fiction published by English newspapers and periodicals, and the statement and conclusions upon this feature of the situation in England are applicable to conditions in Canada. To quote:

"How different is the tone of the serial story of average merit that appears in our weekly and monthly periodicals from that of the average novel of equal literary merit that is published between covers before appearing elsewhere. It is safe to say that no serial story at present running in any English daily newspaper or in the ordinary periodical press of England is unfit to be read by the class that we have gradually come to speak of as "young people." Why this should be I am unable to say, unless it is that editors of periodical publications have a greater sense of their responsibility and of the duty they owe to the community than certain publishers. But such a supposition, considered from the rational standpoint of hard common sense, must unfortunately be deemed quixotic, and therefore the only alternative conclusion to be arrived at is that a vast section of the multitude of men and women who read serial fiction regularly have not really a craving for stories that have a vein of double entente running through them or that appear to advocate a loose code of morality, but that, on the contrary, they desire the fiction they read to be sound and wholesome throughout."

However it may be in England, Canadian editors do have a sense of responsibility both to the community and to their patrons. By providing for their readers stories of a healthy type they first forestall and in the end obliterate the craving for those of equivocal character.

A LOOSE WILD CAT.

Ferocious and Infuriated Animal Terrifies G. T. R. Train Crew.

Conductor William Algie, Messenger Mathewson and an Owen Sound traveler recently had an exciting experience in a Grand Trunk baggage car with a loose wild cat en route from Owen Sound to London.

The cat was a monster of its species, having been captured in Lion's Head, near Wiarton, a year ago, and since been in captivity, and used for advertising purposes by a collar manufacturer of Owen Sound.

The feline was being taken to Stratford, and was held prisoner in a heavy wire cage. While en route it became very savage, and in a frenzy of rage endeavored to liberate itself from the cage.

Conductor Algie's attention was drawn to the matter and he secured the attendance in the car of the traveler in charge of the animal. With the aid of a heavy stick the cat was quieted.

Suddenly the occupants of the car were startled by the cry of the messenger, "The cat's out, boys." The cat had wormed its way through the meshes of the cage, and was perched on the safe beside the messenger, at work at his desk.

Instantly the three men sought safety on piles of baggage, and the cat was monarch of all he surveyed. Growling fiercely and sliding almost from end to end of the car in a vain effort to find egress, the infuriated cat kept up a reign of terror.

The messenger secured his revolver, but the traveler begged that he would not kill his property. Conductor Algie ordered that the door of the car be opened and the animal allowed to escape and finally this was effected and the cat, with the train traveling at fifty miles an hour, slunk out upon the platform and leapt from the car. With mighty springs it crossed fences and fields and was soon lost in the woods about Chesley.

One Fifty-Millionth of An Inch.

In recent science nothing is more remarkable than the refinement which has been made in instrumental measurements. Dr. P. E. Shaw recently explained to the Royal Society on electrical micrometer which, it is stated, can be made to measure the two-millionth of a millimeter, or the fifty-millionth of an inch. This measurement, the smallest ever yet made, was in connection with the movements of a telephone diaphragm. The problem was to find what movement of the diaphragm produces a sound which is only just audible. The measurement was effected by means of an electric current connected with the micrometer and telephone.—London Standard.

Total, Pardee, 2,848; Lesueur, 2,602. Majority for Pardee, 246.

Smith's Majority 17.

Dundas, Nov. 30.—The official count in the North Wentworth bye-election was held here yesterday morning. It was found that there were 19 spoiled ballots, and 22 others were rejected. The total vote was, Smith, 2,982; Sealey, 2,965, leaving Smith's majority at 17.

SIR WILFRID AND THE JEWS.

London Standard Comments Upon the Hospitality of Canada.

London, Nov. 30.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Standard, referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's invitation to the Jews of Russia to make Canada their home and refuge, says: "The reason he gave was one which must specially appeal to ourselves, the love and admiration of his countrymen for those British institutions, equal rights for all. We congratulate Sir Wilfrid Laurier and ourselves upon so remarkable an endorsement of the principles which led us in like manner to afford a hospitality we have never had to repent."

EQUAL SUFFRAGE GRANTED.

Austrian Workmen Receive Assurances From the Premier.

Vienna, Nov. 30.—Tuesday the Premier promised to bring in by the end of February a bill providing for a full and free universal, equal and direct suffrage.

The people made known their demand by monster demonstrations throughout the country. From only one town, Austerlitz, are serious disorders reported. There the troops fired on disorderly demonstrators, killing two and wounding thirty. Hundreds of thousands of men paraded there.

In Vienna the masses marched silently, but earnestly, with unmistakable determination.

KELPION

The Ointment That Heals

25 Cents.

A pure, stainless iodine ointment applied to cuts, burns or bruises to subdue pain and reduce inflammation.

Cancer and other malign growths often result from the slightest breakage of the skin.

"Kelpion" will kill the microbe of poison and prevent infection.

Private C. T. Mayes, who served through the Boer campaign with the Imperial Volunteers, has this to say of "Kelpion":

"The pot of Kelpion issued to our V. I. C. Kit was one of the few things we took from Cape Town to the front with us.

"It was very useful indeed; one of the finest and quickest remedies for cuts, sprains, skin diseases, wounds and bruises.

"Your Kelpion surprised every one who used it, for it cured foot sores, and it ought to command a large sale in South Africa if advertised for that reason.

"I have heard praises from all C.I.V's and Regulars who used it, and I guarantee every C.I.V. will recommend it."

WHAT KELPION WILL DO.

It will cure all skin diseases and eruptions, whether of the nature of eczema, an ulcer or a cold sore.

It will allay all inflammation, whether internal, as of the lungs, or due to rheumatism in the joints.

Will reduce swellings, whether due to sprains and hurts or from internal enlargements. 600

Ogilvies' Reputation goes into every barrel of Royal Household Flour

If Royal Household Flour were not as good as Ogilvies say it is, who would be the greatest loser?

You would try it once—if it were not good you would be a small loser, perhaps.

But Ogilvies would probably lose your custom.

They would also lose the custom of every other woman who tried it and of thousands who had never tried it but had been told that it was not as represented.

Therefore Ogilvies must make Royal Household Flour the best flour because they stake their reputation upon it, and if you and thousands of others found it was not the best, Ogilvies would ruin their business.

So Ogilvies make Royal Household Flour the best flour, in their own protection. Incidentally that is your strongest protection—it guarantees you the best flour because the brand carries with it Ogilvie's Reputation.

Ogilvies simply ask a trial—knowing that it will make a permanent friend for Royal Household Flour.

Presented Report Of Convention

Yesterday afternoon the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. met in the Association parlours. Considerable business in connection with the annual concert, under the auspices of the auxiliary was transacted, and Miss Estelle Ackerman, the secretary, presented the report of the convention held in Toronto recently, which she attended, representing the local auxiliary. Miss Ackerman's report was most interesting and was much enjoyed. She dealt very fully with the work of the convention.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

Offers a Prize of $250.00 to the Person Submitting Name that will be Adopted for the New Pacific Coast City.

A COMPETITION FOR THINKERS.

The recent use of names foreign to Canada, by large corporations, whose interests are essentially Canadian, has brought about much adverse criticism, not only in Canadian newspapers but journals published in other countries, and to eliminate the omission and to over-rule any objection to this nature, the Grand Trunk Pacific are giving the people of Canada an opportunity to offer suggestions and to submit names for the Pacific Coast city that will grow up at the terminus of the new Transcontinental Railway. With this end in view they have decided to offer a prize of $250.00 cash for a name that will be in every way appropriate and suitable. This will give anyone an opportunity of putting on their "thinking cap," and competing in an open contest to decide the name, incidentally receiving this handsome prize, and the honour of naming a city, whose birth means the evolution of a new era in Canada's twentieth century prosperity. The only conditions governing the contest are as follows:

Name not to be more than three syllables or contain more than ten letters, and to be purely Canadian, preferably significant of British Columbia, and not to conflict with other names of towns or post offices now existing in Canada.

Use paper not larger than eight by ten inches, and write in ink, on one side of the paper only.

Each competitor allowed to submit three names, on separate sheets, one name to appear on each sheet.

Accompanying each name a short article of no less than fifty words, nor more than three hundred words, explanatory of the title.

Name of competitor, with full post office address, to be signed at the bottom of sheet.

Names to be forwarded addressed, Pacific Coast Terminus Contest, Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Montreal, Canada.

Competition will close at noon, December fifteenth, nineteen hundred and five.

As soon as competition has been decided, and name chosen, the name of the successful competitor will be announced through the columns of the daily newspapers.

In case the name chosen has been selected by more than one competitor, than the explanatory articles will be judged on their merits, and decision rendered accordingly.

The Children's Aid Society Wants Help

Will Ask That Additional Grant be Given This Year—$200 More Will be Required to Place Society on Its Feet.

In view of the fact that the Children's Aid Society will wait on the County Council at this session to ask for an additional grant, the following letter has been sent to each member of the council by the secretary of the Society, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun:—

Peterborough Nov. 28.

Dear Sir.—I enclose for your earnest consideration, a statement showing the children from outside the city of Peterborough, who have been dealt with by the Childre's Aid Society during the past year.

We began the year with a substantial cash balance on hand, which we had saved up, hoping to be able to use it for certain permanent improvements which are required. This balance has disappeared, and the Society is now without funds, at a time of year when the work is sure to be heavy.

The grant which we received from the County, was $200.00, and, as you will note, we have expended $450.87 on county children. We, therefore, respectfully request that an extra grant of $200.00 may be made, to relieve the present situation. The City of Peterborough, and the citizens of Peterborough, are in hearty sympathy with the work, and are doing all that the Society can reasonably demand of them, but it is necessary that either the County grant be increased, or that the County contributions be secured in some way, if the Society is to do that useful work which it is intended to do.

The statute gives us the power to charge the maintenance of the children against the Townships, but it has been thought fairer to ask the County to assume this liability, and we have not asked for any order against the Townships.

It is to be hoped that the expenses will not be so heavy another year, and that the $200 which you usually grant will be sufficient.

Yours truly,

R. M. DENNISTOUN,
Secretary.

Hubby Tells Wife He'll Obey Suicide Order

Gets $100 Funeral Money From Her and Then Blows It In; She Makes Serious Charge.

Paris, Nov. 25. — A mechanic named Nogues left his home in the Rue d'Allemagne for Rouen, where he had business to transact. His wife and two daughters, aged 16 and 17, were left in Paris. He had scarcely arrived at Rennes when he received an amazing letter from his wife accusing him of an unspeakable crime. Nogues did not quite understand what charge was made against him. He replied to his wife however, that he would willingly commit suicide if she would first send her photograph and those of his two daughters, so that he might kiss them for the last time. He also requested her to send him some money to cover the expenses of his funeral.

The wife sent her brother to Rennes with $100. When he reached Rennes it took him but little time to find Nogues. A few minutes after the meeting Nogues sent a telegram to Mme. Nogues to the effect that all was over. After despatching this message it occurred to him that they they might have another good dinner before he killed himself. The dinner was, of course, paid for out of the funeral expenses.

Nogues then bethought himself it would be more convenient if he shot himself on the grave of his parents at Montford. Thither Nogues and his brother-in-law hied. But when they arrived at Montford they remembered that they had a relative who was a cure there. It would never do to create a scandal there, so they returned to Paris, having spent all the funeral money.

When Mme. Nogues saw her husband, whom she believed had been dead a week, and when she was told that all the funeral money was gone she became very angry and rushed off to the Palais de Justice, and made the serious charge referred to. It will be investigated by a magistrate.—Detroit News and Tribune.

To Complete The Trent Canal

The dredge Trenton is lying here for the winter and the dredge Trent at Hastings. It is now up to the Government at the next session of Parliament to order the construction of this section of the canal and the dredges can begin work at each end in the spring.—Trenton Courier. The dredge here is not idle. It is gradually moving towards Trenton, having during the past few weeks, cleaned out 200 yards of canal. Get busy at your end, Trenton!—Hastings Star.

Hastings Citizens Honour Dr. Berry

Dr. and Mrs. Berry and family left Hastings to-day for Cuba, (going via Toronto and New York) where they will reside. With them go the best wishes of all their friends in Hastings. During the past week they have been the recipients of a number of addresses and remembrances. At the conclusion of the morning service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, the pastor, Rev. D. A. Thompson, on behalf of the Session, of which the doctor was a member, made a few appropriate remarks, and presented him with a beautiful Bible. Dr Berry very feelingly replied in a few well-chosen words. The I.O.F. presented the doctor with an address and a gold-mounted fountain pen; the C.O.F. an address and a gold mounted umbrella; and the citizens of Hastings a suit case, locket and chain, and a jewel case.—Star.

CUBITT & PORTER

JEER PRINCESS ROYAL.

Regrettable Scenes on the Strand, Where London's Unemployed Shout "Curse Their Charity."

London, Nov. 30.—Egged on by the social democratic federation, the unemployed mustered in strong force around the Church Army tents off the Strand yesterday and hooted the Princess Royal (Duchess of Fife) eldest daughter of King Edward, who performed the ceremony of opening the tents, which were presented by the King and endowed with $5,000 from Queen Alexandra's fund to house and feed great numbers of the unemployed, who are to chop firewood for this relief.

Shouts of "religious sweaters" and "curse their charity," greeted the princess, and the crowds became so boisterous that large numbers of police had to be summoned to disperse them.

M'CURDY DOWN AND OUT.

Mutual Life Trustees Accept High-Salaried President's Resignation.

New York, Nov. 30.—The resignation of Richard A. McCurdy as president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. was the most important development of the life insurance situation yesterday. Mr. McCurdy is succeeded temporarily by Frederick Cromwell, the treasurer of the company, but it is understood that the position has been offered to James H. Eckels, who was Comptroller of the Currency during the administration of President Cleveland, and now is president of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago.

At the monthly meeting yesterday of the board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society the following were elected directors: Sir William C. Van Horne of Montreal, William C. Redfield of Brooklyn and John D. Kernan of Utica, N. Y.

Don't Let Policies Lapse.

New York, Nov. 30.—Senator Armstrong, chairman of the committee appointed by the New York Legislature to investigate life insurance, issued a thanksgiving greeting yesterday to policyholders, advising them not to let their policies lapse. In it he says: "Policyholders are in a better position now than before the investigation began, and their position ought to steadily improve as our enquiry proceeds."

HERPICIDE'S MISSION

It Takes Away the Dread of Birthdays

Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable evidences of old age—thin hair and grayness — approaching. But science has discovered that these conditions are no longer "unmistakable" evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even the very young people may suffer hair loss, while those fortunate enough to escape the ravages of the scalp germ, retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings by using the genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send ten cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

Find Human Foot In Shoe.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 30.—A shoe containing the skeleton of a man's foot was found twenty miles north of here in the woods. No other sign of the body was left. It is believed to be part of the remains of some explorer who went into the woods nearly a century ago, as the oldest settlers says they cannot remember when that kind of shoes were manufactured. The sole is of wood, fastened to the upper with a wire. An iron rim runs around the sole and heel.

"IT'S ONLY A COLD, A TRIFLING COUGH"

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptives grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cts.

Mr. Julian J. LeBlanc, Belle Cote, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with a bad cold and severe cough, which assumed such an attitude as to keep me confined to my house. I tried several remedies advertised but they were of no avail. As a last resort I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured me completely."

BOLTERS AND CHEWERS.

Dr. Osler of Canada Makes Hit In First London Lecture.

Prof. Osler, the other day, gave his first lecture in a London hospital since his appointment as regius professor of medicine at Oxford. The address was to the Pupils' Physical Society of Guy's Hospital, upon the works of Sir Thomas Browne, the famous medical writer of the seventeenth century.

In "De Religo Medici," which Sir Thomas wrote before he was thirty, he held the view that the pace of life slackened after the age of thirty and that those who failed to reach that age should not complain of immaturity.

"Rather a harsh thought," added Dr. Osler, "to one who thinks that work should stop at — —"

The laughter of the students drowned the rest. They understood the reference.

Later, referring to the a[illegible] attributed to him a year ago by the American press that men who had reached the age of sixty should be hurried to a painless end, the doctor smiled.

"I am too near that age myself to make any such statement."

Dr. Osler will be sixty in 1909.

By dividing the world into "bolters" and "chewers," Prof. Osler has, says The London Globe, certainly made a good deal clearer that distincton between "somophagists" and "poltophagists," which is exciting the dietetic philosophers so much just now. To transform the "bolter" into the "chewer" ought, according to many, to be the chief aim of medical science, and we are assured that if the world only all became "chewers," half the ills of humanity would vanish as if by magic. The enthusiasts have certainly some reason on their side when they quote the example of the late Mr. Gladstone, who himself believed that his own marvellous health was largely due to his practice of chewing each morsel of food at least thirty times.

A Warning to Executors.

Judge Winchester of Toronto has just given his decision in a case of great interest to executors under wills. Several years ago Mrs. Mary Fleming died, leaving for the benefit of her grandchildren, Mary, Bernard and Alice Power, the Wheat Sheaf Hotel, King street west, and houses at 669, 671, 673 and 675 King street west and 90 and 92 Bathurst street. Recently Mary Power came of age, and asked for an accounting from the executors. The official guardian acted for Bernard and Alice, Mr. E. J. Hearn for the executors, and Mr. G. P. Deacon for Mary Power.

The inquiry lasted two days, and then Judge Winchester gave his decision ordering that the executors pay to the heirs a sum of money, the amount to be fixed after inquiry, sufficient to cover the loss the heirs have sustained because of the failure of the executors to secure reasonable rents for the houses. It was considered that the rent of the hotel was fixed at its legitimate rate. The amount to be paid by the executors will be deducted from the remuneration which deceased had authorized to be paid to them.

The evidence adduced seemed to satisfy the judge that the executors had not paid the attention to the changed conditions in house rentals which have developed during the past few years, and that as a result the heirs had not received as much money as they would otherwise have done. The judge believed that the executors were most honorable men in every respect, but had failed in this particular to secure for the children the full benefit of the estate.

Mean Men Stories.

Several immigrants have complained of the poor salaries paid them by the farmers who have given them employment. One young fellow in illustrating the meanness of this employer said that to raise the price of a smoke he used to write about 20 fake letters a week so as to get the postage on them from the farmer, who was a great believer in keeping home ties intact, and never objected to give money for postage.

An Ingersoll correspondent of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review claims to have found the meanest man in Canada. Here is the incident as the correspondent relates it: "One day last week a carpenter working at a rich man's place, just before six at night asked if he would give him a drink. "No," says the rich man, "wait till you get home, for we have a meter here.' 'Very well,' replied the workingman, 'if that's the way, and you will not give me a drink, I quit now.' And he did."

Potatoes in the West.

Very large potatoes may not be popular for table use, but they are a good indication of the fertility of a district. The editor of this paper dug three from one hill that weighed 2 lbs. 6 oz., 2 lbs. 14 ozs., and 4 lbs. 2 oz., respectively, or a total of 9 lbs. 6 oz. That last one is certainly a beauty, and would be enough for one meal for any ordinary man. Just for the sake of advertising the district we want to hear of larger ones. Who can beat it?—Qu'Appelle, Sask., Progress.

SPANKS FOR A LIVING.

Toronto Girl Said To Be An Adept at the Job.

Is it possible that Toronto counts among its citizens a young lady, Miss Maude Kelly, who on her business card announces herself a "professional spanker"? The New York Journal has possessed itself of the staggering information that in this city resides such a lady, says The Toronto Globe, described as possessing determination and evident vigor, eccentric ideas, disposition amiable, and enriched with many friends. In fact, everything is told of her except her address and telephone number. Miss Kelly's fame does not appear in the latest city directory, nor is she a telephone subscriber, which leads to the belief that if it is true that such a one is engaged in the gentle art of "correcting" children for a reasonable consideration she does not take hurry-up calls.

The New York Journal has it as follows in the shape of a special despatch from Toronto:—

Miss Kelly takes pride in her profession, and talks about it as if it were the most natural thing in the world. Recently in an interview she talked of her experience and her methods.

"I was formerly a teacher of gymnastic exercises," she said. "One afternoon I visited a friend of mine. Seeing that she was greatly worried, I asked her what was the matter, and she told me her son Harry was incorrigible. I suggested a whipping. 'Oh, I couldn't manage it,' she said. 'Ask his father to do it, then,' I pursued. 'He is away in New York,' she replied, 'and will not be back for a week.' Evidently Harry deserved punishment, and the situation demanded that it be inflicted at once. I knew the family very well, and I offered my services as a friend. They were accepted. Harry was a boy of eleven, but I took him into the nursery and spanked him very soundly.

"After that Harry's mother came to me frequently, and friends of hers got to hear of my kindly offices and asked me to act for them. My income was small, extra money would be useful, and I decided to make a business of juvenile correction. I am not unduly severe, but I make my patients smart, even though I whip some of them through their clothes."

Railway Shops Burned.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Dec. 1.—The workshops of the Prince Edward Island Railway here were destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The buildings included the car shop, the machine shop and blacksmith shop. The first was totally destroyed, with the two cars partly built, and all the machinery and tools. The other buildings were gutted. The works employed about 120 men. The buildings were of wood and of no great value. The loss is roughly estimated at $65,000.

Porte Will Be Obstinate.

Athens, Dec. 1.—Persons arriving from Mytilene yesterday say they are convinced that the Porte will hold out until the powers occupy Smyrna. The report that Mytilene is in a state of absolute tranquility and that the Ottoman flag flies from the Government House.

The chief of police refused to surrender his sword to the foreign sailors, whereupon they took it from him forcibly.

"SMART" LONDON.

"Took a Run Up to Scotland" During Recent Visit of the King.

On every side one is told that "smart" London is now in Scotland, writes Cityonne in Toronto News from London. The King's visit to Glenquoich (Lord Burton's beautiful estate at Invergarry) has made it doubly incumbent upon the devotee of fashionable life to "take a run up to Scotland." "Glenquoich" means the "glen of the cup," so called from the shape of the glen within the hills, which rise abruptly from the loch. This is Lord Burton's last season at Invergarry. During his tenancy of the place he has made an immense number of improvements in the "lodge," as the residence is called.

Glenquoich has not a little interest to Canadians who are familiar with the story of Ralph Connor, "The Man From Glengarry," for the Canadian "Glengarry" was named by the Macdonells, the last of the clan in Canada being, I believe, Mr. Jack Macdonell, who still lives at the spot made famous by our Canadian author. The last great chief of Glengarry at Inverary, Scotland, was Alastair Ronaldson Macdonell, who died in 1828, and in 1838 the estate was purchased by Mr. Edward Ellice, M. P.

It is not generally known that a ghost story hangs about the residence where the King, surrounded by a decidedly gay house-party, has been disporting himself recently. It is connected with the story of the deer forest, for "Glengarry's Sanctuary," as the forest is called, is famous in the annals of Scotland. This great forest extends from near Loch Garry, on the east, to the sea at Kinloch Hourn, on the west, the distance between these places being about nineteen miles—a nice little stretch of property when one comes to think of it. The story of the phantom which haunts the "lodge" was confided to the writer by an old friend of the former owner, Mr. Ellice, but it was only told on the condition that it was not to appear in print, as it might damage the prospects of a "let" or "sale" later on, a tantalising proviso for a newspaper correspondent to submit to!

To Enliven The Liver

KIDNEYS AND BOWELS—TO PREVENT DISEASE BY CLEANSING THE SYSTEM—YOU MUST USE

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

There's need in every home for a medicine that will promptly cure biliousness, kidney derangements and constipation.

A medicine that by cleansing the filtering and excretory organs will remove all poisonous waste matter, and by so doing prevent fevers, colds and such deadly diseases as dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease.

No medicine satisfies this need so well as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is no idle boast, but an absolute fact that is backed up by the testimony of a hundred thousand homes.

The reputation of Dr. A. W. Chase as author and physician is the guarantee which first made this great medicine popular.

Now it stands on its record of cures—a record which has seldom, if ever, been paralleled in the history of medicine.

As a treatment for backaches, headaches, indigestion, aching limbs, liver derangements, kidney disorders and constipation, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, thorough and effective.

Once their merit is tested they are kept in the house and relied on in cases of emergency. By keeping the liver active and the bowels regular they positively prevent serious disease.

Mrs. Geo. Lawson, Oonagog, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills made a well woman of me, completely curing me of constipation, rheumatism, stomach troubles and a very severe kidney trouble after years of suffering. I am now sixty-eight years of age and very grateful for what Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done for me and for the remarkable cure of my husband by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster promptly eradicates pain and may be used on any part of the body.

Oil on the Waters.

Instructions are given by the British Admiralty Office regarding the manner in which oil should be poured on "troubled waters." It is recommended that the oil be dropped overboard in small perforated canvas bags capable of holding from one to two gallons, each bag depending from a line whose position differs according to the nature of the sea and direction of the wind. Running before the wind one hangs out the oil bags from either bow. Crossing a bar with a flood tide the oil is sent on ahead. For boarding a wreck oil is thrown to windward of her. Waste from the engines seems to be the best oil, though all animal and vegetable oils will serve.

LIQUID LITIGATION.

The Trial by Ordeal That Finds a Place in Perak.

In Perak lawyers find no business, for a modified form of trial by ordeal decides all disputes. In place of the legal practitioner the pleader is a native boy who is assigned to one or the other of the sides and is given a bamboo tube in which is sealed the pleading of the person or party whom he represents.

When all is ready two stakes are driven into the bed of a stream, and by aid of a bamboo pole the heads of the two boys are submerged at the same time.

By grasping the stakes they are enabled to remain under water for quite awhile after their natural inclination would bring them to the surface, but at last one of them gives in and, releasing his hold of the stake, comes to the air.

He is immediately seized, and the tube he holds is cast aside. The other lad is led ashore, his tube opened, and the document contained therein stands as the decision in the case.

The Dhebar Lake.

A British government engineer living in Bombay asserts that India has the largest artificial fresh water reservoir in the world. He says that in the native state of Udaipur, in Rajputana, some thirty miles south of the city of Udaipur, is the great Jaisamand, the Dhebar lake. The dam of this lake was built some 200 years ago by the Maharana Jai Singh. It covers an area of between twenty-one and twenty-five square miles. Its depth at the dam is ninety feet, and its capacity is estimated at 153,000,000,000 gallons.

These Beardless Angels.

The Right Rev. Richard H. Wilmer, late bishop of Alabama, was remarkable at once for his piety and his humor. When some one asked him why it was that the pictures and figures of men angels as well as female angels were represented without beards the bishop replied promptly that it seemed to be easy enough to make angels out of women, but that men could only get into heaven by a "close shave."

THE EARLY PIANO.

Dr. Humfrey Anger's Lecture at Toronto Conservatory of Music.

"The Early Piano" was the subject of a most interesting lecture delivered at the Conservatory of Music recently by Dr. Humfrey Anger. It was illustrated, in a thoroughly concrete manner, for there was on the platform one of the famous five-octave square instruments made in London in 1782, and rescued by the lecturer a few years ago from the garret of a European curiosity dealer. It is a true piano, for the hammers strike the strings, the action, of course, is extremely simple but effective, and the tone has the general timbre of the mandolin, although much sweeter and more resonant. The sourdine stop, which corresponds to the damper pedal of to-day, has the effect of making the tone similar in quality to the banjo. At the same time there is a delicacy and ravishing sweetness about the instrument which made every musician in the audience envious of the lecturer's valuable and curious possession. The piano is of solid San Domingo mahogany, inlaid with satin wood and ebony, and is a thoroughly artistic piece of cabinet work.

After pointing out that the birth of the piano and its progress to something near perfection coincided with the life of Beethoven, 1770 to 1827, Dr. Anger dwelt on the work of Cristophore, the real inventor of the instrument, and called attention to the fact that the tone-quality brought the piano into notice, and soon made it popular. Frederick the Great ordered fifteen, and at least three of these are now in the German palace at Potsdam.

Clementi was the first musician to compose for the piano. Reference was made to his well-known contest with Mozart in Vienna, and the lecturer then played the first movement of Clementi's Sonata in B flat. The gentle tinklings of the veteran instrument seemed admirably adapted for the similar gentle tinklings of the Sonata, and when the same selection was played for purposes of comparison on a modern grand piano the effect on the mind was entirely different. It was like hearing Willard recite "Mary's Little Lamb" after a three-year-old child had just finished it.

The illustrative program included, beside the Clementi number, Martini's Gavotte in F, Corelli's Gigue in A, The Echo from Bach's Ninth Partita, and Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith."

Altogether the lecture was highly entertaining, not alone to the musician, but to the lover of the men and things of other days.

The Cemetery of the Sea.

The sea is the largest of all cemeteries, and its slumberers sleep without monuments. All other graveyards in all other lands show some symbol of distinction between the great and small, the rich and poor, but in that ocean cemetery the same waves roll over all.

Suspicious.

"Why do you think all is not right between Mr. and Mrs. Flashington?"

"They are so often seen together lately. It must be that they have some reason for trying to drown suspicion."

STEPS TO HEAVEN.

The Legend of How Mount Omi's Stairway Was Cut.

Mount Omi, on the border between western China and Tibet, has the longest staircase in the world. On top of the mountain there stands a Buddhist temple, around which gather some of the holiest traditions of that religion and which is made a Mecca to the Chinese.

To facilitate the ascent of its slippery sides some 20,000 steps have been cut in the mountain, forming a single flight, up which the pilgrim toils.

Because of its inaccessibility few Europeans have ever visited the spot, but a number of travelers have ascended the stairway and are positive that it is no legendary myth.

There is a legend that in earlier times the pilgrim was forced to ascend the mountain without artificial aids until the monks conceived the plan of requiring every pilgrim who would gain especial benefit of his journey to cut a single step.

Mary, Queen of Scots.

Mary, queen of Scots, was tall and slender, but very graceful in all her actions. Her face does not seem to have been especially beautiful, for she had rather irregular features, but her fascination of manner was irresistible. She had a way of cocking her head a little to one side and of looking sideways at the person with whom she was talking that gave a strong impression of coquetry. She had very small hands and feet and was fond of showing both, often having her gowns shortened in order that her feet might be seen. She always had her own hair cut close and wore a wig to save the time and trouble of hairdressing.

Prevaricator.

The word prevaricator is from the Latin and originally meant a straddler with distorted or misshapen legs. In the Roman courts of law the expression was applied to one who in a suit was discovered to be in collusion with his opponent to compass some dishonesty. As falsehood was the necessary part of such a performance, the word by and by came to have the significance at present attached to it.

Wrinkles.

If our forehead is rigid with wrinkles before forty, what will it be at seventy? There is one consoling thought about these marks of time and trouble—the death angel almost always erases them. Even the extremely aged in death often wear a smooth and peaceful brow, thus leaving our last memory of them calm and tranquil. But our business is with life. Scowling is a silent kind of scolding. It shows that our souls need sweetening. For pity's sake let us take a sadiron or a glad iron or a smoothing tool of some sort and straighten the creases out of our faces before they become indelibly engraved upon our faces.

POISONED ARROWS.

Their Use In Warfare Dates Back to Prehistoric Ages.

The use of poisoned arrows in primitive warfare is undoubtedly of very ancient origin. The custom is mentioned by Strabo, Pliny and Aristotle, all of whom agree that it was well known in both prehistoric Europe and Asia. In later times the Celts and Gauls envenomed their arrow and spear shafts with the juices of the hellebore, and the American and Australian savages with serpent venom and virus from decaying flesh.

The very earliest mention of the Scythians refers to them as "a people who prepare arrow poison by mixing serpent venom with the virus of putrid blood serum." At the time of the discovery of America the Indians were as well skilled in the science of preparing arrow poison as the Scythians or any other early tribe of European or Asiatic people. The favorite mode as practiced by the American aborigines was to kill some wild animal, a deer or buffalo preferred, remove its liver and cause a heavily envenomed reptile to strike its fangs into it until the meat turned green with poison. If one serpent did not supply enough, others were obtained, and the work of enraging the creatures and causing them to strike the liver was kept up until the desired results were obtained. One large liver thus prepared would furnish poison enough to coat the shafts of 10,000 arrows. The Smithsonian institute has hundreds of these poisoned arrows, the microscope showing that most of them have been poisoned with rattlesnake venom.

Faith

You cannot be expected to have faith in Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, as a cure for Colds, Coughs and all diseases of the air passages, if you have not tried it. We have faith in it, and we guarantee it. If it doesn't cure you it costs you nothing. If it does it costs you 25c. That's fair. Try it to-day.

Shiloh has cured many thousands of the most obstinate cases, and we do not hesitate to say that it will cure any Cold, Cough, Throat or Lung trouble. If we did not believe this we would not guarantee it. Shiloh has had an unbroken record of success for thirty years. It has stood every possible test without failure. Further is found in the many testimonials of those who have tried Shiloh and been cured. Mrs. Archie Taylor, Asaph, Pa., writes:—"I bought a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure and found it very beneficial. I have two children, and they had a terrible cough. I gave them everything I could think of, but they got no better, until one evening my husband brought a bottle of Shiloh. We gave it to the children when they went to bed, and they slept all night. It cured them completely. I shall always keep it in the house." 603

A CITY OF MUD.

Peculiarities of Yezd, Its People and Its Houses.

"One of the most extraordinary cities in the world is Yezd, in central Persia," writes a traveler. "It is situated in the midst of a vast salt desert which stretches for hundreds of miles in all directions. The nearest inhabited place of any size is Ispahan, and that is 200 miles away. The inhabitants of Yezd who have been away from Yezd during their lives number perhaps two or three score, and the bulk of these have not extended their travels farther than to Shiraz or Kirman in the one direction or to Ispahan in the other. Yet between 50,000 and 60,000 people make the place their home. For ninety-nine out of every hundred of these the great outside world has absolutely no existence at all.

"Yezd is a city made almost entirely of mud. Not only are the houses built of this material, but the very furniture, the fire pans, the barrels for grain, the children's toys, the bread receptacles, even the beds, are simply mud molded into a rough form and dried in the sun.

"In the Yezd shops the goods, mostly mud, are displayed on tiers of mud ledges, and there is a mud room behind. The bakers' ovens are of mud, down to the very doors. Many of the Yezdis even eat mud and develop an unwholesome muddy complexion in consequence."

Curious, but True.

Although difficult to believe, it is nevertheless true that the death of two half sisters, the daughters of the same father, occurred 170 years apart. The grandfather of the British minister, Charles James Fox, Sir Stephen Fox, married in 1654 and had a daughter born to him in 1655 who died in the course of the same year. He had several other children who grew up and married, but all of them died before the father and without issue. Sir Stephen, not wishing his large fortune to fall into the hands of distant relatives, married again at a very advanced age, and his youngest daughter was born in 1727. She reached the age of ninety-eight years and died in 1826—that is, 170 years after the death of her oldest sister.

THE SWINBURNES.

Family One of England's Oldest—Settled Before Norman Conquest.

Sir John Swinburne, whose impending marriage to Miss Florence Moffat at Windsor, England, has just been announced, is 74 years of age, says the Marquise de Fontenoy. The Swinburnes are one of the oldest families in England and were settled at Swinburne Castle in Northumberland at the time of the Norman conquest. The castle, by the bye, passed through marriage in the reign of Queen Elizabeth to the Widderingtons, who sold it to the Riddells, in whose possession it has been for the last 200 years, the country seat of the head of the house of Swinburne since 1572 having been Capheaton Hall, near Newcastle-on-Tyne.

The baronetcy held by Sir John Swinburne is one of the first ones created by King James I., when he founded the Order of the Baronets, dating from 1660, and was conferred upon John Swinburne, who had previously been the subject of a romantic and sensational lawsuit. As a child he had been carried off to France, kidnapped, in fact, in connection with those bitter quarrels that prevailed between the Protestants and the Roman Catholics in England at the time of the reformation. He was brought up in a monastery on the continent under a different name, was believed to have perished, and when, after reaching manhood, and refusing to become a monk, he returned to England to claim his extensive estates, his identity was questioned and he was compelled to institute legal proceedings in order to establish it. This he did, by describing, among other things, all the curious marks of the family punch bowl and also the strange markings of a pet cat which he had as a boy.

Among the most familiar members of the Swinburne family have been Henry Swinburne, the friend of Empress Maria Theresa and traveler, whose books on Spain and Italy printed in the middle of the eighteenth century are still standard works to-day.

Another if England's foremost and most gifted poet of the present day, Algernon Swinburne, who, had it not been for the radical and even downright revolutionary opinions which he professes in all political matters, would certainly have been appointed to succeed Lord Tennyson as poet laureate. He is a first cousin of Sir James Swinburne, and the son of the late Admiral Charles and Lady Jane Swinburne, a wonderful old woman, having been a daughter of the third earl of Ashburnham. Lady Jane was celebrated in her younger days for her remarkable beauty, which was such that when presented for the first time at court she was complimented on her loveliness by William IV. as he drew her to him and imprinted a hearty kiss on her cheek.

Algernon Swinburne is an object of particular aversion to the Russian Government and to the reigning house of Romanoff, both of which he has repeatedly denounced fiercely in impassioned verse. Indeed, at one moment the Russian Government endeavored, though unsuccessfully, to secure his prosecution in the criminal courts by the English authorities on the ground that his poems constituted not merely an excuse for the methods of the terrorists' party in the dominions of the Czar but an actual instigation to the assassination of sovereign, princes, and officials at St. Petersburg.

On the other hand Swinburne has been the recipient of profound and publicly expressed admiration on the part of the Italian Government and people, the former having officially eulogized his poems glorifying that Italian revolution which has transformed the peninsula into a united nation.

Sir John Swinburne, a Crimean veteran of the Royal Navy, has several sons and one daughter, the widow of Richard Chamberlain, who was a younger brother of ex-Colonial Secretary Joseph Chamberlain. There is but little love lost between Mrs. Richard and her distinguished brother-in-law, and during the Boer war she took an active part in making trouble for the administration and in particular for the Colonial Secretary, not only in England, but also in South Africa.

Power of Radium.

In an address before the British Scientific Association, Prof. Darwin said radium was a substance which was perhaps millions of times more powerful than dynamite. Thus it was estimated that an ounce of radium would contain enough power to raise 10,000 tons a mile above the earth's surface. Another way of stating the same estimate was that the energy needed to tow a ship of 12,000 tons a distance of 6,000 sea miles at fifteen knots was contained in twenty-two ounces of radium. Now, we knew that the earth contains radio active materials, and it was safe to assume that it forms in some degree a sample of the materials of the solar system; hence it was almost certain that the sun is radio active also.

Queer Remedy For a Burn.

Here is a description of an old Saxon cure for a burn, and its application:—"A poor woman who was severely burned peremptorily refused to see a doctor or to buy any remedy until Sunday evening came round. She then sent for an old woman who bower her head over the wound, crossed two of her fingers over it, and after crooning to herself the lines:—There came two angels from the north,
One was Fire, and one was Frost;
Out Fire, in Frost,
In the name of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.
Then she breathed heavily upon the place," and so left the poor suffering patient.

Slaves to Rheumatism

Freed by

"Fruit-a-tives"

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism and Rheumatic pains by removing the poisons which cause the disease. Rheumatism means poisoned blood. Too much urea or tissue waste is retained in the blood, owing to defective action of the bowels, kidneys or skin. The retained urea becomes uric acid, which inflames nerves and joints and thus rheumatism is produced.

Mrs. R. H. Dennis, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., writes as follows: "I think 'Fruit-a-tives' are fine. I am using them for rheumatism, and have not felt ill since I started to take them."

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism by greatly stimulating the action of the liver, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" make each of these vital organs do its share of nature's work properly. "Fruit-a-tives" rid the system of excessive urea and uric acid—and so purify and enrich the blood and build up the general health, that there can be no rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices, concentrated and combined by our discovered process, which makes them much more powerful medicinally. Then tonics and internal antiseptics are added and the whole compressed into tablets.

Plumbers To The Number of 15 Are on Trail

Arraigned in Hamilton On a Charge of Conspiring, Etc.

SECRETARY HARRIS EVIDENCE

Admits Burning All the Books and Papers When the Association Disbanded Through Fear After the Toronto Proceedings Began—Jobs Were Averaged and 20 Per Cent. Disbursed to Members.

Hamilton, Dec. 1.—Fifteen plumbers were in the Police Court yesterday morning charged with conspiring, combining, etc.

The only witness examined was T. H. Davies, secretary, who was on the rack for three hours. When Crown Attorney Washington got through with him the cases were adjourned till to-day. George H. Lynch-Staunton, K. C., is defending all the plumbers.

Secretary Davies said that he got $15 a week, and that the expenses of running the affice amounted to $1,500 or $2,000 a year. The expenses were incurred partly by the committee which consisted of Messrs. Mellon, Cummings, W. J. Clark and H. S. Wallace. The declaration the plumbers had to sign upon becoming members of the association was: "That I will, upon my word and honor, keep secret anything that I see or hear at these meetings, and discuss them with no person who is not a member of this association, and I promise to abide by the rules and regulations, and prices of this association."

Burns the Books.

Mr. Davies reluctantly admitted that the association had disbanded through fear after the Toronto proceedings were started, and that all the books and papers were destroyed by him then. It was intended to start up again after the scare had blown over.

Mr. Davies said that in tendering on jobs each member submitted his tender to him and that he averaged the prices. The plumber nearest the average was given the job. Twenty-five per cent. was added to the actual cost of the work, of which five per cent. went to the association, and the rest to the plumbers. After the expenses were paid the money was divided among the members of the association. The initiation fee was $100.

The witness declared that George Stevenson had left the association because it would not put on a percentage of 33 1-2 cents. He had never heard of the Central Supply Association. The association had an agreement with the journeymen plumbers' union that no members of the union were to work for plumbers who were not members of the association.

TORONTO PLUMBERS COMMITTED

Men Also Sent For Trial on a Charge of Conspiracy.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—The preliminary investigation into the charges of conspiracy against the plumbers came to an end yesterday morning when Magistrate Denison decided that there was sufficient evidence to commit them for trial. Those bound over in $200 to appear for trial were: W. J. Storey, W. Bush, F. Lawlor, Charles Corner, of the union, and Fred Armstrong, P. Hayes, R. W. Harrison, C. H. Heavis, K. J. Allison, Lewis Legrow, W. J. Mason, of the Master Plumbers. W. H. Meredith, secretary of the Master Plumbers' Association, was discharged.

There was a big protest on the part of D. J. O'Donoghue for the union men. He held that Corner and Lawlor had not been shown to be mixed up in the case. On Mr. Curry announcing an intention of calling witnesses in proof, Mr. O'Donoghue objected, as the Crown had stated that its case was finished.

"Evidence Enough," Says Magistrate.

"There is enough evidence to show that the whole organization was mixed up in it," remarked the magistrate. "They were combined for a certain purpose."

Mr. O'Donoghue argued, after Lawlor and Conner had been proved to be members of the union and served on its committees, that there were four charges and only one referred to the body which he represented.

"Here are three organizations," said the magistrate, "and they have combined together with one object. The Master Plumbers made an agreement with the supply people which they could not carry out unless the journeymen joined in. The conspiracy between the three organizations was one to raise prices of materials and work and make rake-offs for the plumbers. They combined to take money out of the people."

Where Rights Cease.

"But the men had a right to make an agreement not to work if they wish to," protested Mr. O'Donoghue.

"But they did it to help out another combine," answered Col. Denison. "It was a case of the union trying to force Mr Reeves back into the Master Plumbers' Association. The law has recognized the right of workingmen to combine together not to work, but in this particular case the journeymen plumbers will not work, because the Master Plumbers aimed at would not join in a conspiracy to raise prices. You will get a chance to argue the case when it comes up for trial."

NO REASON YOU SHOULD GIVE UP

Because Your Indigestion has Become Chronic Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will Cure it Just the Same.

If your indigestion has turned to Dyspepsia and become chronic, that is no reason you should despair. Others just as bad as you have been cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Take the case of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby Co., N.S. Here's what she says about it herself:

"I had Dyspepsia for nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never found relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably."

There is no need to comment on a statement like this. It's true. What was done for Mrs. Bradley has been done for thousands of others. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it for you.

Only 24 Hours Notice Given To Hastings

The Dismissal of the Toronto License Inspectors.

HON. MR. HANNA EXPLAINS

Commissioners' Statement Omitted Material Facts — Report That Several Factory Inspectors and Some Employes at Osgoode Hall Will Have to Go—Dismissal of a License Department Clerk.

On 24 Hours Notice. ... ... ETAO

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Mr. Thomas A. Hastings received yesterday the official notification of his dismissal as chief and that of Messrs. J. J. McConvey and A. E. Hacker as assistant license inspectors for the City of Toronto. The order goes into effect to-day, Mr. Hastings, who has served for twenty years in the position, and his assistants, thus being dismissed on twenty-four hours' notice. The notice instructs Mr Hastings to hand over to Mr. W. L. Purvis, the new chief inspector, the books, papers and keys of the office.

Accompanying the notification was a copy of the order in Council making the changes and fixing the salaries of the new men at the same rate as those of their predecessors, namely, $2,000 per year for the chief and $1,400 for the assistant inspectors. No reasons are given, either in the notification or the order, for the changes.

Hon. Mr. Hanna Explains.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, who is responsible for the administration of the license branch, made the following statement yesterday in regard to the dismissal of the Toronto license inspectors and the subsequent developments relating thereto:

CAPS WERE OMITTED.

"Since my return from New York, to-day at noon, I have not had opportunity to run through much of what has appeared in the Toronto press during te past two or three days with regard to the removal of the liquor license inspectors. It occurs to me, however, that when the commissioners were giving their statement to the press they omitted some very material facts. I think it is very material to an understanding of their motive in resigning to state that their resignation was signed and sent in to the Government before the old inspectors were removed or their successors were appointed or their names known to the commissioners.

"The resignation followed immediately upon a personal communication from me to the chairman of the commission, indicating to him what the Government intended to do. This communication did not name the new inspectors. If the letter of resignation had been given to the press in full, it would have shown to the public at once what I have intimated above. Following is the letter in full:

"Toronto, Nov. 27, 1905.

"Hon W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, Parliament Buildings, city:

"Dear Mr. Hanna.—THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF LICENSE COMMISSIONERS HAS SUBMITTED TO US AS A BOARD YOUR LETTER OF THE 25TH., and we view with deep regret the course which you advise us the Government has decided upon taking. We are unanimous in our judgment that the proposed action AT THIS TIME is a direct reflection on the work of the commissioners and they are compelled to discontinue to act as commissioners when they have lost the support of the Government in the impartial and non-partisan administration of the law.

"Yours faithfully—(Signed)—J. W Flavelle, J. I. Davidson, J. A. Murray."

The old license inspectors were notified officially of their dismissal yesterday morning. Their successors take up office this morning.

License Department Clerk Dismissed.

It was announced yesterday that Mr. Robert Mahood, a clerk in the license department's office at the Parliament Buildings, had been dismissed on the ground of active partisanship.

Mr. Mahood's own statement is that he was discharged on allegations that he took part in the last Provincial general elections. This he denies. He says he never left Toronto during the campaign and was so busy with his official duties on polling day that he had no time to vote.

More Heads to Fall.

The factory inspectors and several Osgoode Hall appointments are said to be the next positions to be thrown to the office-hunters of the city. The two female factory inspectors are said to be especially marked for slaughter, and five positions at Osgoode Hall are also alleged to be on the list of appointments to be rendered vacant almost immediately. There are going to be fierce fights for important positions at the Parliament Buildings, and the only way in which Mr. Whitney has been able to hold some of the office-hunters at bay as been by calling in the rural members, who are strongly protesting against Toronto having all the so-called fat appointments which are said to be about to be vacated.

Getting Posted.

William (a five-year-old)—Mamma, is it the divorcee that always gets the alimony? His Mother—Yes, dear, as a rule. William—Well, which is the divorcee, the man or the lady? His Mamma—Why, what questions to ask! What do you want to know for? William—'Cause me and Sadie are playing divorce, and I am trying to make her give me the alimony.

An Impossible Imitation.

The irritable employer turned to his typewriter with a sudden snarl.

"Why don't you write it just as I say it?" he demanded.

"Because my typewriter hasn't the catarrh," she quietly responded.

SPORTS OF THE BLIND.

Plenty of Amusement For Those Who Are Bereft of Sight.

With closed eyes two young men in the blind asylum were playing chess. The board they played on had the black squares raised and the white ones sunken, while the black pieces were rough and the white ones smooth.

"Give us this handicap on account of our blindness," said one of the young men, "and we will play as quick and accurate a game of chess as anybody. Give us checkers and a checkerboard constructed on the same plan, and there, too, our playing will equal yours.

"I would rather be blind than deaf," he went on. "Blindness doesn't rob you of much. The blind are excellent anglers. They play a good game of euchre or poker or bridge. They use cards that have embossed pips.

"The blind are good runners, good gymnasts. In our last sports the hundred yards were done in under twelve seconds, and on the horizontal and parallel bars the giant swing, the corkscrew, the straight arm balance and the finger balance were executed in a way that elicited salvos of applause."

Lakefield Is Now After The House of Refuge

Want the County Council to Decide to Locate it There—Many Advantages Offered—The Local Option Question a Live Issue--Belief That Council Did Wisely--The Epworth League Discusses Question--Social at Young's Point.

PERSONAL ITEMS FROM THE VILLAGE

Special to the Examiner

Lakefield, Nov. 29th.— The Local Option campaign is going on apace. The general opinion is that the council acted wisely in leaving the question to the people to decide at the polls. The local option idea did not originate with the council, but with the ratepayers themselves.

Since the city of Peterborough is now removed from the arena of county affairs, to some extent, the citizens of Peterborough county's premier town, Lakefield, are becoming interested in the proposed House of Refuge, which the Government appears to be determined shall be constructed in this county. There is talk of a citizens' committee being formed for the purpose of bringing before the authorities the unequalled advantages of this place as a site for the new institution. We feel sure that our friends in the county council will not be slow to recognize the fact that Lakefield is the place for it.

Shareholders In York County Are Protected

By the Proposed Terms of the Amalgamation With the Dominion Permanent Loan Company—Holders of Terminating Stock May Take Deposit Receipts—Land Owned by York County Said to be Worth $10,000,000.

OPINIONS OF SOME FINANCIAL MEN

One of the most freely discussed topics on the street here during the last few adys is the proposed amalgamation of the York County Loan and Savings Company and the Dominion Permanent Loan Company It is stated that there are several hundred shareholders in the former company in this city A despatch from Toronto gives some further details of the proposed amalgamation, and the information conveyed will be of interest to the shareholders here It follows:

Toronto, Nov 30.—Seven minutes' walk north on Roncesvalles avenue from the end of the Parkdale car lines is situated the head office of the York County Loan & Savings Company, and the distance was covered by more people yesterday afternoon than ever before in the same time They were agitated shareholders in the company, who wanted to know where they stood in relation to the proposed merger with the Dominion Permanent Loan Company Most of them brought their pass books with them, and were prepared to receive the amount of their savings if the company would pay them The company, however, only paid such certificates as were matured, and demanded the thirty days' notice required by the by-law for other sums Payments were made by checks on the Molsons Bank, which duly cashed them on presentation

When a reporter visited the office about 3 o'clock in the afternoon there were nearly forty people waiting, seven of them men The clerks explained the situation, and most of those present were satisfied with the statement that they would receive a certificate for the value of their shares on January 15th next Those who are making weekly payments on shares were doubtful whether they should continue, but were told to keep up their payments Why should they not take credit for what they had already paid up? they were asked But few of them understood the method by which their credits were to be transferred to the Dominion Permanent, nor did they learn whether the certificates they were to receive from the York Loan would be of equal value in the office of the other company

With a view to clearing up these points, Mr F. M. Holland, General Manager of the Dominion Permanent, was seen In reply to a question regarding the various statements appearing in the press as to the method of transfer, Mr Holland stated that Mr Howard Hunter's statement as published in the Globe, was practically correct The impression that the Dominion was to purchase the assets of the York Loan and the purchase money divided among the shareholders was incorrect Mr. Holland could not say what the value of the York Loan certificates would be until after a valuation had been made Such valuation would not be undertaken until it was known whether the transfer would actually take place—a matter to be settled by the shareholders in January

"We won't value the assets until we know we are going to get them," he said

Mr J. R. Stratton, president of the Dominion Permanent, explained that permanent stock of his company at par would be paid to the York Loan for division among its shareholders to an amount exactly equal to the value of the assets of the York Loan Company, as ascertained by valuation, and after paying all debts to creditors of the company This stock pays 6 per cent, and holders would share in the advantages accruing from any increase in value of the assets under judicial management. Holders of terminating stock under certain conditions would have the right to take deposit receipts payable in installments covering a certain period, this arrangement being provided to meet the wishes of some of the shareholders.

Mr. Joseph Phillips, president of the York Loan, was seen as to the probable value of the certificates of shareholders in January, based on the valuation of the company's assets. It appears that the real estate is the item of assets most in question; and this appears in the last balance sheet as $910,909. Mr. Phillips declared that this was the actual cost price of the real estate at the time of its purchase four or five years ago.

"We have a large amount of property," he said; "several miles of street frontages, purchased when land was selling at a dollar a foot. It was a question with us, then, whether we should stop taking money from shareholders, as we could not find opportunities for investment. The Government objected to our investing in land, and we have always kept the value down to what we purchased it at, so as not to make the account look too large An engineer, a bank manager, and one or two real estate men went over it some time ago, and estimated it as worth ten millions."

"With your knowledge of the business, do you think the shareholders' certificates will be worth more or less or equal to their face value?" Mr. Phillips was asked.

"I can't tell the value of the certificates till the assets are gone over, but I think the shareholders will realize every dollar they have invested," was the reply.

Mr. Phillips had no schedule at hand of the properties, but most of it lies between Roncesvalles avenue and High Park. All the company's real estate holdings, he stated, are unencumbered, with the exception of a few houses on which the members have given mortgages, but these mortgages do not affect the company.

There are forty or fifty thousand shareholders, the company operating from the Maritime Provinces to Vancouver. Voting will have to be done chiefly by proxy, and Mr. Phillips thinks when the shareholders understand the situation there will be no hesitation about ratifying the merger. There is, he said, cash on hand to pay all liabilities maturing before the meeting.

"We paid the members $1,519,663 last year," he concluded. "The fact is the company was too successful with its terminating shares, and we want to place it on a permanent basis."

Everything now depends upon the valuation of the assets of the company, and that will not be determined until January.

BABY QUIRK'S SPEEDY CURE

Torturing Raw and Scaly Eczema—Grew Worse Under Two Doctors' Treatment for Three Months—Face in Terrible Condition.

ANOTHER MARVELLOUS CURE BY CUTICURA

"My baby was afflicted with a loathsome running eczema. Two doctors treated him for three months, but he grew worse and his face was a sickening sight. We then started to use the Cuticura Remedies, and noticed an improvement at once. Within a fortnight the running had ceased and the scabs were nearly all dried off, and in a month his face was perfectly clear. You are at liberty to use this statement, as I should like all to know of the value of Cuticura."—William Herbert Quirk, No. 1 West End Cottages, Raywood Road, N. Southampton."

STILL ANOTHER CURE

Baby Raw With Humour.

"A terrible sore and humour broke out on my baby, looking like raw flesh, and causing the child untold agony. My physician could not help him, and I was discouraged. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment with almost immediate success, and a complete cure in two weeks.—Mrs. J. H. Block, 281 Rosedale St., Rochester, N. Y."

AND STILL ANOTHER

"At four months old my baby's face and body were so covered with sores and large scales you could not tell what she looked like. At last we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The sores began to heal at once, and she could sleep at night, and in one month there was not a sign of a sore.—Mrs. Mary Sanders, 709 Spring St., Camden, N. J."

Brighton Also Wants Power

Is in Line to Corral the Healey Falls Power.

(Port Hope Guide.)

Brighton Village Council last Monday held a special meeting, at which prominent citizens were present. The Healey Falls Power matter was threshed out.

Mr. Culverwell was accompanied by Mr. Robert A. Mulholland, and Col. McLean, Warden of the United Counties, of Port Hope and ex-Mayor, Col. Floyd, of Cobourg, who all made strong and patriotic addresses on behalf of unanimity of the ratepayers of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and the necessity of electric power for the advancement of the industries and electric transportation in the counties.

Brighton Council endorsed the request by passing a memorial, and also appointing a delegation of the Reeve, Mr. Samuel Nesbitt and the whole Council to attend at Ottawa along with the other municipal deputations, in urging this important work.

Afterwards Mr. Culverwell entertained at supper the Council and number of prominent citizens, and interesting addresses were made.

The Ottawa Healey Falls Municipal deputation will number over sixty. So far the following Councils will be represented. United Counties Council, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Hope, Hamilton, Alnwick Haldimand and Cramahe Townships.

At Alnwick township Council, Mr. Culverwell was assisted by the addresses of Councillor D. Ewing, of Cobourg, and County Councillors Weir and Masterson.

Certainly this is an effort for the people, and by the people, and should receive the support of every citizen in Port Hope. We note the success that attended this recent municipal delegation before the Ontario Government, and The Guide has no doubt but that the Dominion Government will assent also.

Warehouse Is Proposed For Peterborough

Adoption of Central Cool Storage Warehouses for Cheese and Butter Much Discussed Among Leading Dairymen—Dairy Products Would be Sold Under the Trier—Peterboro' is Proposed as Location for One in Eastern Ontario.

MR. G. G. PUBLOW GIVES OPINION

The advisability of having cheese and butter shipped to central cool storage warehouses, and sold there under the trier, instead of being sold as it is at present on the cheese boards, has recently been the subject of much discussion among leading Ontario dairymen. The proposal is to have the cool storage warehouses erected at central points.

The Canadian Dairyman in discussing the matter says, in part:

The matter was later referred to Mr. G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, for his opinion, who stated that he would like to see dairy produce sold in this way, as he believed that it would result in great improvements being made in the dairy industry. Mr. Publow, however, pointed out a number of serious difficulties that stand in the way of the introduction of such a system.

While the matter was not gone into very carefully, the general opinion of those interviewed by the Canadian Dairyman was that such central warehouses, were they to be established, should be located for Western Ontario, at London, Hamilton and Toronto, and for Eastern Ontario, at Peterborough, Belleville, Brockville, Ottawa and Montreal. It was pointed out that while there would be considerable cost connected with the maintenance of these plants, it would be offset by the saving that would be effected by doing away with the numerous small cheese boards now conducted all over the country.

When asked at what centres it was thought such stations should be established in Eastern Ontario, were this system to be adopted, Mr. Publow said it was a difficult question to answer, but he was inclined to think that one at Peterborough, Belleville, Brockville, Ottawa and Montreal, might be sufficient. This would give a total of seven stations in Ontario, including the three suggested for Western Ontario, at London, Hamilton and Toronto. Were the county, city and town councils at these points approached properly it is probable that they would be willing to defray a large part of the expense of erecting such warehouses as might be required.

"Life Of A Chinese Girl"

Was Subject of Address by Mrs. Morrow at Y.W.C.A.

At the Gospel meeting at the Y.W.C.A., yesterday, Mrs. Morrow spoke on ("The Life of a Chinese Girl." Mrs. Morrow was for some time Superintendant of the Methodist Mission Home for Chinese Girls in British Columbia. The Chinese girl comes into the world unwelcomed and lives her life through unloved. One little Chinese girl at the school was named Martha. Chinese girls are quietly bought and sold in British Columbia and through a difference in question of ownership Martha was brought to the notice of the authorities of the Mission House. There she grew up, gradually learning a little English and with it the story of the Redeemer. It is difficult to know what to do with the Chinese girls who grow up into women in British Columbia. Martha was becoming restless concerning her future when one day a letter arrived from a Christian Chinaman at New Westminster with a request that he might become acquainted with her. Lee Sing came and finally left with his bride. Before Martha left she promised to remember just three things "God is Love," "Jesus Saves" and "What a Friend we Have in Jesus." Lee Sing and Martha found many trials to bear. He lost his shop through fire. Martha took gold and after months of suffering died. She trusted God and remained true to her convictions to the end.

Old Resident Passes Away

Late Robert Wright, of Downer's Corners, Was a Fenian Raid Veteran.

Yesterday morning occurred at his home the death of Mr. Robert Wright, at Downer's Corners. The deceased has been in poor health for the last few years. Although being able to be about, he was very infirm, and troubled with a weak heart. Early yesterday morning he took a weak spell, and passed quietly away at nine o'clock.

The late Mr. Robert Wright was in his 82nd year. He was born in Shercock, County Cavan, Ireland, and came to this country 65 years ago. He married in 1883 Mrs. Erskine, who survives him; there are no children. Mr. Ryerson Ritchie of Detroit, Mr. Harry Gray, of Peterborough, and Mr. R. J. Gray of Oshawa, are nephews.

The deceased was a life long member of the Church of England, and belonged to St. Luke's church. Mr. Wright was a Black Knight of the Orange Order, and a veteran of the Fenian raid of 1866.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at three o'clock, from his late residence at Downer's Corners, and proceed to St. Luke's church where the burial service will be held; from there to the Little Lake cemetery.

Collegiate Pupils Taught to Swim

Mr G. H. Corsan Thinks This Feature of Education is Neglected.

Mr. G. H. Corsan, 775 Queen street west, Toronto, the swimming expert, who accompanied Mr. H. T. Strickland the greater part of the distance in his swim last summer from Lakefield to the lift lock, has written the Mayor of Toronto, drawing attention to the necessity of having a "public swimming tank" in Toronto. Boys and girls spend quarter of a century, he says, in being educated for life's duties, but the authorities have never thought it worth while to teach them to swim. This is a public duty, and tanks should be provided.

He says he has offered his services to the Education Department of Ontario to carry on an educational propaganda in the various Collegiate Institutes in the Province on the question.

Concluding Session Of County Council

Several Reports Presented and By-laws Confirming Them Passed—Transfer of County Bridges to Dominion Government Confirmed—Swings and Supporting Abutments Included in Transfer.

IMPORTANT SAVING TO THE COUNTY

The closing session of the County Council was held on Saturday morning. All the members of the Council were present.

The principal business transacted was the reception of reports.

County Councillor Shaw presented the report of the Committee on Petitions as follows:

Report of Committee on Petitions

The Committee on Petitions begs to report as follows:

1. That no action be taken upon the communication requesting the council to petition the legislature to require the construction, etc., by each county of a sanatorium for the reception of indigent persons suffering from consumption.

2. That no action be taken upon the communication from Hon. J. S. Hendrie, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Legislative Assembly.

3. That the communication of the secretary of the Ontario Municipal Association, asking the council to give the Association its endorsation and support be received.

4. That in the opinion of this council the system now in force for the election of county councils is satisfactory, and that a petition be forwarded to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in favour of the retention of such system.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, 2nd Dec., 1905.
ROBT. SHAW,
Chairman.

County Councillor Moloney presented the report of the Committee on Roads and Bridges, as follows:

Report of Committee on Roads and Bridges.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges, begs to report as follows:

1. The Committee recommends that a bylaw be passed by the County, authorising the Wardon and Clerk to execute a conveyance to the Dominion Government of the interest of the county in the portions of the Bensfort, Wallace Point, Locks, Chemong and Gunnons Narrows bridges, comprised in the actual swings themselves, and the portions of the works upon which they immediately rest.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. MALONEY,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, 2nd Dec., 1905.

The report of the Committee on Schools was presented by County Councillor Garbutt.

Report of Committee on Schools.

The Committee on Schools begs to report as follows:

1. That the matters referred to in the communications from the Minister and Deputy Minister of Education regarding the divisions of the county for school purposes, be laid over until the next session.

2. That Mr. Richard Lees, School Inspector, be a member of the County Board of Examiners.

3. That the question of repairing, etc., the school inspector's offices in the court house be referred to the Property Committee.

4. That the proposition to provide seeds for the establishment of school gardens be referred to the next session of the council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, 2nd Dec., 1905.

The committee on county property reported through County Councillor Carey as follows:

Report of Committee on County Property.

The Committee on County Property beg to report as follows:

1. That the matter of printing and papering the county school inspector's office be left under the control of the chairman.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, 2nd Dec., 1905.
J. CAREY,
Chairman.

By-laws confirming the reports were passed.

Bridge Transfer By-Law.

A by-law authorizing the execution of an agreement to convey to the Government the swing portions of the bridges over the Trent Canal was introduced by Mr. Moloney, and carried.

A by-law to authorize the Warden and Clerk of the County of Peterborough to execute a conveyance to the Dominion Government of portions of the Bensfort, Wallace Point, Locks, Chemong and Gannon's Narrows bridges.

Passed the 2nd day of December, 1905.

Whereas, the Bensfort bridge crosses the River Otonabee from the Township of South Monaghan in the County of Northumberland to or near lot number eleven in the fourteenth concession of the Township of Otonabee in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, the Wallace Point bridge also crosses the River Otonabee from the Township of South Monaghan in the County of Northumberland to or near lot number ten in the seventeenth concession of the Township of Otonabee in the County of Peterborough.

And whereas, the Locks bridge also crosses the River Otonabee from the Township of North Monaghan in the County of Peterborough at or near the road between lots fifteen and sixteen in the eleventh concession of the said Township of North Monaghan to the western limit of Otonabee street in the city of Peterborough in the said County of Peterborough.

And whereas, the Chemong bridge crosses the Chemong Lake from at or near lot (number nine in the fourth concession of the Township of Ennismore in the said County of Peterborough to or near the east end of lot number twelve, east of the Communication road in the Township of Smith in said County of Peterborough.

And whereas, the Gannon's Narrows bridge crosses said Narrows from or near lot number "B" in the sixteenth concession of the Township of Harvey in said County of Peterborough, to or near lot number eight in the tenth concession of the said Township of Ennismore,

And whereas, by report of the committee of the honourable the Privy Council of the Dominion of Canada, approved by the Governor-General on the twenty-first of May, 1905, the said Dominion Government was authorized to assume the portions of the said bridges comprised in the actual swings themselves, and the portions of the works upon which they immediately rest,

And whereas, the County of Peterborough has been requested to join in the conveyance to the Dominion Government of the said portions of the said bridges, in order to convey and release any claim the said County may have therein,

The Corporation of the County of Peterborough therefore enacts as follows:

1. That the Warden and Clerk be and are hereby authorized to execute under their hands and the Corporate Seal of the Corporation all such proper and sufficient conveyances as may be necessary to vest in the Crown as therein represented by the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals of Canada, the portions of the said Bensfort, Wallace Point, Locks, Chemong and Gannon's Narrows bridges, comprised in the actual swings themselves and the portions of the works upon which they immediately rest.

2. That nothing herein contained shall be deemed to assume or to add to any responsibility upon the said County of Peterborough, to maintain, repair or replace said bridges, or any part thereof.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, 1905.

It was decided to make a reduction in the auctioneer's license of Mr. Alfred, of $12.50 for next year.

Britain's Premier Tenders His Resignation To-day

Special Cable to the Examiner

London, Dec. 4.—Premier Balfour visited King Edward at Buckingham Palace this afternoon, and it is understood tendered the resignation of the Cabinet.

Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, the Liberal Premier presumptive, arrived in town to-day from Scotland, and the Liberal statesmen were hurriedly summoned from all parts of the kingdom to confer with him, presumably on the composition of the new cabinet. John Morley, Herbert Henry Asquith, Sir Edward Grey and Herbert John Gladstone, all of whom are believed to be selected for Secretaryships, were present with Sir Henry.

Opening Of Hockey Season Affords A Most Promising Outlook

In the present season of desultory cold snaps "the young man's fancy turns lightly to thoughts of"—hockey, and much discussion and speculation with regard to the personnel of the seven which will endeavour to sustain the laurels of Peterborough this year has arisen.

The beginning of the present season brings with it some features which are very much out of the ordinary in the local outlook. It may briefly be said, that not for many seasons past, has the general feeling of satisfaction as to the season's outlook been so eager during the early part of the season. Another feature, which is out of the ordinary is the fact that this is the first season in many years in which Peterborough has not entered a team in the Junior Series of the O.H.A. The local club was this year organized entirely with a view to playing Intermediate hockey, and, from the outlook as it presents itself at present there can be little doubt that an aggregation will be placed upon the ice which will work it's way pretty well up to the stand when the honours are distributed.

For several months hockey enthusiasts have been discussing the probable additions to the team for the coming season, and a glance at the array of "talent" which is offering can scarcely fail to occasion feelings of satisfaction. A large bunch of new material will be available, and a selection from this in combination with the veterans of the game who will be out, should make a team which "looks good" to carry off honors

It is hoped that Wasson will be found again between the nets, and if he consents to play there is no likelihood that any other name will be considered, and it is expected that he will be again found in his old position, in which he has through so many seasons rendered brilliant service. Others who have played the position are Fitzpatrick and Van Every. Of last year's team Glover, it is understood, will be available and will probably be again induced to take the ice in case Wasson is behind him, in the net. Clough, the well known football player will, it is understood, be in the city, and will in all probability turn out, and if he decides to play, should easily fill a position. Carmach, who filled the position of rover so effectively on last year's team will be almost certain to fill a forward or defence position. It is probable that Whiteroft will occupy his old position as rover. Crowley should be found in his position of cover point, in which he rendered yeoman service last year. Morgan, Parnell, Graham and Meagher of last year's team, it is understood, will all be in the city, and will be almost certain to be found upon the ice.

Some New Players.

Among the new players who will be available is, it is understood, Watson, of Galt, who is now located in Peterborough as a member of the Bank of Commerce staff. He was one of the fastest in the western town last season and should be a most effective addition to the locals. Burnett, formerly of Cobourg, who is now connected with the local staff of the Bank of Toronto, is another new stick handler, who will probably be found upon the ice. Currier, formerly of Smith's Falls, will also probably be out, though he has not been in the game for the past two seasons, and should be a distinct addition to local hockey circles. Regan, and Keonedy, it is hoped, will also be upon the ice. Much other excellent material which is well known is to be found among the teams in last year's City League, and will in all likelihood again be out.

Last Year's Hockey Team, all the Members of Which, it is Hoped, Will Again be Found Upon the Ice This Season

Many Replies To "Who Is It?"

Mr. H. Winch Was Identified by Large Number.

The Examiner's telephone wires were kept in almost red-hot condition for some time on Saturday evening by the numerous readers who recognized the countenance of Mr. H. C. Winch. Given in order of communication identification: Messrs. R. Fair, T. Q. Quartermain, F. J. R. Mitchell, G. H. Williamson, Mrs. D. Belleghem, Messrs. Arthur Rousseee, C. H. Clementi, Dr. Poole, Miss Emily Morrow, Messrs. W. H. Denham, J. R. A. Fitzgerald, Arthur Blade, M. Patterson, Hugh Darke, J. J. Hartley, W. J. Johnston, J. J. Turner, R. E. Wood, John Best. Mr. Winch, it seems, is unable to escape identification. If there were any fear of the genial ex-alderman doing something which might make it advisable to conceal his identity—of which, by the way, there is not the slightest fear—it seems that it would be useless for him to try. Time deals harshly with most of us, but its furrowing finger has written few changes on Mr. Winch's face. The identification of his portrait has been the easiest picture proposition of the series.

Demise of Mrs. W. Harvey

At the Family Residence, 789 Water Street, Saturday, at 4 P.M.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Wm Harvey (nee Miss Minnie Maud Parnell) passed away at the family residence, 789 Water street, after an illness of nearly three months. The late Mrs. Harvey had lived with her grandmother, Mrs. John Milburn, Bright, Ont., since she was a child of two years of age. She was pre-deceased by her grandmother about four years ago. Prior to her death she was confined in a hospital in Winnipeg for ten weeks, and had been home for about a week and a half before her demise. The deceased was married to Mr. Wm. Harvey at Bright four years and a half ago. She was an ardent Christian and a zealous worker in the Methodist church, Bright. The late Mrs. Harvey leaves to mourn her loss a mother, Mrs. John Parnell, her father having died a year and five months ago; two married sisters, Mrs. W. King, Pittsburgh, Mrs. B. Sanderson, Peterborough, and Miss Bertha Parnell, also of Peterborough, and three brothers, Richard, Walter and Frederick, all of Peterborough. Numerous beautiful floral contributions were sent to adorn the the casket of the deceased by her many friends, showing the high esteem in which she was held during her lifetime.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, and proceeded to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the remains were interred, the burial services being conducted by the Rev. Dr. Crothers, pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough.

The many friends of the deceased and her family are expressing their sincerest sympathy for the bereaved family in this, the hour of their grievous sorrow.

Look Out For This Peddler

Supposed to Have Been Exposed to Small-Pox.

To-day Chief Rozzel received a telephone message from Dr. Bell, of Apsley, from Burleigh, informing him that a peddler, by the name of Isaac Roorback, had seltp, in the house of a man named Wilson, where there was a case of small-pox. The Chief requests the public to be on the look-out for this particular peddler, to keep clear of him, and at once report his appearance to the authorities, in case he is seen.

Choral Society's Coming Concert

A concert by the society will take place about February 13th in the Grand Opera House. Part music by the chorus will be supplemented by the contributions of first class soloists. The subscription lists are now in the hands of the members of the society and a large response is looked for. Every member is expected to be present at the rehearsal in the Central school at eight o'clock tomorrow night, (Tuesday.) The base section has been greatly strengthened and did splendid work at the last practice. The tenors were, however, not numerous, but it is hoped that every tenor will make it a point to attend to-morrow evening, when the chorus will be assisted in the part music by Miss Helen Davies, who will take the solos in the part songs "Good Night. Farewell," (Garrett), and "Now tramp o'er moss and fell." (Bishop.)

A Bunch Of Trouble Cost Him Seven-Forty

Wm. Peters Assessed $7.40 for Assaulting Wilber Killenbeck—Accused Alleged That Complainant Called Him Offensive Name—Evidence of Witnesses for Defence and Prosecution Very Conflicting.

COURT SAID PETERS WAS TOO ANTAGONISTIC

William Peters was found guilty this morning at the police court, of assaulting Wilbert Killenbeck in a row that took place near the corner of Parnell and Park streets. The evidence in the case, which first came up for hearing last Thursday, was very conflicting.

Killenbeck and another witness swore that an offensive name which Peters accused Killenbeck of using, and which, according to the evidence of the defendant had aggravated him to strike Killenbeck, was not used by him. About half a dozen witnesses for the defence swore, however, that it was. It appears that Killenbeck was quarrelling with Peters' younger brother when the latter who was some distance away went to find out what the trouble was about. Peters asked Killenbeck what the matter was. "There's nothing the matter" was the reply. "There is," said Peters. The defendant alleged that at this stage Killenbeck called him a vile name, whereupon he threatened to hit him. Killenbeck dared him to do so and Peters hit him two or three slaps on the face. They were rather strenuous slaps, however as the victim of the assault was bleeding when he reached home, and his lip was badly puffed up.

All the witnesses for the defence told a story that was identical in the material points, and were put through a severe cross examination by Mr. S. T. Medd, who appeared for the defence. He asked them if they had discussed the matter before giving evidence. They all denied that this was the case and said that the matter had not been referred to by any of them before coming into court.

His Worship, Police Magistrate Deeble, in summing up the case, said that Peters had affronted Killenbeck with fire in his eye, and stated that he, by his boisterous talk and antagonistic bearing had caused friction that led to the assault. A fine of $2 and costs, amounting in all to $7.40 was imposed by the court.

Charlotte Street Guild Concert

The 14th of December is the date fixed for the Charlotte street Guild concert, at which a baseball game in tableau form will be played between, the team of the Charlotte street Guild and the St. John's Guild nine. It will be a repetition of the last seven innings game played between these two teams, when the score stood 0—0. Nothing like it was ever before seen or produced in Peterborough. Hon. J. R. Stratton will present the Charlotte street team with the Examiner trophy, which the team is entitled to, as champions of the Guild baseball league.

The entertainment will take the form of a bon bon social, and each lady who attends will be presented with a box of the finest quality of bon bons.

Old Resident Passes Away

The Lamented Demise of Mrs. Andrew Moffatt.

The death occurred yesterday at her late residence, 191 Reid street, of Grace MacKay Allin, relict of the late Andrew Moffatt.

The deceased, who was 88 years of age, has been a patient sufferer during the past eight years, though the immediate cause of her demise was pneumonia. The late Mrs. Moffatt was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on March 16. Removing to Canada in the year 1834 she has since resided in Clarke, Monaghan, and Otonabee townships, though during the past 19 years she has lived in this city.

Her marriage to the late Mr. Moffatt, who pre-deceased her by 19 years, took place in Monaghan in the year 1810.

Surviving the deceased are one daughter and two sons, Elizabeth, William and Peter, besides three grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The funeral will take place on to-morrow afternoon from her late residence, 191 Reid street, at 1.30 o'clock, to Little Lake Cemetery for interment. No flowers. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, of which deceased has been for many years a consistent and valued member, she having been married by Rev. Mr. Roger, who was the first pastor of the congregation.

"EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL."

Mr. Haultain, says the Manitoba Free Press, is determined to fire the heather in Saskatchewan because Archbishop Langevin has expressed his opinion that it is not reasonable to expect the Roman Catholics to support the Haultain candidates. The Archbishop does not appear to have tried to coerce anybody into voting against Mr. Haultain; he has simply given expression to his own views. This is very heinous conduct, indeed; but Mr. Haultain's condemnation is for the purport of his message and not for the message itself. He and his friends have never shown any signs of indignation over the intolerant attacks on Liberals made by Protestant dignitaries, quite as high in their own church as Archbishop Langevin is in his. Mr. Haultain has to-day Protestant clergymen on the stump in his behalf; and the literature of his party contains deliverances by Protestant clergymen disadvantageous to the Liberals which far transcends in violence of language anything to which Archbishop Langevin has set his name. Archbishop Langevin has just as much right or just as little right—which ever way Mr. Haultain chooses to put it—to give his opinion on the political issue in the new Provinces as any of the prominent Protestant clergymen who have by letter or by public speech sought to defeat the Liberal cause. Let us have "equal rights for all."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Premier Whitney has a real grievance against Dr. Nesbitt for making him swallow the castor oil and then say he likes it.—Toronto Star.

The spoilsmen, remarks the Toronto Star, are probably alluded to as the "workers" because they have found a Government they can work.

If the Whitney Government thought to strengthen itself by the dismissal of the Toronto license inspectors, it will find itself, says the Orillia Packet, Conservative, very much mistaken. The action is an amazingly unanimous surrender to Beattie Nesbitt and the liquor interest, and calculated to estrange not only strong temperance men, but all voters who davour a strict and honest enforcement of the law. Let us hope the seriousness of the blunder will be realized by Mr. Whitney and his colleagues, and immediate steps be taken to recover the lost ground.

The Mail and Empire, says the Toronto News, pictures the Ontario Government defending the people against the machine—the old machine in its unconverted state, and "the same phase of political thought, professing, however, to have become respectable." Though the heathen rage and the people imagine a vain thing, the Government will pursue its course without flinching. The picture is so beautiful that one is almost reminded of Macaulay's description of Milton, "A mightier spirit, undismayed by pain, danger, poverty, obloquy and blindness, meditated, undisturbed by the obscene tumult that raged around him, a song so sublime and so holy that it might not have misbecome the lips of those ethereal virtues whom he saw with that inner eye which no calamity could darken, flinging down on the jasper pavement their crowns of amaranth and gold."

Sir Charles Metcalfe, consulting engineer of the Rhodesian Railway, who has just returned to Johannesburg from a tour in the territory bordering on the Congo State, found in that region what he considered to be some of the best farming land he has ever seen in Africa. The climate, he states, is healthy, and there is plenty of running water. He does not doubt that when the railway is working to Broken Hill, land will be readily taken up.

THE CAT HAS NOT COME BACK

A perusal of the columns of Mr. Flavelle's newspaper, The Toronto News, says the Brantford Expositor, gives no intimation that that gentleman has been led to any change of attitude as a result of his conference with Mr. Whitney. If possible, The News is more bitter than ever, and in the course of a front-page editorial in yesterday's issue it says:

It is generally admitted that Dr. Beattie Nesbitt represents the machine element in the Conservative party. He is essentially a Tammany politician. He seems to have no ideal in politics but to organise the ward element and use the power such organizations gives in order to distribute patronage among the party workers and to make the machine the dominant influence in the government of the country.

He has capacity, he has courage, he is aggressive and persistent.

No one takes pleasure in attacking an individual, and it is far from our desire to do Dr. Nesbitt injustice. But it does seem to us that this is a fair estimate of his position and ambitions in public life. It is hardly conceivable that he would set any public object before the interests of party, and it is not beyond belief that he would even drive his party on the rocks in order to serve his personal ends, and establish his ascendancy in the party management.

But he is by no means alone in the movement to eject Liberal office-holders in Toronto, to fill their places with the nominees of the ward organizations and to make the patronage committee the executive organ of the Government.

But it is Dr. Nesbitt who acts as the mouthpiece of the government at the ward meetings. It is Dr. Nesbitt who announces that "the workers" must be considered. It is Dr. Nesbitt who formulates the policy of the government on patronage, who gives official sanction to removals which have been effected and hints at future removals as the spoils hunting element many demand.

Throughout there was a brutal disregard for the commissioners, a brutal exercise of authority over the government, and a brutal dismissal of an excellent officer who had received assurances that he would not be disturbed.

It is now for the Government to consider if it can afford to go further in this direction.

It is for the Government to consider if it can afford to act as the obedient servant of the element which is chiefly concerned for the lower and mercenary interests of the party.

Does the government deliberately intend to introduce the spoils system to turn upon the street, take away their means of livelihood, and impoverish the families of all officials who happen to be Liberals, to serve the one or two per cent. of Conservatives who constitute the spoils faction of the party, to set at defiance all independent opinion and to make elections an Ontario sordid and mercenary struggles for the public offices?

The Government has gone far, very far, on this evil direction, and it may read in the protest which its treatment of the license board, has elicited how its action is regarded by many persons who bear no ill-will to Mr. Whitney and his colleagues, who are seeking no favours at the hands of the Ministers, who desire only good government, and the fair treatment of faithful and efficient public officers.

For the moment the government is strong, indeed, invincible, but there is some public opinion in the country which is not subservient to patronage committees, and which believes that the government should halt in the unfortunate course in which it has been driven to such dangerous lengths, and should use its strength to create and maintain a permanent civil service and to govern the province in the interests of the whole people rather than in the interests of the mercenary element of its following.

Mr. Whitney's answer is the announcement of a further batch of dismissals. Having gotten the axe well in hand, it is his intention to make good use of it, no matter how much public opinion may be outraged thereby.

MR. HANNA EXPLAINS.

Hon. W. J. Hanna seeks to throw some new light on the issue that has been raised between the Whitney Government and its License Board in Toronto, and he charges the ex-commissioners with not being candid enough with the public. He is more candid. He makes known something that they have kept back. "I think it is very material to an understanding of their motive in resigning," writes Mr. Hanna, "to state that their resignation was signed and sent on to the Government before the old inspectors were removed, or their successors were appointed, or their names known to the commissioners."

This is what happened. "The resignation," Mr. Hanna explains, "followed immediately upon a personal communication from me to the chairman of the Commission, indicating to him what the Government intended to do."

How does this explanation serve the Government? It seems rather to have quite the other effect. Mr. Hanna informed the chairman of the Commission indicating to him what the Government intended to do—communicated with him before dismissing the old inspectors and before appointing the new ones. Promptly the commissioners met and resigned in protest against the action that the Government had decided upon doing, but had not yet done. This clears up a point that was doubtful until Mr. Hanna spoke, for it shows that before dismissing the inspectors the Government knew the whole price of their action—knew that the dismissal of the inspectors meant the retirement of the License Commissioners.

Nothing was known publicly of the affair at that time, official action had not been taken. Hastings had not been appointed. Purvis had not been appointed. Yet the Cabinet met, dismissed Hastings, appointed Purvis, and let the commissioners slide. The Government deliberately chose Mr. Purvis, and let Mr. Hanna, Mr. Flavelle, Colonel Davidson and Major Murray go. Why? What has been wrong with the administration of the liquor laws under these men? What is the excellence of Mr. Purvis that he is preferred over these four men? He is a good Tory. So are Messrs. Flavelle, Davidson and Murray good Tories. Is the preference for him not based on his partizanship—on the belief that he can be handled—that he will hump things for the party, and that the retirement of the commissioners will delight the liquor men?

Hon. W. J. Hanna has, by his explanations, made it clear that in dismissing the inspectors the Government parted with its commissioners, and those do do so. Mr. Hanna also makes Premier Whitney's professions of astonishment look very insincere.

CHURCH AND STATE AND SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

In these days of much speaking on the subject of church and state union, and the related subject of separate schools, no word has been heard on the money grants of Parliament to religious bodies in aid of Indian schools throughout Canada. The figures in the following table are compiled from the report of the Department of Indian affairs for the year ending June 30, 1904:

GOVERNMENT GRANTS TO INDIAN SCHOOLS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1904.

Religious Denomination of Schools.	Day schools	Industrial schools	Boarding schools	Total grants
Anglican	$18,800	$37,395	$17,815	$[illegible]
Methodist	10,6[illegible]5	36,442	6,295	[illegible]
Presbyterian	900	11,726	13,476	26,102
Roman Catholic	17,695	87,307	50,694	155,696
Salvation Army	200	.....	.....	200
Undenominat'l..	4,175	40,876	.....	45,051
Total	$[illegible]6,125	$2 4,736	$[illegible]8,340	$358,531

Anglicans, Methodists, Presbyterians, Roman Catholics and the Salvation Army have been sharers in those grants, and the money has been used by them to sustain schools in connection with their various church missions. Over $300,000 has gone to them, and only $45,000 to undenominational schools, in one year. In the past eighteen years they have received from the Dominion Parliament more than $5,000,000, all of which has been spent to promote the enterprise of the churches.

If it is said that Roman Catholics get as much as all the other churches, it may be said in reply that they are doing more work than all the churches, and also that they have been at it a far longer time; their missionaries to the Indians went with the trapper and the voyageur before the day of the Great Company.

But the matter of how much one church or another may get is not the question. It is the policy of accepting the money of the State to sustain the mission of the church. How do Presbyterians justify it? And how do Methodists? As for Anglicans and Roman Catholics, history tells us where and how they stand; and their voices are not heard in protest at the present hour.

Another instance deserves recalling. Before the confederation of the Provinces various denominational schools in Upper Canada were receiving State Aid, Roman Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian and Anglican. Two or three years after the Union their supplies were cut off by an almost unanimous vote of the Ontario Legislature, and until two or three years ago it was not in the power of even a municipality to help a sectarian college with a grant. But a change was quietly introduced into the Municipal Act, and forthwith a Presbyterian college was enabled to get from the city in which it is located (Kingston) a grant of $50,000, inspired by this example a Methodist college was successful in getting from its city (St. Thomas) a grant of $15,000. Have the Presbyterians or the Methodists raised their voices in either of these instances? On the contrary, they have justified it. "It was a matter of business," a pillar of the Methodist church said in open meeting.—Exchange.

Services Yesterday At George Street

At the evening service the sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Crothers, his subject being the Bible. He took for the basis of his remarks the 130th verse of Psalm cxix,—"The entrance of Thy words giveth light." The preacher spoke of the Bible as giving a knowledge exact and indisputable of the nature of God and of the nature of man—the relation of one to the other, and also knowledge of the future. The Bible and its teachings, and the redemption it unfolded were described as the source of all good and greatness, individual and national. Wherever the Bible and its teachings were accepted as the rule and guide of life, there were true liberty and progress, and the greatness of the British Empire—its world-wide influence and power for good, were due to the word of God having been honoured.

At the offertory Miss Sawers, soprano, sang with fine devotional spirit and artistic finish a sacred solo, "Resignation." This selection, was, apart from its musical and spiritual worth, interesting because the music of it was composed by a former well-known citizen, Mr. J. W. Garvin, and the words by another local gentleman. The music is smooth and melodious, and as it was sung last night, well adapted to deepen the spiritual effect of the service.

The anthem in the evening was a beautiful setting of the hymn "Now the Day is Over," sung with fine expression and shading, in which the solo was well taken by Miss Bessie Sperry.

In the morning the special music consisted of a solo well sung by Mr. James Browne, tenor, and an excellently sung solo "Heaven is My Home," by Miss Sawers.

It is stated that Herr Bups, King Alfonso's German professor, has been dismissed for spreading a rumour that King Alfonso was betrothed to the Duchess Marie Antoinette of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

Latest News Of Fall And Winter Sports

How Rugby Situation Is Regarded

Under the heading "Peterboroughi Flunks" the Ottawa Free Press of Saturday says:—

Are the Western Peterborough champions following the golden rule of the Hamilton Tigers? In a telegram to President Huband last night, the Peterborough executive refused to come to Ottawa, pointing out that they were dissatisfied with the officials. An immediate wire was sent, advising them to bring along their own officials, but even this generous concession on the part of the local executive went for naught.

Later in the evening a reply came to the effect that the game was off, and thus the matter stands with Ottawa out of pocket considerable for advertising and other expenses.

• • • •

Peterborough, the Intermediate Ontario football champions, have refused to play to-day against the Rough Riders II., having disagreed as to officials.

The Canadian Union originally decided that the match should take place at Brockville, but Peterborough decided they would rather play in Ottawa. On the question of officials there was some disagreement, and the matter was left to President Clancy, who appointed Alec Macdonald of Ottawa College and Grant Hyde, a newspaper man in Ottawa who is not connected with any club. As a result Peterborough wired last evening:—"Will not play to-morrow. Officials not satisfactory. Consider we have had a raw deal."

Negotiations are therefore all off and there will be no match.—Ottawa Journal.

How about Rice who is coaching the Rough Riders?

• • • •

What the Toronto Globe has to say of O.R.F.U. tactics:—

The management of the Canadian Rugby Union has earned no medals this season. The union was instituted as a vehicle for arranging Dominion championships, and has only served to frustrate that object. The senior and intermediate championships are not decided this season, and will not be. Varsity's title is only nominal, since the obstinacy and partiality of the Canadian Union management prevented Hamilton, the champions of the Ontario Union, from participating in the series. A like disregard for the rights of Peterborough caused the cancellation of the final game for the honours among the intermediate clubs. The Executive officers of the Canadian Union have a fine record to present at their coming annual meeting. Apparently, the only way to ensure the aim the union had in view at its establishment is to see that in future nobody in Ottawa is entrusted with duties or powers that call for the consideration of the rights of any clubs not located at the capital.

• • • •

The Toronto Star on Saturday remarks as follows anent rugby in the Capital City:—

As to that Peterborough case, Hamilton will simply smile pityingly and say:—"I told you so."

King Clancy may be a great football general, but he appears to be a complete failure as a rugby diplomat.

Say, on the level, how'd you like to live in Ottawa and mix up with a bunch of cheap sports such as they have at the Capital?

Rough Riders took over $1,000 away from Toronto last Saturday; besides $300 for expenses, yet when Peterborough asked for a Toronto man to referee the snap-back half of the game the Rough Riders refused on the ground of expense. Two Ottawa men were appointed officials, both of them ignorant of the snap-back rules. Peterborough would have had a fine chance going up against that combination.

• • • •

The Examiner man had a conversation with a commercial man who has seen a great many of the leading teams in the O.H.F.U. perform this fall. He has never seen Peterborough play but has seen Dundas and Rough Riders II. on the gridiron. He is of the opinion that Dundas has a faster aggregation than the Rough Riders II. If his opinion is worth anything Peterborough would have had a good chance with the Ottawas.

• • • •

The Toronto Telegram remarks as follows "touchin' on and appertainin'" to the tactics of Ottawa:—

"Ottawa seems to have the happy knack of running foul of and displeasing every team with which it comes in contact. There was trouble enough over the senior finals, and here along comes Peterborough refusing to play the intermediate finals down there because Ottawa wants to appoint both officials. But in one way we don't blame Ottawa at all. They've lost the Dominion championship and they are going to take jolly good care not to lose the intermediate pennant. We heretofore had the greatest respect for the gang down the line, but it seems as if they were being knocked off their tall and lofty pedestal in a most amazing manner. In fact, and we say it in all due deference, they are getting to be the dizziest lot of Johnny Grab Alls in the business. Ottawa wants everything; it wants to be the big dog with the brass collar and bark louder than any other canine in the pack. They have the reverse English on anything that stands for equity. At time of going to press Ottawa doesn't want anything more than the appointing of the two officials for the final 'twix Rough Riders II. and Peterborough, that should have taken place today at the Capital. Isn't that awful? Not satisfied with having the game played on their own grounds, Ottawa wants the naming of the officials. What nerve tonic are they using in the east, Moxey or Swamp Root?

• • • •

The Toronto Mail and Empire expresses the following opinion with regard to Ottawa's action:—

As half the match was to be governed by snap-back regulations, of which few if any Easterners, have even the most superficial knowledge, Peterborough were entirely in the right when rather than agree to play under presumably incapable officials, they decided to call off their game with the Rough Riders II. for the Canadian intermediate championship. It was simply another game of Ottawa bluff, which Peterborough called, although, unfortunately, a trifle too late.

And Varsity is forced to take its place in the same class as the Rough Riders. Having won from the O.R.F.U. champions, she was invited to play off with Hamilton, the O.R.F.U. champions, and shortly after the weight of their suddenly acquired joy, the Collegians declined the offer. The Hamiltonians were thus fairly well shot-circuited. They might have shown an exceptional sportsmanlike spirit by accepting the duff and coming to Ottawa, but they were not fairly treated when they were ordered to play the Rough Riders here. And just because they thought they were getting the short end of the stick they are not given a fair chance of showing what they can do. It's a queer idea of what sport is. Varsity deserves credit for the win from Rough Riders, but she will get little sympathy in her refusal to meet the Tigers.—Ottawa Free Press.

Regarding the Peterborough-Rough Rider II. fizzle, Mr. A. W. McPherson has this to say:—"The intermediate rugby final game was arranged to take place in Brockville. Ottawa refused to go to Peterborough. Peterborough consented to go to Ottawa with $125 guaranteed, a sum that would not cover the actual expenses. They asked for one Toronto official, who would be familiar with snap-back rules. Ottawa refused on the ground of expense. Peterborough suggested Clancy and Dr. Kenny, captain of Brockville. This met with a refusal. Peterborough telegraphed Clancy, the president of the union, on Wednesday, to appoint officials. They received no reply, although they telegraphed again. On Friday afternoon they telephoned the manager of Rough Rider II., and from him learned that two Ottawa men, who knew nothing about snap-back rules had been appointed, and as a result they quite properly refused to go to Ottawa."

HOCKEY

"Belleville has entered a team in the Junior series of the O.H.A. In that case Peterborough had better not enter the junior ranks, as there would be sure to be all kinds of "squalls." It would be worse than Peterborough and Lindsay or Cobourg and Port Hope, and that's not saying much."—Lindsay Post.

Don't think, Lindsay, that because Peterborough and Belleville had a little trouble when each place had a team in the O.H.A. that they will be at loggerheads forever. Not so; Peterborough has no enmity towards the City of the Bleepy.

• • • •

The Argonauts, of Toronto, have organized and will have a strong seven this winter in the senior O.H.A. A junior O.H.A. team will also be organized.

• • • •

The next meeting of the O.H.A. Executive will be held on Friday, December 15, at 8.00 p. m., at the King Edward Hotel. A number of players whose change of residence has appeared suspicious will be ordered before the committee for the purpose of investigation.

• • • •

The Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club will meet to-night at The Oriental.

• • •

There are 84 teams in the O.H.A. this year, 9 of them playing senior, 46 intermediate, and 29 junior. That means over 1,000 hockey players will compete this year in the championship series.—Toronto Star.

THE TURF.

Lindsay, Dec. 1.—A meeting of the Lindsay Trotting and Pacing Association was held this afternoon in the Simpson House here, when it was decided to hold their annual winter races on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 16 and 17, following Port Perry. They will hang up good, liberal purses. Further particulars can be obtained by communicating with George Simpson, who was appointed secretary-treasurer.

• • • •

A despatch from Toronto this morning states that it is proposed to the Queen City to have Varsity and Tigers play in Washington, D.C., or some other suitable place in the United States, in which Americans would have a chance to see the Canadian game, about the middle of December. As there would be considerable expense involved in such a trip, the teams will doubtless look for a guarantee of some kind before finally deciding to play. Several times this year, Canadian rugby teams have received propositions from different parts of the United States, to give an exhibition of the Canadian game, and Walter Champ's recent visit here has made the people across the border more anxious than ever to witness such a contest.

Two better teams than Tigers and Varsity could not be selected for the trip. Both play clean, fast football, and as there is considerable rivalry between the teams of late, it would provide an excellent opportunity to settle the much discussed question of supremacy.

Dr. W. G. Thompson, when told about the proposition this morning, said that he thought it an excellent one and had little doubt that the Tigers would go if suitable arrangements were made. Several of the players may find it difficult to take such an extended trip, but the management should have little trouble in taking the strongest team, should the idea materialize.—Hamilton Herald.

While no light-harness performer has come out this season and placed in jeopardy the records worn by Lou Dillon, Major Delmar, Cresceus, Dan Patch, Prince Alert, and Dariel, it has been a year of sensational pacing and trotting, and the champions of 1905 compare all around the cracks of the gaity of other years.

The king of all light-harness horses, Dan Patch, has reduced his world's record to 1.56 1-4, which he accomplished on Oct. 7, aided by the dirt shield. This champion of champions is now 9 years old, and is an Indiana production, having been foaled near Oxford, that State, when the property of Dan. A. Messner, Jun.

He was trained and driven the first year of his turf career by Mr. Waddell, a man 73 years old. Dan Patch, before he became an exhibition horse, won nineteen straight races, and never lost but two heats in his life.

His highest racing season was in 1901, when he won twelve straight races meeting all comers through the Grand Circuit, and losing but one heat, being defeated at Brighton Beach by Martha Marshall in 2.04 1-2.

The only other heat he ever lost was in the second race he started in at Lafayette, Ind., Milo S beating him in the slow time of 2.13 1-2, though he was then racing on half-mile tracks. The champion is an example of like begets like, and his sire, Joe Patchen, 2.01 1-4, was one of the most brilliant race horses that ever wore harness. That the sum of $180,000 has been refused for Dan Patch, and Flying Fox, sold to M. Blanc for $121,36, is the only horse in the world's history which ever sold for as much as the sum recently offered for the greatest light-harness horse of any age.

To Locanda, the brown pacing stallion, belongs the honour of the fastest harness mile of the year in a race. In a second heat at Lexington on Oct. 7, he paced a mile in 2.02 flat. Locanda is now 8 years old, and holds the one and a half mile record, 3.15 1-2, which is 21-2 seconds faster than Dr. Strong's world's grazing record at that distance.

Sonnie N., T. W. Murphy's great filly, though beaten by Miss Adbell in the Kentucky Futurity, must be regarded as the champion trotting 3-year-old of the year. She won four stakes, including the Kentucky and the Stock Farm and Horse Review Futurities, and scored a record of 2.09 1-4.

To Lightsome, the winner of the Kentucky Futurity, belongs the honours of the 2-year-old champion of the year. Her mark, 2.08 1-2, has been but three times beaten by a filly of this age in a race, namely, Janie T. and Katherine A., 2.14, and Grace Bond, 2.14 1-4. Lightsome was bred by James Dodge, Paris, Ky., and is a daughter of the great race horse, Constantine, 2.12 1-2.—Hamilton Times.

BOXING AND WRESTLING.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 2. — Frank Gotch, actor. For 16 weeks, beginning Monday, the ex-champion of America will appear nightly on the vaudeville stage in several large eastern cities. Gotch gets $300 per week for meeting all comers. The management offers $100 to the man who can stay 15 minutes with the young Iowan.

While on the vaudeville tour Gotch will endeavour to secure another match with his old enemy, Jenkins. The match, if arranged, will not take place in the east. No more eastern crowds or referee for Gotch. Des Moines, Ia., will have first bid. Des Moines has pulled off more important matches in the past four months than any other city in the country. These matches have been promoted by Doc Fillmore, and he will have charge of the Gotch-Jenkins affair if it takes place in this city.

BASKET-BALL.

In Brantford they have a Work Boys' Basketball League. Not a bad idea either.

• • • •

On Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium the Harriers were defeated by the Tongolas of Toronto.

The new rules somewhat bothered the local team while the visitors were very familiar with them. At half time the score was 20-14 while at the finish it stood 37-33.

Mr. John Laing refereed to the satisfaction of both teams. Mr. Wilkins, of Toronto, umpired. The teams lined up as follows:—

Harriers. Tongol
Centre.
Hodgson Miller
Forwards.
Dobbin Gilbert
Robertson McIlwenney
Backs.
Campbell Henderson
Richardson Walker

At the conclusion of the game the visitors were "oysitered" by the Harriers.

Short speeches were made by Messrs. McIlwenney, Smith and Wilkins, of the Tongolas and Messrs. Robertson, Roper and Best, the latter gallantly championing, as is his wont, the cause of the ladies. Mr. W. Campbell made a splendid chairman.

At the supper Miss Clara Belle, from beautifully sang a solo to which she was forced to respond with an encore. Between the games she also sang sweetly "Love's Enchantment".

International League Teams

The following interesting despatch to the Toronto Star from Houghton, Mich., gives the probable line-up of the five teams in the International League:—

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 1.—The lineups of all the teams of the International League are now formed, and present especially strong forwards. One of the best authorities on the game said yesterday that probably there were never five teams in the world with more evenly balanced lineups. He also added that there were never five teams showing such speed and quality in the forward lines as is presented by the league teams.

"Baldy" Spittall, captain of the Canadian Soo team, is down at Ottawa looking up a bunch of players to choose a man from to fill Kennedy's place in case he does not sign. The Canadian Soo is said to be exceeding the salary limit, even going over $40. The Canadians have 12 or 14 of the best players in Canada to choose their one man from and should get an exceptionally good one.

Following are the line-ups of the five teams, the only ones which are likely to be changed being those of the two Soos:

Deceased Had Relatives Here

Demise in Lindsay on Friday Last of Mrs. Bridget Brady.

The death occurred in Lindsay on Friday last, Dec. 1st, of Mrs. Bridget Brady, relict of the late Francis Brady and mother of Mrs. John Hurley, Charlotte street, and Mrs. J. Kylie, 139 Hunter street, Peterborough.

The deceased, who was 81 years of age was one of the oldest residents of Lindsay, and was an aunt of Senator McHugh, of that place. Her father was an officer in the British Army, having served in the Crimea, in the battles of Inkerman and Balaclava. Her husband, the late Francis Brady, pre-deceased her by about six years.

The funeral left the family residence, Duke street, on Monday, Dec. 4th, at 8.30 o'clock a.m., and proceeded to St. Mary's church, and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery where interment took place.

The obsequies were attended by a large number of relatives and sympathizers with the family.

The plan for the Y.M.C.A. Concert on Thursday Night will open tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock, at the Opera House. Prices 35, 50, and 75 cents, Boxes $4.00.

Friday's Public Bible Reading

Large Attendance at the Gospel Hall.

At the public Bible reading in the Gospel Hall last Friday night, there was an increased attendance. The management is very much encouraged by seeing such an interest in the study of the Holy Scriptures. Strangers are all made welcome, and any views, no matter from whom, will be listened to, and discussed. When an opinion is given, it is customary to see if it is according to the whole Scriptures, as no man's opinion is worth anything unless backed up by the whole Word of God.

It was announced that the defence of St. Peter at Jerusalem, would be considered, but it was found impossible to get further than the first verse of the lesson, Acts ii. Two questions were asked which took up the whole time of the evening. 1st, What is the Word of God; 2nd, What made the difference between the Jews and the Gentiles, or how was the difference adjusted?

Question 1. It was found that there was the written Word, and the Incarnate Word. St. Paul said in Heb i, 1, "God, who at sundry times and in divers manner spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets (this was the Word of God, and was written) verse 2, hath in these latter days spoken unto us by His Son," which was the Incarnate Word, as was seen by the first chapter of the Gospel of St. John. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God," verse 14. The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (Incarnate.) so God through the Gospel says to us: "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." St. Peters says in i. 23. "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the Word, (incarnate) of God; verse 25, "And this is the Word which by the Gospel is preached unto you." Thus we are born again, by the Word of God, and not by baptism, as water is a corruptible matter.

Question 2. The whole world was full of wickedness and of one language, and God came in judgment and confounded their speech, and then called Abram to go out from his father's house, Gen xii. 1 and 2, and He would make of him a great nation. Thus God separated a people for Himself, and they were called Jews, and special favourites under God's special care, but the rest of the world, called Gentiles, were not so favoured, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world, Eph. ii, 12. And this continued until the death and resurrection of Christ, and the Gentiles that were far off were made nigh by the blood of Christ, Eph. ii, 13. By the death of Christ both Jew and Gentile are on the same level now, and both have access by the one Spirit unto the Father, Eph. ii, 18, Christ having abolished in His flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances, to make in Himself of twain one new man, so making peace, Eph. ii, 15. So we see St. Peter opening the Kingdom of Heaven to the Jews at Pentecost—key one; and then to the Gentiles at Caesarea—key two.

Next Friday St. Peter's defence, and the two Gospels, that is the Gospel of the Circumcision, and the Gospel of the Uncircumcision will be considered. There were two distinct Gospels, and failure to recognize this fact is the cause of so much mixture preaching to-day. All are invited next Friday night.—Com.

Special Service For Men At St. John's

Large Congregation at Service Last Night Under Auspices of Brotherhood of St. Andrew—Earnest and Convincing Sermon Dealing With the Relation of the World's Work to the Service of God Preached by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE SERVICE

St. John's church was filled last night with the large congregation, which assembled at the special service for men under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. By the arrangements made by the Brotherhood, special prayers and hymns, and other features, appropriate to the occasion, were introduced. The music was most attractive, a male quartette being rendered during the evening with beautiful effect by Messrs. Alex. Elliott, R. Shepherd, A. Kingscote, R. Hyderman, Mr. Elliott taking the solo.

An earnest and forcible sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, who spoke from the following text: "Go, serve the Lord, ye that are men." The speaker, after remarking briefly in the opening portion of his address, upon the purpose in view in the holding of the vice, passed on to deal with the question of service — the relation of the world's work to the service of Almighty God.

Almighty God, in the words of the text says: "Go forth, and serve the Lord." He asks in this that our works in the world shall be fitted into, and that they shall be part and parcel of, His greater work. Some may complain and assert that they are not well paid. This is most erroneous, the preacher contended; the highest possible payment accompanied the faithful performance of the work in the proper spirit. "Go, serve the Lord," means detachment, and selfish ease and pleasure must be given up in the carrying out of the command.

When Pharoah commanded the men of Israel to leave their wives and children, he said, "Go forth into the desert, and serve the Lord." In a similar respect it devolved upon the men of Israel to render their service to the Lord, even if sacrifice and privations were necessitated. The question of service was dealt with by the preacher from three standpoints.

First, the standpoint of Almighty God. A glance at the small attendance, relatively, of men to women, at the religious services, reveals a most unsatisfactory condition of affairs. The contention of many men that they can worship just as well at home, as at service, was characterized by the preacher as "bosh,"—it was merely a question of God being worshipped, or of not being worshipped.

Speaking of the subject from a second standpoint, that of the Church, he remarked that much was expected from the Church. It is expected to speak the truth, perform a work of charity, and to be ready for appeals upon occasions of necessity. Without a proper assistance, how can the church be expected to respond?

A third view point was that of the personal welfare of body, soul and spirit. A life is largely thrown away if it does not find its consistent end in doing its duty to God, as in doing its duty to men.

The only fitting and proper manner in which one can acknowledge God is by worship. If we would be persuaded, Sunday by Sunday, to do our duty, it would soon become part of us, and become one of life's greatest pleasures. The object of worship should not be for what He has done for us, but because He is God—the Gracious and Good. The service of God is something worth making a sacrifice for. Having served on earth like men we shall enter with joy into the presence of our Lord, to serve Him forever.

A CLEANLY AGE

Twentieth Century Ideas Incline Toward Sanitation and Preventatives.

Nowadays scientists believe that in cleanliness lies the secret of prevention of diseases.

To prevent a disease remove the cause.

Just as unclean habits breed many diseases so careless habits will breed dandruff. Improper use of another's brushes, combs, etc., will surely cause dandruff, and, in time, will just as surely, cause baldness.

It's microbic infection, nothing more nor less.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and causes the hair to grow luxuriantly. Herpicide is absolutely free from grease or other injurious substances.

Sunday Services In St. Andrew's Yesterday

Services Conducted and Sermons Preached by Rev. Wm. Shearer, B.A., and Rev. J. M. Whitelaw, B.A., B.D., of Omemee—Eloquent Sermons Delivered by Visiting Divines—Plain, Pointed Presentation of the Gospel Message.

AN EXPOSITION OF THE TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

In St. Andrew's church yesterday there were present two visiting ministers, who preached interesting sermons to large congregations. The service was taken and the sermon preached in the morning by Rev. Wm. Shearer, B.A.

The twenty-third Psalm formed the text of the sermon delivered at St. Andrew's church last night, by Rev. J. M. Whitelaw, B.A., B.D., of Omemee.

The preacher referred to the Psalm as one that is familiar to the Christians of the present age, and said that although many beautiful hymns had come, and gone, this one had firmly stood the test of time. And what is the reason of this? Because the Psalm contains real elements. It is the pouring of the divine life of one soul into another soul. The twenty-third Psalm is the one that has raised Scotland, with its heather hills, to the glorious position it now occupies in the eyes of the world. The twenty-third Psalm is now just as fresh in our memory, as it ever was. In it we find two individual ties, or personalities, the Lord, and "my soul." Some men of to-day say it is impossible for one to recognize the personality of the Lord in their various lines of work, as David did while tending his flock. But this is not so. In the office, behind the counter, in the shop, in all manner of work, the Lord may be, and should be, acknowledged. The different creeds and beliefs of to-day demonstrate that Christianity is the true religion. As an example, take China. This country, years before education had swept over Britain was, in its own sense, a civilized and enlightened country. To-day there is no comparison between Britain and China, and why—simply because the people of Britain acknowledge Christianity, and were believers in the true God.

Christianity, in which all men are brothers, is the only religion that unswervingly and positively acknowledges the existence of, and worships an omnipotent, God.

The sentence, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want," does not refer to material things, but means that to those who believe in the Lord, as their guardian, nothing pertaining to the welfare of the soul shall be lacking. "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures." The word "maketh" seems to imply that the action is forced, but that is a wrong interpretation of its meaning. The sheep cannot lie down in peace and security while the shepherd is not near. Neither can we rest in peace and quietness without the protection of a loving Saviour. "He restoreth my Soul." If we have been asking forgiveness, there is great consolation in knowing that our supplication will be listened to, and that, while we may have sinned grievously, if we are earnest in our prayers we may be restored and made whole. "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil." In the hours of great trials and grievous trouble we need fear nothing, if we remain firm in our faith, because God is near, and shall comfort us. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." The secret of Scotland's greatness is sometimes asked. Take the greatness of Spurgeon, the wonderful preacher. "Goodness and mercy" is the keynote of the success of both. Living in harmony with the principles referred to we need have no fear at the time when the soul is called to answer before the Divine Judge on the last day. Many would say we cannot apply these principles. The great possibilities of electricity, and steam, and other powers, were not known years ago, but, when their principles were properly applied their great usefulness were demonstrated. The way to apply the principles of spirituality and Christianity is simply to obey the divine commands, and go unto the Lord and say "What will Thou have me to do?"

The choir rendered very acceptable music during the evening. At the offertory a solo was sung with pleasing effect by Miss Mary Rush.

Preached Twice Yesterday At All Saint's

Rev. Canon Dixon, of Toronto, Delivers Two Impressive Sermons to Large Congregations —Festival Evening Service Was Isaiah IX.-6—Preacher is Representative of the Diocesan Mission Board—Earnest Discourse in Interests of Mission.

LECTURE TO-NIGHT AT THE CHURCH

Rev. Canon Dixon, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit at All Saints' church at both services yesterday, and there were large congregations present. Rev. Canon Dixon is a forcible and earnest speaker, and his sermons greatly impressed his hearers.

At the evening service the text was Isaiah ix., 6,—"And His name shall be called wonderful." In beginning the speaker said there was no doubt that the person referred to was our Lord. Unto us a child is born, referred to His human nature being born of the Virgin Mary. Unto us a son is given, referred to His divine nature having been given as well as born. There were many things called by names which they did not deserve, but we may be sure that God the Father never gave his son a name that was not richly deserved. Christ is not only the wonder of wonders, but the marvel of marvels.

His name shall be called wonderful for what He was in the past, for what He is in the present, and what He shall be in the future. The speaker dealt with what the Jesus Christ had been in the past. He had been there when the Lord made the earth out of nothing. Many young men were afraid to trust themselves to Christ because they did not understand Him.

Rev. Canon Dixon proceeded to give some idea of Christ's age. He spoke of the age of man compared with the age of a tree. The age of a tree compared with the age of the soil in which it grows. The age of the soil in contrast with the age of the cliff on which it rests; the age of the cliff with the ocean; the age of the ocean with the sky; the age of the sky compared with the age of the angels, and, finally, the age of the angels in comparison with the age of Jesus Christ.

The speaker referred to the power of the magnetism of Christ. Even the little children wanted to leap from their mother's arms to be caressed by Him. Was He not a wonderful character? asked the speaker. His power as a preacher was touched upon. There never was a preacher like Christ. There was no sleeping when He preached, and the people did not pull out watches at the end of thirty minutes to intimate that He had talked long enough. He preached so that even the children could understand Him. Here some of Christ's parables were referred to, particularly the wonderful story of the prodigal son.

Christ was wonderful in the hour of death, when sorrow swept over the home, in the hour indelibly printed on our memory as the blackest and most disastrous in our life.

He was wonderful in His power over sin. By Him the shackle dragging one down could be removed. He can remove the temptation that is running love's character, and He speaks and our sins are forgiven.

He was wonderful in His power over the grave. Through Him we see our loved ones again. The grave stone shall be rolled away, and we shall see Him and know Him.

The apex of all that was wonderful in Christ was His death. Was there ever a greater puzzle than this? the Son of God letting Himself be nailed to the cruel cross. The speaker then dealt with Christ as He shall be in the future, and asked if there was anyone willing to renounce their hope of eternity. The day of judgment was described with the dead leaping up from their graves, and the sun rolling like the eye of a maniac. Suddenly there comes one like unto the Son of God. How some will wonder at Him. Voltaire, Judas and others who had repudiated Him, were represented as saying, "I did not know that He was God." Those were there, too, who had washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb. They gathered round His throne with no trouble on their faces.

The speaker closed with an earnest plea to accept Christ the wonderful.

Events Of The Week At The City Churches

St. John's Church.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew's and the Girls' Guild will meet to-night.

The Oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," will be rendered by the choir of St. John's church on Tuesday, December 11.

Murray Street Baptist Church.

The regular monthly and consecration meeting and consecration offering of the Young People's Society will be held to-night.

To-morrow afternoon at 3 the Ladies' Aid will meet, and at 3.45 the Ladies' Mission Society.

At 8 o'clock the Young Ladies' Willing Workers will meet in the church parlour.

A joint meeting will also be held to-morrow evening of the Finance and Musical Committees in one of the parlours.

On Friday night the Bereca Bible Class will hold a literary meeting. Some favourite hymns and poems will be discussed.

The Week at All Saint's.

—To-night at All Saint's church Rev. Canon Dixon will give an illustrated lecture at 8 o'clock. A collection in aid of the Mission Fund of the Diocese will be taken. The subject will be "Reminiscences of the Boer War."

On Tuesday at three o'clock will be held the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary. Boys' Brigade at 7.30.

On Wednesday there will be a meeting of the Senior Girl's Guild.

On Thursday the regular week-night service will be held at 7.30. Choir practice at 8.15.

St. Andrew's Church.

—The Young People's Society will meet to-night at St. Andrew's church.

On Tuesday night the regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild will be held. A good programme has been arranged.

St. Luke's This Week.

The rector made the announcement yesterday that, since a large number of the congregation objected to having the choir vested in cassock and surplice, he, in consultation with the wardens, had decided to drop the matter, because the harmony and peace of the congregation were of greater importance.

The humorous lecture, "The Evolution of the Boy," to be given by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, under the auspices of St. Luke's Men's Guild has been postponed from Tuesday, December 12th, to Friday, December 15th.

The members of St. Luke's Auxiliary are requested to be present to-night at their meeting.

The Wednesday evening service at St. Luke's this week has been postponed till Friday on account of the Bible Society meeting being held that night at St. Paul's church. The rector urged his congregation to attend the meeting.

Park Street Baptist Church.

—A full programme for the week. Monday night, B. Y. P. U. Roll call and two papers. Tuesday—Ladies' Mission Circle annual thank offering. A good programme, with an address by Mrs. Morrow on "Japanese and Chinese Reminiscences," and the pastor on "Objects and Methods." Wednesday — A full attendance of choir for special practice. Wednesday—Public service with address by pastor on "Aggressive Christianity." Friday — Dorcas Society meets pastor and deacons to formulate new constitution.

PERSONAL MENTION

Hon. J. R. Stratton left on Saturday night for Halifax.

Mr. Thos. T. Boyd, Port Hope, is registered at the Oriental.

Mr. F. H. Mitchell has gone to Toronto for a few days on business.

Mr. Madd was in Chatham on Thursday and Friday and returned to the city on Saturday night.

Mrs. John Hemming will be at home the first and second Wednesdays of the month at 325 Simcoe street.

Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of Toronto, is in the city to attend the funeral of his uncle, the late Robert Wright.

Mr. W. Edwards, of Toronto, has returned home after visiting a few weeks with Mr. J. W. Green, 243 Brock street.

Mrs. W. de Leigh Wilson, Toronto, will be the hostess at a tea on Thursday, Dec. 7th, given in honour of Mrs. Murray Jarvis and Miss Maud Burnham, of Port Hope.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Weir, McDonel street, who has been dangerously ill, are pleased to learn that he is somewhat improved. His son, Mr. A. C. Weir, of Toronto, spent Sunday at his home.

Mr. H. D. Barrett, of Peterborough, was a guest at the Benson House, today.....Miss Rose Gorman, of Peterborough, is visiting friends in town. ....Mr. D. J. Cameron, of Peterborough, was in town to-day.—Lindsay Post.

Among those present at the second annual ball of the Toronto Island Amateur Aquatic Association, which took Saturday night at McConkey's, was Miss M. Davidson, of Peterborough. It was essentially a young people's affair, numbers of "next outs" being present and very visibly appreciative of the charming dance.

Mr. James Dolan, who was at one time accounted one of the best gatesmen in the city, has returned to his old love, the clothing trade, and intends to enjoy a holiday behind the counters of H. LeBrun & Co., of the City Clothing Store, during the holiday season. When James takes to folden out clothing over the counter it has to go.

Many Fatalities The Result of 'Blow-out Shot'

Causes the Death of 18 English Miners in Wyoming.

EXPLOSION ROCKS HOUSES

Diamond Coal and Coke Co.'s Mine Has Former Record of 32 Deaths—Explosion Occurred 110 Feet Underground — Several Hours Before Bodies Were Recovered — Rescuers Suffer From After Damp.

Diamondville, Wyo., Dec. 4.—Eighteen miners lost their lives in an explosion Friday night in the Diamond Coal and Coke Co.'s mine. Miners believe that a "blow out" shot caused the explosion which wrecked the mine. The shock of the explosion was felt all over the town, rocking buildings so violently that their occupants ran out of doors. Nearly the whole population of Diamondville flocked to the mine shaft. In an explosion in the same mine Oct. 26, 1901, 32 miners perished.

On account of the after effects of the explosion Superintendent Snedder insisted that precautions against fire should be taken, and it was almost noon before the rescue party entered the mine.

The explosion occurred 110 feet under ground and 3,000 feet from the mouth of the shaft. It wrecked the brattices and blocked the entrances to the lower levels of the mine, compelling the removal of much debris before the miners could be reached. When the rescuers finally went into the mine none could remain long. The crowds around the portal eagerly watched as car after came came up from below, only to see rescuers who had been overcome by the after damp. It was several hours before the first body was brought up.

The 800 coal diggers of the Diamond mines were assisted in the rescue work by many miners who came from Kemmerer.

Every man in the mine at the time of the explosion perished. It is believed that most of the dead are Englishmen.

Electrocution At Hamilton.

Hamilton, Dec. 4.—George H. Harvey, 173 South Emerald street, foreman at the Cataract Power Company sub-station at Irondale, was electrocuted Saturday evening about 5 o'clock. Just how it happened does not appear to be known, but while working among the machinery he came in contact with a live wire and a current of tremendous voltage passed through his body, killing him instantly. He was a married man, about 35 years of age. An inquest will be held.

Accidentally Asphyxiated.

Buffalo, Dec. 4.—The bodies of Thos. Dancey and his wife, Bertha Dancey, who were found dead from gas poisoning in their home Friday, were taken from the morgue Saturday and removed by County Undertaker Hatch to his establishment. The man's body was shipped to Thorold, Ont., where a brother, L. E. Dancey, will take charge of the burial, while Mrs. Dancey's body was taken to Goderich, Ont., the home of her brother, Mr. Hughes. The cause was in the conversion of an ancient coal stove to burn natural gas, the damper being turned off caused the carbon dioxide to fill the room instead of passing through the chimney. Mary Dancey, daughter of the dead couple, who was overcome, is on a fair way to recovery.

German subjects (are vaccinated during the first few months of life, again on reaching the age of twelve, and all unvaccinated third time on commencing their term of compulsory military service.

Reply To Revolutionary Manifesto

People On the Road to Liberty Cannot Now Be Stopped.

CUT OFF FROM THE WORLD

Fifty Die and One Hundred Are Injured in Sappers' Mutiny at Kieff—Open Mutiny in the Baltic Provinces — Witte Stands Firm, While Czar Would Grant Concessions to the People.

Paris, Dec. 4.—The correspondent of The Journal at St. Petersburg sends the text of a further revolutionary manifesto issued yesterday (Sunday), in reply to the expressed intention of the Government to return to repressive measures. The manifesto says:

"The Government continues to defy a people now on the road to liberty, where nothing can stop it. All police measures and the armed intervention of troops can only result in sanguinary conflicts for which the Government will be responsible."

The correspondent says he is informed by a high functionary that animated discussions are proceeding at the palace at Tsarskoe-Selo, the Emperor favoring the granting of concessions, and the re-establishment of the public service at any price, with Count Witte in opposition, the Premier refusing to grant the demands of the Government employes on the ground that they had no right to combine.

Isolated From the World.

Russia on Saturday was entirely isolated from the civilized world. Although the London news agencies and newspaper forwarded urgent messages to their various correspondents to secure information at any cost, especially at frontier points, not a single word was received. On Sunday the news come in roundabout ways.

MUTINY OF SAPPERS.

Azoff Infantry at Kieff Kill Fifty and Wound One Hundred.

London, Dec. 4.—The Daily Mail's Kieff correspondent in a despatch dated Dec. 2, and forwarded by way of Podwolotczyska, says:

Early yesterday morning a company of sappers, dissatisfied with their martinet commander, mutinied and persuaded a second company to join them. They left the fortress fully armed, and by threats compelled the remainder of the sappers' battalion to join them.

Numbering a thousand, the mutineers marched to the barracks of the 125th Kursk infantry, which, however, remained loyal.

A body of Cossacks allowed the rebels to pass them in the street. Finally the mutineers arrived at the barracks of artillery division, and the Azoff Infantry. The Azoff men answered their appeal with insults, and the rebels opened fire upon them. The Azoffs answered with three volleys. A portion of the mutineers fled, but the others continued firing. The Azoffs replied with deadly volleys, and finally the rebels fled headlong, throwing down their arms. Two hundred of them surrendered, and were conveyed to their barracks by Cossacks.

All was over by 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon. Fifty dead and 100 mutineers were left on the ground.

A court-martial has been convened, and a notice issued that any further attempt at mutiny will be quelled by artillery.

Panic In St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2.—(1 p. m.)—Via Berlin, Dec. 3.—Intense alarm prevails here. Communication with the outer world by telegraph ceased this morning when the Finnish joined their Russian comrades.

The embassies, legations and banks are hastily organizing courier services to both the Finnish and German frontiers.

The population is almost in a state of panic. This morning newsboys were openly hawking flysheets in the streets containing an account of the alleged revolt at Tsarskoe-Selo, and crying out, "The Emperor's Palace Guard has mutinied."

This situation has greatly increased the dangers of a financial crash.

Open Mutiny.

The situation in the Baltic provinces has grown exceedingly grave and the troops at Reval and neighborhood are in open mutiny. All attempts to secure details of the uprising have thus far failed.

Count Witte continues to refuse to deal with the telegraphers, declaring that for the Government to yield would be equivalent to its abdication at this order.

Confined to Reservists.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2.—(4.30 p. m.)—Via Eydtkuknen, East Prussia, Dec. 3.—At the War Department this afternoon it was declared that the outbreak of troops in the Baltic provinces was confined to reservists, who were insisting on their immediate discharge. The officials refused to furnish details.

General Railway Strike.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2.—Via Eydtkuknen, East Prussia, Dec. 3.—It is expected that a railway strike will be declared either to-morrow or Monday. The latter is a holiday, which fact will enable the workmen to meet and decide on a common plan of action.

Strike At Warsaw.

Warsaw, Dec. 3.—Seven hundred post and telegraph officials are on strike here. About a hundred officials refused to join in the strike. The strikers pour vitriol into the letter boxes. Two hundred bags of foreign mail are lying here unopened.

Alarmist News in Paris.

Paris Dec. 3.—Undated despatches from St. Petersburg, arriving by way of Eystkuhnen, East Prussia, give the following information.

There is the greatest excitement among the sailors and the authorities have ordered the disarmament of the warships. The officers, fearing a mutiny, acceded to the demand of the sailors for the release of a workman who was arrested while distributing revolu proclamations.

Soldiers and sailors are driving about the streets creating disturbances.

The military authorities are preparing representative measures. Heavy forces of artillery are arriving at the capital, causing a panic among the population.

Officers had a meeting at Tsarskoe-Selo and refused to order their men to fire if called on to suppress disorder.

Mutiny At Odessa.

Vienna, Dec. 3.—The Tageblatt publishes a communication from Odessa, which was mailed to Podwolczeska, Galicia, from which point it was telegraphed. It reads as follows:

"The Ismailia and Donau regiments, stationed at Odessa, mutinied, but the authorities succeeded in disarming all the men.

It is reported from Odessa that a general strike will be declared Monday.

Advices from Sebastopol declare that the panic there is increasing. The members of the so-called social military party are holding meetings in all the parks, and this fact greatly increases the anxiety of the future.

Slaughter At Kieff.

Kieff, Russia, Dec. 3.—Via Warsaw, Dec. 3.—There has been serious street fighting between mutinous sappers and Cossacks, and between workmen and bands of the "Black Hundred," scores of persons having been killed or wounded.

Martial law has been proclaimed.

Fire Rages At Moscow.

Warsaw, Dec. 2.—(11.50P.M.)—The Railroad telegraph operators at Moscow say that a great incendiary conflagration is raging there.

Cruiser Lena Sails.

Honolulu, Dec. 4.—The Russian cruiser Lena, which was interned at Mare Island, San Francisco Bay, during the Russo-Japanese war, sailed Saturday for Vladivostock.

Fund Over a Million.

New York, Dec. 4.—Saturday's contributions to the fund for the relief of Jewish victims of Russian atrocities amounted to $26,732.15, making a grand total of $1,061,534.76.

The Conquering Heroes.

Tokio, Dec. 4.—Field Marshal Oyama arrived at Ujina yesterday and was the recipient of several great ovations.

Gen. Asada, commander of the Guards' division, arrived in Tokio yesterday, and was given an enthusiastic reception, as well as being shown exceptional honor by the court.

Japan Invites Russia.

Tokio, Dec. 4.—The Imperial Government has approached Russia with an invitation for the restoration of diplomatic relations.

It is reported that the Government will accept the scheme of M. Kuboto, the Minister of Education, for raising the terms of compulsory education from four years to six.

The Japanese Budget.

London, Dec. 4.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Tokio sends a despatch outlining the provisions of the Japanese budget. It is estimated that the total expenditure called for will be $515,000,000, of which sum $400,000,000 will be set down as the outcome of the war.

London, Dec. 4.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says the budget provides $55,000,000 annually for the payment of debts incurred by the war, which will be fully redeemed in about thirty years.

Corean Envoy Suicides.

Seoul, Corea, Dec. 4.—Min Yong Whan, a personal aide to the Emperor, and cousin of the late Queen, committed suicide on Nov. 30. He was special envoy from Corea to Queen Victoria's jubilee and the coronation of Emperor Nicholas II. of Russia. He was also formerly Corean Minister to the United States, succeeding Chin Pom Ye, when the latter was transferred to Russia. His unavailing protest against Japan's protectorate was the cause.

RECKLESS SPECULATORS.

McCall is Plainly Accused By Missouri's Superintendent of Insurance.

Jefferson, City, Mo., Dec. 4.—W. D. Vandiver, state superintendent of insurance, through his counsel, Attorney General Hadley, F. W. Lehmann, and John M. Wood, Saturday filed in the United States circuit court here, his reply to the petition of the New York Life Insurance Company, in the injunction proceedings recently instituted by the New York Life to overthrow his order revoking its Missouri license.

In the reply Mr. Vandiver accuses President McCall of debauching public morals, corrupting legislature and looting the funds of the policyholders by extravagant ventures and reckless speculations. The answer directs specific attention to the charge that President McCall and Vice-President George W. Perkins have, in bad and questionable estate, investments, lost $7,000,000 of the company's money.

By agreement the case was set for hearing on December 27.

British Naval Estimates.

London, Dec. 4.—An official memorandum issued by the Admiralty states that as the result of recent reforms the next estimates for the navy will show a reduction of $7,500,000 beyond the reduction of $17,500,000 made last spring. The Admiralty considers that the present strategic requirements will necessitate the building of four large armored ships annually.

Foreigners Advised To Go.

Vienna, Dec. 4.—A despatch from Constantinople says all American tourists have been advised to depart. The Mussulmans are becoming excited, and serious outbreaks are feared. The soldiery are showing hostility to foreigners.

Succeeds Harryett.

Toronto, Dec. 4.—Geo. Love Jarman of Bancroft is appointed as magistrate to succeed Samuel Harryett, who was implicated in the ballot-box case.

Yellow Fever In Cuba.

Havana, Dec. 4.—Two new cases of yellow fever were reported yesterday. The victims are Spanish.

Cressman's

ACQUITTAL OF DR. M'LEOD.

Canadian Accused as Accessory In "Suit Case" Murder Discharged.

Boston, Dec. 4.—A verdict of not guilty was reported in the Superior Court Saturday in the case of Dr. Percy D. McLeod, charged with being an accessory after the fact to the illegal operation which resulted in the death of Susanna A. Geary, the victim of the suit case tragedy, and with concealing the crime. The prisoner was discharged.

The case was given to the jury at 4.45 p. m. Friday, and a conclusion was reached at 10.15. In accordance with the instructions of Judge Stevens the verdict was sealed, and was reported when court opened Saturday.

William E. Hunt and Louis W. Crawford, who pleaded guilty several days ago to the charge of being accessories after the fact to the illegal operation, were brought into court, and each was sentenced to not less than six years nor more than seven years in the state prison.

In imposing sentence upon Crawford and Hunt Judge Stevens expressed regret that the public statutes prevented him from making the penalty heavier.

Deserter Gives Up.

Brockville, Dec. 4.—Saturday night the police found a stranger wandering about the streets. He said his name was Henry Murphy and that he deserted from "B" Battery, Kingston, last May, going to the United States, where he resided until Saturday, when he struck Brockville with the intention of giving himself up.

Floods In New York State.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Heavy rain Saturday followed by equally heavy snow yesterday has swelled the streams in this section out of all proportions and much damage has been done. The Mohawk River is unusually swollen, all the flats for a great distance through the valley being flooded.

TIGER HUNTING TO-DAY.

One Must Be Royalty's Guest to Do It Right.

Tiger-hunting in India can be made most luxurious if the hunter has the proper acquaintance. An Englishman describes his experiences:—"Generally speaking, the tiger is now as much preserved in India as the red deer is in Scotland. The maharajah, or nizam, who is still lucky enough to have tigers in his dominions knows full well how keen any visitor is to kill one, and to this end is zealous in their protection. It therefore follows that unless you can get an invitation to the preserve of one of these potentates you are not likely to get a shot at a tiger while in India. It so happened that in March, 1905, my friend and myself were lucky enough to be given a beat in Hyderabad (Deccan). The word 'beat' is, perhaps, misleading, when the district in which we were allowed to shoot was something between 1,000 and 2,000 square miles in area.

"Being the guests of the nizam, we found all arrangements made in that luxurious style so peculiar to the Oriental. Our camp was pitched some fourteen miles from the railway station. Here we found a large bell tent each, a tent for messing in, numerous servants, cooks, waiters and coolies to clean up the camp, besides a police guard and a guard of honor provided by the local cavalry, to turn out and present arms whenever any of us showed our noses. The heat is very great, but, our camp being pitched beneath some tamarind trees, we were always able to find some shade, and with every imaginable kind of drink, and a daily supply of ice, we grew to enjoy rather than to dislike it.

"In these parts the usual method employed to locate tigers is to tie up young bulls overnight in the jungle; and they are visited next morning by one of the local shikaris (hunters), who, if he finds a beast killed, reports at once to headquarters. Should the tiger visit any one beast, it will probably be in the very early hours of the morning. Having killed it (usually by springing on the throat), the tiger will drag away the carcass to some thicker part of the jungle, where it will partially devour it, and, having eaten what it wants, lie down near it and sleep, as it were with one eye open, lest any other beast should wish to snatch a meal.

"At about 7 in the morning the local shikari comes along. He notes in which direction the bull's carcass has been dragged and studies life in the jungle near, to see what he can learn. The vultures, if the jungle is not too thick, will have seen the prospect of a meal, and will now be sitting in the trees over the remains if the tiger is still by, for they will not venture near till they can get undisputed possession. The monkeys, too, will show signs of uneasiness, and keep chattering in the trees, and the birds will also testify to the tiger's presence by anxious twitterings. The shikari reports his findings and the beat begins.

"To us the number of natives seemed enormous and on several occasions upward of 200 were employed. Their remuneration is, however, very small, two annas (four cents) being the daily wage, with, usually, double pay should a tiger be killed. They always seemed quite contented and trudged along through the jungle with nothing on but a loin cloth, even in the heat of the day. They took no food, but nearly all of them carried hollowed-out gourds, in which they keep a supply of water."

Received Stolen Goods.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Henry Hall pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of receiving stolen goods from Kate Mackay of Toronto, who confesses to having stolen many hundred of dollars' worth of goods from Haycock & Dudgeon, St. Catherine street, for whom she worked. Kate Mackay says she has shipped a great quantity of the goods to Toronto to her friends and relations. She was arraigned before Judge Lafontaine.

INDIAN SUMMER.

Talk not of sad November, when a day
Of warm, glad sunshine fills the sky of noon!
And a wind, borrowed from some morn of June,
Stirs the brown grasses and the leafless spray.

On the unfrosted pool the pillared pines
Lay their long shafts of shadow; the small rill
Singing a pleasant song of summer, still,
A line of silver down the hill slopes shines.

Softly the dark green hemlocks whisper; high
Above the spires of yellowing larches show
Where the woodpecker and home loving crow
And jay and nuthatch winter's threat defy.

Oh, gracious beauty, ever new and old!
Oh, sights and sounds of nature, doubly dear
When the low sunshine warms the closing year
Of snow blown fields and waves of arctic cold!

Close to my heart I fold each lovely thing
The sweet day yields, and, not to disconsolate,
With the calm patience of the woods, I wait
For leaf and blossom when God gives us spring!

—John G. Whittier.

The King's Librarian.

Sir Richard Holmes, the King's Librarian at Windsor Castle, it is understood, retired on Nov. 1 from the position he has held since 1900. As far back at 1854 Sir Richard, who was born in 1835, was an assistant in the library at the British Museum, and in 1868 he served as archaeologist to the Abyssinian expedition. He also acted as war correspondent and was the first Volunteer to be presented with a medal.

A distinguished author, painter, designer and expert in calligraphy, Sir Richard has been much in demand at Windsor Castle for many years. If anyone at Windsor had an old print, document, coin, or medal, he invariably went to Sir Richard to get his opinion upon it. He is one of the finest judges of prints and works of art in Great Britain. Mr. Fortescue is his successor.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

MY SHADOW.

I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me,
And what can be the use of him is more than I can see.
He is very, very like me from the heels up to the head,
And I see him jump before me, when I jump into my bed.

The funniest thing about him is the way he likes to grow—
Not at all like proper children, which is always very slow,
For he sometimes shoots up taller, like an India rubber ball,
And he sometimes gets so little that there's none of him at all.

He hasn't got a notion of how children ought to play
And can only make a fool of me in every sort of way.
He stays so close beside me, he's a coward, you can see;
I'd think it shame to stick to nurse as that shadow sticks to me.

One morning very early, before the sun was up,
I rose and found the shining dew on every buttercup,
But my lazy little shadow, like an arrant sleepyhead,
Had stayed at home behind me and was fast asleep in bed.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

OLD LONDON STONE SIGNS.

Ancient Figures Which Are Rapidly Disappearing Before the March of Modern Improvements.

A new London is rapidly rising around us—a London of to-day, which is ruthlessly erasing the few remaining relics of the past, almost every new building supersedes one which served to link us with less utilitarian, but more romantic, times. Care is certainly taken in the process of demolition to preserve any portable fragments of antiquarian interest, but a mere collection of stones or carvings in a museum, is a poor substitute for the original building of which they formed a part. More commendable is the plan of incorporating such relics in the new building which displaces the old, so that they may remain connected with the site, and this practice was followed in the city with many of the old carved signs which adorned the houses of the seventeenth century, says a London correspondent. Several of these may be found, with a little search, in dark alleys, or built high up in walls, looking strangely forlorn and out of place in their modern settings, but reminding one forcibly of the old associations of the spots they mark.

One of the best known of these is the "Boy and Pannier," in the narrow passage between Paternoster row and Newgate street, opposite the postoffice buildings. This is mentioned by Stow as far back as 1589, though there is some doubt as to whether the present is the original sign. It represents a boy sitting astride what is said to be a basket, commemorative of the custom of bakers' boys vending their wares there. The inscription beneath, setting forth that the spot is the highest ground within the city, has nothing to do with the sign, and was probably brought from some other site and built into the wall with it for convenience sake. Anyway, its contention is not justified by fact. Not far off, high up in the wall, forming the front of No. 37 Cheapside, is an heraldic sign, a swan with a collar and chain, but its associations with the site are unknown. Close by, within No. 47, the mutilated figures of a bear, muzzled, is preserved, which was dug up some twenty years ago when excavating for the foundations of the present building. There is also a bear on the front of a house in Addle street, at the top of Alderman Bury, and another in Lower Thames street, both bearing date 1670, and the initials, probably of the builder and his wife. All three animals have a substantial collar, and a chain across their backs, but the one in Cheapside faces the opposite way to the others. This is much the most lifelike of the three. There used to be a similar bear, carved in wood on the front of the house in Piccadilly, where the Criterion now stands, and this is now going to decay in a garden near Croydon.

High up in front of No. 76 Alderman Bury is a good example of "The Pelican," carved in the legendary attitude of drawing blood from her breast to feed her young, and at the corner of Gresham street and Old Jewry is a female head with a helmet, probably meant for Minerva. The Prince of Wales' feathers, with the date 1670, appears in St. Paul's churchyard, at the corner of Cannon alley, and a sign dated 1669, representing a fox sitting on its haunches, is shown inside No. 24 Lombard street, which, like the bear in Cheapside, was dug up on, or near the site. Built into the wall of the staircase just inside the doorway of 22 Budge row is an excellently preserved sign, that of the Leopard. This may conceivably be the original sign of the hall of the Skinners' Company, which stood close by, for the leopard is their crest, and the street takes its name from the "budges" or lambs' fleeces, which were at one time exposed for sale there. Perhaps the oldest of these signs is the Mitre, in Mitre court, Hatton Garden, to which attention was called in a contemporary the other day. This is dated 1546, and no doubt is the same that originally ornamented the gateway of the chapel in Ely place close by. In the same neighborhood, in an alley in Holborn, can be seen a stone sign of the Bell, with initials and date 1668. Just inside the archway of the Belle Sauvage yard, Ludgate Hill, is the elephant and castle, the crest of the Cutlers' Company, who owned a house on this site late in the sixteenth century.

A notable stone sign is the halfmoon in the Borough, High street, which still serves the sign of the inn of that name—a unique case. Its date is 1690, when the hostlery, which was burned down in the great Southwark fire of 1689, was rebuilt. There is another sculptured sign, the running Hare and Sun, close by, with the date 1676 or 1696.

Carlyle's Bad Shilling.

A farmer in Manitoba wears on his watch chain a blackened metal disk, which has attached to it the following history: Some thirty years ago he was a booking clerk in a railway station in Dumfriesshire. One day Thomas Carlyle, whom he knew by sight, took a ticket for a short run by rail and laid down a shilling. The clerk, eager to secure a souvenir of his famous countryman, put the coin aside and from his own pocket made up the deficiency. He left the railway service and for a long time was out of a situation. Ultimately, although sorely against the grain, he was impelled to part with his last — the treasured Carlyle — shilling. But it would not stand the ringing test. Then the fact was made evident to the ex-railway clerk that somebody had palmed on the Sage of Chelsea a spurious shilling! Thus the lack of value on the relic's part enabled him to stick to it. Relatives sent him to Manitoba, where he prospered, and the fraudulent Carlyle shilling has long been his most treasured possession.—London Daily News.

De Quincey's House.

An English paper relates that several American tourists were "doing" the lake region in England recently. One of them, an old lady, rather deaf, was on the box seat. As the vehicle passed the houses associated with famous names in literature the driver directed the attention of the passengers to them. With a jerk of his whip he announced, "De Quincey's house." "Whose?" demanded the old lady. "De Quincey's" repeated the driver. "Would you repeat? I'm a little hard of hearing." "De Quincey's" again bawled the driver. "Oh, Dick Winsey's," said the old lady, and down it went in the note book with all the other celebrities.

FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Queen Will Sell "The Queen's Christmas Card" Contributed By Notable Artists—Birthday Celebrated.

London, Dec. 2.—Queen Alexandra was 61 years old yesterday, and her birthday was celebrated with the usual heartiness throughout the kingdom, including artillery salutes, the ringing of church bells and the display of flags, etc. Congratulations from all parts poured in at Sandringham, where the Queen entertained all the children of the estate at tea, personally superintending the proceedings.

Queen Alexandra has not given up her interest in behalf of the unemployed, and has sanctioned a unique plan to raise more funds for them. This will be in the shape of the issue of a Christmas book, which will be entitled, "The Queen's Christmas Card." It will consist of poems, stories, sketches, drawings and music by persons prominent in the worlds of art and literature of Great Britain.

Algernon Charles Swinburne, Alfred Austin, the poet Laureate; Thomas Hardy, Marie Corelli, Hall Caine, Geo. Meredith, Arthur Wing Pinero, Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, Edwin A. Abbey, Wm. Holman Hunt, Sir Edward John Poynter and Sir Edward Elgar are among those who will contribute.

The production of the book will be practically gratuitous. It will sell for half a crown, and the proceeds will be devoted to the Queen's unemployed fund.

Royal Salute at Toronto.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—A royal salute of twenty-one guns was fired by the Toronto Field Battery at the noon hour yesterday in front of the Parliament Buildings in honor of Her Majesty's birthday.

Killed By a Bull.

Galt, Dec. 2.—Wm. Riddell of the 9th concession of Beverly, four miles from town, was gored to death by a bull in his stable yesterday. Deceased was a young man, unmarried, who lived with his sister and youngest brother John. The animal was a thoroughbred and known to be vicious. Just how the fatality occurred is not known. The sister happened to enter the stable and discovered the dead body in the bull's stall.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Children Playing With Matches Start Disastrous Blaze.

Little Current, Nov. 30.—On Monday a house occupied by one of the Indians in West Bay Reserve was burned to the ground. The Indian and his wife were away, and an old woman was caring for three little children at home.

The children had been playing with matches and started the fire. One of them was upstairs, and not able to find her way down, was burned. When neighbors noticed it they had only time to rescue those in the lower part of the house.

The old woman was so terribly burned that she died a few hours afterwards.

LAND OF WATER POWERS.

Work and Theories of Ontario Chairman of Temiskaming and Northern Railway Commission.

In the current number of Queen's Quarterly Mr. Cecil B. Smith has an important article on Ontario's water powers. The subject is one of great present interest, and its popular treatment by a writer of expert knowledge is very welcome. Few, if any, have an acquaintance with the question that is at the same time so comprehensive and so intimate as that acquired by Mr. Smith. As engineer of one of the large power systems constructed on the Niagara, he had to solve the problem of turning the river's wild energies into a tame, working force. As chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission he is supposed to be carefully observing the natural power centres on the route and examining into the comparative economy of steam and electricity as the motive power of the road. And as engineer of the Hydro-Electric Commission he is making a study of the potentialities of waterfalls at various points in the province.

Power Resources.

North and northwest of a line roughly drawn from Kingston to Orillia the forest still predominates, and, says Mr. Smith, it always will. Hence throughout New Ontario, which makes up three-fourths of the province, the streams are likely to keep up their present rather equable flow, instead of swelling into torrents for a few days of the spring and shrinking into rivulets for the rest of the year. As to the central portions of the province, the writer expresses the opinion that tracts unfit for cultivation, as in the northern part of Hastings or Addington, should be reforested. This is in accord with the recommendations of the Ontario Forestry Commission, which reported on the subject some time ago. "Broadly speaking," says Mr. Smith, "we have many millions of horse-power of water running to waste all over the province, and at the same time millions of dollars going out of the province annually to buy coal in Pennsylvania, and far greater millions to buy manufactured goods made up and purchased in places where power is cheap and labor plentiful."

The cost of plants, according to Mr. Smith's computation, varies from $50 to $100 per horse-power capacity. The plants at Niagara Falls and vicinity come well below $100. Cost of maintenance, operation, and current capital charges have to be added, but the total expenditure on account of production is low enough to ensure very cheap power to consumers. Mr. Smith mentions a recent sale at $12.50 per horse-power per year at the transformer station. This rate calls for a practically continuous delivery. To minimise the loss in distribution over long distances the transmission voltage has been steadily increased. Ten years ago it was 10,000 volts; now it is 60,000 volts, and is in an experimental stage of 80,000 volts.

Niagara Power.

Power being produced at Niagara Falls, what are the chances for its use? One loss incidental to a general adoption of it would be the discarding of a steam plant that still has some efficiency. Mr. Smith does not think that the item on that account will be so large as many people suppose. Steam plants will be kept in factories, where waste can be used as fuel, and where the steam is required for other than power purposes. "But for lighting, electric railways, pumping and for a large proportion of mills and factories, especially new ones, Niagara power will dominate an area in Ontario roughly bounded by Toronto, Guelph, Waterloo, Stratford, St. Mary's, London, St. Thomas and Simcoe. Beyond this it is not probable that it can successfully compete with power generated in an economical manner from cheap coal, oil or gas." It will surprise most people to learn that the City of Buffalo, with a population of nearly 400,000 people, uses only 35,000 horse-power of the energy produced at the great Niagara works, which are but 22 miles away. It was thought that electrical power would be largely substituted for steam power in that city. Buffalo's coal consumption after seven years' competition from Niagara power is only lessened 4 or 5 per cent. But, as Mr. Smith adds, Buffalo has very cheap coal, and probably the greater part of the tonnage does not go to manufacturing.

Demand and Supply.

Estimating at 550,000 the urban population of so much of western Ontario as is within economical reach of Niagara, Mr. Smith concludes that 50,000 to 60,000 horse-power is all that is likely to be transmitted westward from the Falls and vicinity for some years to come, unless the steam railways turn to electric traction on their trunk lines. Should they do so, the requirements for Ontario that could be conveniently served from the Falls and vicinity would be raised to 100,000 or 120,000 horse-power. Even this would be a small part of the total possible output of the plants now in existence and in course of construction and enlargement. The capacities of these plants are given by Mr. Smith as follows: The Cataract Power Co., at Decew Falls, 16,000 horse-power now developed, which it is proposed to increase to 40,000; the Canadian Niagara Power Co. has a 100,000 horse-power plant, has now 30,000 horse-power on sale, and 20,000 additional ready to install—50,000 altogether. Of which 40,000 will be available for sale; the Electrical Development Co. is building a 105,000 horse-power plant, and at present contemplates 40,000 horse-power of machinery, of which 15,000 horse-power will be ready to transmit to Toronto and vicinity in about fifteen months; the Ontario Power Co. has 60,000 horse-power development nearly complete, 30,000 horse-power of machinery being now under test, and 40,000 horse-power additional soon to be added. The last-named company has head-works built for 180,000 horse-power.

Thus these four companies have in course of development 400,000 horse-power of 24-hour electrical energy, and of this 146,000 horse-power will soon be on the market. Thirty thousand horse-power is already sold for distribution in the United States.

USED UP AND TIRED OUT

MEN AT THE OFFICE
WOMEN IN THE HOME
CHILDREN AT SCHOOL

Every day in the week and every week in the year men, women and children feel all used up and tired out.

The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart.

Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, skip beats, weak and irregular pulse, smothering and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually causes decline.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centres. Mrs. Thos. Hall, Keldon, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends.

Lord Roberts Resigns.

London, Dec. 2.—It is officially announced that Field Marshal Lord Roberts has resigned from the committee for imperial defence, in order to take up the organization throughout the country of the work connected with his proposals for universal military training. Lord Roberts by resigning renounces a salary of $25,000 yearly.

Tom Paine's Brain.

A portion of the brain of Thomas Paine removed at the time his body was taken from the tomb in New Rochelle, N. Y., and carried to England by William Cobbett in 1819, was recently exhibited by Dr. E. B. Foote, Jr., to thousands who attended the public transfer of the key of the Paine monument to the city of New Rochelle. Dr. Foote was chairman of the meeting and turned the key over to Mayor Clarke.

M. D. Conway, author of a life of Paine, bought a relic in an auction shop in London a few years ago and kept its possession a secret until the city of New Rochelle appropriated sufficient money to properly inclose and preserve the plot in North street, where Paine's body was buried and where his monument now stands. Mr. Conway asked permission to put the relic in the tomb, which was granted. It will be incased in a copper box and reburied in New Rochelle.

This discovery of the brain of Paine leaves little doubt that the story told concerning the theft of his body and that it fell finally into the hands of vandals, who cut it up and sold it for relics, is true.

The key will be hung in the City Hall of New Rochelle, where visitors to that city can borrow it to inspect the tomb.

Spoilt Children.

What rollicking times they must have been for little children in the pre-chimney sweeping-machine days, says Lloyd's Weekly. Five years, or thereabouts, was their age at apprenticeship, because they had to be small; and when a chimney caught fire—say a blazing kitchen chimney half-an-hour before dinner-time—the sweep was sent for, and up went one of his tiny imps into the mid of the flames to put them out. Here is a verbatim extract from the evidence taken at the Parliamentary inquiry into the business:—"Did you ever know a boy get burnt up a chimney?" "Yes." "Is that usual?" "Yes, I have been burnt myself up more than forty chimneys." "Did your master ever compel you to go up a chimney when it was on fire?" "Yes, many times; two of us had to stop at home on Sunday to be ready in case of a chimney being afire." "Were you ever forced up a chimney on fire?" "Yes; and because I couldn't put it out I was taken home and well hided with the brush." "Is that common in the trade?" "It is the custom." Sometimes the youngsters stuck fast in the chimney and died there, and sometimes the "climbing children," as they were called, were girls!

In the Bad Old Times.

With what unmitigated savagery property used to be protected may be gathered from the following incident:—During "an alarm about the Falkland Islands," in 1770, a young workman was seized by a press-gang while on his way home from his employment. His wife, being thus suddenly and without warning deprived of her breadwinner, was presently reduced to such straits to provide food for her babes that in her distraction she, unsuccessfully, attempted to steal a few pence worth of coarse linen from outside a shop on Ludgate hill, for which, despite her piteous defence, she was, in the words of a contemporary chronicler of the event, "dragged to the gallows a raving maniac, with her infant suckling at her breast, and put to death!"

It Is Wrong

To Suffer From a Germ Disease, When Liquozone is Free.

In the past few years, scores of diseases have been traced to germ attacks. They were thought to be due to other causes when old-time remedies were made. Can you not see why you don't get well, if you treat a germ disease with remedies that can't kill germs?

The remedy of to-day is Liquozone, and the first bottle is free. Its power is best told by a test. We ask you to try it, as millions have done, and learn what it means to you. Learn what this gas-made germicide can do.

What Liquozone Is.

The virtues of Liquozone are derived solely from gases. The formula is sent to each user. The process of making requires large apparatus, and from 8 to 14 days' time. It is directed by chemists of the highest class. The object is to so fix and combine the gases as to carry into the system a powerful tonic-germicide.

Contact with Liquozone kills any form of disease germ, because germs are of vegetable origin. Yet to the body Liquozone is not only harmless, but helpful in the extreme. That is its main distinction. Common germicides are poison when taken internally. That is why medicine has been so helpless in a germ disease. Liquozone is exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying; yet no disease germ can exist in it.

We purchased the American rights to Liquozone after thousands of tests had been made with it. Its power had been proved, again and again, in the most difficult germ diseases. Then we offered to supply the first bottle free in every disease that required it. And over one million dollars have been spent to announce and fulfill this offer.

The result is that 11,000,000 bottles have been used, mostly in the past two years. Today there are countless cured ones, scattered everywhere, to tell what Liquozone has done.

But so many others need it that this offer is published still. In late years, science has traced scores of diseases to germ attacks. Old remedies do not apply to them. We wish to show those sick ones—at our cost—what Liquozone can do.

Where It Applies.

These are the diseases in which Liquozone has been most employed. In these it has earned its widest reputation. In all of these troubles we supply the first bottle free. And in all—no matter how difficult—we offer each user a two months' further test without the risk of a penny.

HUNTING DEER IN ENGLAND

Remarkable Instances of Enormous Leaps Taken by Them to Escape From Their Pursuers.

From "The Chase of the Wild Red Deer," by C. P. Collyns:

Instances are not wanting of deer having been dashed to pieces, either by missing their foothold when descending some steep and slippery "coombe," or jumping from the cliffs above the sea on to the rocky shore. Many a good hound, too, has perished in daring the dangerous leap, and in the excitement of the chase the pursuer has shared the fate of the pursued. A sad instance of this occurred in 1858, during the spring hunting. A hind was found (April 21) in Sweet-Tree Wood, under Dunkerry Beacon. The hounds were laid on, and one of the severest chases on record took place. The hind crossed the moor from end to end and took refuge in a small covert known by the name of Whiteabay, where she was fresh found. After taking a turn or two through the wood, which bordered on the sea, the hounds being close to her haunches, she leapt from the cliff (a height of about 300 feet) and was dashed to pieces. Old Warrior, one of the best hounds in the pack, shared her fate.

It is more than probable that, at times when the deer have sprung from the cliffs, they have done so under delusion as to the depth of the fall, caused by partial blindness, the effect of severe exertion. In most cases, however, the animal has, no doubt, taken the fatal leap while under the influence of uncontrollable fear.

On one occasion a stag met his end by leaping from a height on to the rocks, under circumstances which almost justify the belief that he deliberately committed suicide. This occurrence took place when the late Lord Portsmouth (then the Hon. Newton Fellowes) kept the hounds. A stag had been "roused" in the open, and after a magnificent burst, ran towards the sea. Frederick Knight, having viewed the deer at a great distance, standing on the summit of a rock overhanging the channel, stopped the hounds, and the deer was observed, for some considerable time, walking restlessly to and fro on the cliff, as if seeking for a path by which he could reach the sea. Suddenly, however, he was missed, and as he did not reappear, some of the field went forward to the spot, where he was last seen, and leaving their horses on the high ground, repaired to the beach by a rocky path at some little distance. On reaching the shore beneath the cliff, the stag was found a disfigured object, mashed to a jelly, the horns broken to flinders and scattered on the rocks. It would appear that the animal had deliberately leapt from a cliff almost perpendicular on to the rocks that lay some hundreds of feet beneath.

May 4.—The meet was Porlock. Soon found in Park Brake; the hind at once faced the open country, and such was the pace over Exmour, that no horse could live with the hounds; the consequence was, that before any of the sportsmen could catch them, they had killed and eaten their deer. The hounds killed eleven hinds this spring.

Orders were now given to stop the pack, but this could not be accomplished until reaching Hawkridge; and it was full an hour before they could be brought back, during which the stag lay in the River Exe, below Baronsdown, exposed to the gaze of at least a hundred people, on horseback, in carriages, and on foot; the pack were brought back, and the deer broke and ran in view down the valley. It was a complete race to Warebridge; he now crossed the turnpike again for Bury Wood, but was so hard pressed as to leave it directly for the Exe, and now beat down stream, and the pack ran him well to Exebridge; below this he again came to water, and kept the middle of the river at Oakford Weir; the pack faulted on the water; he broke from it for Valdridge plantation; they now fresh found him, and he was soon obliged to retrace his steps again to the Wearpool. Here one of the most picturesque scenes that could be witnessed occurred, viz., the stag, with the pack at his haunches, swimming up and down the deep water for at least half an hour, the banks of the river lined by at least two hundred spectators, whilst Mr. C. H. Gardner of the Green, Dulverton, with Mr. Minchin, Jr., (in a boat kept near the spot by the latter), and rowed up and down in the vain attempt to head rope him; at length, quite exhausted, he was driven under the bank, when a sportsman dismounted, caught him with his whip, dexterously thrown over the horn; the foot-people then plunged in and secured him; an old heavy deer, with nearly three inches of fat on his haunches.

Oct. 7.—Fixture Cloutsham. Found in Horner the same stag as we had run on the 30th of September. He broke at once on to the common above Stoke Pero Church, where the pack was laid on. He went away at best pace over Porlock and Exford Commons to Larkborough; then over Oary Commen to Badgworthy water, where he soiled; skirted Badgworthy Wood and over the moor to Brendon; crossed to Farleigh Combe, beat down to the Lyn, and took soil in the river under Barton. He then crossed over for Countisbury, turned and went down to sea between Countisbury and Glenthorne. Here he took up his position on a rock, from where he was dislodged by the foot people, and went away as if he was going to the open again. He turned, however, to Glenthorne, and took refuge in a small wood just above the beach. Being pressed by the hounds, he leapt on to the beach, and and went to sea, where he was taken, and on being brought to shore was killed.

Sept. 24.—Met the hounds at Bray Cross; they found in the parish of Charles. Ran down to Newton Bridge, backed it for Bratton Down and on to Westland pound; he now made for Challacombe, but turned for Showlesborough Castle, but had not pluck enough to try Exmoor; he now backed it for Hole Water, and after running the coverts for some time, he was ran into and killed at Brayford after a chase of two hours. This deer ran himself blind.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last If FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 18 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

FERROZONE, THE ONE SURE CURE.

Cases of a Late K. C. That Are Famous

PROFESSIONAL CAREER OF LATE CHRISTOPHER ROBINSON, K.C.

Touched Canada's History In a Really Remarkable Manner—D'Arcy McGee, Riel, C. P. R., Ontario Boundary, "Big Push," and Other Cases Handled by This Gifted Counsel—Undemonstrative In Court.

There can be no doubt that the late Christopher Robinson, K. C., was one of the greatest of Canadian counsel. His mind was wonderfully clear and capacious; his reasoning power was marvellously acute; his knowledge of precedents was practically unlimited. But he was always the least demonstrative man in court, and his quiet speeches were pure argument.

History and the Man.

The professional career of Mr. Robinson touches the history of the country in a manner that is really remarkable. In the early seventies the country was staggered by the announcement that the most eloquent man in Parliament, the gifted D'Arcy McGee, had been shot dead while passing from the House of Commons to his residence. It was believed that the assassination was the work of emissaries from the United States, who had been assigned the task of killing Mr. McGee because that gentleman, having commenced life as a friend of the Irish agitators, had become a loyal servant of the Crown. The duty devolved upon Mr. Robinson of prosecuting the assassin. It was a labor calling for much skill, for the secret association which was supposed to have directed the murder was bound, if possible, to protect its agent. The evidence was ably presented, and the facts duly marshaled, with the result that Whalen, the guilty man, was convicted.

The Case of Riel.

In the Riel case Mr. Robinson again figured in a matter of national concern. Louis Riel had led a rebellion against the constituted authorities, this being his second escapade of the kind. On the former occasion he had taken refuge in the United States, but his operation in 1885, which cost valuable lives and millions of dollars, was not followed by exile. Riel had not the good fortune to get away. He was tried for treason, and was duly punished for that crime. Mr. Robinson was the leading counsel for the Crown. It was necessary to deal in this case not merely with the question of the sanity of the prisoner, but with the crime of treason, and the point as to whether the accused had committed it. Another issue which arose was that as to jurisdiction. Had the North-West tribunal the right to try for treason? The entire dispute went from Canada to the Privy Council, where the action in the case was pronounced valid. This was the last criminal appeal to London.

The Great C. P. R. Case.

Mr. Robinson was counsel for the country in the great Canadian Pacific Railway case. This was a cause involving millions. We had agreed to concede the British Columbia end of the road to the company as a part of the bonus, and this section along the Fraser River was to be up to a certain standard. The Government finished the line, up to the standard, as it claimed; but not up to the standard as the company alleged. For being below the standard the company claimed a large financial consideration, running up into the millions. The discussion of the cause, the examination of witnesses, most of them engineers, called for a high degree of technical skill on the part of counsel on both sides. Mr. Robinson, for his part, made a special study of the science, in its application to railways, that he might the more successfully defend his client — the country. This cause celebre resulted in a small award to the company.

Important Boundary Cases.

The case for the Dominion in the Ontario boundary dispute was argued by Mr. Robinson before the Privy Council. In this matter the point was, "where did the western boundary of Ontario lie?" The province contended for the line which was ultimately awarded, while the Dominion held that the boundary was at some point farther east. Mr. Robinson did not succeed in his claim. While Mr. Robinson dealt with local boundary issues, he had to do also with the larger questions which arose. Thus he maintained our cause before the Behring Sea tribunal, successfully protecting us from the United States' claim that our vessel could not legally enter the Behring Sea. Thus, also, he argued for the Canadian position in the Alaska boundary case before the Boundary Commission, winning high praise for the ability with which he stated the facts, but not securing the judgment he sought.

The "Big Push" Case.

One of the most interesting processes in which Mr. Robinson figured was what was locally known at the time as the "Big Push" case. Hon. George Brown had written a letter to Senator Simpson, of Bowmanville, informing him that in the then pending elections it was necessary to make a "Big Push," and asking him to "come down handsomely." This missive was interpreted as corrupt, and libel suits were entered. In the course of one of the legal movements Sir Adam Wilson gave a judgment, stating that as the letter was of a corrupt character, certain procedure would not be regular. The comment of the judge annoyed Mr. Brown, and that gentleman wrote an article, retorting upon his lordship that he was a "polthouse politician," and otherwise condemning him. Contempt of court was at once charged against Mr. Brown, and the accusation was argued before Chief Justice Harrison and Mr. Justice Morrison. Mr. Brown was his own lawyer, and spoke for two or three days. Mr. Robinson followed, and spoke for an hour. Nothing came of the action, for the judges disagreed.

The Secret of Success.

Mr. Robinson's secret of success was his intense application, his coolness and his physical condition, which, being excellent, aided the mental process. No man worked harder than he did at his profession, and no man who is less assiduous can expect to reach the eminence he attained, says The Toronto Mail and Empire.

A DIMPLE MAKER.

Find a child with dimples and chubby arms and legs and you find a healthy child. Find one with drawn face and poor, thin body and you see one that needs Scott's Emulsion. Your doctor will no doubt tell you the child is fat-starved—its food is not nourishing it.

Nothing helps these thin, pale children like Scott's Emulsion. It contains the very element of fat they need. It supplies them with a perfect and quickly digested nourishment. Scott's Emulsion brings dimples and rounded limbs.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Toronto, Ont.

New Word to Child is "Do."

Speaking before the Empire Club in Toronto on "New Ideals of Education," Mr. James L. Hughes, superintendent of the city schools, said that development in education had been noted in three directions — in training, in program and in method of teaching. All this advance rested upon a broader recognition of the child and the individual power of his soulhood.

The old child training was a catalogue of "don'ts"; the new word in the training was "do."

All children, as soon as they are able to move revealed their love of doing things, the love to do things they planned themselves and to do things in co-operation with other people. No one to-day of 21 years had these faculties as highly developed as the child of two. This proved the old method was not the true one.

A new idea of obedience obtained. It was once interpreted as "subordination." Any soul consciously so became warped in time. Obedience was to-day defined as a reverence of the law. Teach the child the beauty of the law of God and he would soon demonstrate and test its worth. Childhood was to-day reverenced to no less a degree than adulthood. The child was directed, not restricted, not coerced, but stimulated to self-activity.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Hughes said that Canada was behind the times in one respect—it had not abolished corporal punishment in the schools. The fallacy of this system had been seen in Austria, France, Italy, Finland, Switzerland, Brazil and in the larger American cities, such as Chicago, New York, Toledo, Cleveland, Syracuse, Savannah, etc.

In response to a question Mr. Hughes thought the American public school pupil more obedient and respectful than the Canadian.

"Jumbo" Killed by Explosion.

The cruise of the sealers in Behring Sea every year is fruitful of tragic incident, and this year is no exception to the rule. Instead of the usual tale of disaster by the drowning of members of the various crews or the foundering of vessels, however, this year events took the form of the sudden and tragic end of "Jumbo," one of the most famous Indians of the whole Northwest coast.

On foggy days small cannon on board the schooners are kept firing at intervals to apprise hunters hidden in mist of the location of the vessel. To prevent accidents, all the Indians are kept below, while the cannon is being fired. This year "Jumbo" was shipped on the Alnoka, and on a foggy day in August when the gun was being fired "Jumbo" came on deck to satisfy his curiosity. The charge exploded, blowing fragments of the gun about the deck. A chunk of the weapon struck "Jumbo" with full force, severing his head from his body.

Jumbo was a powerful man, and, unlike most Indians on this coast, was absolutely fearless. He had some negro blood in his veins, and on this account a big fight was put up to get him free when arrested in Victoria last winter for having liquor in his possession, it being contrary to law for Indians to have liquor.

Later Jumbo was used as a decoy by the police at Steveston during the fishing season, making good money out of his portion of the fines. Later still, at Port Renfrew, he married a woman of the Pechena tribe, and later he shipped on the Alnoka, to meet the end mentioned above.

Does Your FOOD Digest Well?

When the food is imperfectly digested the full benefit is not derived from it by the body and the purpose of eating is defeated; no matter how good the food or how carefully adapted to the wants of the body it may be. Thus the dyspeptic often becomes thin, weak and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap and vim are lost, and in their place come dullness, lost appetite, depression and languor. It takes no great knowledge to know when one has indigestion, some of the following symptoms generally exist, viz.: constipation, sour stomach, variable appetite, headache, heartburn, gas in the stomach, etc.

The great point is to cure it, to get back bounding health and vigor.

is constantly effecting cures of dyspepsia because it acts in a natural yet effective way upon all the organs involved in the process of digestion, removing all clogging impurities and making easy the work of digestion and assimilation.

Mr. R. G. Harvey, Amelinsburg, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with dyspepsia for several years and after using three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I was completely cured. I cannot praise B.B.B. enough for what it has done for me. I have not had a sign of dyspepsia since."

Do not accept a substitute for B.B.B. There is nothing "just as good."

The Village of East "Lynne" To Be Sold

ENGLISH PARISH GOES TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

Scene of Mrs. Henry Wood's Novel Is Being Sold—Village, Manor Farms, Pasture Lands and All — Obscure But Very Ancient Worchestershire Village Is "East Lynne" Which Figured Under the Name of Abberton.

East Lynne, that is to say the village which, under that name, is the scene of Mrs. Henry Wood's novel, "East Lynne," is being sold. The whole village is to go to the highest bidder and whoever buys in the estate will find himself possessor of an English parish complete. There is the village, manor farms, pasture lands and orchards.

On the map of England, East Lynne figures as an obscure but very ancient Worchestershire village under the name Abberton. It is Abberton, however, which contains the hall in which Lady Isabel had her youthful home, where she returned as the bride of Archibald Carlyle, whom she quitted in a fit of pique, only to return again, disguised as Madame Vine, to nurse her sick child and then to pass away after having confessed her folly and received her husband's forgiveness.

Few popular novels, perhaps, have contained more glaring literary faults than "East Lynne," but few have ever equaled it in popularity. Mrs. Henry Wood wrote "East Lynne" in 1861, when it first appeared in "Colburn's New Monthly." As soon as it was completed, it was issued in book form. It went through edition after edition in Great Britain, was pirated vigorously in America and translated into every known language, including Parsee and Hindustani. One of the librarians in Madrid, years after, told the author's son that the most popular book on the shelves was "East Lynne." For forty years it has, as a play, had a successful run on the stage. Numerous versions of it were produced between 1861 and 1890, but from none of them did the author profit a cent. "East Lynne" has made more than $1,000,00 for others, and only fame for its author.

The story is, from the modern point of view, defective in almost everything which makes a novel a work of art; but it cannot be said to lack incident or interest. Half of its popularity at the time of its publication was undoubtedly due to the reaction then setting in against inane and impossible goodness. It was a protest against the conventional here, and on the stage it was one of the earliest of modern "problem" plays, before "problem" plays were recognised and labelled. It requires great good will to the author to believe that the heroine could return to her husband's house and remain there without the husband seeing through the transparent disguise of a pair of blue goggles. Modern criticism is apt to characterise Lady Isabel as a very silly woman and her husband as a very dense specimen of manhood.

While Mrs. Henry Wood was not skilful in character drawing, she is said to have had in mind a former owner of Abberton Hall when she drew Mr. Carlyle. This gentleman restored the old church and was generally admired in the neighborhood for his uniform kindness and generosity.

Abberton is the modern spelling of the Ebriton of the Domesday Book, and it goes back to Saxon times, when its owners were the Abbots of Pershore. In the reign of Edward I., the name was changed to Albreton, and in 1534 all the manorial rights and patronage of the parish were granted to Thomas and Francis Sheldon by Henry VIII. Until late in the eighteenth century the Sheldons held the manor, but then the estate passed into the hands of F. Lasket, who represented the borough of Worcester in Parliament for some years.

The parish church of Abberton possesses many points of great historic interest. It is believed to have been a chapelry as early as the twelfth century and is dedicated to St. Edburga, the saintly daughter of the Saxon King, Edward the Elder. From early childhood Edburga manifested deep religious feelings, and these culminated in her assuming the veil of a nun in later years. It is told of her that when one day her kingly father offered her glittering jewels and gold in one hand and a book of the Gospels and a chalice in the other, she chose the latter. It was inevitable that such a pious woman should have miracles associated with her name, and many are reported to have been wrought in remote times around her shrine at Pershore.

The present church building is not the one in which Edburga worshipped. There have been two restorations, but some portions of the windows of the old church still remain, and there is a Norman font which is well preserved, although credibly reported to be 800 years old.

There are many magnificent tombs of the Sheldon family, both at Abberton Church and at Beoly. Those at Abberton date from 1659 and are under the western tower of the church. The register of the church is also full of curious antiquarian interest, for it goes back to 1661 and has been carefully kept by a succession of rectors.

The manor hall of Abberton is situated within easy distance of Birmingham, and the grounds march on the south side with the estate of the Duke of Orleans. It stands on an eminence surrounded by fine forest trees and commanding views of the Malvern Hills, the Lench Woods, the fertile and charming Vale of Evesham, and the Cotswold Hills. The hall is a commodious building, and the most interesting relic of its early days is a stone and brick Elizabethan chimney with the date 1610 carved on it.

Fiewel Manor, which is also situated in the parish, was once the property of Guy de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, who, however, lost it in one of the social and political upheavals of his time. At the dissolution of the monasteries all the lands fell into the hands of Henry VIII., who parted with them to the Sheldons, and it was in this way that that old family came into possession of the entire parish.

THE ABSENT-MINDED.

Some Peculiar Errors Due to Their Abstract Meditations and Preoccupation — Among Instances.

A charming man, beloved by all the students, and with a reputation for geniality extending far beyond the walls of the college, was Prof. Williamson, of Queen's University. This professor was brother-in-law to Sir John Macdonald. He had the professional fault—preoccupation. Passing from his house one morning to deliver his college lecture, he had not gone far when the high wind caused him to turn around. The wind fell, and the professor resumed his journey. But he had forgotten to turn again, and the result was that he was soon back home, sitting before the fire, and wondering why he had returned. Of the same gentleman the story is told that when knocking for admission to his own house, a servant, who mistook him for a visitor, declared from the window that the professor was not at home, whereupon, overlooking his own identity, he remarked in a resigned manner: "Oh, very well, I'll call later."

George Brown's Blunder.

But absence of mind is not the exclusive possession of the professors. Hon. George Brown was subject to that peculiarity. This gentleman went to Scotland to be married, and brought back with him his bride, a daughter of Thomas Nelson, the Edinburgh publisher. Mr. Brown was himself until he was near Toronto. Then the thought of his business took possession of his mind, and he gradually became more and more anxious to reach his office, and to find out how matters had been going on during his absence. By the time he had arrived at the railway station he had forgotten his companion. When the train stopped he made one great bolt for the platform, and was in a moment in a cab, and on his way up town. It was some little time before he thought again of Mrs. Brown, to whose rescue he promptly hastened. This was the absent-minded blunder of a Scotchman in Canada. The Scotch have a companion story of recent date, which turns the joke upon us, because it is the mistake of a Canadian in Scotland.

Sir William's Funny Break.

The subject is Sir William Mulock, who appears to have been inspecting the postal system of Glasgow. The walking on the stone pavements among so many postoffices was a trifle tiresome, and in a little time Sir William's boots began to pinch. In search of relief he went into a nearby shoe store, and tried on a large proportion of the stock. After much searching for a comfortable boot, and prolonged disappointment, Sir William's countenance suddenly lighted up with pleasure. "I've got it," he exclaimed. "The very thing; a most comfortable fit." "Excuse me, sir," said the salesman, 'but it's your old boot that you've just put on." This was a case of mental abstraction extending to the pedal extremities.

Clergymen are frequently absent-minded, and when any one of their number is thus affected the solemnity of the service is marred. A worthy Ottawa pastor, new to the congregation before which he was preaching, undertook to proclaim the virtues of a departed elder. Everything was all right about the sermon, except the name of the deceased, which, through some mental evolution, explainable only on the theory of absent-mindedness, was dropped in favor of that of a member of the congregation who was still in the flesh.

Pulpit Errors.

The absent-mindedness of the pulpit, however, takes the form, usually, of verbal transpositions. Words become mixed, and syllables get into the wrong spots. Thus a congregation was surprised upon finding itself called upon to sing: "From Iceland's Greasy Mountains," while another was astonished to learn that there was in the book such a production as "Kinkering Kongs Their Titles Take." These absent-minded mistakes are the result of the concentration of the mind upon something yet to be done. The sermon is, in all probability, worrying the speaker, and withdrawing him from the particular exercise of the moment. In a similar way the mistakes which are attributed to absent-mindedness come from the circumstance that the victim is engaged in something which he regards as of more importance than the matter in respect of which he makes a slip. The mind is fixed upon a given problem, or question, and the body acts without adequate mental assistance on minor points.

New Canadian Industry.

Canada is likely to have another new and important industry at a very early date. A meeting of capitalists, some of whom are British, was held in Toronto a few days ago and decision arrived at to form a company for the manufacture of soda ash and several kindred and similar products. At present about $4,000,000 worth of these products are imported, and as Canada possesses the two chief factors in its production, salt and lime, it is belived the articles can be successfully and economically manufactured here. It is understood that options on salt and lime properties have been secured and that an abundant supply of the raw material, both lying close together, will be obtainable. The organization of the company is in a very forward condition, and the directorate will include several well-known Canadian capitalists as well as those from Britain and the United States.

A Crop of Practical Jokes.

An epidemic of practical jokes has broken out on Queen street west, and has grown to serious proportions.

It began one day last week, when a hotelkeeper who owns a trotter with a record of 2.14, of which he is naturally proud, was waited upon by a man from the horse morgue, who backed his cart up to the door.

"I came for that horse."

"What horse?"

"We got a message that there was a dead one here."

The unfortunate man had difficulties in escaping alive. The suggestion that the 2.14 trotter was "a dead one" was too much for the establishment.

Next, a barber shop in the neighborhood was beset with empty baby carriages of all kinds and wheeled by all kinds of people. The barber learned that he was supposed to have advertised in the papers for a second-hand baby carriage, and the great stock of replies he got through the mail in addition to personal calls shows how many carriages not in use there are in Toronto.

Another business man nearby had his placed besieged by Englishmen. He found on enquiry that he was supposed to have advertised in the newspapers for a man, "an Englishman preferred."

These jokes are a little too much. Somebody will take steps to locate the jokers, says The Toronto Star.

Live Beavers Seized.

An important seizure of live bearers was made at Levis, Que., recently, by Detective Patry. The animals were en route to the United States from St. Pamphile, L'Islet County, and were in charge of a man named Alfred Caron. There were eighteen beavers in the lot and they were all fine animals. One of them weighed fully forty pounds. The animals after their seizure were taken to the Court House, Quebec. There appears to be some doubt as to whether the animals were taken in Canadian or United States territory, however, and it is understood that Caron intends to contest the seizure.

Ivory.

Ivory is, strictly speaking, obtained only from the tusks of the elephant, the finest of which comes from the east coast of Africa. This hard, heavy, fine-grained green, or Guinea, ivory is esteemed for its transparency, and because its light yellow or pale blue tint, unlike the whiteness of other kinds, which becomes yellow, bleaches with age. The different species of African elephant supply almost all the ivory used in Europe. Its quantity is enormous. The British importation in 1900 was 1,175,000 pounds, which represents sixty thousand tusks. One London firm sells ten thousand tusks yearly in billiard balls. Under so heavy a strain the supply must fall, but to fall back upon are remarkable deposits of mammoth tusks which have accumulated on the rivers discharging into the Atlantic Ocean.

Not a Matchmaker.

Cardinal Manning used to tell the following story of his friend, Bishop Bramstone, who seems to have been a wit as well as an eminent ecclesiastic:

One day a member of his flock approached him—whether in earnest or not does not appear — with the remark that he wanted a wife, and he added the usual modest conditions that she must be young, rich and pretty.

The bishop answered him upon the instant.

"You are mistaken," said he. "My name is Bramstone, not Brimstone. I do not make matches."

Disarmed the Italians.

Guelph, Nov. 22.—Fearing trouble with a gang of Italians on the Guelph and Goderich Railway, who threatened the foreman with violence because of the grading of the pay, Divisional Engineer Macklin asked for police intervention and three constables went to the camp. They disarmed the Italians, taking ten knives, five loaded revolvers and four shot guns from them and arrested several of the men.

English Politics Undergoes a New Change

EARL SPENCER, WHO HAS BEEN STRICKEN DOWN BY APOPLEXY.

Red Earl Is Consequently Out of British Politics as Liberal Leader, But He Will Retain Those Fine Personal Qualities Which Have Made Him One of the Great Parliamentary Figures of His Day.

English politics undergoes a new change through the retirement of Earl Spencer. A stroke of apoplexy is the answer to the question, "Will Earl Spencer be the next Liberal Premier?" The Red Earl, had his health not forsaken him so suddenly, was admitted to have the better chance for the leadership of his party than any other prominent Liberal. He is a man popular with the rank and file of the party. It may be that he will still be able to aid his old colleagues and associates with advice, though disqualified from active participation in the great game he has played so steadily for a generation. Though his health has broken down, Earl Spencer will retain those fine personal qualities which have made him one of the great Parliamentary figures of his day.

A Likely Premier.

According to the well-informed "Marquis de Fontenoy," Earl Spencer has been regarded as the one Liberal statesman possessed of sufficient prestige and popularity to admit of the various dissentient leaders of the Liberal party serving under him as Premier. Lord Rosebery, who would have hesitated to work under Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, would have readily consented to accept the seal of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in an Administration formed by Lord Spencer. And it would not have been by any means the first instance of a former Prime Minister consenting to serve under a colleague who had previously been one of his own subordinates. Lord Spencer, moreover, since the death of the late Lord Kimberley, has been the leader of the Liberals in the House of Lords, and possesses in a very marked degree the intimate friendship of the King. He may be said to have known the latter from boyhood, for he was Chief of the Household to the Prince Consort at the time of his death, and for more than a quarter of a century Groom of the Stole; that is to say, the principal dignitary of the court of the King prior to his accession.

Twice Lord Lieutenant.

One is tempted to remark parenthetically that the confidence and friendship of King Edw. 7 are important assets to a British statesman, and that a Premier could have no shrewder adviser than His Majesty; for while the King could not and would not take sides with one party against another, he is probably susceptible to the appeals of personal friendship. The title of the "Red Earl," by which Earl Spencer is commonly known, was bestowed not on account of a sanguinary disposition (although he has publicly championed the sport of cock-fighting), but was won by his long red beard, white these many years. Twice he has been Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish was an event of one of his terms of office. Earl Spencer was not a Home Ruler at the time, although he subsequently supported Mr. Gladstone's unavailing efforts in this direction. He is famous as a sportsman, and for more than forty years was Master of the Pytchley Hunt, perhaps the most renowned organization of the kind in the world.

The Honor of the Spencers.

No man can say who will be Earl Spencer's political heir, but his title and estates will descend in the course of time to his half-brother, the Right Hon. Robert Spencer, M. P., who married into the famous Baring family. The Right Hon. Robert was a forerunner of the Marquis of Angiesey in the matter of dress, although he never was such an exquisite as the marquis. Nevertheless, for years he held the record of being the best-dressed man in the House of Commons. One can, therefore, understand the burst of laughter which greeted "Bobby" when he began a speech by announcing, "I am not an agricultural laborer." From their father both the Spencers have inherited a fine sense of personal honor, and financial circles in London well remember that when the Barings were in difficulties some fifteen years ago Hon. Robert came to the rescue of his father-in-law by sacrificing his wife's dowry. It is true that since then the Barings have regained their position as one of the great money-houses of the world, but at the time of Spencer's heroic sacrifice it seemed unlikely that he would ever see a penny of it again.

The Humorous Jack Spencer.

The Spencers are descendants of the Duke of Marlborough. The duke died without leaving any sons, and the line was carried on through his eldest daughter, Henrietta, a duchess in her own right, the wife of the Earl of Godolphin. The duchess, who left no children, was succeeded by her nephew, Charles Spencer, eldest son of her youngest sister, Anne Spencer, Countess of Sunderland. A younger brother of Charles, known far and wide as Jack Spencer, was a great favorite of Sarah, the first duchess, whose influence it was secured for him the Earldom of Spencer, and who made him her principal heir. But on one occasion he nearly fatally offended his august grandmother, and had she not had such a strong affection for the young scapegrace, he would have lived to repent his wit. The occasion was a family reunion, at which the old duchess presided. She had compared the family to "a great tree, of which she was the root, with all her branches flourishing around her." To which her dutiful grandson replied audibly that "the branches would flourish a damned sight more if the root was under ground."

Spenser and Spencer.

Of course the Spencers can trace their ancestry a good deal further back than the first Duke of Marlborough. Indeed, Althorp, the country seat and ancestral home of the Earls of Spencer, was already in possession of the Spencer family prior to the reign of King Henry VIII., and among the members of this house was Edmund Spenser, the poet and author of "The Faerie Queene," who died from starvation on his return from Ireland, but who lies buried in Westminster Abbey. In fact, many of the poems of Edmund Spenser are dedicated to the daughter of Sir John Spencer, then master of Althorp, stress being laid in the verses upon the kinship which existed between the writer and the young girl. Many, indeed, are the historical links that connect the stricken earl with the splendid past. His own mark upon the story of his times will not be as distinct as his qualities make possible, but if he is not destined to go down to posterity as one of Britain's leading statesmen, he may be remembered as one who filled an important position through a long lifetime in a great party. That there are still many years of rest before him is the wish of his strongest political opponents.

THE PHYSIC HABIT
THE RESULT OF USING SALTS CASTOR OIL, ETC., INSTEAD OF THOROUGHLY CURING CONSTIPATION BY
DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

"Oh, a dose of salts will fix me up all right," you say, when the bowels become constipated and the liver and kidney sluggish and congested.

And the temporary relief you obtain in this way deceives you for a time, but you are soon in distress again, and must increase the dose and resort more frequently to the use of this weakening and debilitating treatment.

Constipation and intestinal indigestion cannot possibly be cured until the liver is made active in its work of filtering bile from the blood and pouring it into the intestines where it acts as a natural cathartic hastening the process of digestion and the removal of waste matter from the body.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a direct and specific action on the liver. They not only afford prompt relief, but positively strengthen and invigorate the kidneys, liver and bowels. Instead of encouraging the physic habit, they thoroughly cure constipation, liver complaint, biliousness, and kidney disease.

If you would like to regain your old-time vigour, and feel strong and well again, use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The backaches and body pains will disappear, your appetite and digestion will be good, you will escape sickness and disease because the filtering and excretory organs will keep the body cleansed from poisonous waste matter.

Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont., writes: "I was a sufferer for years with stomach trouble and terrible headaches and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended I determined to give them a trial and did so with satisfactory results, as I was very greatly benefitted and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster drives out all pains and aches.

SULTAN BACKS DOWN.

But With Modifications—Given Till Sunday to Make Complete.

Athens, Greece, Dec. 2.—A Russian torpedo destroyer arrived here yesterday. Her commanders in an interview said that the Turkish Governor of the Island of Mitylene Thursday presented to Vice-Admiral Ritter Von Jedina, commander of the international fleet, an official despatch from Constantinople, in which it stated that the Porte would accept the proposals of the powers for the financial control of Macedonia with modifications. Admiral Von Jedina replied, according to the Russian officer, that if by Sunday at midday the Porte had not definitely accepted the demands the international fleet would occupy the Islands of Lesnos and Imbros.

Canadian Serves the Sultan.

Windsor, Dec. 2.—R. D. Buckham, who is now the commanding admiral of the Turkish navy, is a Canadian by birth. He ran away from home when a boy and sailed the lakes. Later he became one of the most trusted employes of the big Cramp shipyards, Philadelphia, and when the Turkish Government bought a man-of-war from the Cramps, Buckham was selected to sail it. On arriving at Constantinople, he was offered a commission in the Turkish navy and quickly rose to his present position.

FIRE RECORD.

Winnipeg, Dec. 1.—The Ridout Gibson Carpet Co.'s premises, a large mercantile concern here, are on fire and a serious conflagration is threatened. The loss will reach $100,000 at least.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Within a half an hour after the closing of the show, Shea's Theatre took fire last night. About $20,000 should cover the loss. A month will be necessary to fix up.

TABLET TO SCOTCH VALOR.

Black Watch Will Commemorate Fallen Heroes of Ticonderoga.

Glens Falls, N.Y., Dec. 2.—A tablet commemorating the valor of a Scotch regiment of the British army in the French and Indian war of 1756 to 1763 will be placed in the new Carnegie Library in this city. The proposed tablet is for members of the famous Black Watch Scotch regiment, who died in an attack on Fort Ticonderoga in 1758. The library is named ater this fort.

It was announced yesterday that officers of the present Black Watch Regiment had written to Glens Falls, accepting the invitation to erect a memorial tablet, and that they were now having designs made for the tablet in London.

In the battle before Fort Ticonderoga, Gen. Abercrombie led the British army of 16,000 men and lost one-eighth of his army in the attack. The Black Watch was one of the heaviest losers among all the British regiments.

THE AXE STILL SWINGING.

The Registrar of Deeds For Dufferin County Dismissed.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—The latest victim in the Provincial Civil Service is W. M. McKim of Orangeville, who has held the position of registrar of deeds for many years. His successor has not been announced and no reasons are given for the dismissal.

Joseph Fisher of Ottawa has been appointed registrar of deeds for the County of Carleton to succeed the late Alexander Burritt.

THE IMMIGRANT.

A foolish little immigrant
Has crossed the unknown sea
And landed on the shore of life
A citizen to be.

He did not bring a single cent,
No baggage was revealed;
Upon what scenes he turned his back
His lips are ever sealed.

He may be homesick—who can tell?
The tears are in his eyes.
No doubt; he finds this foreign shore
A land of strange surprise.

Ah, foolish little immigrant!
What tales were told to you?
Did you believe that work was light
And gold on bushes grew?

Good luck to you while you are here,
And long the time you roam;
You cannot take a dollar back
When you go sailing home.

McLandburgh Wilson.

Brummel and Byron.

Byron while walking along Piccadilly one bright summer morning encountered Beau Brummel, who was returning from his tailor's.

"How are you, Brummel?" said the poet.

"Pretty well, thank you," returned the beau. "I've been reading 'Don Juan.'"

"Yes?" said Byron, with a smile.

"There is some clever rhyme in it."

"So?" observed Byron, with affected surprise.

"And some pretty good versification."

"Ah!" returned the poet.

"Why don't you try your hand at poetry, Byron?" asked Brummel.

The two never spoke to each other again.

Left Over Biscuits.

Housewives are often in a dilemma as to what to do with left over corn bread, gems, biscuit, etc. They hate to throw them away, and to serve them cold savors too much of economy. Sprinkle them with cold water, place them in a deep baking dish or pan, cover with a tin and set in a moderate oven, letting them remain there for about fifteen minutes. They will come from the oven almost as good, if not quite as good, as new. Only enough for a single meal should be heated at one time, as all warmed over breads and cakes dry quickly.

Whisk Broom Holder.

A whisk broom holder which looks like two circular pieces of delft porcelain is made of two disks of cardboard about four and one-half inches in diameter, covered with a glazed chintz on which are figures and symbols in delft design. The disks are fastened to each other by delft blue satin ribbon bows, leaving room for the whisk to be slipped between them. The holder is suspended by delft blue ribbon ends.

Unhappy Women!

No woman can be happy when her health is undermined. No woman can have good health while she suffers from female weakness, inflammation, ulceration or any disease of the delicate womanly organs. Nervous, sleepless, fretful, suffering in body and mind, she does not live but only exists.

More than a half a million such women have found a perfect and permanent cure for their diseased condition in the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Women cured by this remedy say it is a "wonderful medicine," so perfectly does it restore them to health and comeliness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither does it contain opium, cocaine, nor any other harmful drug. It is in the strictest sense, an honest, temperance medicine. Its ingredients are purely vegetable, and it will agree with the most delicate constitution.

☞ Don't be hypnotized, or over persuaded, into accepting a substitute. This medicine has a record that's worth far more than any differences in price.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, either personally or by letter, absolutely without charge or fee, thus avoiding the unpleasant questionings, offensive examinations and obnoxious local treatments considered necessary by many local practitioners. All correspondence treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

CALL OF THE WILD.

Do you hear the woodlands calling,
Do you see their arms flung wide
Where the shadows, softly falling,
Bid the weary one abide?
Well, my boy, unless you do,
There is something wrong with you.

Do you feel the country tugging
At your heartstrings night and day,
When you're in the city plugging
At your hateful work away?
Do you promptly answer, "Yes,"
Or have I another guess?

Does the prospect of vacation,
Far from your cheap, dingy flat,
With some sweet and swell relation,
Make your heart go pitapat?
Have I got the dope mixed right?
Well, it's nearly if not quite.

Do you, when the sun is shining
And the husky heat waves throb,
Feel each moment like resigning
And like throwing up your job?
Have I proved I am not blind
As a reader of the mind?

Meant All Right.

George Washington was busy inventing the Fourth of July.

Benjamin Franklin, who belonged to the inventors' union himself, stepped into the shop to have the point of his lightning rod ground down a little.

"What you doing, George?" he asked.

The Father of His Country proudly exhibited his new invention and explained that it was for the purpose of providing a good time for young America.

Franklin, who had on his long distance glasses, shook his head. "Your intentions are all right, George," he said, "and I know you to be an honorable man, but if it were any one else I would say that he was subsidized by the court plaster manufacturers."

Strong For Their Size.

"Do you think cucumbers are healthy?"

"Healthy! They must be trained athletes, judging from the way they can knock out a full grown man."

Nobler Pursuit.

The efforts of the pugilists to elevate the stage
The element of full success and high attainment lacks;
They might with prospects brighter far their moments spare engage
In a heroic effort to elevate the tracks.

Quite as Good.

"There is nothing like leather," philosophically observed the old man, but the small boy who had had a great variety of experiences observed softly to himself that he did not observe any material difference between that and a barrel stave.

Understands Them.

"So Charley is posing as a woman hater."

"Yes; he wants to have the girls all running after him."

Smiled Through It.

The lady was feeling forlorn;
'Twas the first time her shoes had been worn.
Her feet were so sore
She wanted to roar,
But she wouldn't acknowledge the corn.

They Want Our Girls.

A Brooklyn, N. Y., hospital was recently advertising in the Toronto newspapers for Canadian nurses. As a large proportion of all the hospital nurses in this country seem already to be Canadian it begins to look as if the Brooklyn institution believed in going the whole way. Evidently their work is appreciated. No wonder so many rich patients marry their nurses and create a constant call for more Chicago Canadian-Americans.

DYNAMITE EXPLODES.

No One Is Badly Hurt, But Windows and Lamps Suffer.

Quebec, Dec 1.—Over 50 pounds of dynamite in a shed at St. Romauld exploded Wednesday afternoon, the shock hurling two men through the air, injuring them only slightly, however, and causing nearly every building along te south shore down as far as St. Joseph de Levis and as far west as St. Nicholas to quiver and break windows in many. St. Romauld Church especially was damaged, window panes and lamps being smashed. The noise was heard in Quebec.

The explosion badly wrecked some of the buildings nearby.

Black Sea Fleet Mutinies.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

THE

is so popular to-day. It is the most up-to-date Range on the market and the most economical Fuel saver. You may secure one at a price in keeping with the merits of the Canada. Quality is more important than price when buying a Range. You cannot be but satisfied on both scores, if you buy one of the Canadas.

This Range is made in Canada.

It is guaranteed by the

Moffat Stove Co.

The opinions received at 137 Hunter street concerning The Canada Steel Range coincide with the maker's and seller's opinion—namely, "A Good Baker," "A Perfect Cooker." "Just the Range to bake with," —this is the tone of the testimonials. There must be someting meritorious about the Canada, something about it that absolutely forces a buyer to say, "I'll take this Range." Your patronage is invited.

"The Daylight Store"

QUALITY

SPECIALTY

This is being demonstrated every day in our business. Our customers appreciate the effort put forth by us to get something considerably in advance of garments sold by the ordinary clothing house. During the next few weeks thousands of Suits and Overcoats will pass from the tables of clothing stores into the hands of buyers.

Where Will You Buy Yours?

Put this question to almost any group of well dressed, well informed men hereabouts, and the answer will be with one accord—"At the Daylight Store." There's a reason for this universal sentiment. It is because our prices are so reasonable, quality considered, and the fit and finish cannot be excelled by any custom tailor. See our Beautiful Black Overcoats in two lengths—they are fashion's latest production.

Passed Away at Burtrum, Minn.

Demise of Mr. Thomas Flaherty, Son of Mr. E. Flaherty, Water Street.

Word has been received in the city of the death in Burtrum, Minn., of Thomas, eldest son of Mr. Edward Flaherty, Water street.

Deceased was taken ill about two months ago with typhoid fever which developed into pneumonia. His death occurred on Monday, Nov. 20th. He leaves a wife and one child, also his father, four brothers and four sisters to mourn his loss. The funeral took place in Burtrum.

As a Convalescent Food.

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington Co., Ont., writes:—"My wife had congestion of the lungs and other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that built her up."

Short Weight Butter Seized

Armed with a new set of scales, Chief King, of Barrie, started about 10 o'clock on Saturday morning to weigh butter on the market. As not one of the prints in the first basket contained 16 ounces, the entire lot was confiscated and donated to charity. Several other tests were made and shortages detected.

$30,000 Loss Caused by Firemen Firebugs

Amazing Tale of Incendiarism Comes From Sarnia.

THREE MEN UNDER ARREST

Three Weeks' Reign of Terror in the Border Town Ends With Confession of Ex-Fireman Milne, Who Organized Gang of Disgruntled Firemen to Set Fire to Buildings Out of Revenge.

Sarnia, Dec. 4.—Because he had a grudge against the fire department, James Milne, an ex-fireman, was incidental in the formation of a gang supposed to be responsible for a series of fires aggregating in loss over $30,000. This is the substance of his confession given in the jail here after his arrest early yesterday morning for incendiarism. His confession implicated several more, and Benjamin Buchanan and Percy Jackson were arrested this afternoon.

All three prisoners have been firemen at periods during their lives. Buchanan belongs to the fire department at the present time. The other two were dismissed under suspicion. Milne was taken on the fire department three months ago. He forged the name of a fireman on sick leave to a pay cheque and was dismissed. Percy Jackson was mixed up in a disgraceful affair, and was asked for his resignation.

28 Fires in Three Weeks.

Since that time this trio with one or two others have done their best to make trouble and succeeded. Twenty-five suspicious fires have taken place in the last three weeks. This gang, of which Milne was the leader, is accused of commencing all of these. The list of fires is long, but the loss in the greater proportion has been small. To this fact credit is due to the fire department, which has been working night and day. Lack of sleep has told upon them and they are rejoicing now.

On Saturday six more fires were added to the already long quota of fires laid to the incendiaries. Shortly after midnight of Friday a frame storehouse and nine new separators at John Goodson's thresher works were set afire. Efforts were made to track the incendiaries in the snow, but failed. The fire was put out at a loss of about $10,000.

During the daylight no fires occurred, but no sooner had the firemen retired on Saturday night when another alarm rang in. This time it was an oil shed on the principal street. It was totally destroyed at a loss of about $2,000, without insurance. Then the Victoria Opera House took fire shortly after they had returned to their couches. The second attended their fires.

Caught in the Act.

While returning from this fire another small one broke out in a barn, but the promptness of the firemen, though they were almost falling down from weariness, prevented any great loss. Then a barn behind the Baptist Church was fired, but when the firemen arrived they rejoiced as they saw Milne in the custody of an officer who informed them that he was caught setting fire to the barn. The officer had followed him around after the previous blazes, and jumped on him as he was lighting a match to a pile of inflammables.

His arrest, however, did not stop the fires, for at 4 a. m. W. Watson's livery stable broke into flames. It was a total loss. It is thought that some of the gang set this on fire to divert suspicion from Milne. A number of buggies were destroyed in the fire, together with 11 horses and a quantity of harness. The loss was $4,000, with only $1,200 of insurance.

Milne Confesses.

Soon after his arrest Milne confessed to setting fire personally to a number of buildings. The firing of others he had deputed to certain others. Jackson and Buchanan acted as sub-leaders of the gang under him.

Within a short time of the confession the other young men were rounded up and placed in the jail. Other arrests upon information from Milne are expected.

Wanted To Be a Cop.

Milne is an applicant for a position on the police force, and has done duty on the force at different times as a substitute, in fact started one blaze while on duty. He poses as a model of goodness, being a sexton of St. George's Church. He attended Sunday school regularly, and was looked upon as one of the respected members of the community. The fact of his committing a forgery was not generally known.

Attempt to Burn Church.

Hamilton, Dec. 4.—An attempt was made to burn down the Barton Street Methodist Church early Saturday morning.

SHOT AT BUT MISSED.

Serious Attempt to Rob Galt Grocer Saturday Night.

Galt, Dec. 4.—A daring attempt at highway robbery occurred on Cameron street, a thickly populated quarter of the town, Saturday night at 11.30.

A masked man jumped out from behind a hedge and with a revolver pointed at J. R. Hillock, grocer, ordered "Hands up." Hillock was on his way home from his nearly-by store, wore a heavy overcoat and top boots and bore an armful of books, and so had not a chance to grapple with the highwayman, before the latter pulled the trigger and a bullet whistled past the grocer's head.

Seeing that Hillock's son was coming the miscreant turned and ran, disappearing down East Main street.

The chief of police found footprints indicating that the highwayman had laid in wait near the store and subsequently behind the hedge for the grocer, who was expected to have considerable money, the day's receipts.

Charged With Abduction.

Toronto, Dec. 4.—By flattering offers of high wages and employment, Miss Countess Balwin, 15 years old, was enticed from her home in Niagara Falls, N.Y. This is what the staff inspector's department alleges and upon that information caused the arrest of William Cunningham, upon a charge of abduction. Cunningham, who is about 50 years of age, has an office on Church street, Toronto, at 110 Carlton street.

Belleville Man To Be Shot.

Belleville, Dec. 4.—An interesting fact came to light here Saturday, namely, that a former resident of Belleville has been condemned to be shot for murder in Mexico. About three years ago a dapper young man made his appearance in this city from nobody knew where. He was district agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. It was not long before ugly rumors began to float about, and finally Mr. Richardson was brought before Magistrate Flint on the charge of fraud, preferred by a blacksmith named Gadsby of Tweed. The evidence was strongly against the prisoner, and he was given a suspended sentence. Now the news comes that he has just been sentenced with two of his pals to be shot at Chihuahua, Mexico. They were convicted of murdering two men there for life insurance money, Richardson being the insurance agent, a man named Mason, his brother-in-law, the assistant agent, and a man named Harle, the examining physician.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

German Ambassador to Britain Makes an Important Speech—Meeting to Augument Good Feeling.

London, Dec. 4.—An important speech on the relations between Great Britain and Germany was delivered Saturday night by the German Ambassador, Count Wolff Metternich, who was the chief guest at a dinner at the Lyceum Club, presided over by Lady Aberdeen. The Ambassador said:

"We have never had a serious quarrel with England in the long course of our history, and sincerely trust we never shall. A shadow, unfortunately, has fallen over the two nations in the last few years, the causes for which it is not difficult to discover by those who read what daily is printed. The fact that I am your guest is a welcome proof that the forces at work are desirous of dispelling that shadow of enmity.

"The overwhelming majority of Englishmen and Germans wish a life of peace and harmony, and regard the idea of a serious quarrel as a piece of criminal folly. There is no real cause for antagonism, commercial or otherwise. It is only an atmosphere of ill-feeling artifically created.

"The German Government will greet with sincere satisfaction any movement tending to further good relations, and will gladly respond to any friendly demonstration in England."

A well attended meeting took place with the object of promoting better relations between Great Britain and Germany. Americans of German birth resident in New York cabled their best wishes and desire to co-operate in furthering the objects of the meeting.

Lord Avebury in opening the meeting urged that there was no ground for the ill-feeling which unhappily exists between Germany and Great Britain.

"We would like," he said, "to see Europe federated like the United States. If Europe continues its tremendous expenditure for armaments we shall be unable to hold our own against the United States."

Sir Leonard Courtenay asked whether it would not be practicable for some British statesman to approach President Roosevelt and Emperor William, between whom there was a close bond of friendship, with the object of inducing them to take steps toward the reduction of armaments.

BARGE REMBRANDT FOUNDERS.

More Reports of Lost Vessels and Drowning of Crews.

Halifax, Dec. 4.—The tug Douglas H. Thomas, Capt. Cann, arrived in port Saturday morning at 5 o'clock, and reported that the barge Rembrandt, one of the largest coal carriers of the Dominion Coal Co., coal laden, from Louisburg, C. B., for this port, which she was towing, had broken away in Wednesday night's gale. The hawser with which the tug was towing the barge was 13-inch, but snapped short off in the height of the gale, about ten miles off Liscomb. The barge has three sails and carries a crew of five. She is commanded by Capt. Acker, assisted by Capt. Budriet. Shipping men are of the opinion that the unfortunate craft foundered.

Ships Wrecked Off Newfoundland.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 4.—Three of the ten schooners driven seaward during the heavy gale of last Thursday have reached port safely, but no word has come from the others, and fears are felt as to their safety. Reports received from coastwise points tell of many fishing vessels having been driven ashore during the gale, and also indicate that much damage was done to fishing property.

Steamer Olga Ashore.

Goderich, Dec. 4.—The barge Olga was driven ashore about three miles above this port early yesterday morning during a heavy northwest gale. The barge had been abandoned by the crew, who were taken off by the steamer Winslow.

Steamer Sunk; Four Drown.

Dover, Eng., Dec. 4.—The Belgian steamer Phillipsville, from Antwerp for the Congo, reports the sinking of the steamer Harlow of London, southeast of Dungeness, early Saturday. The Phillipsville picked up seven of the crew of the sinking vessel and four others were drowned.

Many Vessels Go Ashore.

London, Dec. 4.—There was a dense fog in the English Channel and the North Sea Saturday and yesterday. It is reported that many vessels have gone ashore.

COMMENT ON CASE.

Hamilton Newspaper Men Have Offended Courts and Plumbers.

Hamilton, Dec. 4.—The preliminary examination of the fifteen master plumbers, charged with conspiracy, was resumed at the police court Saturday morning.

Manager Strathy produced the association's account and cheques, showing how much each of the members had received of the $2,700 in the treasury at the time it was decided to suspend operations on account of the Toronto prosecution. There was still $400 to the credit of the association.

Secretary David was recalled and was questioned as to the arrangement for dividing up the percentage added to contracts, and the system of awarding contracts. The case was adjourned sine die. It will likely be resumed in a week.

It is said that the editors of the local papers may be brought up for contempt of court for commenting on the case.

Congregations Were Large

Three Persons Baptised Last Night at Park Street Church.

Three persons were baptized last night at Park street Baptist church. The fourth candidate remains over for the next observance of the ordinance through sickness.

It was a unique sight to witness husband and wife standing together in the baptistry.

Very large congregations turned out all day, and in the evening the overflow occupied the schoolroom.

Morning subject, Jesus among the disciples breaking the news of His departure, with the promise to return for them. The "Second Coming" was the theme.

Evening subject, Jesus among His enemies. "Echoes from the Cross."

As the result of the past week's special services, the meetings yesterday were unusually impressive and more largely attended. The pastor had charge of both services. In the morning his subject was "The History of a Downfall," and in the evening, "Confession as Natural, Necessary and Noble." The special meetings will be continued through this week. This evening there will be a service of song. Meetings close every night at 9.30.

Deputation To Ask Dominion Government For Early Completion

Trent Canal Again to be the Object of a Deputation's Visit to Ottawa — City Council Will Interest Other Municipalities in the Effort to Urge its Speedy Completion.

The question of the Trent Canal is one which the people of this city are deeply interested in, and an effort will now be made, headed by the city council, to induce the Government to place the whole of the, at present, uncompleted work under contract at once. At the meeting of the council last night, Ald. Adams introduced the subject, and made a motion to send a deputation to Ottawa to ask that the Government take action as indicated above. He stated that since the survey parties had all been called in, and were now preparing their report for the Government, it was an opportune time to urge the early completion of the canal upon the premier and his Cabinet. Personally, he said, he was inclined to the belief that the Port Hope route would be of the greater advantage to Peterborough, but he would not advise saying anything about the route, at Ottawa. He introduced the following motion, which was carried :

"In the opinion of this council, it is advisable to make a renewed effort to secure the early completion of the Trent Canal, and for that purpose that a deputation representing all the localities interested in this important work, wait on the Dominion Government as soon as possible to urge that at the next session of Parliament a sufficient sum to finish the canal be put in the estimates, and that the unfinished portion of the work be put under contract; and that the clerk be requested to communicate with the other municipalities interested. That the Finance Committee be authorized to make the necessary arrangements, and that the expenses of the deputation representing this council be paid on the certificate of the chairman of the Finance Committee."

Is The Ambulance Contract Illegal?

Report That Giving Contract for Care of the Dan Spence Ambulance Without Tenders is Not According to Law—Matter Was Discussed at Last Night's Council Meeting.

The report of the Property Committee presented at the meeting of the City Council last evening, recommending that the contract for the care and service of the Dan Spence Ambulance be renewed with Mr. D. Belleghem, was subjected to some opposition, some of the council being of the opinion that tenders should be asked and that competition should be secured.

The clause of the committee's report objected to was as follows :—

"That the contract for the care and service of the Dan Spence Ambulance be renewed with Mr. D. Belleghem on the same terms and conditions as for the last year."

After the report was read Ald. Mason objected to this clause, and stated his opinion that tenders should be called for this service. His view was supported by Ald. Tovey. Ald. Mason moved that the clause be amended to read that tenders be called for for the care and service of the ambulance.

Ald. Batten informed the council that he had heard no complaints this year as to the service of the ambulance, and he was of the opinion that since it had been well cared for, it was better to re-let it to Mr. Belleghem. He had watched it carefully during the year, and was pleased with the way it was handled.

Ald. Hicks seconded the adoption of the report, and stated that the price paid was in the neighbourhood of 50, a trip, and not too high he thought.

Ald. Adams informed the council that he had heard a hint that the whole matter of letting the care of the ambulance without tender was illegal, and steps were to be taken to have it quashed if it was again made. Ald. Mason explained that he had no objection to Mr. Belleghem being given the contract for the care of the ambulance, but wanted tenders called. The report was finally adopted.

Commissioners Say the Law Is Well Enforced

Peterboro' One of the "Driest" Towns in Ontario—Dr. Morrison Tells Why License Commissioners Did Not Reduce Number of Licenses—Matter Should be Left to the People—Precedence for Their Action.

FEW INFRACTIONS OF LIQUOR ACT

Dr. M. A. Morrison, the chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, was seen this morning in reference to the request of the Ministerial Association to the Council to reduce the number of hotel licenses, and holds a totally different view to that expressed by the members of the deputation last night. He states that in his opinion the law is generally being well observed by the hotelkeepers in this city. Travellers tell him, he said, that this is one of the driest towns they visit, and that there is less drinking later hours here than in almost any other place. The Commissioners have heard some indefinite complaints about hotels in which liquor is said to be sold during prohibited hours, but they have, said Dr. Morrison, received no information upon which they could act.

He recognized that there were some men in every place who would not keep the law, but felt sure that the majority of people in Peterborough would agree with him that there was less ground for complaint on account of illegal liquor selling than there was in many places, and the Commissioners did not feel that they would be warranted in deciding to reduce the number of licenses without the matter being submitted to the people.

This course was being pursued in many places, and a precedent has thus been established for Peterborough. He contended that the Commissioners were not trying to shirk their responsibility.

Narrow Escape From Triple Fatality

Three Persons in Charlotte Street Residence Escape Asphyxiation by Narrowest Possible Margin on Sunday Morning at an Early Hour—All Were in Unconscious Condition for Some Time.

TIMELY ACTION SAVED LIVES

By the narrowest possible margin was a triple fatality averted in a Charlotte street residence on Sunday morning at an early hour. Escaping coal gas was the cause.

The victims of the semi-asphyxiation, who were unconscious for a considerable space of time, were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Earls, and Mrs. Harper. A new furnace was installed in the residence of Mr. Earls, last week, and on Saturday night was left in an almost completed state by the workmen, who stated that it might be utilized were a small fire placed in it.

This was done on Saturday night, and at an early hour on the following morning Mrs. Earls awoke with a headache and a stifling sensation. Arising, she went to the window with the intention of opening it, but after raising the sash, had nothing which she could place beneath it to hold it up. After lowering it she immediately fell in an unconscious condition to the floor. Mr. Earls arose hurriedly and going to the window secured a cane which, he attempted to place beneath the window when it fell from his hands to the pavement beneath, and he also sank to the floor in a helpless state.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Harper, occupied an adjoining room, was fortunately awakened by the noise, and hastened to investigate the cause. She, happily, at once perceived the situation; and not a moment too soon. Seizing a boot which lay convenient she thrust it beneath the sash, and securing some water gave Mr. and Mrs. Earls a drink. Scarcely had she succeeded in doing this till she, also, became overcome with the fumes and fell prostrate.

But for her timely action, there can be no doubt that complete asphyxiation would inevitably have resulted within the space of a very few minutes. Strange to say neither Mrs. Harper nor Mr. Earls felt any sense of sickness when they first arose, but were overcome suddenly in each case.

All recovered from their dangerous condition after some time, owing to the opening of the window.

The cane dropped through the window, was carried off by some men who were passing. It was a keeping been the property of the late Robert Harper, by whom it was given to his son, and it is to be hoped will be at once returned.

Alderman Scott Will Retire

The City Council of 1906 will be without the services of one of the most valued members in the person of Ald. Scott, who has been a member of the council since the union of the two municipalities. He was also a councillor in the Village of Ashburnham for a year prior to the union. With his colleague, Ald. Adams, Ald. Scott has seen some changes in civic governments during the last three years. They were members of the last village council, the first council since the union, and in the first council of the City of Peterborough.

He stated to the Examiner to-day that in justice to himself he felt that he would have to retire from the council for a year at least. He wished to devote more time to his business interests, which was his only reason for retiring.

Two Sub-Divisions Are Added For Coming Election

The Deputy Returning Officers Appointed and Polling Places Decided On—One New Sub-Division in Wards Numbers One and Four—Nominations Take Place on Friday, 22nd December—Boundaries of New Sub-Divisions—Election on January 1st.

At the meeting of the council last night, the deputy returning officers for the coming municipal elections were appointed, and the polling places decided upon.

This year there are two additional polling sub-divisions, one each in the first and fourth wards.

The polling places and deputy returning officers are :

Polling sub-division No. 1, M. H. Halpin's shop, No. 39 George street, deputy returning officer, Josiah Robertson.

Polling sub-division No. 2, L. Spry's shop, 210 Stewart street, deputy returning officer, Jos. Lundy.

Polling sub-division No. 3, F. L. Robinson's, No. 227 Charlotte street, deputy returning officer, F. J. A. Hall.

Polling sub-division No. 4, City Council Chamber, deputy returning officer, R. W. Errett.

Polling sub-division No. 5, Mrs. Green's store, No. 352 Charlotte street deputy returning officer, J. M. Greene.

Polling sub-division No. 6, J. W. Metherel's shop, 464 Aylmer street, deputy returning officer, Jos. W. Metherel.

Polling sub-division No. 7, John James' store, 332 McDonel street, deputy returning officer, John Irwin.

Polling sub-division No. 8, William Lee's shop, Smith street, deputy returning officer, William Lee.

Polling sub-division No. 9, John Mann's shop, corner George and Edinburgh streets; deputy returning officer, George H. Howson.

Polling sub-division No. 10, former Village Hall, Hunter street, deputy returning officer, John Malone.

Polling sub-division No. 11, Mrs. Swanston's shop, Hunter street east, deputy returning officer, Jas. McDonald.

The present boundaries of the polling sub-divisions are :

Ward No. 1, polling sub-division No. 1.—All that part of Ward No. 1, lying south of Perry street, Albert street, and the southern limit of lot No. 30, registered plan No. 30, for the city of Peterborough.

Polling sub-division No. 2—All that part of Ward No. 1 lying north of polling sub-division, south of Sherbrooke street.

Polling sub-division No. 3—All that part of Ward No. 1 lying north of Sherbrooke street.

Ward No. 2, polling sub-division No. 4—All that part of Ward No. 2 lying east of Bethune street.

Polling sub-division No. 5—All that part of Ward No. 2 lying west of Bethune street.

Ward No. 3, polling sub-division No. 6—All that part of Ward No. 3 lying east of Bethune street.

Polling sub-division No. 7—All that part of Ward No. 2 lying west of Bethune street.

Ward No. 4, polling sub-division No. 8—All that part of Ward No. 4 lying south of Smith street, and east of George street, and all that part of said ward lying north of Smith street, east of Benson avenue, and east of the boundary line between the city and Smith.

Polling sub-division No. 9—All that part of Ward No. 4 not included in polling sub-division No. 8.

Ward No. 5—The boundaries in this Ward are unchanged, the only difference being in the numbers of the polling sub-divisions, No. 8 being changed to No. 10, and No. 9 to No. 11.

The nominations this year will take place on Friday, December 22, and the polls on January 1st.

City Council's Last Regular 1905 Meeting

Many Matters of Importance Were Discussed at the Meeting Last Night--Claims for Damages for Injury to Horses—Reports Were Presented—Many Formal By-Laws Passed--Water Street Sewer to be Constructed.

MILK INSPECTION WAS DISCUSSED

There was a number of reports of committees and bylaws at the last night's meeting of the City Council for the year, held last night, and three hours time were taken up in the transaction of the business. Those present at the meeting were:—Mayor Best, And Ald. Johnston, Begley, Hicks, Mason, Crowe, Tovey, McIntyre, Scott, Adams, Batten.

The minutes were taken as read.

Communications.

The following communications were read and dealt with as indicated:—

From J. S. Robertson, secretary of the National Sanatorium Association, requesting assistance towards carrying on the work of the Association, and enclosing reports of the work in Muskoka.—Received.

From John A. Robertson, secretary Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, with reference to taking necessary precautions towards having the fire-fighting appliances in first class order, in view of the dangers created by the cold weather.—Received.

From H. Edmondson, stating that while driving on Reid street on Wednesday night, Nov. 29th, at the corner of King street, he drove into an embankment in the centre of the street, his horse falling and breaking the shaft, and harness, causing damages to the extent of $2.50, including time, for which he asked payment.—Referred to Legal Committee.

From City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall, enclosing receipt from Mr. Bell, the Division Court Clerk, for $18.83, paid into court in the case of Blodgett vs. Curtis.—Received.

From T. Q. Quartermaine, enclosing, at the request of Mr. D. Hughes Charles, the notice of the second annual issue of the Commercial Hand Book of Canada.—Received.

From J. S. Hendrie, chairman of the Railway Committee of the Legislative Assembly, giving notice of a proposed amendment of the Railway Act and Electric Act, and stating that he would be glad to meet all those interested in the subject on Tuesday, December 5th, and the three following days, in the Committee Rooms of the Parliament Buildings, Toronto.—Received.

From the Empire Accident and Surety Company, requesting to be allowed to tender for the fidelity business of the municipality for the coming year.—Finance Committee.

From the Davis-Thompson Company with reference to the city's policy in the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company.—Received.

From C. Blewitt, Rubidge street, stating claim for damages by reason of an accident on London street west of Bethune street, on November 9th, when his horse stumbled into a hole.—Legal Committee.

From Alfred E. Brittain, applying for the position of Truant Officer.—Received.

From Thomas Dale, 56 George street, asking for a means of reaching a sidewalk from his premises, without being compelled to wade through mud, as he has had to do for nineteen years.—Received.

From City Solicitor, E. H. D. Hall, stating that he had paid into Court as instructed by the Legal Committee the sum of $5.00 in full of claim of Zimri Blodgett, against the city, together with $1.75 costs, which Mr. Blodgett has accepted.—Received.

Petitions were received, requesting that a street lamp be placed upon the west end of Bolivar street.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Requesting that a 32 c.p. light be placed at the corner of Reid and Murray streets.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Requesting that a light be placed on Water street, between King and Sherbrooke streets.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

In reference to last petition, Ald. Johnston reported verbally that lights were needed, but the council took no action.

Ald. Mason presented the following report of the Finance Committee:—

Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That an account from the Water Commissioners for injury to a pipe be returned to them with the request that it be sent to the sewer contractor, Mr. R. Sheehy.

2. That as the Peterborough Hardware Company did not keep the City supplied with cement and 36 barrels had to be purchased at an extra cost of $10.80, that amount be charged to that company.

3. That R. Howland be paid $15 as park constable for the past season.

4. That no action be taken on the request of V. Creebar for permission to have a pop-corn stand on Simcoe or Hunter streets.

5. That the following accounts be paid:—

By-Laws.

Ald. Hicks introduced a bylaw to fix the assessment of the Central Milling Company in accordance with the agreement already reported. The amount of the assessment is $12,000 for 10 years. The bylaw was passed.

A bylaw authorizing the execution of contracts for snow-ploughing for the year 1905-06 was passed, as was also that to appoint the polling places and Deputy Returning Officers for the elections for 1906, introduced by Ald. Hicks.

Ald Batten moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize a contract with D. Bellegham for the care and service of the Dan Spence Ambulance, and was passed.

A bylaw authorizing the construction of granolithic walks as reported in the Board of Work's report, was passed.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the construction of a sewer on Waterloo street from Smith to Hilliard streets, for sanitary grounds. The bylaw was carried, Ald. Mason objecting on behalf of the residents of the east side of Water street, who were already assessed for a sewer on the east side of their property.

A bylaw authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Dominion Government for the transfer of the swing on the Locks Bridge, was introduced by Ald. Adams and passed.

Running at Large of Dogs.

Ald. Begley moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the council pass a bylaw prohibiting the running at large of dogs (except in leash) in the city of Peterborough, which was carried.

Ald. Johnston called the attention of the council to the fact that the city had no milk inspector, and suggested that the time had arrived for the appointment of one. The opinion of the council was that it should be left with the council of 1906 to deal with.

WOMAN'S NEED

AT THE CRITICAL PERIODS OF HER LIFE AND HOW IT IS BEST SUPPLIED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

We are sometimes asked why Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so successful in curing the ailments peculiar to women, and this is the explanation:

The feminine organism is a regular network of nerves, and consequently requires an enormous quantity of rich, nourishing blood.

At the critical times such as the dawn of womanhood, the child-bearing and nursing age and the change of life, nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate.

The blood is drawn away from other parts of the body, and the result is neuralgic pains and aches, torture of the digestive system, and a run-down condition of the body generally.

Dr Chase's Nerve Food supplies exactly what is most needed at these times—the very elements from which rich blood and vital nerve force are made.

Women who suffer from weakness and irregularities from painful periods and distressing headaches, from tired worn-out feelings, and the disorders of the digestion, will be surprised at the benefits obtained from the use of the great food cure of Dr. Chase.

Mrs. Chas. Keeling, Sr., Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"It is a pleasure to tell what great benefits I have derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I am fifty five years of age, and for about five years my life was one of great suffering from nervousness, weakness and extreme physical exhaustion. I could not sleep and hot flashes would pass through my body from feet to head. I consulted our family physician and two other doctors, but they told me about my time of life I was likely to be troubled that way. I continually grew worse, and despaired of ever being cured. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food came to my notice, and as we have Dr. Chase's Receipt Book, I had confidence in the doctor. I was so surprised at the help I received from the first box that I brought three more. They built me right up, and made me feel healthy and strong again. They have proven a great blessing to me, and I hope this testimonial will be of help to some weak, nervous woman suffering as I did."

It is well worth your while to put and while the blood and nerves are being revitalized and the form rounded out, note your increase in weight, so that you may have positive proof of the blood-forming value of this great medicine. 50 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on every box. 8

What is a Backache?

IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO WOMEN

Diseases of Woman's Organism Cured and Consequent Pain Stopped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"It seems as though my back would break." Women utter these words over and over again, but continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, "bearing down" pains, nervousness and no ambition for any task.

They do not realize that the back is the mainspring of woman's organism, and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the womb or kidneys, and that the aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has been the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily cures all womb and kidney disorders and restores the female organs to a healthy condition.

Here is one cure among thousands:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with ovarian trouble, having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure, and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought me back to good health.

"It seems to be a medicine especially adapted to the ills of our sex and I am glad to say a good word for it.—Mrs. Albert Mann, 154 Gore Vale Ave., Toronto, Ont.

No other person can give such helpful advice to women who are sick as can Mrs. Pinkham. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice free.

Clever Artists' Work on View This Afternoon

First Annual Exhibition of the Peterborough Womans' Art Association—A Splendid Collection of Art at 168 Brock Street—Many Local Artists Show Specimens of Their Work—A Most Successful Exhibition.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC TO-MORROW AFTERNOON

(Contributed.)

The first annual exhibition of Arts and Crafts, held by the Peterborough Branch of the Woman's Art Association of Canada, was opened at three o'clock this afternoon, at 168 Brock street, this afternoon's view being for members only. The exhibition opens to the public to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, and during each afternoon during the week.

On entering the room one's attention is first attracted to the splendid display of homespuns by the French peasant women of Quebec, and the handsome embroideries of the Doukobor women of the Northwest, but as these are to be more fully dealt with to-morrow, it is unnecessary to make further reference to them here.

The array of pictures hung around the walls then claim their share of careful examination. Of course all of them are studies from the original. Miss Gormley, of Toronto, has several excellent studies of trees done in water colours, which show more than ordinary merit. Miss Hatton has some very fine sketches taken amid the beautiful scenery of Muskoka, a few of these being dainty little sepias done on birch-bark. One of particular interest is a sketch in oil, of the old ferry at Gaunt's Narrows, Pigeon Lake. There is also another very pretty little water colour of a study of birch trees. Among Miss Bennett's collection is a very natural glimpse of the drive way in Jackson Park, in oil; also the head of an Italian girl, also in oil. Another picture which sets forth the ability of this artist is a water colour of an elderly lady, a resident of Peterborough. Miss Bertram is showing several water colour studies of roses, and one particularly good one of red geraniums; also an outdoor study in oil. Miss Cameron, of Indian River, has a number of pretty water colour sketches, one, "Evening on the Indian River," being especially worthy of mention. Mrs. Palmer has a number of small but excellent water colours, taken abroad, among them being sketches of the chalk cliffs, England, pretty views along the coast of North Wales, and the French coast near Boulogne, and an exceptionally pretty one taken in the lake district of England, in Cumberland. Miss Lillian Dean and Miss May Preston, are two girl students who are showing some splendid water colour objects in still life. Miss Powell has some good studies in oil.

Among the china work, one notices some unusually handsome pieces decorated by Miss Bertram, who is very talented indeed, one particularly exquisite piece being a tankard ornamented with a conventional design of grapes. Another is a beautiful vase, with yellow sun-flowers on a deep, rich brown relief. A very pretty little tea set is decorated with alternate panels of pale blue, trimmed with gold and white, with delicate sprays of roses and forget-me-nots. A fern bowl and ornament in the form of a low pitcher have pansies on rich dark backgrounds designed after the Rockwood style of pottery. Miss Bertram's collection of china is so varied, and so exceptionally good, that it is indeed difficult to do it justice. Miss Cameron shows a few plates in conventional design. Miss Estelle Ackerman is also an exhibitor, showing a five o'clock set, with Dresden decoration, a vase ornamented with roses, and several other pieces.

There is also quite a display of wood carving shown by Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. R. S. Davidson and Miss C. Anderson; Mrs. Hall showing two tabourettes, one butter-nut and the other walnut, a tray and oval picture frame; Mrs. Davidson, a tabourette; and Miss Anderson a mahogany tabourette, trays and picture frames. They are excellent specimens of this popular art.

Mrs. Hughes Charles is serving tea this afternoon, and Mrs. Dunsford will take charge to-morrow afternoon, when everyone interested in any, or all, of the branches of the work, is invited to attend.

ALL IT NEEDED

There is more real oxygen in a liquified form in the "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" than in any other preparation of a similar nature. As a prompt cure in the killing of all inside germs of thirst, lungs, stomach or bowels, it has no equal when coupled with "Celery King" the famous laxative. That the stringent Ozone needed a tonic of this nature to procure the best results was so apparent that the Public Drug Co., of Bridgeburg, Ont., offer through your druggist a free package of "Celery King" with every fifty cent or one dollar bottle of "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind.)" Hastings Man "Hits the Can"

Advised by Court Physician to Recuperate on Lake Shore.

James Clure, who hails from Hastings, walked up the stairs from his barred bedroom this morning in a somewhat bewildered condition. James drank too much tanglefoot yesterday and as a result was given free apartments at the police station.

When asked to plead this morning he said he was guilty, and as the police station provides nothing but the best of accommodation, he was taxed two dollars for his night's lodging.

"Have you the money to pay the fine?" asked the court.

"I think so," was the reply.

"You've lots of money," remarked the chief, as James pulled out a big wad.

"It's not right to make me pay two dollars," said McClure.

Police Magistrate Dumble hinted that it would be in the best interests of the prisoner to leave the town. A friend (who was present) said he would look after him and see that he didn't drink any more today while in Peterborough.

He will likely leave for the Rice Lake burg on the 2 o'clock train today.

Port Hope Has A New Chief

Brother of Late Chief Bond Was Appointed.

Port Hope, Dec. 4.—A feature of to-night's meeting of the Town Council was the appointment of John Milton Bond, of Toronto, Brother of the late Wm. A. Bond, who was recently drowned in Haliburton, to the position of Chief Constable of Port Hope. A large number of applications were received, but the new appointee's high references and well-known ability secured a practically unanimous appointment. His duties commence as soon as his resignation can be effected in Toronto.

Port Hope's new Chief is at present a constable in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway. His brother Ewen is a member of the Toronto police force, doing special duty at the Union Station.—Globe.

As a rule crossing has been made in other years in November.

Illustrated Lecture At All Saint's

Large Audience Attended Lecture Given by Rev. Canon Dixon Last Night—Views, Illustrative of Incidents During the Boer War, Were Presented—Graphic Descriptive Address—Pathetic Story of a Young Officer.

COLLECTION FOR MISSION FUND

There was a large attendance last night at the illustrated lecture given by Rev. Canon Dixon, of Toronto, at All Saints' Church. The event was a most enjoyable one and the views presented as well as the accompanying lecture were most pleasing as well as instructive.

Rev. W. Major, rector of the church, opened the meeting with a few collects, after which he explained the purpose of the lecture, and remarked briefly upon the position occupied by Rev. Canon Dixon, as Secretary of the Board of Diocesan Missions.

The lecture, it was explained, was founded upon an incident in connection with the Boer war. About twenty-five pictures, illustrative of various events during the war, were presented and described, a number of these being in connection with the Canadian contingent. The slides were operated by Rev. Mr. Major.

The lecture proper, which was given by Rev. Canon Dixon, was a pathetic story of the incidents attaching to the military career of a young officer during the war. Beginning with the circumstances surrounding the boyhood days and adolescent period of his home in England, of the subject of the sketch, the lecturer traced graphically the pathetic and at times dramatic sequence of events which followed.

The boy, filled with a military spirit, had some time before the outbreak of hostilities, a strong desire to enter upon a military career. This met with opposition upon the part of his parents who tried to change the course of his inclinations. Being unsuccessful in this, they finally consented to the carrying out of his desires, and placed him in a Cadet College, where he later passed his examinations, and was gazetted to a Commission shortly before the issuing of Kruger's ultimatum.

The young man, who was at this time attached to the West Yorkshire Regiment, was ordered to the front, and just previous to his departure visited his home. When leaving to join his regiment he was presented by his mother with a Bible, with the request that he should read a portion each day, and also that he should keep her informed from time to time of his movements. Embarking upon a troop ship at Southampton, he later fell under the malign influence of evil associates, neglecting the promises made previous to his departure.

After passing through several engagements with considerable credit in a military sense, he fell wounded in a skirmish with the enemy, being left upon the field in an unconscious condition. Picked up later by one of the Army readers, it was discovered that the leaden missle had struck in a position just above his heart, though happily, through the presence of the Bible it had not penetrated his body, but had remained lodged between the last page and the cover of the book.

The incident naturally created a deep impression upon the young man and through it he was led to conversion. Being invalided home, he hastened to visit his parents but was met by the sad intelligence of the death of his mother, who previous to the end was unacquainted with the whereabouts of her son. The affliction had fallen upon his father's heart by the bereavement was, however, lightened by the gladsome information given by the son of the saving of his life, as well as of his soul, by the Bible presented by his mother.

The evening's programme was interspersed by the singing of a number of hymns. A most satisfactory collection was taken up in aid of the Diocesan Mission Fund.

More Terrible Than War!

More terrible than war, famine or pestilence is that awful destroyer, that hydra-headed monster, Consumption, that annually sweeps away more of earth's inhabitants than any other single disease known to the human race.

"It is only a cold, a trifling cough," say the careless, as the irritation upon the delicate mucous membrane causes them to hack away with an irritable tickling of the throat. When the irritation settles on the mucous surface of the throat, a cough is the result. To prevent Bronchitis or Consumption of the Lungs, do not neglect a cough however slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages soon leads to fatal results. If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of you would save yourself a great deal of unnecessary suffering. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the life-giving properties of the pine trees of Norway, and for Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Throat and Lung affections it is a specific. Be sure when you ask for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup to get it. Don't be humbugged into taking something else. Price 25 cts.

Miss Lena Johnston, Toledo, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for throat trouble often taking numerous other remedies, and I must say that nothing can take the place of it. I would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

As the proverbial early bird catches the proverbial early worm, so the early Christmas shopper will catch the best selections and the most satisfactory service. Every shop which is worth patronizing will have laid in its stock of wares for the holiday buyers. There are several reasons why shopping of this kind should be done early. In the first place because, as you, like the rest of us, are human, it is to your own interest and an appeal to self interest is generally the strongest kind of appeal that can be made.

The second reason springs from exactly opposite motives. You should think of other unselfishly while you are thinking of yourself selfishly. This is all the more to be done because you propose doing your buying in recognition of the Christmas season, the anniversary of the time when the reign of thought for others, the reign of the golden rule, was ushered in. Think of yourself as an early buyer—getting access to, and first choice of, good, unhandled goods, in first class order and condition, accompanied by the services of salesmen with more leisure to attend to your wants, but also think of the harrassed salesman and salesgirl at the rush of the season, caused by belated buyers, who add to the perplexities and harrassment of salesmen, who are put upon the rush from morning to night. In a thousand cases out of a thousand and one you won't get discourteous treatment or scant attention if you select your time for selection of holiday gifts, when there is no rush on. But if you procrastinate—if you wait till the last moment—you stand a chance to receive involuntary discourtesy and unavoidable neglect. You wouldn't like the reflection that you had been contributing to the physical break-down of a shop girl, run off her feet in the effort to serve half a dozen customers—each first — that wouldn't be a very pleasant feeling to carry into the day of universal rejoicing and of peace and good will.

Moral.—Do your shopping early — take the morning lull in trade to gloat over the beautiful things which in exhaustless opulence of invention greet us in newer and, it seems, more beautiful forms. You buy at leisure and are less likely to repent, than if you waited for the rush-tide with the chances of indifferently suiting yourself and adding to the worry and inconvenience of shop keepers and their staff of assistants. By shopping early you catch them in good humour and stand chances of getting better bargains, than if you waited the season of impetuous hustle, when an angel who would keep a smiling exterior as the reflection of internal good humour would be a curiosity—a freak.

LICENSE REDUCTION.

It would seem that there is considerable force in the position taken by Mayor Best and Alderman Adams, that the deputation from the Ministerial Association is asking the council to assume a responsibility which properly rests upon the License Commissioners. It is in the power of the council to fix the number of licenses to be issued, but it clearly rests with the Commissioners to take what executive action the circumstances may require. The Commissioners are charged with the duty of seeing that the hotels they license are properly conducted, and if they are not so conducted, the remedy and the responsibility rest with them. The action of the Ministerial Association is, to a certain degree, a want of confidence in the Commissioners, who, it is implied, have not the necessary backbone to do their duty. They have the Liquor License Act for their guidance, as well as the regulations and instructions of the License Department. They were appointed to office by a government whose policy was declared to be a rigid and fearless administration of the License Law, and it is not charged that the local Commissioners are neglecting their duty. It is is even asserted that, on the whole, the license law is as well enforced in Peterborough as in any city in the Dominion.

If the Ministerial Association, and those acting with them, had come to the council requesting the latter to reduce the number of licenses to be granted, because there were too many, there would have been justification for such a course. But they came to the council asking that body to cut off licenses because the holders are not observing the law, is useless. That is a matter for the cognizance of the Commissioners, and not for the council. Of course the Ministerial Association is interested in the improvement of the moral condition of the people. They have the means of attempting to reach their desires in this direction, from their pulpits, and through their pastoral relations with their flocks, which, collectively, embrace the whole population. It seems in coming to the Council to ask that body to decide upon the character of hotels and to select those which are improperly conducted, the deputation failed to appreciate their action. As remarked, the law gives the Council power to limit the number of licenses to be issued, but it imposes upon the Commissioners the duty of deciding what licenses, from the viewpoint of improper management, shall be struck off.

The suggestion of the deputation to submit the matter to the ratepayers at the coming elections seems to be useless. No matter what the people say upon the subject, the Commissioners are not bound to accept the popular decision. The Council might be guided by such a vote in the matter of making an abstract numerical reduction of licenses, but it would still remain for the Commissioners to decide which houses should be cut off on the grounds of improper management or other considerations which would appeal to their official responsibility.

Have the Commissioners asked the Ministerial Association to relieve them of the responsibility which attaches to their office? The Ross Government was very roundly denounced in some quarters, because, pounced in some quarters, because instead of accepting the responsibility of passing a prohibitory law, they procured a plebiscite to decide whether public opinion would be behind such a law to an extent to warrant its adoption with a view of reasonable success in the way of enforcement, and no doubt some members of the local Ministerial Association did not altogether abstain from such denunciation. Now the Association is asking practically that the Commissioners who seem to be willing to do their duty, and able to do their duty, should shirk their responsibility and take refuge behind a vote of the Council or a vote of the people.

Canadian Literature Enriched

Book of the Collected Poems of Miss Isabella Valancy Crawford, of Peterborough, Soon to be Issued—Published Under the Collaboration of Miss Ethelwyn Wetherald and Mr. J. W. Garvin, The Latter Editing the Poems.

AMONG THE FOREMOST OF CANADIAN POETS

The collected, collated and edited poems of the late Isabella Valancy Crawford, of Peterborough, will be published (Wm. Briggs) complete in book form on Saturday. This book will be a remarkable addition to Canadian poetical literature. The poems have been very carefully edited and arranged by Mr. J. W. Garvin. That gentleman was in the city yesterday and showed the Examiner press proofs of the forthcoming book, which will be, for mechanical and material workmanship, well worthy of the genius thus enshrined. The volume which will contain an appreciative and sympathetic introduction by another Canadian poetess of high standing, Miss Ethelwyn Wetherald, will be a book of about 300 pages, printed on excellent paper, in bold, clear type, in pleasing binding. The frontispiece of the book will consist of a fine portrait of the author, a very striking introduction, for the face of Isabella Valancy Crawford with its modest comeliness, rare refinement and beautiful intellectuality gives promise of the refinement, tenderness and literary, as well as ethical quality, of the poems which follow. Miss Wetherald and Mr. Garvin, who have collaborated in the production of this beautiful book of verse, have done so as a tribute to the genius of Crawford and as a contribution to the promotion of the interests of Canadian literature, without any other reward than the gratitude of the Canadian people. The proceeds from the royalty on the sale of the volume will be turned over entirely to Mr. Wm Crawford, a brother of the poet, who at present resides in Thessalon, New Ontario.

The forthcoming volume should find a place in every Canadian home and especially in Peterborough, where Miss Crawford spent the last year of her life, and where her name is so prominently associated with her poetical achievements, and her charming personality, so lovingly remembered by many.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Robt. Fair is in Millbrook today.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton, Warton, is in the city to-day.

Mr. F. C. Cubitt was in Bowmanville yesterday on business.

The Never Learn Club, which for two or three seasons ran very successful dances during the winter season, are reorganizing for the season of 1905-06.

It is not the intention of the club to run fortnightly dances as was the custom heretofore, but will, during the season, hold several dances, the date of the first of which will be announced within a few days. The many who have in the past enjoyed the delightful functions arranged by the club will look forward with pleasure to the event.

English Grand Concert Company

Success! Yes, An Unbounded Success—Absolute and Emphatic.

This excellent concert company, consisting of Miss Hope Morgan, soprano; Madame Beatrice Langley, violiniste; Mr. Stanley Adams, baritone; and Miss Myrtle Meggy, pianiste, has scored a tremendous success all along the line wherever they have given concerts, and rightly so, for the English Grand Concert Company has been criticized and spoken of as one of the best companies that has ever visited Canada. Everywhere that concerts have been given, each individual member has received the heartiest reception, and has been accorded nothing but praise on all sides. The company appears here on Thursday evening, December 7th. A musical treat is promised to all who attend the concert. Plan of hall is now open at the opera house. 1t

"Anchor Ice" Was Again Troublesome

"Anchor Ice" was the cause of some trouble at the power house of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, last night, and the American Cereal Company's mill had to be closed. There was sufficient water passing through the wheels to operate the lighting and street railway generators, but the power for the mill was closed.

The trouble was experienced all night, but with the morning it was remedied.

The other dams were free from trouble, and as soon as the river is frozen over the danger from this source will be ended.

Hockey Game For Christmas Week

Local Executive Met Last Night at The Oriental.

The Executive of Peterborough Hockey Club met last night at the Oriental when some business relative to the arrangements for the season was transacted.

It was decided to submit a proposition to the management of the Brock Street Rink for the use of the ice for practices and games.

The secretary was also instructed to correspond with the Queen's and Smith's Falls' teams to arrange, if possible an exhibition game to be played here during Christmas week.

Mr. C. G. Graham will go to Port Hope in the course of a few days to arrange the schedule for the district, which comprises Peterborough, Cobourg and Port Hope. A meeting of the Junior players will be held in the course of a few days to make arrangements for the season.

The "High Lifes" Met Last Night

The "High Lifes" threaten to break into hockey this year and establish a "rep". The well-known organization contains a large number of fast puck-chasers, and should be a live factor in City League circles. The club, at a meeting last night decided to enter a team in this league and "look good" to go some distance before they are stopped. Mr. George Campbell was elected president.

Another feature of last night's meeting was the decision to hold a banquet Thursday, December 14th. The event promises to be most enjoyable.

HOCKEY

They Were Somewhat Frightened.

A hockey club composed of small boys caught the hockey fever yesterday and went into a clothing store on George street and ordered elaborate outfits for the coming winter. It dawned upon them later that their finances were at too low an ebb for the club to stand the expense and some of the members hastily rushed into the store and gave the proprietor instructions to cancel the order at once. They were frightened, too, their juvenile imaginations probably conjuring up horrible visions of prosecution for giving an order under false pretenses or some other seeming serious charge. The boys must have been very small indeed, as, judging from their hasty action they had not read that wise saw in the primary reader:—"Count not your chickens before they are hatched."

Their fears were groundless, however, and the dry goods man lovingly assured them that no trouble would follow. But they certainly were victims of the hockey fever—delirious in fact.

Woodstock will play in the Senior O. H. A. this year.

• • • •

The Emerald Hockey Club met and re-organized for the coming season on Saturday night. The team will be:—Goal—H. Hill; point, N. Payne; cover point, H. Outrem; rover, J. Doherty; centre, Ray Hoar; left wing, Max Bradburn; right wing, Elmer Bogue.

The officers elected were:—

President—H. A. Wood.
Vice President—Jas. Bogue.
Secretary—A. Bradburn.
Treasurer—H Outrem.
Manager—Elmer Bogue.
Captain—John Doherty.

The team will probably play at the Y.M.C.A. rink.

• • • •

All junior hockey players are asked to attend the organization meeting at the Oriental to-night at 7.30.

• • • •

Mr. Fred. Whitcroft had an offer a short time ago to play for Houghton Mich., at a salary of $40 a week. At the time the Toronto Globe said that in spite of his statement, the salaries paid in the professional league was only $25 a week. It is a pleasure to enlighten the Globe upon this point and to inform them that $40 a week is what Whitcroft was offered as is shown by the fact that that's what the international league is paying its players now.

• • • •

Lindsay will organize a Town Hockey League to-morrow night at eight o'clock. A meeting of the local City Hockey League will soon be held.

• • • •

There are an even dozen teams in the Montreal Drug Hockey League. Every a chance for plenty of hockey "dope" for the Montreal newspapers.

• • • •

The Federal League will meet in Morrisburg next Saturday. Morrisburg talks of entering a team in that league. Pretty slow hockey in Morrisburg so far, anyway.

• • • •

Varsity challenged the champion Montreals for the city championship last week. The Examiner challenged the Review for the city championship a short time ago and that journal said the deft was premature. It looks like a deliberate case of flunking. Perhaps the "big me" of the Review seven will pick up the glove now. A few days ago he was only too anxious to acquiese in this respect, that is in the matter of picking up the glove.

• • • •

The double schedule in the local hockey district should again be arranged, in the furtherance of the best interests of the game. It affords the assurance of eight games each for Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterborough, and is certain to awaken a live and continued interest.

• • • •

That juvenile hockey will boom in Peterborough this winter is shown by the fact that a number of young hockeyists have already secured their uniforms for the coming winter. The Emeralds have ordered their sweaters which are green and white, and the Northern Lights will appear in natty uniforms of red and white sweaters with red trimmings, red and white stockings and red and white touques. The uniforms of both these teams will be displayed in Lang and Maher's show window in the course of a week or ten days.

RUGBY.

Charlie Wilkinson, Brockville, in last night's News, says that the Quebec rules with few modifications, provide has appeared in the columns of the Quebec Union require extensive modifications before they attain anything like the ideal.

• • • •

The following despatch from Ottawa has appeared in the specolumns of the London Free Press, Galt Reformer and other Western papers:—

"Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The Peterborough football team has defaulted in the match to be played here to-morrow with the Rough Rider juniors for the intermediate championship.

Peterborough took this action on the allegation that they had been given an unfair deal in the appointment of the officials. Ottawa to-day sent the following to Peterborough:—

"Ottawa wants no advantage; bring your own referee for snap-back game."

Peterborough replied that it was too late and the matter would be referred to the Union."

The only defence Ottawa has is that one telegram and it's a pretty slim excuse at the best.

THE TURF.

A Knockout for the Hackneys.

The breeding of hackneys may answer for men of great wealth and large incomes, but the average American farmer will find it much more profitable to breed from the best of trotting stock, says American Cultivator. He should aim to produce animals of good size, high intelligence, pleasant disposition, a pure trotting gait and high, all round action. There is always a good demand for such animals and at prices that will ensure a profit to the man who breeds and raises them provided they are properly educated to harness and well fitted for the market.

• • • •

The following remedy for mange that will interest local horsemen whose animals are, or are liable to be, afflicted with this dreaded ailment, has been clipped from the Atlanta Constitution:—

Take one quart melted hog's lard, add one teacupful of kerosene oil, two cupfuls dry flowers of sulphur; mix these all together thoroughly while the lard is warm. When nearly cold, add one ounce of carbolic acid crystals. Melt the crystals and stir very thoroughly in the mixture. Apply warm by using a swab and rubbing it in very thoroughly twice a week. This remedy is also excellent to remove the lice on animals. It will do it with no harm to the animal if it should happen to lick it. When applied for mange, use freely and rub in very thoroughly.

Peterborough, December 5,

Sporting Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The Turf Club should take some action to have the track at the exhibition grounds flooded. They could easily get teams to draw water and the city would sell them water from the hydrant near the corner of Ware and Lock streets. The hydrant at this point is in close proximity to the Exhibition Grounds and it behooves the officials of the club to get busy at once.

There are a number of horsemen in Peterborough who possess speed fast animals and it would be more satisfactory to them to work out their horses in Peterborough and see what they can do than to take them to Ottawa— — the entries for the fair races at that city by the way close on the 15th of this month—without a definite knowledge of their speeding ability.

It would be a good idea to put "pacing" on the local track and test the speed of the horses if their owners want a piece of a "cake" in Ottawa.

Thanking you for your valuable space

Yours truly,

"ICEMAN."

The suggestion of "Iceman" should be favourably regarded by local turfmen.

BASKET-BALL.

The Arrows and Harriers will play the third game of their series to-morrow night at Y.M. As each team has won one game there will be a hard struggle for the third. A silver collection will be taken at the door to defray expenses.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, told his congregation that he believed in damnation. "The apparent cruelties attributed to God," he said, "are not a circumstance to the cruelties in nature. Natural laws pay no more attention to man than to a dog."

Dear Mother

Your little ones are a constant care in Fall and Winter weather. They will catch cold. Do you know about Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, and what it has done for so many? It is said to be the only reliable remedy that all diseases of the air passages in children. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. It is guaranteed to cure or your money is returned. The price is 25c. per bottle, and all dealers in medicine sell it.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Thousands of women suffer untold misery every day with aching backs that really have no business to ache. A woman's back wasn't made to ache. Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to help her bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Hours of misery at leisure or at work. If women only knew the cause. Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause in the world.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it's not to be wondered that they get out of order. Backache is simply their cry for help.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

will help you. They're helping sick, overworked kidneys—all over the world—making them strong, healthy and vigorous. Mrs. P. Ryan, Douglas, Ont., writes: "For over five months I was troubled with lame back and was unable to move without help. I tried all kinds of plasters and liniments but they were no use. At last I heard tell of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had used three-quarters of the box my back was as strong and well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or Three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Red Rose Tea is Clean Tea

CLEANLINESS is as necessary to tea quality as to any other food.

Tea rolled by hand, cured by hand, weighed, blended and packed by hand may or may not be clean.

Every operation of making Red Rose Tea, on the plantation and in the warehouses performed by machines, the rolling and curing, the packing and weighing are all done by scrupulously clean automatic machinery.

Red Rose Tea is never touched by human hands from the picking to your kitchen.

Red Rose Tea is always clean. It cannot be otherwise, because it has no possible chance of contamination.

Its "rich, fruity flavor" cannot be impaired by foreign substance of any sort whatever.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

Supervision Committee.

The Supervision Committee reported as follows:—

Your committee beg leave to report that during the last month they visited each department of all the schools in the city.

In the Central, North Ward, East Ward and George street schools, favourable conditions exist, and the teachers have the opportunity of doing efficient work.

In the South Central and West Ward Schools conditions are not satisfactory. In the former several of the rooms, and in the latter all, are over-crowded, and it is not possible for the teachers to do their work successfully. Temporary arrangements have been made but more school accommodation must be provided for the southern and western parts of the town, if the best results are to be obtained.

Your committee noticed that a large percentage of the pupils have changed from the vertical to the slant, or Spencerian, style of writing, which is a decided improvement.

The committee is of the opinion that the standard of the public schools would be raised, and the efficiency increased, if specialists are engaged for some subjects, such as writing, drawing, etc. This can be done when more accommodation is provided.

The committee recommends that the books asked for by the teachers in the Collegiate Institute be purchased, the cost not to exceed $40.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT

you feel the good that's done by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cleanses, regulates and invigorates Stomach, Liver and Bowels and so purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other exhausting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from foul or Weak Stomach, a torpid Liver or impure Blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Don't be hypnotized, wheedled, or over persuaded into accepting a substitute only that some selfish medicine seller may make a greater profit on the inferior article. The "Discovery" has a great record of nearly forty years with thousands of cures behind it.

Dear Sir—Several years ago my blood became impoverished and I became run down in health. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and was practically unfitted for work. Suffered from innumerable boils and was in bad shape. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery relieved me of my wretched condition. The medicine built up my system and restored me to a normal condition of health. I can speak most highly also of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has been used in my family for years in cases of female trouble.

Communications.

The following communications were received:

From C. Feesenden, requesting that, in view of the dangerous condition, owing to ice, of the sidewalk in front of the Collegiate Institute, the caretaker be supplied with sand, with instructions to heat and sprinkle it upon the ice.—Referred to the Property Committee.

From Mr. J. E. Hodgson, expressing his thanks to the members of the Board for the consideration shown during his recent illness.—Received.

From A. H. Leake, Inspector of Technical Education, Toronto, stating that he had been directed by the Minister of Education to place his services at the disposal of the Board for lectures upon technical studies during the coming winter.—Referred to the Supervision Committee with power to act.

From Hon. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education, enclosing a copy of the Inspector's report of the cadet corps and notifying the Board that the usual grant of $50 will be paid in the course of the next ten days. Following is the report: Date of inspection, June 9, 1905. Present on parade, officers 3, N. C. O. and men 41; total 44. Arms and accoutrements good, squad drill good, company drill good, manual exercise good, firing exercise fair, ceremonial drill good, armoury very good, officers fair, extended order good.

O. Douglas Young, Lt.-Col. Inspecting Officer.

Received.

From Sergt.-Major Brittain, resigning his position as military instructor, and notifying the Board that his services would be at their service if the physical training classes are reopened.—The resignation was received on motion of Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Burnham.

Motions.

Mr. Rogers' notice of motion to the effect that the clause referring to the day of the regular meeting be rescinded, and that the regular meeting of the Board be held on the second Monday in each month.

The chairman of Committee on Appointments stated that the committee had advertised for a teacher for the public school, and had received a large number of applications, which were being examined by the Inspector.

Mr. Hill moved, seconded by Mr. Hartley, that the appointment of a teacher to fill Miss Ward's place be referred to the chairman of the Board, the chairman of the Committee on Appointments, and the Inspector, with power to act.—Carried.

The Property Committee at the last meeting, being instructed to inquire as to the amount of land owned by the Board in the separate school property purchased, Mr. John Crane presented the following letter regarding the matter: "I find after examination of the records in the Registry Office that the city of Peterborough has given a conveyance to the Dominion Government of lots No. 3, 4, 5 and 6 south of Murray street and west of George street, for armoury purposes.

No rights whatever have been given the Government in connection with lots 3, 4, 5 and 6 south of McDonel street. It might be as well to have instructions given that the conveyance of these lots be made to the Board of Education forthwith.

I am advised by the City Solicitor that the debentures authorized for a Collegiate Institute cannot be issued later than next spring, and that it has been suggested that a clause should be inserted in a special act, which the city is producing at the next session, to provide that these debentures may be issued at a later period.

R. M. DENNISTOUN.

Mr. Hill moved, seconded by Mr. Crane, that the solicitor of the Board be requested to obtain the deeds of lots 3, 4, 5, and 6 south of McDonel street, and that the time for issuing Collegiate Institute debentures be extended for four years.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Bylaw For Fire Improvements

The final stage as far as this year's Council is concerned of the proposal to improve the fire fighting equipment of the city was reached last night, when Ald. Johnston moved the first and second readings of the by-law authorizing the Council to borrow $25,000 to improve the fire equipment of the city. The third reading of the by-law will be given after it has been submitted to the people, in case it is endorsed by them. Ald. Crowe registered his objection to the by-law on the ground that a new steam fire engine was not required, and his views were supported by Ald. Batten, who prophesied that it would be defeated again if the amount was left at $25,000. He believed that if it was fixed at $20,000 it would carry, and moved that it be fixed at the latter amount.

Ald. Hicks thought that it would be inadvisable for the Council to object now to the by-law after the joint committee had gone into the matter duly and reported as embodied in the by-law.

Ald. Begley advised the Council that if it was to be carried it would only be by the united work of the Council.

Ald. Johnston took a bright view and said that the by-law at the last time was submitted at a time of the year when it was impossible to secure a full vote of the people. He believed that the prospects for the passing of the by-law are bright.

Ald. Tovey strongly advised that the people to be educated to the necessity of the improvements contemplated.

After the regular meeting there will be a meeting to consider the question of a hockey team organization.

NIP IT IN THE BUD

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Professor Unna, the noted Europoean skin specialist, declared that dandruff was the burrowed up cuticel of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless and in time falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and restores to the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

ASKS THE CITY COUNCIL

TO REDUCE THE LICENSES

Presented Resolutions From the Association and From Churches Last Night—Belief That City Has Too Many Licenses—No Suggestion as to the Number They Want Cut Off—The Views of the Association—Council Will Meet in Committee to Consider the Proposal—License Commissioners Invited to Attend.

At the meeting of the Council last night, the last regular meeting of the year, a deputation representing the Ministerial Association and a number of the churches waited on the members, asking that the number of liquor licenses in the city be reduced and that, with this in view, the Council, at the next municipal elections submit the question to the people. The president of the Association presented a resolution passed at the last meeting of that body, in which the Council was called upon to take steps favouring the reduction of the number of licenses in the city. The churches represented either by their clergymen or by laymen were St. John's, St. Paul's, St. Andrew's, Murray street Baptist, Park street Baptist and Mark street Methodist. Rev. Mr. Davidson announced that Rev. E. A. Langfeldt and Rev. Dr. Crothers sent word to him of their inability to be present and commissioned him to state that their churches were favourable to the proposal to reduce the number of licenses.

The action which the Council took in the matter was to refer it to the Committee of the Whole, and to invite the License Commissioners and the Ministerial Association to attend the meeting of the Committee to discuss the question.

The fact that the deputation did not specify the number of licenses which they wished cut off was commented upon by the Mayor, who stated that in his opinion the deputation should have had the courage of their convictions and given the number of licenses which they wished cut off, and specify the license-holders whom they considered should be deprived of their licenses.

The Deputation.

Rev. J. C. Davidson introduced the deputation which was composed of Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. F. J. Scott, Rev. A. H. Brace, Messrs. G. H. Williamson, W. M. Matchett, Wm. Kemp, School Inspector Lees.

In addressing the Council, Rev. J. C. Davidson, the president of the Association, stated that about a year ago the Ministerial Association had waited on the License Commissioners and requested them to reduce the number of licenses. At that time they had been referred to the City Council, the Commissioners holding the view that the first steps should be taken by the Council.

A Resolution.

At the meeting of the Ministerial Association held a month ago the matter had been fully discussed, and the resolutions which he proposed to present to the Council had been passed. The resolutions referred to were as follows:

1. That the present conditions of our city call for some reduction in the number of liquor licenses issued.

2. That such reduction should be made by the application of definite principles.

3. That among these principles are the four following:

(a) That licenses be given only to men of good moral character who realize the seriousness of their responsibilities as sellers of alcoholic stimulants.

(b) That in either the granting or taking away of licenses, politics and religion should be absolutely and entirely excluded as a factor.

(c) That the location of houses applying for licenses be considered with a view to no unnecessary harm resulting from grouping or otherwise.

(d) That licenses be granted only to those who in the past have shown a disposition to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of the present license law in all particulars.

4. That the Council take what action may seem to them advisable to effect the improvements asked for in paragraph No. 1, on the lines outlined above, whether by ascertaining the opinion of the ratepayers at the forthcoming municipal elections or by other practical means.

He wished to be allowed to say that after full consideration the Association did not wish to be harrassing the license-holders, as they recognized them to be responsible citizens, in view of which fact they had not thought it wise to suggest the number by which the licenses should be reduced.

What they wanted was that a reasonable principle should be applied to the question, and if these principles were lived up to by the license-holders they did not ask that their licenses be cut off, but they did ask that the license-holders who did not live up to those principles should have their licenses taken away.

Park Street Church.

Rev. A. H. Brace endorsed the words of the president of the Association, and introduced Deacon Kemp, who presented the following resolution from the congregation of the Park street Baptist church:—"As a church, we look upon the large number of licensed saloons (and many of them objectionably grouped together) as a menace to the morality of the city, and a direct hindrance to the spiritual life of the people and the spread of the gospel. We earnestly pray that the City Council will press upon the attention of the License Commissioners the immediate necessity of a considerable reduction of licensed houses."

Signed by the unanimous vote of the church and in their behalf.

Deacon Wm. Kemp, Wm. C. Barrie, Albert Inkpen, Fred. Ed. Hunt, Thos. G. Gillespie, Alex. Haddow, Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor.

Mark Street Church.

Mr. W. M. Matchett was next heard and read the following:

"At a meeting of the officials of Mark street Methodist church it was unanimously resolved that the pastor, Rev. J. G. Lewis, be requested to arrange for a meeting to take such action along temperance lines as will bring the matter to the notice of our City Council, requesting them to allow the citizens an opportunity of voting at the municipal elections in January, 1906, on the question of making a decided reduction in the number of licenses to be issued in this city in May, 1906."

St. Andrew's Church.

Mr. R. Lees presented a resolution from St. Andrew's church. It follows:

In view of the widespread desire among our people for the lessening of the evil and cause of intemperance, and further, that the character of some of the houses is such as to make them a menace to the welfare of the community, the session of St. Andrew's church unanimously agrees to join in petitioning the Council to make a reduction in the number of licensed houses."

Signed, R. Lees, clerk of session, Jas. G. Potter, Moderator.

Other Endorsations.

Mr. G. H. Williamson endorsed the words of the former speakers. Rev. F. J. Scott addressed the Council briefly, supporting the view of the president of the Association. Rev. Mr. Davidson announced that Rev. Dr. Crothers and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt had sent word that they would be unable to be present, but that they were in sympathy with the objects of the deputation. In response to the request of the deputation, His Worship Mayor Best said: "It strikes me that you are throwing a lot of responsibility upon this Council. Why do you not have the courage of your convictions and specify the number of licenses which you wish cut off, and also the names of the objectionable license-holders?"

Rev. J. C. Davidson explained that they had not felt called upon to do this.

Rev. A. H. Brace suggested that if the Council would pass a resolution asking the License Commissioners to reduce the number of licenses the latter would act on it, to which the Mayor assented, but said that the onus should not be thrown upon the Council.

Committee to Consider It.

Ald. Johnston moved that the matter be referred to the Committee of the Whole, and that the License Commissioners and the Ministerial Association be asked to meet the Council on Friday night to discuss it.

Ald. Adams was of the opinion that the deputation from the Ministerial Association was somewhat late in coming before the Council. He was pleased, however, to see that they were interested in the matter. The License Commissioners should, according to his opinion, take the responsibility for the enforcement of the Liquor Act, and if the licenseholders did not live up to the law the Commissioners had the remedy in their hands, and he believed those who violate the law should lose their licenses. He seconded the motion of Ald. Johnston, which was carried.

Rev. Mr. Davidson informed the Council that all the Association wanted was for the matter to be submitted to the people. The deputation then retired.

Demise Of Mrs. R. B. Martin

Death Took Place on Monday Night After a Long Illness.

Last night, Louisa Hall, wife of Mr. R. B. Martin, died at the family residence, following an illness of about a year. The deceased lady, who was fifty-four years of age, was born in Oshawa, in 1851. She was united in marriage with Mr. Martin in 1874. After their marriage they resided in Toronto and Ottawa for some time, removing to Peterborough about twenty years ago, where they have since resided. Mrs. Martin was a good wife, mother and homekeeper and well deserved the high respect in which she was held. She was a member of the Murray street Baptist church. She leaves behind her to mourn her loss, a husband and three children—one son, Herbert, of Toronto, and two daughters at home, Gertie and Mildred. Her mother, Mrs. Taylor, of Toronto, was with her daughter in her last illness. Mr. Martin, who is well known in the city from his relations to the public, and his family will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 6th, at 2 p.m. from the the family residence, 247 Hunter street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. There will be service at 1.30 o'clock at the residence, conducted by Rev. F. J. Scott, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, assisted by Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park street.

Application For Franchise In Brantford

Canadian Machine Telephone One of Three After Franchise in That City—The Three Offers Before the Council--Mr. W. H. Lytle Has Just Returned From Telephone City--Contest Between Machine and Another

MACHINE COMPANY HAS GOOD CHANCE

Mr. W. H. Lytle, superintendent of construction for the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, arrived home yesterday from Brantford, where he went a few days ago in connection with the Company's application for a franchise in that city. He is exceedingly hopeful, and states that the contest is now between the Machine Company and the Ontario Telephone Company, a mayoral board concern composed of Brantford capitalists.

That there is keen competition in that city is evident from the following taken from the Brantford Expositor:—

The telephone question is again to the front in this city. At the meeting of the City Council last night applications for a franchise were made by the Ontario Telephone and Canadian Machine Telephone Companies. These had been presented to the telephone committee of the council in the afternoon. The committee did not have sufficient time at its disposal to decide the matter yesterday in order to submit a report to the council in the evening. Hence the matter was not discussed but it was announced that the committee would at once take up the question with a view to submitting a report to the council in two weeks' time.

The Ontario Offer.

The Ontario company wants a 20-year competitive franchise, will set out to the city at any time in the event of the municipality desiring to embark in municipal ownership, will lay all wires underground, will give city ten free telephones, will allow city to use poles for fire alarm system, and will charge $25 for business, $18 for residential, $10 for party lines of four, $12 for party lines of two, and $6 for desk phones.

Canada Machine Company.

The Canada Machine Telephone Co., wants a 21-year competitive franchise, will operate within twelve months of the date of the franchise, will sell plant to the city at any time after ten years in case the city desires municipal ownership will place wires on no streets unless the council is willing, will give city use of poles for fire alarm system, and will furnish business 'phones at $25 and house instruments at $15 per year.

The Bell Rates.

The existing rates of the Bell Telephone Company in this city are $30 for business and $25 per year for house 'phones. It is not known whether the company intends to lower its rates in the event of competition from other companies.

Will Report Soon.

Ald. Carey, chairman of the committee, announced that the committee would at once take up the matter of the franchise to one or other of the companies and report to the council at its next meeting in all probability. This will be in two weeks from last night.

Death Occurred In St. Joseph's

Late John McGarrity, of Douro, Was Highly Respected.

The death occurred this morning in St. Joseph's Hospital, where he had been for the last three weeks, suffering from stomach trouble, of Mr. John McGarrity, of Douro. The late Mr. McGarrity was one of the most highly respected residents of Douro, where he had lived for many years. He was 67 years of age, and leaves to mourn his loss a wife and ten children, as follows: Joseph, of Bobcaygeon; Thomas, Francis, John and Augustin, of Douro, and Mrs. Stewart, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Michael Guiry, Ennismore, and Misses Josephine, Agnes and Anastasia at home.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, lot 6, con 5, Douro to St. Joseph's church, where Requiem High Mass will be sung. Interment will take place in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

Whose Work in Securing the Completion of the Trent Canal is Rewarded

Edward Smith Sustains Most Serious Injury

An Employee of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company Had Narrow Escape From Death Yesterday--He Was Whirled About Revolving Shaft---Clothing Caught While Working in Slury Pit--Leg Broken.

THE INJURED MAN LIVES IN LAKEFIELD

Special to The Examiner

Lakefield, December 6th. — Yesterday afternoon at the works of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company, a serious accident occurred. Mr. Edward Smith, a married man, living in this place was working around the slurry pit when his clothing became caught on a shaft, and the unfortunate man was whirled around it six or eight times before the machine could be stopped, and he removed from his perilous position. The injuries sustained were a broken leg and 5 fractured skull. Dr. Baker was called and attended the injured man, who was removed to his home here.

The injuries were found to be very serious, and while hopes are entertained of his recovery, it is an extremely delicate case and there is no certainty that these hopes will be realized.

Mr. Smith has been a resident of this place for some time and is a married man.

Almost a Victim Of Icy Waters

Cecil Clitheroe Skated Into Open Water at Little Lake Last Night.

What might easily have resulted in a drowning fatality occurred at the Little Lake, when Cecil Clitheroe, a boy of about fourteen years of age, employed at the C. G. E. Works, and a companion named James Gorham, were skating across the lake.

The boys started from the East City side, and after skating across in the regular course, commenced the return trip by another route, passing south of the piers. Clitheroe, who was some distance in advance of his companion, skated into an open space. He commenced at once to swim across the open water, but was obliged to return, and by means of a hockey stick Gorham was enabled to assist him to recover the solid ice.

The dip in the frozen water and the accompanying shock evidently overcame the boy, who sank upon the ice in a semi-conscious state with convulsive movements.

Recovering after a short time, the boy returned home, and was this morning none the worse for the dip.

Meetings At Mark St. Church

The meetings at the Mark Street Methodist church are growing in interest and attendance. Rev. J. G. Lewis is conducting the services. The Misses Charles, Mrs. Payne and Mr. Miller will sing to-night.

Uncompleted Portion Of The Trent Canal Will Be Placed Under Contract After The Session

An Announcement Made From a Reliable Source That the Premier and His Cabinet Have Decided Upon Its Completion—Whole of the Unfinished Canal Will be Under Contract After Next Session—Engineers Are Already Preparing Reports on the Alternative Routes—This Will be Welcome News to Peterborough.

The Examiner is able to state to-day on authority which is considered thoroughly reliable that at the next session of the House of Commons appropriations will be placed in the estimates for the completion of at least the southern portion of the Trent Canal, and in all probability, the northern as well.

This announcement is perhaps the most significant that this paper has made in many years, and, coming as it does from a source which leaves little or no doubt as to its reliability, it should and doubtless will be received with great satisfaction by the citizens as a whole, and especially those to whom the completion of the canal means so much.

That this decision has already been reached is evident from a number of indications, one of which is the fact that the engineer in charge of the surveys has been instructed to prepare his report on the outlet routes in time for the coming session of Parliament. He has gone to Ottawa, and will commence at once to put his report into shape. During the past few months matters in connection with the canal have been progressing most favourably, and it may be remarked—rapidly. It is learned that not long since a small but exceedingly influential deputation, consisting of men, some of them local, and all of them deeply interested in the completion of the canal, met Sir Wilfrid Laurier, by appointment, when the whole matter was thoroughly discussed, and the result of this conference is doubless seen in the announcement made to-day.

It is well known that ever since his election Mr. R. R. Hall has been active in his advocacy of the completion of the canal, and there is little doubt that his efforts have had a very material effect upon the decision, which it is learned has been reached.

The resultant benefits to this city, from an industrial standpoint, of the completion of the canal, are so well known and have been repeated so frequently, that it is unnecessary to refer to them here, but it is certain that nothing in years has been projected or carried out which has benefitted Peterborough to such an extent as the completion of this waterway will. The fact that the country is in a prosperous condition and that the financing can be easily arranged, has, no doubt, had its effect in influencing the Premier and his Cabinet to proceed with the work at once.

Then, of course, there is the need. Shortage of railway cars from Midland to Montreal has been acute this fall, and it is felt that if the canal were completed this shortage would, to a great extent, be relieved. This much is assured that whatever have been the influences which have been instrumental in deciding it, the Cabinet is, according to the information given to the Examiner, committed to the completion of the canal at once.

Mr. John McGinn Has Experience With 5 Bears

A Havelock Man Has an Encounter With Mr. and Mrs. Bruin and Three Cubs--Some Danger Connected With It Too--Only His Sure Aim Saved Him From Injury--The Mother and Two Cubs Were Shot.

MUCH INTEREST IN McGINN'S STORY

A close range encounter with five bears—Mr. and Mrs. Bruin and three husky cubs—was the rather exciting experience of Mr. John McGinn quite recently, while he was hunting a few miles back of Havelock. Out of the quintet—he shot three and wounded one.

McGinn is an old hunter — he is about 65 years old—but he says that in all his varied and long experience in the pursuit of the furry animals he had no such a streak of luck as this. There was a pit of dinged about it, too—only an old and experienced hunter could have dealt with the five so cleanly.

As McGinn was roaming through the woods his keen vision perceived two young bears halfway up a tree. Warily he circled around until he had as favourable an opportunity to shoot as he could hope for. Just as he was about to pour a bit of lead into one of the cubs, three other bears suddenly loomed up big in front of him. They seemed to have guessed what his actions bodied for their fellows.

McGinn turned his attention to the more immediate danger of the three bears on the ground. He had only eight bullets in his rifle. With one well-directed shot he killed the mother bear. This had the effect of shocking for an instant the advance of Bruin and his cub. McGinn took another chance, and aimed at the daddy bear. He didn't hit the brute in a vital spot, however, and the two turned tail and fled into the bushes.

The hunter did not follow. The two cubs were coming down the tree.

MR. J. H. McCLELLAN,
Superintendent of the Trent Canal, Which, it is Understood, is to Be Completed at Once.

He picked them off with cure aim as they came down. Then he went away to the nearest house to get help and more ammunition.

When he returned to the spot where he had left the bodies of three bears as evidence of the encounter, he was surprised to find only two of them there. He got busy in looking for a trail and found the marks of blood on the leaves. He saw what had happened—the old Bruin had returned and carried off in his teeth the body of his bear-child. The bodies of the mother and the other cub still lay side by side.

McGinn and his companions followed the trail of the elder bear through a swamp, over a hill, and for some distance, but on the end lost it.

McGinn's story has aroused much interest in the vicinity of Havelock, for such sport as this in the bear hunting line has not been seen for many a day.—Toronto Star.

Funeral Of The Late Mrs. Martin

Held This Afternoon and Was Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Mrs. R. B. Martin took place this afternoon from the family residence, 247 Hunter street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The services at the house and the grave were conducted by Rev. F. J. Stobart, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, of which the deceased was a consistent member, and Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street church. The funeral was attended by a very large number of the friends of the deceased lady, and the floral offerings to her memory were numerous, many being sent from Toronto.

The Water Commissioners, Messrs. T. F. Matthews, W. H. Hill and W. H. Moore, and the secretary, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, attended the funeral.

The pall-bearers were brothers and brothers-in-law of the deceased, and were Messrs. A. Taylor, H. Hall and Giddon, Toronto, and W. J. Martin, John Martin and A. Comstock, of this city.

Birbeck Loan Co. Creditors

The manager of the London and Western Trusts Company, Limited, reports that in the liquidation of the Birkbeck Loan Company, all creditors whose claims have been proven to the satisfaction of the liquidator, have been paid in full, and the Trust Company has about $20,000 remaining in its hands for a nucleus for a dividend to the shareholders. It is likely that when direction has been given by the court settling the manner is which the different classes of shareholders shall rank, the Trust Company will be in a position to pay a dividend immediately.

Lecture Will Be Interesting

The Men's Guild of St. Luke's church are making extensive preparations for the lecture to be given on December 15th by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, on "The Evolution of the Boy." This will be treated in a humorous manner, and will be decidedly interesting. It will deal with the different stages of a boy's life, until he reaches manhood's estate, and will no doubt be listened to by a large number of persons.

Conservative Association East Riding

The Annual Meeting is Being Held in Norwood This Afternoon--Delegates are Present From the Different Parts of the Riding--Mr. F. Birdsall, the President, in the Chair--Election of Officers.

OTHER HAPPENINGS IN EASTERN TOWN

Special to the Examiner

Norwood, Dec. 6th. — This afternoon the annual meeting of the East Peterborough Conservative Association is being held in the town hall here. There are delegates present from Warsaw, Keene, Havelock, Oak Lake, Norwood and Asphodel.

The chair was occupied by Mr. F. Birdsall, the president of the Association, who, in opening the meeting, addressed the delegates briefly on the present political situation.

The usual resolutions of confidence in the premier of Ontario, and Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition in the Dominion House, were passed.

The election of officers was the principal business of the meeting, but it is expected that the president will be re-elected.

Patrick Hefferman was charged before Police Magistrate Edmison here to-day with being drunk and disorderly. He was fined $15 and costs.

To Formulate A Programme

Baptist Pastors' and Deacons' Conference.

The executive of the Pastors' and Deacons' Conference of the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches met in the parlours of the Y.M.C.A. this morning to formulate a programme for a two days' session to be held in the second week in January in the Park street Baptist church. The members present were Rev. A. H. Brace, Moderator; Rev. L. McKinnon, President; Pastor Desson, Norwood, Secretary; and Rev. F. J. Scott, of the Murray street church.

Miss Morgan Delights Audience

The English Grand Concert Company were in Kingston on Monday night, and the Whig says of one of the artists:

Miss Hope Morgan is a genuine "made in Canada," and surely our country must be proud of her manufacture. Without effort at all, her clear, sweet voice rises, and touches the high notes, dwelling there without a falter, if the singer likes them, and then sweeps faultlessly down the scale to the richer tones underlying. She charmed with every one of her songs, but when she came back and gave "Annie Laurie," accompanying herself, she received an ovation. One encore, "Canada," a patriotic song, better known to the rising then to the risen generation, was most appropriate in our own sweet singer's case.

Government Defeated On Liquor Bill

Interesting Session of the Mock Parliament of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild Last Night--Discussion on Bill to Tax Bachelors--Charges Against the Premier Reported On--Brilliant Addresses by Members.

PREMIER McWILLIAMS ANNOUNCES RESIGNATION

There was a very large attendance at the open session of the mock parliament in connection with St. Paul's Young Men's Guild last night. The meeting was as usual held in the Sunday school room, which was crowded to the doors. The attendance of ladies was more than either the Government or Opposition expected, and the proceedings were timely and interesting throughout.

It was about 8.30 o'clock when the speaker, Rev. Mr. Mackay, took the chair.

The opening debate was on the Bill which was introduced by the Hon. Provincial Treasurer, Mr. Hodson, providing for a tax on bachelors. The Hon. gentleman was followed by Mr. W. S. Davidson for the Opposition. The Premier, Hon. R. F. McWilliams, and Mr. Van Blaricom followed, and the debate was, on motion, adjourned.

Questions.

A number of questions were then asked of the Government.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. E. S. Clarry moved for a return of all correspondence relating to the discussions of the Toronto License Commissioners, and all correspondence which related to the resignations of the Toronto License Board.

Mr. A. P. McLean, Minister of Education, chairman of the select committee to investigate the charge against the Premier of attempting to bribe the Hon. member for Brockville, presented his report, exonerating the Hon. gentleman. The report was adopted on division.

The Premier, Hon. R. F. McWilliams, drew the attention of the House to the report of the proceedings of the House in the Examiner, which he claimed was a partial and coloured report. He alleged that the Examiner was the personal organ of the leader of the Opposition who inspired its leading articles, controlled its policy and reported the proceedings of the House in an unfair manner.

The leader of the Opposition declared that the Premier of the Province was barking up the wrong tree, that he (the Opposition leader) was not in any way connected with the paper in question, and was not responsible for its utterances or its line of policy on any subject whatsoever.

The Government Defeated.

The debate of the evening took place on the Bill to amend the Liquor License Act, which was introduced by the last sitting of the House. The debate was continued by Mr. E. S. Clarry, leader of the Opposition, who scored the Government for the manner in which they were catering to the liquor traffic. He moved the following amendment:

That this House regrets that the Government is framing its proposed Bill to amend the Ontario Liquor License Act, has utterly failed to realize its responsibilities and to appreciate the advanced character of the temperance sentiment of this Province, which in the interests of the moral and material welfare of the people, demands a much more advanced, definite and workable measure than that presented; that this House views with alarm, indications and representations the evident intention, or, if not intention, result, of the proposed measure, as being a direct bid on the part of the Government for the political support of the liquor traffic, in a way subversive of every principle of responsible Government, and contributory to public demoralization, with the attendant evils to the state and to society; and that this House is of the opinion that the interests, so palpably ignored in the Bill before the House can and will be adequately subserved, promoted and advanced only by the substitution and enactment of the following amendments, to wit:—(Then followed a number of amendments.)

Mr. Rosenburg, for the Government supported the Bill and opposed the amendment, and Mr. Van Blaricom made a brilliant address in condemnation of the original Bill and in favour of the amendment.

The Premier, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, who followed, contended that his Bill went as far as public sentiment at the present time would permit, and reminded the Opposition of the manner they had dealt with the liquor question when they were in power.

The vote on the amendment was taken and carried, the Government being defeated by a majority of 3. The Government was also defeated on the same division on the original motion.

The Opposition broke into cheers and the Premier announced that he would resign forthwith.

What is a Backache?

IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO WOMEN

Diseases of Woman's Organism Cured and Consequent Pain Stopped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"It seems as though my back would break." Women utter these words over and over again, but continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, "bearing down" pains, nervousness and no ambition for any task.

Mrs. Albert Mann

They do not realize that the back is the mainspring of woman's organism, and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the womb or kidneys, and that the aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has been the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily cures all womb and kidney disorders and restores the female organs to a healthy condition.

Here is one cure among thousands:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with ovarian trouble, having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure, and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought me back to good health.

"It seems to be a medicine especially adapted to the ills of our sex and I am glad to say a good word for it.—Mrs. Albert Mann, 154 Gore Vale Ave., Toronto, Ont.

No other person can give such helpful advice to women who are sick as can Mrs. Pinkham. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice free.

The Elks Lodge Combine Business And Pleasure

First Annual Election of Officers Took Place Last Night —Mr. W. McIlroy is Elected to Office of Exalted Ruler —A Smoker Was Enjoyed— —Open Meeting at Which Friends of the Lodge Were Introduced.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENING SPENT

Last night the members of Peterborough Lodge, No. 14, C. B. P. O. E., enjoyed a delightful social evening in their Hall, Simcoe street. There was a large number of members present, and many features of the evening's programme were heartily enjoyed. The officers were elected for the current year, and are as follows:—

Past Exalted Ruler—W. H. Denham.
Exalted Ruler—W. McIlroy.
Esteemed Leading Knight — M. J. Hutchinson.
Chaplain—Bert Wallis.
Secretary—C. A. Graham.
Treasurer—R. J. Munro.
Esteemed Leading Knight — E. M. Best.
Watchman—R. J. Matchett.
Guide—R. Heiderman.
Aide—W. H. Lytle.

Tyler—H. Morgan.
Musician—J. Legge.
Trustees—Messrs. W. Bunton, W. G. Fitzgerald, J. White.
Auditors—Messrs. W. Bunton, E. M. Best and R. M. Glover.

At the conclusion of the business of the lodge, the doors were thrown open and a number of the friends of the members was admitted to the lodge room when a pleasing programme was rendered by members, assisted by others. Among those who contributed to the programme were, Messrs. Jos. Legge, C. G. Graham, W. McIlroy, W. S. Davidson, W. H. Denham and W. Bunton. Mr. John Crane acted as accompanist to the soloists.

At the conclusion of the card contest between the "spliced" and "unspliced," which resulted in a victory for the latter by 10—3, refreshments were served by Mr. W. McCallum in his usual efficient manner.

G. T. R. Officials Go to Midland

A number of G. T. R. officials passed through Peterborough yesterday on their way to Midland, where extensive improvements to G. T. R. property have been made.

Mr. W. R. Tiffin, superintendent, went through the city on Sunday night from Allandale, which place is his headquarters, on his way to Belleville, where he joined the party which came from Montreal. The new bridge at Foxborough, which is twelve feet higher than the old one, was inspected by the officials.

Patriotism Was The Keynote At Guild Meeting

Canadian Night at George Street Young Men's Guild Meeting — Respective Advantages of Canada and United States Debated— "Canadian Sports," by Mr. E. M. Best--Other Patriotic Addresses.

YOUNG MEN SPEAK ON CANADA'S RESOUCES

An open meeting of the Guild of the George Street Methodist Church, was held in the guild room last night. It was the Guild's "Canadian" night and addresses and discussions appropriate to the occasion occupied the most of the time of the meeting.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, president, opened the meeting by reading an extract from Roberts' History of Canada, after which Mr. Arthur Mann, Secretary, read a paper on Dr. Drummond, the great habitant poet, and read one of his celebrated poems. Mr. Mann's imitation of the broken French was excellent and the humorous poetical gem caused much merriment among the members of the gathering. Mr. E. Best gave a short and very comprehensive address on "Canadian Sports". At the beginning of his address Mr. Best mentioned that it was his intention to exclude professional athletics as he regarded that as business rather than true sport. Mr. Best very ably dealt with the various champion athletes and showed that Canada's representatives in the athletic sphere occupy a very high place in the international world of sport. The speaker gave a brief summary of the original development of sports and games and said that individual contests were first known and then in time collective games and sports were indulged in.

Mr. Kenner complimented Mr. Best on this splendid address and commented on a few Canadians that have won laurels in that world of sport, whom Mr. Best had not mentioned in his address.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was a discussion regarding the relative advantages offered to the young men of this country by Canada and the United States. A debate was arranged and this was to be the subject for argument, but as one of the speakers informed the president yesterday at noon that he would not be able to be present (but he was there though, and eloquently defended his view of the question) a slight misunderstanding was caused and under the circumstances the president thought a discussion would be advisable. Messrs. Dobbin and Ackerman spoke for the land of the Union Jack, while Messrs. Warne and Robertson upheld the cause of the republic south of us. The speakers on both sides advanced strong arguments in support of their respective causes, but as it was only a discussion and not a debate no decision was rendered.

The speakers who advocated the cause of Canada spoke of the vast tracks of arable land that was yet uncultivated and of the many rich mines that had not yet been worked. They also commented on the superior moral condition of Canada and spoke of the purity of Canadian politics, the honesty of Canadian trade and the excellent condition of Canada regarded from a social standpoint. Those who spoke in favour of the United States made mention of the fact that hundreds of young men yearly leave Canada and go to the southern republic, where lucrative positions are obtained. One natural ambition of every young man, they argued, was to acquire material wealth and this was to be had in the United States much more readily than in Canada. There, they said, a young man will find a much wider field in which to direct his ability than in Canada. Reference was also made to the natural richness of the country, its splendid climate in the north where wheat and other grain and agricultural products may be grown in abundance and the balmy south, the land of the tropical climate that produces oranges, pineapples and other luscious fruit and vegetables so much sought after by the people of the comparatively frigid north. The different speakers handled their topics so eloquently and convincingly that it was hard to decide which side had the better of the argument, but the others present who commented on the discussion favoured Canada's cause being influenced, no doubt, if quite unconsciously, by a strong feeling of patriotism.

The question as to the advisability of entering the Guild Debating League was next discussed and after careful consideration a motion was carried to the effect that the George Street Guild would not become members of the proposed league.

The meetings of the guild are monthly affairs but as the Yule Tide season would probably interfere with attendance of the next regular monthly meeting an emergency meeting was called for the 19th inst.

A Prosperous Season For The Brock St. Rink

The Present Outlook is for a Most Successful Season— Ice is Already Being Made —The Same Rink Officials Will Have Charge This Year—Popularity is on the Increase—Tickets Are Now on Sale.

CONSIDERATION FOR SKATING PATRONS

This season the Brock street rink promises to be more popular than ever. When the ice is opened to skaters, which, if the weather stiffens up will be in the near future, the patrons will find that a number of improvements have been made which will add to their comfort, and which cannot help adding to the popularity of this rink. Those who have been patrons will be glad to learn that for the coming season the directors have appointed the same efficient rink superintendent and assistant as held those positions last season. Messrs. John Thirsbeck and Arthur Blade are now busily engaged in making ice, and will be on duty during the whole of the season. In the past the service given has been eminently satisfactory, and there is every reason to believe that the same conditions will prevail in the future.

The directors state that the holders of season tickets will be given the first consideration, and that every available night will be given to skating, the fact that in all probability there will be no Junior O.H.A. or Trent Valley League teams making it possible to give a greater number of nights to skating. At the same time the fact that the senior team this year gives promise of being one of the fastest seen in a local uniform in a number years is a guarantee that some good hockey games will be played.

Prior to the opening of winter the floor of the rink was levelled, a large quantity of sand being used in this process, and the result will be that much less time will be required to form a bed of ice than formerly. If the weather man is only favourable in his treatment, it will only be a matter of a few days before the announcement will be made that the ice is ready for skating.

The prices for tickets this season will be the same as those of former years, viz, — Gentlemen's tickets, $3.00; ladies, $2.00 and limited tickets for children, $1.50. They will be on sale, commencing to-morrow, at the stores of Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co., W. A. Sanderson & Co., The Best Stove Co., F. A. Clarke and H. H. Edmison, and at the Examiner office.

In the past it has been the custom of a great many parents to give their children tickets for the rink as Christmas gifts, and nothing could, to the majority of children, be more highly appreciated.

Doctor Hugo's Health Tablets

These tablets will cure all menstruation and uterine troubles even when chronic.

They take away the backache, constipation and dragging-down pains, which are symptoms of a run-down condition or some serious disorder.

As the weak and diseased organs (no matter which they may be) are made strong and well, that tired feeling, nervousness and irritability which come from a run-down condition, disappear.

Women are writing us every day testifying to their gain in health since taking these tablets. Improvement is noticed in a week's time.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

Latest News Of Fall And Winter Sports

Will Enter the Guild League

Last Year's Champions Will Again Play the Game.

After the regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of the George street church last night, the annual meeting of the hockey club was held and the officers for the year elected. They are:—

Hon. President—H. R. H. Kenner.
President—Geo. Robertson.
Sec.-Treasurer—A. Mann.
Manager—E. M. Best.
Executive — A. Weekes, R. Dobbin, W. Parnell.

This Guild will enter a team in the Guild League, of which they were champions last year.

HOCKEY

The meeting of the Peterborough Juniors called for 7.45 at the Oriental last night did not materialize. Only two representatives were present and as this number was not enough to form a quorum, no business was transacted.

A hockey meeting of the George Street Guild was held last night after the regular meeting at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Honorary President—Mr. H. R. H. Kenner.
President—Mr. George Robertson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. A. R. Mann.
Manager—Mr. E. M. Best.
Executive Committee—A. B. Wacks, W. Parnell and Ross Dobbin.

It was decided to enter a team in the Guild League of the which the George Street Guild team held the championship last winter.

A concert will likely be held in the near future and the executive of the hockey club will meet next Saturday night at ten o'clock at Best's store, Hunter street, when arrangements for the concert will be made. While no definite plans have been made it is probable that Mr. Hay will give a lecture on the Russo-Japanese war, illustrated by realistic lime-light views.

The Alerts will meet to-morrow night at 7.30 at the residence of Mr. G. L. Stevens, George street, when the players of the team will be given their uniforms. The Alerts, Victors and several other juvenile teams will form a league, but they will not, as erroneously announced, play in the Junior City League.

• • • •

Notification was received by Secretary Hewitt yesterday from H. R. Denesha, secretary of the Morrisburg Hockey Club, that the team would be withdrawn from the O.H.A. for this winter, Morrisburg wanted to play senior, but the O.H.A. Executive considered that they would be more suitable company in the intermediate series. Geo. D. Benjamin of Brockville, has been appointed convener of the district.

The Perth Hockey Club, through Secretary O.N. Leslie applied for membership in the O.H.A., so that Perth will likely take Morrisburg's place in the group. The district will be then composed of Perth, Smith's Falls, Strathcona, Brockville Juvinelbias, and Smith's Falls Mic-Macs.

Whitby has elected to play intermediate instead of junior. The Lindsay Midgets, a new junior team, will take Whitby's place in the district, with Parkdale A.A.A. of Toronto.

T. A. Welch, convener of group No. 1, senior series, O.H.A., has called a meeting of the clubs in his district for to-night, at the Iroquois Hotel. Argonauts, Marlboros, Barrie and Midland compose the district.—Globe.

BASKET-BALL.

Don't forget the basketball match to-night between the Harriers and Arrows. Each team has won one game and as this is the deciding game there is sure to be a close contest. The teams will be:—

Harriers.	Arrows.
W. Richardson, captain.	W. Miller
R. Dobbin	F. Richardson
A. Hodgson	M. Harding
W. Campbell,	F. Crossman, captain
G. Robertson	D. Loomis

A silver collection will be taken at the door to defray expenses. Game called at 8.15.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A scientific crank inquires if the rink management expects success in winter sport upon ice founded upon sand. Certainly — supersaturated sand under the ice, sanded by the players and sand in the management should work all right, all right.

• • • •

Montreal Witness.—The sole object of any athletic sport should be, primarily, the provision of recreative physical exercise, and, incidentally, the exercise of self-control and self-abnegation — in fact, the mens sana in corpore sano. The mere winning of a game should be a secondary consideration. When the grief caused by the loss of a game by his side causes mental depression in a player as to lead him to take his own life, as happened recently in the United States, there must be something radically wrong in the idea of the purpose of sport.

A Lakefield Nuptial Event

Miss M. Preston, of Selwyn, Becomes the Bride of Mr. M. Fitzgerald.

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at Lakefield, when Mr. Myles Fitzgerald, of Hamilton, and Miss Maggie Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston, of Peterborough, were united in marriage by Rev. Chas. H. Campbell, pastor of the Lakefield Presbyterian church. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock at the manse.

The bridesmaid was Miss H. Preston, sister of the bride, the groom being assisted by his nephew, Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald, of Peterborough.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party drove to Peterborough, leaving here on the 5.12 o'clock train for a trip to Toronto and western points, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends. Mr. Fitzgerald is a former resident of Smith Township, but has lately resided in Hamilton.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I have an interest in the objects of the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Auxiliary, and would like to see them make money by their coming concert, but unless the newspapers give them very liberal rates for their large amounts of advertising they seem to be doing it appears to me that the expense will eat pretty largely into the net profits.

Yours etc.,
AMICUS.

Editor Post Card Column:

Probably very few people in Peterborough even amongst those who may be called music-loving, are really aware what a treat is in store for them on Thursday evening, when Miss Hope Morgan will for the first time [illegible] here. Miss Morgan, though a Canadian by birth, has spent the greater part of her musical life in London, England, and she is in consequence, comparatively unknown in her own land. There are many, therefore, to be many after the concert who will regret that they did not know about her, and did not hear her.

Miss Hope Morgan has a beautiful soprano voice, exquisitely trained, and possesses in a marked degree that which is so often lacking in soprano voices, the sympathetic quality, which makes her singing a positive delight.

I had the opportunity of hearing her once, in Toronto, and I would gladly hear her again, even though she were the only singer to appear.

Mr. S. C. Lelean Was Wedded In California

Popular Former Member of Eko Camp Takes Unto Himself a Western Bride--Mr. S. Clyma Lelean and Miss Laura Ellett Were Married on Wednesday at Redlands, California--Pretty Nuptial Event.

DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT

The Redlands, California, Daily Review, of Thursday, Nov. 23rd, contains the following account of the marriage in that place of Mr. S. Clyma Lelean, formerly of Peterborough.

Mr. Lelean was for some time connected with the firm of B. F. Ackerman & Son, and will be remembered by a host of friends here, who will unite in extending heartiest congratulations upon the happy event. Mr. Lelean while here was a prominent member of Eko Camp, and one of the most popular young men about town.

One of the most beautiful weddings of the early autumn was that solemnized yesterday at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Ellett, of 237 Eureka street, when her daughter, Miss Laura Ellett, was given in marriage to Mr. Clyma S. Lelean.

At 4 o'clock the approach of the bridal party was announced by the soft music of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Gunther on the violin and piano. Awaiting the bridal pair at the altar were the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellett, Dr. and Mrs. Bond, the groom's brother, Mr. N. Leo Lelean; Mrs. N. Leo Lelean, (nee Choate, of Port Hope, Ont.,) and Rev. J. H. Williams, the officiating clergyman. Preceding the bride and groom came Marjory Wheat, a dainty little flower girl, who was dressed in pale blue and white and carried a large bouquet of Gold of Ophir roses.

The bride wore a rich gown of creme Bengaline silk. The bodice was daintily crammed with pearl lace and the skirt was made en train with several clusters of broad tucks. The bride's bouquet was of Gold of Ophir roses. During the ceremony the Schumann Traumerei was played softly, while the grand notes of the Mendelssohn wedding march followed the services.

In the pretty reception room, where the ceremony took place, an abundance of ivy, ferns and pepper boughs formed a background for a charming arrangement of floral decoration. The canopy over the bridal altar was formed of ropes of ivy and white chrysanthemums, which were draped in fan shape from the electrolier to the corner of the room. Immense bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums were placed on either side of the altar. Ivy was used throughout the house in a pretty device about the mouldings of the rooms. In the living room pink roses were combined with ferns and other greenery and in the dining rooms marguerites and smilax formed the entire decoration. A wedding bell was shaped of strands of smilax and bright marguerites which fell from the electric lights to the sides of the dining table, where a large bouquet of the same flowers formed the centrepiece. The same colours were observed in the dainty refreshments and confections.

Mrs. Ellett was assisted in receiving and entertaining by Mrs. I. L. Bond.

Following the ceremony and the congratulations, an elaborate breakfast was served, after which came the merry leave taking of the happy pair, who did not escape the usual shower of rice. The bride wore a travelling gown of Hunter's green broadcloth elegantly trimmed in two tones of green plume velvet, and Persian braid with a hat of the same shade.

Many beautiful gifts were received, among which was over a thousand dollars in cash, and an elegant cameo necklace from the bride's aunt in Venice. The little den was filled with handsome cut glass, hand-painted china and gold and silver tablewear of great variety.

The guest list included Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. N. Leo Lelean, Dr. and Mrs. I. L. Bond, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bidwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Estes, Mr. and Mrs. James Wheat, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sness, Mr. and and Mrs. G. E. Sucher, Mesdames S. Lelean, Emily Squires, the Misses Helen Squires, Edna Worth, J. E. Foote, Evaleen Penny and Delmont Locke.

After a wedding trip during which they will visit several coast towns, Mr. and Mrs. Lelean will be at home to their many friends at 237 Eureka street.

THREE TRYING TIMES IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

There are three periods of a woman's life when she is in need of the heart strengthening, nerve toning, blood enriching potion of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

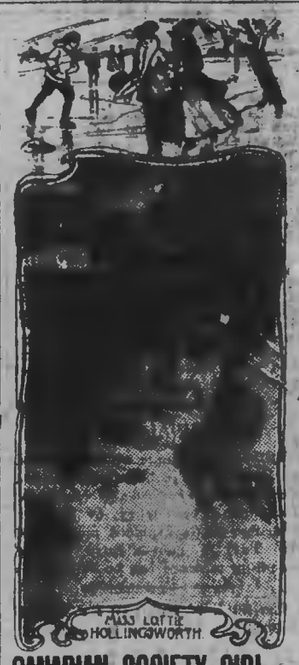
The first of these is when the young girl is entering the portals of womanhood. At this time she is very often pale, weak and nervous, and unless her health is built up and her system strengthened she may fall a prey to consumption or bee weak woman for life.

The second period is motherhood. The drain on the system is great and the exhausted nerve force and depleted blood require replenishing. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills supply the elements needed to do this.

The third period is "change of life" and this is the period when she is most liable to heart and nerve troubles.

A tremendous change is taking place in the system, and it is at this time many chronic diseases manifest themselves. Fortify the heart and nerve system by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and thus tide over this dangerous period. Mrs. James King, Cornwall, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled very much with heart trouble—the cause being to a great extent due to "change of life." I have been taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for some time, and mean to continue doing so, for I can truthfully say they are the best remedy I have ever used for building up the system. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of other sufferers."

Price 50 cents per box, three boxes for $1.25, all dealers, or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.



CANADIAN SOCIETY GIRL CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Cold Produced Catarrh of Throat—Attack Was Severe.

Miss Lottie Hollingsworth, Prescott, Ont., Can., writes:

"After suffering for weeks with a cold, it left me with catarrh of the larynx. My voice was so hoarse that I thought I would lose it entirely, my neck was swollen, and altogether my condition was very serious.

"I bought some Peruna after I had used other remedies without relief. In a few days my voice was clearer, it did not tire easily and I began to see relief in sight.

"I really was surprised to find that I was cured so soon. I took only four bottles of Peruna, and it is certainly well worthy of endorsement."

SATURDAY NIGHT'S OPINION.

Saturday Night says that the new inspectors may be as good as their predecessors were (at the time of their appointment, but it will take them a long while to gain the experience possessed by the old staff. Furthermore, it will take them a long while to gain the confidence which the public and the hotelkeepers felt in ex-Inspector Hastings and his staff. It would be foolish to urge that at this critical time no views should be given positions which require a perfect knowledge of hotelkeepers' records extending over many years—indeed, two, even three, more technical inspectors could have been added to the old staff with great advantage. If licenses are to be cut off the men advising it should know of their personal knowledge everything relating to every hotelkeeper. A worse time or a worse move could not have been suggested, and those who caused the trouble certainly cannot be considered real friends of the Government or the party wearing the political name which the Government accepts."

IF THE FARMERS KNEW.

(Hamilton Herald.)

The farmers of the West have started in at Winnipeg to protest against any general increase in the tariff. Possibly it is just as well for the high protectionists that they are being heard before an investigation into the combines provided the farmers with full information.

For example, if they could get at the information Mr. Curry is understood to have, they would find themselves directly affected as farmers by the combines on

Axles,
Churns,
Cordage,
Coiled wire,
Harness,
Handles,
Wheels,
Edged implements,
Springs.

As householders, they would be interested in the combines on—

Lanterns,
Stamped metal ware,
Sheet metal ware,
Saws,
Trunks,
Tacks,
Wringers,
Washing machines,
Woodenware,
Groceries,
Sugar,
Oatmeal,
Canned goods.

As house builders they would be concerned by the combines in—

Hardware,
Lead pipe,
Plate glass,
Soil pipe,
Screws,
Saws,
Tarred paper,
Tacks,
Bolts,
Wire nails.

It would astonish these Western farmers, with all the money this year's crop has brought them in, to know at how many points the combines are able to attack them in the search for "glue."

LIFE INSURANCE COSTS.

The feeling is growing in Canada that the sharp competition among Life Insurance Companies for business is making the cost of such protection greater than it should be, and greater than it might be with perfect safety, if the business was conducted on more conservative lines. This feeling is not good for the business. Even the Monetary Times, careful of its criticisms and very friendly to the old line companies, regards it as "quite possible that the fear of extravagance in management of Canadian life companies may deter many from doing what they ought, and are otherwise disposed to do in securing indemnity for their families or dependents." And it declares that "if examination in addition to that of the superintendent of insurance at Ottawa will satisfy the doubters, let it be had. Sound companies do not fear it and unsound ones cannot too soon be uncovered." Speaking of the charge for expenses, it says:

Out of more than fifteen millions of dollars paid for net premiums to Canadian companies last year, almost one-third went for expenses of conducting the companies. That is to say, 32.98 per cent. of the total premium income and 25.46 per cent. of the total income was thus absorbed. So much should not be necessary. Half the amount is found sufficient for the purpose by companies in Great Britain, and we do not see how Canadian companies should need double what they find ample.

The Monetary Times presents this tabulation of the cost of management of the older and larger companies:

The following shows the percentage of expense to income:—

Canada Life	21.46
Sun Life	24.09
Mutual of Canada	17.38
Confederation of Canada	19.46
North American	23.29
Manufacturers	23.76
Great West	27.86
Imperial	32.15
Federal	27.67
Dominion	24.24

This is somewhat different from the figures of relative expense and premium receipts, as computed on receipts from all sources. If it be true, as stated that in Great Britain the companies are managed with half this expenditure for expense, there would seem to be room for reform. And policyholders would doubtless welcome its coming.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is a change of Government in Great Britain, but that will not prevent the very probable change of Government in Turkey, or at least a change in Government methods, if the Turkish laissez faire way of muddling matters can be called gov-

The Bank of Montreal has enough to keep the wolf from the door. At the last annual meeting it was reported that the total available assets amounted to the modest sum of sixty-eight million dollars, enough, if it were divided on socialistic or other principles, to give $12 to every man, woman and child in this broad Dominion.

Lord Strathcona has retired from the presidency of the Bank of Montreal. It is worth mentioning that his retirement took place at the 88th annual meeting of the bank, which was established five years before the birth of Lord Strathcona, who first saw the light in 1820. Even as an octogenarian the venerable Bank of Montreal takes rank as one of the most useful in its methods and activities, one of the most solid and strongest banking institutions in the world. It occupies relatively the same position among the banks of this continent as the Bank of England holds in England.

The Examiner has frequently criticized the action of the authorities of Canadian colleges in importing outsiders and, as in the case of the present Ontario Government,—foreigners to fill professorial positions in the higher institutions of learning. The inference is that these authorities do not consider native Canadians capable of filling such positions. A very practical commentary in this inference is the action of the Heriott Watt College, Edinburgh, Scotland, which, the despatches inform us, has appointed Mr. Herbert Bell, of Prince Edward Island, to the position of assistant mathematical professor in that college. Scotland is generally recognized as the country of the highest educational attainments, with educated men and scholars as thick as leaves in Valambrosa.

'Citizen' Defends License Holders Of This City

Says They Should be Represented at Council Chamber Friday Night—Ridicules Ministerial Association—Characterizes Them as Possessing "Butt-In" Proclivities—Says Number Licenses Should be Increased.

FAVOURS INCREASE OF LIQUOR LICENSES

Peterborough, Dec. 6th, 1905.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I noticed in the columns of your paper last night that the Ministerial Association and License Commissioners will meet the city council on Friday night next. Now while I am not a license holder and while I have no interest whatever in the License Holders' Association, I ask as a fair minded citizen, should not representatives of the License Holders' Association have been asked to be present at the council chamber on Friday night? The members of the License Holders' Association are people who are entitled to their opinions and it is undoubtedly true that they will strenuously oppose the proposed reduction of licences.

There are times, particularly when visitors come to the city that the hotel accommodation is altogether inadequate, and while in every city this is true, it is particularly marked in Peterborough. The License Law is well observed and very few convictions, creditably few indeed, considering the population of this city, are registered against local license holders for breach of the liquor act.

The cheaper hotels, the dollar a day houses, have as much right to exist as the more expensive hotels, and it is often impossible to obtain lodging in either. An increase instead of a reduction of licenses would be more appropriate; and as for the "butt in" tendencies of the Ministerial Association, by which they have made themselves ridiculous enough already, it might be stated that the individual members of the association would find "pleasant and profitable employment" in looking after the interests of their own flocks, instead of making a mess of matters of which they are entirely ignorant. They are to be commended, for their unfortunate, but well-meant endeavours to do good. The bar is a fixture in this province and even the members of the Ministerial Association are unable to deny that, and as before stated the hotel accommodation is inadequate and seeing that the License Law is well observed in our peaceful city, the action of the Association seems to me to be ill-advised.

By all means let the License Holders' Association be represented at the meeting next Friday night, for to the Ministerial Association, if the number of licenses is reduced it means nothing but the gaining of an imaginary moral point, but to those liquor men who are deprived of their licenses, it means a disruption of business.

In concluding it might be well to advise the Ministerial Association that in acting in the future to bear in mind that wise saying from the land of the heather, and incidentally the world renowned Scotch whiskey, "Oh wad some power the giftie gie us, to see oorsel's as ithers see us."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space,

Yours for British fair play,
CITIZEN.

Remains Were Laid at Rest

Funeral of the Late Robert Wright Took Place Yesterday.

The funeral of the late Mr. Robt. Wright, took place yesterday afternoon, from his former residence at Downer's Corners. A large number of friends were present to pay their last respects to the deceased. At the house a private service was held by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt for the members of the family. At three o'clock the cortege left the home of the deceased and proceeded to St. Luke's church, where the burial service was held. At the procession approached the church the bell tolled, and the Veterans of 1866 had lined up to let the cortege pass. A large delegation of Orangemen was also present to honour their departed brother.

As the body was carried into the church the organist played the "Dead March," the rector reciting the opening sentences of the service for the burial of the dead. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt spoke a few comforting words from II Timothy iv, 7. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

He said that these words of St. Paul to Timothy were the sum and substance of St. Paul's life, after his conversion. He might well apply them to the departed brother whom they were laying to his eternal rest. Of him it might well be said, that "he had fought the good fight." Mr. Wright has been a faithful servant of God. With implicit faith in Christ he had continued to fight against the inclinations of his nature, and he had realized, as all true Christians did, that the Christian life was a warfare from the cradle to the grave. His spiritual life manifested itself in his relationships with his fellow-men. His religion was genuine, true—not a mere sham. He was no hypocrite, but an upright, fearless man. He had his short-comings, but he never hid them under a cloke of hypocrisy. As an Orangeman he kept the principles of the Order and tried to live up to them, not merely parading his colours and his degrees, as is the case with so many, but by word and deed endeavouring to live a good life, to be true in his religion and in his worldly profession. Mr. Langfeldt urged the Orangemen to drop their sham religion, as was the case with so many of them and to live up to the principles of the Order, and follow the example of their departed brother, of whom the Order had no cause to be ashamed. He had attended the late Mr. Wright in his duties as his clergyman, and he knew that he had a sincere faith in Christ as his personal Saviour, and in that faith he had died. Mr. Wright was loyal to his God as he was loyal to his King, and proved his loyalty in 1866, when he fought under the King's colours. He had also been loyal to his church, and had remained a faithful and devoted member of the Church of England. His would be the crown of righteousness and the glad welcome, and the "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

While the body was being carried out of the church the congregation sang the Nunc Dimittis, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace."

At the cemetery the body was committed to the grave in the sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life, after which the Orangemen performed the rites of the Order.

The pall bearers were Messrs. F. J. R. Mitchell and Logan, representing the Veterans; Messrs. Kitney, Holden, Mitchell and Waldie, representing the Orangemen.

CONSPICUOUS IN A BALLROOM

Flakes of Dandruff on the Collar and Shoulders of a Gentleman in Full Dress.

This is the thing you quite frequently see in the ballroom — a man's black dress-coat literally covered with dandruff.

It must be annoying to the wearer, and certainly not a pleasant thing to observe. But dandruff can be eradicated. It is a germ disease that will some day cause baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the hair-destroying germ, and stimulates the hair to a rich, abundant growth; it does more—keeps the hair soft and pliant.

Furthermore, Herpicide is a most pleasant toilet accessory; of pleasing odor, and cooling to the scalp.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

Foreign Work Of the Y.M.C.A.

$200 Is the Amount Expected From Peterborough.

The Foreign Work Department Executive of the Y.M.C.A. held a meeting on Sunday, when the state of the canvas for funds for the support of Mr. Farquhar in Calcutta was discussed.

The Provincial Committee are expecting $200 for this year from the Peterborough members. A little more than half this amount has been raised, leaving the balance to be secured in the present month.

The members and friends of this work are asked to co-operate with the committee and send in their contributions to Mr. Shea, the treasurer, or to the office of the Association.

Gin Pills Cure Kidney Troubles.

OR YOUR MONEY BACK.

Read this letter from Mrs. Gargill. Has it not the ring of truth? Does it not describe your own sufferings? And does it not point the way to quick relief?

"For three years I suffered more than I can tell with terrible pains in the small of my back. When I stooped over, it seemed as though I would never be able to straighten up. I tried Kidney Pills for a year and a half, but was getting worse all the time, until advised by my neighbor to try "Gin Pills," as she had been almost similarly affected, and had been completely cured by them. I took three boxes of Gin Pills, and almost from the first dose I began to feel better. Now I am pleased to say I can do as good a day's work as ever in my life without feeling tired out. Before getting Gin Pills I had to have a girl to do my housework, but now I can do it all myself, including the washing. I will always recommend Gin Pills for kidney trouble.

"MRS. GARGILL, Winnipeg, Man."

Don't suffer the agonizing tortures of Kidney Trouble. Don't let it run into dreaded Bright's Disease. Cure yourself now with Gin Pills—the pills that cure. Sold at all druggists on a positive guarantee that they cure or you get your money back. 50c box—6 for $2.50.

If you will write asking for it and tell us the paper in which you saw this we will send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free. The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg.

Mission Circle Thank-Offering

Large Attendance Last Night at Park Street Baptist Church.

A large congregation assembled last night at the Annual Thankoffering of the Women's Mission Circle of the Park street Baptist church.

Two duets were admirably rendered. They were,—"Count Your Many Blessings," by Mrs. John Rose and Miss Edith Gillespie, and "The Golden Shore," by Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Jewitt.

An interesting address, given by Mrs. Morrow upon "Chinese Reminiscences," riveted the attention of the audience. The language of the speaker was choice; her manner, pleasing; and her story intensely interesting. She displayed a thorough conversancy with her subject, having spent a number of years in China.

She gave details of the rescue work, and the manner in which the Chinese are taught, giving many amusing examples of first attempts to speak the language, and also spoke of the Chinese diet, manner and customs.

An address by Rev. A. H. Brace upon "Objects and Methods," followed. The object of the Christian world-to-day is to carry the Gospel to every nation and tribe in this generation. The methods employed were:

1. Prayer.
2. Preaching the Gospel of the Grace of God.
3. Preaching the Gospel of personal sacrifice.
4. Preaching the Gospel of Glory and practically applying one's self to it.

He dealt, briefly, with the results in the Mission Field, at home and abroad, and described it in one word,—fabulous.

The grand results in the Mission Field, he continued, are scarcely credible. Degraded heathen preached amid the squalor in which they themselves were found. Women, picked up out of wretchedness and idolatory, were saved and purified and were going back with Bible in hand sitting among their sisters in darkness, pointing out the way of life.

T.A.S. Concert Was Greatly Enjoyed

Fortnightly Entertainment Was Held Last Night—Excellent Programme of Music—Band Contributed a Number of Selection With Excellent Effect—Steady Improvement is Apparent in Its Work.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

The regular fortnightly entertainment at the T. A. S. Rooms, given by that society, took place last night, and was one of the most enjoyable of the season. The attendance was large and the affair was a gratifying success from every viewpoint.

A feature of the evening was the contribution of a number of selections by the T.A.S. Band. This was the first appearance in concert work of the band since the present leader, Mr. F. W. Miller, assumed charge. The playing has shown a steady and and marked improvement, and the band is rapidly assuming a leading place in musical circles. It is now well-balanced instrumentation, and the ensemble work of last night was marked by finish and expression; the blending was most harmonious, and the shading delicate. Two numbers besides the concluding National Medley, were rendered by the band. These were the opening selections, "Flag of Truce," and "Pretty Blue Eyes," both of which gave great pleasure.

The chair was occupied by Mr. R. J. Begley, who performed his duties in his usual happy manner.

A pleasing number was a chorus given by eight bright little girls, who acquitted themselves with the utmost credit.

The chorus consisted of Misses Dor-Dorris, Halpin, Hayes, Trombley, Clancy, White, Tingney, Merrell, Henry, O'Brien and Donohue. Bass and tenor parts in the refrain were taken with fine effect by Messrs. J. Dorris and Frank Pope. The chorus was "Silver Bells," and in response to an encore which could could not be denied, the little girls rendered "Sing, Little Birdie, Sing!"

A piano duet, "As bright as a Button," by Misses Tingney and O'Brien, was much enjoyed. The little girls displayed much musicianly ability for their early age.

Miss Annie Simons sang "Daddy," in good voice and with excellent interpretation and expression, giving general pleasure.

The song, "What Would you Take for Me, Papa?" by Miss Alta Cavanagh, was charmingly rendered by the petite vocalist, and won a general appreciation.

In a dance given by Mr. David Quinlan the performer displayed much grace and flexibility of movement. The music was furnished by Mr. Tobin in a most acceptable manner.

The pianoforte selection which followed by Miss Caroline White, was one of the most popular of the evening, the versatile little artist being greeted with much enthusiastic applause. Her initial pianoforte number was a mazurka caprice, by August Meyer. In response to a recall she recited "As Mother Used to Do." with equally good effect.

A recitation, "Papa's Letter," by Miss Lillian Grady, was given with much elocutionary power and was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Jas. Weir scored a distinct success in his vocal selection, "A Life on the Rolling Sea," the rollicking cadences of the nautical selection be excellently rendered.

The accompaniments of the evening were played with sympathetic expression by Miss Pollock, Miss Dorris and Miss Lewis. Many of the performers of the evening were pupils of Miss Dorris and the excellence of their work reflects the greatest credit upon their teacher.

St. Andrew's Y. M. Guild

Large Meeting Was Held Last Evening.

St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild met last night in the Guild Room at the church, President F. E. Kerr, occupying the chair.

Considerable discussion upon hockey prospects took place. It was considered that the Guild contained sufficient material for two teams, if a place for practice was available and an effort to secure this will be made.

An expression of thanks was passed to Mr. J. A. McDonald for his address of Thursday last. The meeting closed with a programme of short speeches, each member present contributing.

Mantels, Grates and Tile.

The Coughlin Monumental Works have added mantels, grates and tile to their business, and have already filled quite a number of orders. Parties requiring anything in this line for new or old residences are invited to call at our showrooms, 214 Hunter street, where several modern styles of mantels, etc., may be seen. Prices the lowest. 4tf

Address And Sale of Work At the Barracks

Staff-Captain Kerr, Superintendent of the S. A. Maternity Hospital and Rescue Home, Toronto, Delivers an Interesting Address--Formerly Had Charge of Local Corps--Large Number Were Present.

NEW FURNACE IS INSTALLED

There was a good attendance at the Salvation Army Barracks last night, when Staff-Captain Kerr, superintendent of the Maternity and Rescue Home, Toronto, delivered an address upon various features of the work of the Home.

Staff-Captain Kerr was, about eight years ago, stationed in Peterborough, being at that time in charge of the corps, and remembers many of the older members of the Army. She gave a graphic description of the work conducted in the Hospital and Rescue Home, the inmates of which are from all parts of the province, more than half coming from points outside Toronto.

The work is progressing most satisfactorily, and there are at present twenty-three women and nineteen infants in the Home. The institution is financed principally by the industry of the inmates, although the government grant and private subscriptions assist materially. An extensive laundry business is carried on within the Home.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the singing of "Little Harry," a crippled boy, who has been all his life in the Home, his mother having died there when he was but two weeks old. He is now about six years of age.

The sale of goods resulted in a most satisfactory manner. The display was a large and most varied one and comprised articles of clothing as well as other useful varieties of useful merchandize.

The annual Sunday school entertainment will be held to-morrow evening and promises to be most enjoyable. An interesting programme consisting of drills, recitations, dialogues and songs has been arranged, and much interest in regard to it has been manifested among the junior members of the corps.

A new furnace is being installed in the barracks, which will add materially to the comfort and convenience of the building. It is a Hecla furnace and its being installed by Adam Hall. It will be installed in the small hall downstairs, and is designed to heat the residential portion of the building and, when necessary, the main hall.

B.Y.P.U. Held Good Meeting

On Monday night, Mr. R. Rowe, Devon, England, made his first appearance before the B. Y. P. U. of the Park street Baptist church. It was a clear, bright, spiritual address, uplifting and inspiring which he gave. Mr. Rowe has just passed through a five weeks' experience in the Torry-Alexander mission, and the effect is felt in every address he gives. A very practical address was given by Miss Evason. The roll call followed and the monthly copper collections, which has proven equal to meet all expenses, was taken. An open session next week with an address by Rev. A. H. Brace on "What our Denomination stands for," will be given, and refreshments will be served.

Miss Maggie Mann, president, occupied the chair, and her opening address was a magnificent poem on Thanksgiving.—Com.

"AN INCIDENT OF 1825."

BY MISS MARION DENNE.

The author of the above story, Miss Marion Denne, is a daughter of Mr. T. H. G. Denne, of this city, the Public Schools of which she has attended until her graduation into the Collegiate Institute. She is fourteen years old and is in Form II.

In a little cottage in the south of Ireland, in the month of May, 1825, a woman stood over a loom trying to see her work by the faint candlelight. Her four children could be seen in the dimness and all seemed waiting for something. Patrick, the eldest, sat leaning over a book, Moira was setting the table, Michael sat on the floor teasing the baby, Norah, the pride of them all.

"Mother," said Moira, "where are the potatoes?"

"Oh!" sighed mother, "they are in the cupboard. There are just ten more, which you must divide between you. O, when is he coming?" she continued, making the loom whirr faster and faster.

A step outside and the four children with one accord rushed to meet their father who at this moment opened the door.

"The ship sails on Tuesday," he called to Mrs. Leahie over Norah's curly hair.

"Just three days to get ready in," said Mrs. Leahie, "and nothing done yet." With a whirr she stopped the loom and they sat down to eat their cold potatoes.

The next two days packing went on apace, then a day of rest, and on Monday afternoon they embarked on board the emigrant ship bound for Canada. Tuesday morning dawned fair and bright and all arrangements having been completed the ship spread her great canvas and slowly sailed out of the harbour.

Everyone was downcast and sad at leaving the land which they loved so dearly and many were the tears that were shed.

The Leahies had come on board among the first and consequently they had arranged the small space alloted to them to some extent and they fared much better than some of the later ones who were attacked by sea-sickness almost immediately after they came on board.

The emmigrants could scarcely swallow the ship's coarse provisions after their simple potato diet and many became sick from this alone.

Patrick, who had no books now to occupy his time, used to sit watching the great expanse of limitless water around him. Michael liked the great sails and decided that he would be a sailor some day. Moira and Norah were both very sick and needed all Mrs. Leahie's attention. Thus they spent their time during their outward journey to the forest home which would be theirs.

After three weeks of hardships Quebec was reached and the immigrants landed. Temporary houses had been erected for their use and in these they passed the night. The next morning passage boats conveyed them to Kingston where tents were thrown up. The Leahies tent was close to the river and the fresh breezes soon cured them of any remaining sea-sickness, but a fresh enemy came among them and soon Mr. and Mrs. Leahie were suffering from ague and then Patrick and Norah got the fever. But by the time that the steamboat was ready to make its passage to Cobourg their sickness had so far abated that they were taken on its first journey together with four hundred and ninety-four others. After a day's trip they arrived at Cobourg. Each week brought fresh immigrants there.

The route from Cobourg to Smith at the head of the Otonabee River, lay through a country very thinly inhabited. The road from Ontario to the Otonabee River was scarcely passable, not at all so for wagons. Hon. Peter Robinson (whose grandson but lately died), did all in his power, to level the road, and the settlers helped. Soon all was in readiness, and the immigrants travelled across with difficulty, to Rice Lake.

Here they found that the three boats which they had brought from Cobourg, were utterly unsuited for their purpose and they were obliged to build a boat, which they at once proceeded to do. When the boat was finished it was sixty feet in length, and eight feet in width. It could be more easily worked up the streams, carrying an immense burden, than one of half its size carrying comparatively nothing. The boat was flat-bottomed, and was propelled by several oarsmen on each side.

At last all the immigrants were safely landed at Scott's Plains, now Peterborough, and immediately they set about constructing rude huts or wigwams, composed of slabs, bark, or the branches of trees. Among the first arrivals were the Leahies, and they were comfortably settled in their little hut, when the last load was landed, and they were thus at liberty to help the others.

The Leahies spent a weary time in waiting for the guide who was to take them to their choice of location. When it came their turn, they chose the east half of lot twenty-one in the sixth concession of Smith. Then, with the help of the settlers, they built their rough log shanty, and brought their few household belongings from Scott's Plains, by means of oxen. They were then supplied by the Government with a cow, an axe, an auger, a handsaw, a hammer, one hundred nails, two gimlets, three hoes, one kettle, one frying pan, one iron pot, five bushels of seed potatoes, and eight quarts of Indian corn.

Mr. Leahie and Patrick then cut down the trees around their home, and by means of a rude drag drawn by oxen, which were supplied by Hon. Peter Robinson, he having bought a few teams of horses and oxen for this purpose, they ploughed the ground. Then they sowed their corn and covered it with earth by means of the hoe. Mrs. Leahy and Moira were busy at the looms, for winter was fast coming on, and their clothes sadly needed repair.

In a short time their supplies of food began to give out, and Mr. Leahy decided to journey to Scott's Plains in order to replenish their larder for the coming winter. Early one morning he started out with their oxen taking with him all the potatoes that remained. He left his family with enough Indian corn to last them for four days, fully expecting to be back before that period of time had elapsed—anyway, he said to himself, there is that venison in the wood-shed.

He travelled by the blazed path which they had cut through the woods a few months before. At every meal he found a hollow log near by, and in this he hid his potatoes for the lunch on his homeward journey. But everything seemed to delay him. Bogs which before they had passed through, were now treacherously deep, and he must needs go around them, and this delayed him quite a little bit, as he could not always find the path very quickly when he reached the other side. That night he slept in the open air.

The next evening he reached Scott's Plains very tired and hungry. Here he bought the needful articles for winter, and also a gun which he intended to use for hunting. Then he started for home, confident that he had forgotten nothing and glad that he was soon to be reunited with his dear ones. When he neared his cottage it seemed strangely quiet and fears came to him. He hurried on and opened the door. A groan sounded from somewhere. He went into a bedroom, and there they all were, on the bed and on the floor. "What is it?" he inquired anxiously.

"We are starving," answered Mrs. Leahie meaningly.

He rushed out after obtaining some meal from their provisions which were still on the ox. With this he quickly baked some cakes, which he fed to them slowly. When they were sufficiently strong he asked how they could have been reduced to such straits, and this is what Patrick told him.

"The first morning after you left we were busy sawing wood and chopping down trees, and we ate more than you thought we would, but we did not think anything of that. That night a fox crept in that hole you know of, father, and he stole all the meal. So we had to eat venison all next day, but we never thought and hung it up in the woodshed. In the night we heard the howls of the wolves nearby, and then a ripping and tearing sound. I rushed into the dining-room and, looking out, saw about fifty wolves around the house, and still the ripping and tearing went on. Mother, Moira and Michael were out by this time, and by opening the window a little crack, we saw the wolves scratching and growling at the roof and door of the shed. Presently the door gave way with a crash and in rushed the wolves. We were afraid they would get into the house, so we piled all the furniture we could carry over at the door. In the morning when we went to get the venison we found it was gone, and we haven't had anything but water since."

"You haven't had anything to eat for two days?" asked Mr. Leahie.

"No," answered Patrick with a yawn.

"Well," said Mr. Leahie, "the next time I go to town I shall be pictured to take you all with me. But the best thing we can all do now is to get a good rest."

Winter now set in in good earnest and the Leahies were practically prisoners, seeing nobody and hearing nothing but the dreary howls of the hungry wolves at night. Mr. Leahie and Patrick, it is true, went out hunting and secured some good skins which they sold in the spring, but Mrs. Leahie and Moira never stirred from the house except on pathe dug by Michael.

And here we shall leave this family shut in their wilderness home. Their hardships are by no means over, but they have become hardier and better able to bear them.

MARION DENNE.

Men's Meeting Well Attended

On Sunday Rev. Dr. Crothers began the series of addresses on "Men Jesus Met," which is the theme for the Popular Men's Meetings at the Y.M.C.A.

The Dr. gave a very plain, forcible address on Nicodemus, the ruler of the Jews. The subject of the new birth was dealt with in a way which all could readily grasp. Dr. Crothers will speak again next Sunday on "Zacchaeus," the publican.

"SOME PIONEER STORIES."

BY MISS JEAN CAMPBELL.

Miss Jean Campbell, the author of the above story, is a daughter of Mr. W. Campbell, of Keene. She is sixteen years of age, and is in Form IV. She attended the Public School in Keene.

No stories are more thrilling than those of the pioneer days of Canada, and they should be of special interest to us young Canadians, although I fear we have heard comparatively little about them; but perhaps if we should ask our grandfathers, or even our fathers to relate to us some of them, they could keep us listening with open-mouthed interest for more than one evening. We are too much engrossed in baseball and hockey and our present life to think much about the subject, but on Sunday afternoons, if, when roaming through the woods, we come across the remains of a corduroy road or a tumble-down log cabin in the clearance, our thoughts travel back to the days, not so long distant, when our sturdy forefathers came to the vast wild forests of this country, and with marvellous industry and perseverance hewed down the massive trees, built in the cleared space a tiny cabin for their families, and sowed the few grains of wheat they had brought with them.

We boast of our Canadian birth, of our broad acres which produce such abundant harvests, but do we ever consider by the toil of whose hand, by the sweat of whose brow, that land was so cultivated? We can have no conception of the hardships the pioneers endured. However, we must not be mistaken. These men did not live that life of their own accord. They simply had to. They were mostly all in poor circumstances in the Old Country, and when they arrived here they just had to stay and struggle along as best they could. The best way I can think of to give some insight into these days is by a sort of sketch of the life of one or two of these early settlers.

One afternoon I happened in to see a real old pioneer, known to everyone around as Aunt Margaret. She was in her little cottage, with its quaint old-fashioned cupboards and clocks, and at my request she sat down, and, still it was quite dark, kept me spellbound with her stories.

Five years before the Robinson emigration, her parents and three children left Scotland, and after a tedious voyage of six weeks in a sailing ship, reached Canada; but as Aunt Margaret cheerily remarked, "I dar' say it was the best time they had in a' their lives." Coming up the St. Lawrence they sailed part of the way and walked the rest, there being no canals to overcome the rapids. The mother and ten-year-old daughter were left at Cobourg, while the father and two sons built a raft of logs, and sailed north across Rice Lake to what is now called Foley's Point. They then followed the present fourth line by the blazed trail of the surveyors for about four miles, when they noted to have something to eat. They knew enough to get dry wood and light a fire; then in a little pot they made porridge with some meal they had brought with them. However, they had no spoons, and were just in the act of whittling some out of wood, when a tree fell on the fire and broke the precious pot, spilling the porridge.

Not far from this spot they built a log shanty. They congratulated themselves on having a snug roof of hemlock boughs, with earth thrown on top to hold them firm, but, alas! when it rained, it rained for two days, for the water kept dripping through the boughs. Aunt Margaret was born at Cobourg. When she was a month old, a man came down on the newly-frozen Rice Lake, and with a wooden hand-sleigh built by himself, brought the mother and two children up. Just as they were nearing land the ice broke, and the poor man sank up to his shoulders in the icy water and mud. The sleigh and its occupants, however,

Father Gapon's Counsels are Now Prevailing

Workmen Tired of the Strike Seek More Peaceful Means.

FATHER GAPON'S ADDRESSES

Postal and Telegraph Tie-Up in Russia Still Complete—Trial of the Conspirators Against the Life of Gen. Trepoff and Others Proceeding Behind Closed Doors — Their Object—People Are Tiring.

St. Petersberg, Dec. 4., via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 5.—The Emperor to-day reviewed the Simnaysky regiment at Tsarskoe Selo. Grand Duke Valdimir and Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch were present. The Emperor drank the health of the regiment. His Majesty appeared to be in good health.

The strike of the Moscow telephone operators, who cut the wires and tied up the poles, has severed the last means of communication with the ancient capital. Sympathy with the poorly paid post and telegraph employes is now turning into indignation against the strikers and all the public is supporting a formidable movement which has been started by all classes to throw off the revolutionaries.

The "Law and Order party" took the lead, which is now being followed by the "Society of Strike Breakers," but the most important movement has been started under the leadership of Father Gapon, the former idol of the workmen, who since his residence abroad has become convinced that Russia is not prepared for a republic and is appealing to his old comrades to cut loose from the revolutionary agitators. The latter already charge that Father Gapon has been bought, and that he is a traitor to the cause of the people. Father Gapon, however, is sincere and his influence undoubtedly is great.

This being a great holiday, Father Gapon attended meetings of eleven of the organizations which he controlled before Jan. 22 (Red Sunday), at which his words were cheered to the echo. At these meetings the Socialist orators were howled and in some cases forcibly ejected. If this movement should grow and an effective split among the workmen be thereby created, it will prove of immeasurable service to the Government in tiding these over until the meeting of the Douma.

THE TERRORIST PLOTTERS.

The Trial of Mademoiselle Leontiff Behind Closed Doors.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3, 9 a. m., via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 4.—The trial of Mademoiselle Leontiff and a dozen others, who are charged with being implicated in a terrorist plot to kill Gen. Trepoff, is proceeding behind closed doors. The evidence developed the existence of a big conspiracy, with ramifications at Moscow and elsewhere, which had for its purpose the assassination of Grand Duke Sergius, already accomplished, and of Gen. Trepoff and other "tyrants." The plot was discovered by accident through a courier, who was carrying a message to one of the conspirators in Finland.

Mademoiselle Leontiff is the daughter of Gen. Leontiff, who last spring was appointed Governor of Yakutsk, Eastern Siberia. It is said that she became a convert to terrorism during her stay at Lucerne.

Poland Free From Military Rule.

Warsaw, Dec. 4.—The abolition of the minor state of martial law was gazetted yesterday, and Poland is now completely freed from military rule.

The President Outlines His New Policy

Strong Hand of Executive Laid Upon Corporate Power.

REMEDY FOR MODERN ABUSES

The Keynote of His Annual Message to Congress Is the Better Control of Combinations—Advocates Federal Supervision of Railway Rates—Study of Women and Children in Industrial Life.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt delivered his annual message to Congress yesterday. He discussed railroad rate legislation at considerable length, under the head of corporations, and among other subjects, deals with the labor question, Federal supervision of insurance, currency, the revenues, corrupt use of money at elections, The Hague Conference, Monroe doctrine, army and navy, the merchant marine, immigration, and the treatment of the Chinese under the present exclusion laws, copyright laws, preservation of Niagara Falls, Alaska and Panama Canal construction.

The message opens by saying that the people of this country continue to enjoy great prosperity, and continues, in part, as follows:

The Great Corporations.

The fortunes amassed through corporate organizations are now so large, and vest such power in those that wield them, as to make it a matter of necessity to give to the sovereign—that is the Government which represents the people as a whole—some effective power of supervision over their corporate use. In order to insure a healthy social and industrial life, every big corporation should be held responsible by, and accountable to, some sovereign strong enough to control its conduct. Experience has shown conclusively that it is useless to try to get any adequate regulation and supervision of these great corporation by state action. I believe that this regulation and supervision can be obtained by the enactment of law by the Congress.

The Railway First.

The first thing to do is to deal with the great corporations engaged in the business of interstate transportation. As I said in my message of December last, the immediate and most pressing need, so far as legislation is concerned, is the enactment into law of some scheme to secure to the agents of the Government such supervision and regulation of the rates charged by the railroads of the country engaged in interstate traffic as shall summarily and effectively prevent the imposition of unjust or unreasonable rates. It must include putting a complete stop to rebates in every shape and form. The first consideration to be kept in mind is that the power should be affirmative, and should be given to some administrative body created by the Congress. If given to the present Interstate Commerce Commission or to a reorganized Interstate Commerce Commission such commission should be made unequivocally administrative. It is not my province to indicate the exact terms of the law which should be enacted.

The Best Method.

The best possible regulation of rates would, of course, be that regulation secured by an honest agreement among the railroads themselves to carry out the law. Such a general agreement would, for instance, at once put a stop to the efforts of any one big shipper or big railroad to discriminate against or secure advantages over some rival, and such agreement would make the railroads themselves agents for enforcing the law. The power vested in the Government to put a stop to agreements to the detriment of the public should in my judgment be accompanied by power to permit under specified conditions and careful supervision agreements clearly in the interest of the public. But in my judgment the necessity for giving this further power is by no means as great as the necessity for giving the commission or administrative body the other powers I have enumerated above, and it may well be inadvisable to attempt to vest this particular power in the commission or other administrative body until it already possesses and is exercising what I regard as by far the most important of all the powers I recommend—as, indeed, the vitally important power—that to fix a given maximum rate, which rate after the lapse of a reasonable time goes into full effect, subject to review by the courts.

Take Them All In.

All private car lines, industrial roads, refrigerator charges and the like should be expressly put under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission or some similar body, so far as rates and agreements practically affecting rates are concerned.

The Congress should provide by legislation for the introduction of the block signals upon all railroads engaged in interestate commerce at the earliest practicable date, as a measure of increased safety to the traveling public.

The excessive hours of labor to which railroad employes in train service are in many cases subjected is also a matter which may well engage the serious attention of the Congress.

The Labor Questions.

I renew the recommendation I made in my last annual message for an investigation by the Department of Commerce and Labor of general labor conditions, especially attention to be paid to the conditions of child labor and child labor legislation in the several states. The Department of Commerce and Labor should also make a thorough investigation of the conditions of women in industry.

The decrease in marriage, and especially in the birth rate, has been coincident with it. We must face accomplished facts, and the adjustment to factory conditions must be made; but surely it can be made with less friction and less harmful effects on family life than is now the case.

Insurance Regulation Needed.

The great insurance companies afford striking examples of the corporations whose business has extended so far beyond the jurisdiction of the states which created them as to preclude strict enforcement of supervision and regulation by the parent states. In my last annual message I recommended "That the Congress carefully consider whether the power of the Bureau of Corporations can be constitutionally extended to cover interstate transactions in insurance."

Recent events have emphasized the importance of an early and exhaustive consideration of this question, to see whether it is not possible to furnish better safeguard than the several states have been able to furnish against corruption of the flagrant kind which has been exposed. It has been only too clearly shown that certain of the men at the head of these large corporations take but small note of the ethical distinction between honesty and dishonesty; they draw the line only this side of what may be called law-honesty, the kind of honesty necessary to avoid falling into the clutches of the law. But much can be done by legislation which is not only drastic but practical. There is need of a far stricter and more uniform regulation of the vast insurance interests of this country.

70 YEARS FOR MARK TRAIN.

Literary Lights of Two Continents Do Him Honor.

New York, Dec. 6.—Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) was the guest of honor last night at a dinner at Delmonicos, given by Col. George Harvey in honor of the humorist's birthday. About 170 authors were present, nearly half of them women. During the dinner a congratulatory cable message was received from England, signed by forty of the most distinguished writers there.

After giving a typical humorous sketch of his career, he concluded.

"Three score years and ten. It is the scriptural statute of limitations. After that you owe no active duties; for you the strenuous life is over. You are a time-expired man, to use Kipling's military phrase. You have served your term, well or less well, and you are mustered out. You are become an honorary member of the republic, you are emancipated. Compulsions are not for you, nor any bugle-call but 'Lights out.' You pay the time-worn duty bills if you choose, or decline if you prefer—and without prejudice; for they are not legally collectible."

40 WORKMEN IN COLLAPSE.

Extraordinary Accident At Charing Cross Station, London, Eng.

London, Dec. 6.—Ninety feet of roof of the southernmost end of the Charing Cross Railroad station collapsed without warning yesterday, carrying with it some 40 workmen who were engaged in repairs on that section of the roof.

The casualty list of this extraordinary accident includes two persons who are known to have been killed, two persons missing and probably buried beneath tons of debris, eight seriously injured and 20 slightly injured. The falling walls of the depot crushed the roof of the Avenue Theatre adjoining the station, injuring therein several men.

Our Apples Win Awards.

London, Dec. 6.—(C. A. P.)—British Columbia's exhibit of apples at Caxton Hall yesterday was the finest seen in England for years. The exhibit covered a space 75 feet long and 6 feet wide, and the Horticultural Society awarded the province a gold medal and eight industrial exhibitors' medals of lesser value. The Nova Scotia exhibit also was much admired and the agent-general was awarded a silver medal and four other exhibitors also received medals.

Mr. Prefontaine Is Satisfied.

London, Dec. 6.—(C. A. P.)—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine expresses himself as having had a very satisfactory interview with the Admiralty authorities, but he declined to say anything further. The Canadian Associated Press understands he has cut short his program regarding visits to the different shipyards.

Agent in Newfoundland.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—The Cabinet has decided to station a commercial agent in St. John's, Nfld. During the last fiscal year Canada sold Newfoundland goods to the amount of $3,473,713, and bought in return to a value of $1,054,613.

LUNENBURG WRECKED.

Another Marine Disaster Off Nova Scotia—M. P. P. a Victim.

Halifax, Dec. 6.—A despatch received yesterday morning by Leslie, Hart & Co., stated that the steamer Lunenburg was ashore at Amherst Island, Magdalen Islands, and was a total wreck and that 13 men were supposed to have been lost. E. J. Leslie, M.P.P., of the firm, is supposed to be among the drowned. The Lunenburg has been on the route between Pictou, N.S., and Magdalen Islands, and was insured for $40,000.

Monday afternoon five men left the wreck and succeeded in reaching land safely. The others decided to stay by the ship. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning the steamer began to break up and those on board decided to take to the boat. A sea struck the boat when half way between the ship and island and swept all into the sea with the exception of the captain, who held on until rescued by a boat from the shore.

18 MONTHS IN CENTRAL.

Newmarket Lawyer Sentenced By Judge Winchester For Theft.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Thomas Hiram Lloyd, barrister of Newmarket, was charged in court with obtaining by theft and fraud various sums, amounting to $5,857.

His defalcations in all are variously estimated at from $70,000 to $100,000. He pleaded guilty and was sent to the Central Prison for 18 months.

Girl of 17 Takes Poison.

Aylmer, Dec. 6.—Beatrice Bentley, a young girl 17 years old, whose parents reside at Eden, Elgin County, committed suicide Monday evening by taking carbolic acid at the home of Henry Miller. She left a letter addressed to a friend in which she stated her intention to take poison, as she was tired of life. No other reason can be given for the rash act.

Gen. Trepoff Again Needed To Restore Order

Word "Dictator" Beginning to Circulate in Russia.

3 RIGA REGIMENTS MUTINY

Sailors of the Imperial Guard Have Also Mutinied—Constant Shipment of Arms to Finland—Postal Tie-Up Is Complete—Strikers Are Firm and Determined — Will the Czar Flee?—Very Little News.

May Mean Work For Trepoff.

Paris, Dec. 4.—A despatch to The Temps from St. Petersburg, dated Sunday, Dec. 3, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, to-day, says:

"The strike of the post and telegraph employes is general, the Government remaining unyielding before the demands of the strikers.

"This situation may be prolonged for several days, but it is doubtful if it will terminate peacefully. Again the word dictator is circulated, as during the early days of November. Gen. Trepoff is said to be ready to return to the scene and restore order by a system of arrests and fusiliades."

Riga Regiments Mutiny.

London, Doc 5.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of The Times says:

Three regiments at Riga have refused to perform police duties.

The Emperor has received in audience Father John of Cronstadt.

Count Alvensleben (former Ambassador at St. Petersburg) has brought an autograph letter from Emperor William to Emperor Nicholas.

The sailors of the imperial guard have mutinied.

Shipping Arms to Finland.

Stockholm, Dec. 5.—Great quantities of arms and ammunition are being imported to Finland.

Every steamer departing for Finland from Sweden carried 100 pounds of ammunition, the limit allowed under Swedish law for passenger steamers.

Every available revolver has been shipped, as well as large quantities of discarded Swedish army guns.

Strikers At Moscow.

Moscow, Dec. 3.—via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 4.—The congress of telegraphers has adopted a resolution to continue the strike declaring that it will be impossible to secure justice until a regime of civil liberty is introduced by a constitutent assembly.

Big Strike at Kieff.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—A despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Kieff, via Podwoloczyska, Dec. 3, noon, says: A strike has broken out in the shops of the Southwestern Railway, and in all the factories.

WILL THE CZAR FLEE?

German Squadron Sighted In Baltic Sea Near Russian Coast.

St. Petersburg, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 4.—It is reported from Cronstadt that a German squadron has been sighted in the Baltic Sea, near the Russian coast.

Rumor attributed the appearance of the squadron as preparatory to the flight of the Russian Imperial family.

Agrarian and anti-Jewish outbreaks are reported to have occurred in the Governments of Chernigoff, Terek, Kursk and Kasan.

France Stands by Russia.

Paris, Dec. 5.—Premier Rouvier made a vehement protest in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday against the Socialist declaration in favor of the russian revolutionists. He said the French Government intended to remain faithful to the friendly allied nation. The Chamber voted its approval of M. Rouvier's statement.

Strikers Are Firm.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—(9 p. m.)—Via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 4.—The city remains quiet, but extreme tension prevails. Armed patrols of cavalry and infantry are in the streets, especially in the neighborhood of the telegraph office. The telegraph and postal tie-up remains complete. Soldiers and employes of other departments are being used to deliver portions of the vast accumulation of mail.

Universal Suffrage.

The authorities profess confidence that the strike will be broken in a few days, but the basis of their optimism it not stated. The immolation of Interior Minister Durnovo seems to offer a way of retreat for the Government. This involves another surrender before the victorious proletariat. Count Witte, is now convinced that the Emperor by acceding to the demand for universal suffrage, may still find a common ground on which the Government and the moderates and the extreme elements can stand.

A Dictator Next.

If this fails to stay the headlong march of events, the proclamation of a ready made constitution might be tried as the last card. Then nothing would remain except the proclamation of a dictatorship.

A Republic of Their Own.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—(9 p.m.)—via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 4.—News which has a curious parallel in the French revolution comes from a little village on the borders of the Baltic, where the people have organized the "Republic of Novaregank." They have issued a manifesto abolishing the rule not only of the Emperor, but of the deity, which has been read in the churches, and the popular assembly halls.

London In the Dark.

London, Dec. 4.—(8 p. m.)—No despatches from St. Petersburg or elsewhere in Russia, with the exception of a brief message from Warsaw, have arrived in London to-day.

The Foreign Office has heard nothing from the British Embassy at St. Petersburg since communications were severed.

Berlin Cut Off.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—No news was received here to-day from St. Petersburg.

LEMNOS TAKEN.

Powers Make Seizure Which May Hasten Surrender.

London, Dec. 5.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: "The international fleet has occupied the island of Lemnos, in European Turkey.

"The Austrian Foreign Office expects that the Porte will immediately acquiese in the demands of the powers."

Canada Now In Control.

Halifax, Dec. 5.—It is announced in military circles that the military hospital was formally taken over by the Canadian authorities yesterday.

Other Imperial properties that have also been transferred to Canadian control are the Wellington Barracks, the Citadel and Royal Artillery Park. The Canadian Government will, it is thought, make arrangements within a short time for the purchase of property in the suburbs, to be used as a cemetery.

Bennett Has One More Chance.

Toronto, Dec. 5.—Joseph Bennett's only hope of continued existence after Dec. 15 is in the Minister of Justice, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, who consented to hear the appeal at Ottawa of L. F. Heyd, K. C., of a new trial. That hearing takes place to-day. The Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall yesterday dismissed Mr. Heyd's application of a new trial on the ground that the evidence convicting the Indian of murder of Betsy Jacobs, the squaw, was sufficient.

Boy Gave Strip of Skin.

Guelph, Dec. 5.—At St. Joseph's Hospital another graft of skin was made on Miss Olive Clegg, the young girl who had her scalp torn off in a Hamilton factory. The skin was taken from Herbert Ryde, son of Edward Ryde, caretaker of the City Hall, a strip eight inches long and one inch wide being removed from each leg above the knee. The first graft has taken fairly well, and the doctors hope to save the girl's life.

Drug Merger Complete.

Montreal, Dec. 5.—D. Bole, M. P., Winnipeg, manager of the new Canadian drug combine, stated yesterday morning that the new merger would get in shape for business on Thursday, when they would meet and elect officers, and settle the details of their policy.

The new merger has failed absolutely in inducing the Lymans and other outside firms to come in.

Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co. In Canada

N. Y. Insurance Investigation Touches This Country.

HIS SALARY WAS $300 A WEEK

Hotelman Brockway Was Put on Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co.'s Pay Roll for That Amount Because He Took Out $6,000 In Policies—Gilt Pill For Trouble Makers —Comparisons Made.

New York, Dec. 5.—The most interesting development in the legislative insurance investigation yesterday was contained in the testimony of Horace H. Brockway, a hotel proprietor and director of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co., who said that he had given $6,000 to President Frederick A. Burnham of that company, at the demand of Mr. Burnham, in 1898.

Mr. Brockway told the committee that Mr. Burnham told him that if he would take out a policy in the Mutual Reserve he would make him a director. Mr. Brockway then took out policies amounting to $6,000.

After having been a director for some time he was put on the pay-roll of the company at $300 a week; received that salary for four months, and then it was cut down to $200 a week. Asked what he did to earn that money he said he looked over some loans for the company, was consulted by policyholders as to whether the company was a good one to insure in and did whatever he was asked to do. He had been getting $300 a week eight weeks when Mr. Burnham demanded the $6,000.

What He Did With the Money.

What President Burnham did with that money was shown by the subsequent testimony of George D. Eldredge, vice-president and actuary of the company, who told the committee that President Burnham told him he had given it to the late Hilary Bell, a newspaper man and publicity agent of the company, to secure the publication of articles favorable to the company at a time when it was being criticised in the newspapers. Mr. Bell had said that he could accomplish much more with the money if he were not compelled to report to the company just what he expended it for.

Mr. Brockway said he is still a director of the company. The reason why President Burnham was not called before the committee was given by his physician, who told the committee yesterday that Mr. Burnham is too sick to appear or even to make a disposition.

A Trouble Maker.

Vice-President Eldredge also told the committee yesterday that his company had much trouble with Andrew J. Clunie, when he was superintendent of insurance of California, and in six years, from 1897, paid Thomas J. Clunie, the commissioner's brother, $7,500 in counsel fees to represent the company before the insurance department and Legislature of that state.

Mr. Hughes was investigating the relations of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co. with the New York State Insurance Department when the committee adjourned until to-day.

Vice-President Eldredge was on the stand nearly all day.

Rates In Canada.

Mr. Hughes asked the witness about the Canadian law of 1904. This law provided for a transfer of the Canadian policyholders of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co. from the assessment plan to a fixed premium plan. Asked if it is true that under that law the policyholders in the United States are compelled, when 65 years old, to pay twice as much as the Canadian policyholder under the company's 15-year plan at the same age. Mr. Eldredge was unable to answer to questions, but promised to get the information for the committee.

The effect of the Canadian law, he said, is to compel the company to guarantee that its rate would not exceed the Great Britain experience table of mortality. Since re-incorporation, he added, the assessment policyholders in the United States are permitted to change their policies to a fixed premium plan, not subject to assessment.

Mr. Eldredge compared the policies issued to Canadians under the new law there to the policy held by David Hall, who had complained to Governor Folk of Missouri that the Mutual Reserve had notified him that he owed the company $1.329 after having paid premiums to the company for a long term of years.

Perkins to Quit.

Mr. Eldredge said the lien of $1,329 on Hall's policy would be wiped out in 16 years, while the lien on the Canadian policy would wipe out the policy in 29 years. This is because Hall paid so much larger premiums than the Canadian, as to pay five per cent. interest on the lien while the company charged the Canadian, under the law, 4 1-2 per cent. interest on the lien of his policy.

Senator Armstrong, chairman of the committee, said yesterday that the committee expected to finish its work by Dec. 31, but that if it did not, the committee would not pass out of existence when the Legislature assembled, unless that body so ordered.

The Evening Post yesterday says: "Geo. W. Perkins of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., will retire from the vice-presidency of the New York Life Insurance Co. and from the chairmanship of its finance committee at the coming election next April. A friend of Mr. Perkins declared yesterday that this step has been taken at the suggestion of Mr. Morgan himself, and that the decision would be formally announced very soon."

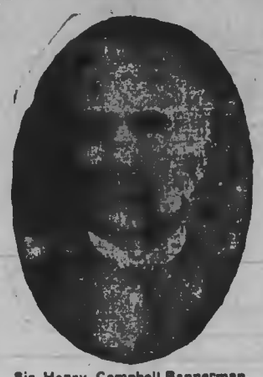
Brifain's New Premier Nas Been Called

Campbell-Bannerman Assumes the Reins of Power.

LORD ROSEBERY NOT IN IT

Entire Program Now Seems to Have Been Cut and Dried For Some Time —Speculations Concerning the Probable Members of the New Cabinet—Lord Aberdeen May Be Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

London, Dec. 5.—The London Times says: Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman yesterday accepted the task of forming a new Government. It is confidently stated that Lord Rosebery will not be a member of the Liberal Ministry.



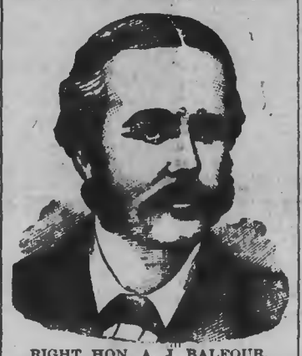
Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

Balfour Tenders Resignation.

London, Dec. 5.—The political crisis in the United Kingdom reached a climax yesterday when Arthur J. Balfour, the Premier, formally tendered the resignations of himself and the members of his Cabinet to King Edward, who accepted them.

The meeting of the Privy Council, which was set for this morning, has been postponed to a later date.

Premier Balfour's next public appearance will be among his own constituents at Manchester next Saturday, where he will make a speech explaining the reasons for his resignation, and possibly outline the Unionist electoral campaign.



RIGHT HON. A. J. BALFOUR.

A partial list of the honors usually conferred upon the retirement of a Government was issued last night. It includes a peerage for Sir Thomas Sanderson, the retiring Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs and several minor honors.

His Majesty has invited Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman to an interview this morning, when he will offer him the mission of forming a new Cabinet. Sir Henry will accept the task, and within a few days, even within a few hours, a new Government will be formed.

Campbell-Bannerman Called.

A brief announcement was made last night that the Cabinet had resigned, that the King had accepted the resignations of his Ministers, and that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman had been sent for.

It would now appear that the entire program has been cut and dried for some time, and it is even probable that the Liberal leader has already completed his Cabinet, though this, like everything else in connection with British officialdom, must be left to surmise.

Rosebery Not In It.

It may be stated as certain that Lord Rosebery will be entirely ignored in the make-up of the new Cabinet, and that John Morley will be one of the chief advisers of Sir Henry in drawing up the list of his official family, which will be presented to His Majesty.

Mr. Morley himself is considered likely to go to the Indian Office, and it is probable that Herbert Henry Asquith will be Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Foreign Affairs portfolio will go either to Lord Elgin or Sir Edward Grey, though the latter is considered likely to be made Secretary for the Colonies. Aside from these, there is a degree of uncertainty.

Aberdeen For Ireland.

It is believed that the Earl of Aberdeen will be the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and that Herbert John Gladstone will be named as Secretary of State for the Department.

The Irish Issue.

One thing is certain—that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has explained his attitude on home rule. Since his speech at Sterling, which raised such a furore, Sir Henry has not made any statement but it confidently is asserted in the Liberal clubs that he is ready with a policy which will secure the adhesion of the Nationalists and at the same time avoid raising the issue as one of most prominent planks in his platform.

There is some uncertainty as to when the dissolution of Parliament will be effective, but it is not considered probable until after the new year.

Irish and Labor Party.

An interesting feature of the political situation is the prospect of a closer alliance between the Irish and the Labor parties in the new Parliament. James Keir Hardie, the Socialist and Independent member, in a political speech last night frankly invited such an alliance. He pointed out that 45 Labor members combined with 75 Irish members, would provide a voting strength which no Government, however strong, could afford to ignore.

Speaking at Waterford, John Redmond said the importance of the colonies was as nothing compared with the good-will and friendship of Ireland. They contributed nothing to the expenses of the Empire, but were a considerable expense and a liability against England, for if attacked tomorrow all the resources of the Empire would be placed at their disposal.

RIGHT NOURISHMENT.

We think of nourishment as food—meats, soups, vegetables, etc., but that's only half. It's not the food alone that counts but the good that we get from food that furnishes nourishment. A pound of steak is of less value to a weak stomach than a crust of bread is to a strong digestion. But weak stomachs can be made strong. Begin by eating less; have regular hours for meals; avoid fancy things and about a half hour after eating take a tablespoonful of Scott's Emulsion. It's a fact of medical history that people have lived on not much else but Scott's Emulsion for a long time—not only lived but gained flesh and recovered their strength and health. From the pure Norwegian cod liver oil to the last drop of glycerine, Scott's Emulsion contains just the strength-giving and health-building elements needed for low vitality, weak digestion and poorly nourished bodies.

NOW IT'S SASKATCHEWAN.

Candidates Nominated For the Legislature—Liberal Victory Assured.

Regina, Dec. 5.—Nominations for the first Provincial election in Saskatchewan were made yesterday, and passed off without anything unusual to mark the occasion. The Liberals have scored first blood in Humboldt, where opposition chances were admittedly hopeless. Dr. W. Neeley has been elected by acclamation. This is the only seat in the province where there is no contest. However, all indications point to another landslide almost as overwhelming for Haultain as that which engulfed Mr. Bennett in Alberta. In Batoche, where Mr. Benoit retired, J. Bouchier was secured at the last moment to lead the forlorn hope of Mr. Haultain.

Killed On the Track.

Alvinston, Dec. 5.—Peter Moore, a laborer, while walking on the M. C. R. tracks yesterday morning, was struck by the local train and instantly killed. Coroner Dr. J. F. Hartyn decided that an inquest was necessary.

Found Dead In Cellar.

St. Johns, Que., Dec. 5.—Francis Bedard, contractor and milk dealer, was found dead Sunday morning in a newly-excavated cellar on Grant street. It is supposed he was passing and stumbled into the cellar.

355 Deserted.

London, Dec. 5.—(C.A.P.)—It is officially stated there were 355 desertions during the tour of Prince Louis of Battenberg's fleet in Canadian and United States waters.

ANCIENT SEA WALLS.

Punishment That Was Inflicted For Neglecting Their Repair.

W. H. Wheeler in his "History of the Fens of South Lincolnshire" quotes Harrison as saying, in his preface to Holinshed's "Chronicle," that "such as, having walls or banks near unto the sea, do suffer the same to decay, after convenient admonition, whereby the water entereth and drowneth up the country, are by a certain ancient custom apprehended, condemned and staked to the breach, where they remain forever a patent to the new wall that is to be made upon them, as I have heard reported."—P. 40.

Harrison, too late as I am at present able to state, is the earliest authority for this, and he only speaks of it as a report.

In a paper by the Rev. E. J. Spurrell in "The Archæologia Cantiana" relating to Dartford, I find the following, which, though it is by no means a proof of what Harrison had heard, tends to make the statement less improbable than it otherwise would be:

"In early times the Roman way crossed the marsh astroubled by the tide. Afterward, the tide having advanced further inland, the road was raised, becoming a causeway. In mediæval times this bank was heightened against the tide, the road running inside, as at present. During a section made a few years ago through this road, near Stidolph's house, I saw a human skeleton extended across the bank about two feet below the present surface. This is, of course, a strange situation; but, looking to the fact that it was a tide wall, it is possible that the once owner of the skeleton had the duty of repairing the bank and, having let the tide through by his neglect, was placed in the breach, thus helping to repair it while suffering punishment. S. Smiles has mentioned that such a mode of dealing was a mediæval custom. However, I know not how far the ancient graveyard extended hereabout, so that the body, which showed no signs of burial, might yet have been buried in sacred ground."—London Notes and Queries.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Don't shoot your rival. Behave better than he does.

Every one has an excuse for drinking. None of them is good.

How many people are you "comfortable" with? Not very many probably.

When it comes to romance, the kind found in books is very superior to the real thing.

It is stated there is an exception to every rule, but don't hope you will be one to the rule of old age.

A good many people are like little birds in a nest. When you praise them they lie still with their mouths wide open for more.

Engines are very much like people. The switch engine makes more fuss around the depot than the engines on the through trains. The cheaper the person, the more trouble he causes.

Beauty and the Beast.

A well known southern churchman was recently visiting New York, accompanied by his wife, who is as beautiful as her life mate is homely. They were walking down Broadway one sunny afternoon, and the pair attracted much attention. One of two young "sports," evidently thinking to attract the favorable attention of the churchman's wife, in an audible aside remarked that it was another case of "the beauty and the beast." Quick as a wink the husband turned and, as he swung his right to the speaker's jaw, scoring a knockout, said, "I am a man of peace, but I never allow any one to call my wife a beast."

HUMOR

OF COURSE HE COULD COOK

But There Was One Little Detail Which Brown Neglected.

"The trouble with women is that they never grasp a thing as a whole," said Brown. "They are all very well as parts of a machine, but they can't make it run. They'll do what they're told and not an inch more. That's the reason they are no good in a man's sphere. Now, a man in a woman's sphere"—

"Apropos of that subject, my dear," interrupted Mrs. Brown, "I was just going to ask you if you thought you could cook the dinner if I went to church this morning."

"Cook the dinner! Of course I can," replied Brown. "Haven't I"—

"Oh, yes, you have been part of the machine; you have peeled the potatoes, basted the meat and stirred the gravy under my directions, but you have never personally conducted a dinner from start to finish all by yourself."

"Well, that isn't to say I can't," sniffed Brown. "Why, it's a mere child's play."

"Very well," said Mrs. Brown. "I'll write down on a piece of paper just the time each thing is to be put on to cook, and if you watch the clock you can't go farwrong."

"You'll find it will be the best dinner you have ever eaten, and it will be on time, too," boasted Brown as he set the clock on the radiator, where he could glance at it between the pages of the Sunday paper.

Church over, Mrs. Brown returned, but as no savory odor of roasting beef assailed her nostrils as she entered the apartment she began to suspect something was wrong.

"Did you put the meat on at 11?" she asked.

Brown emerged from the newspaper long enough to declare he had done so.

"And the potatoes at 12? And the other vegetables at half past? Then, I suppose, dinner is all ready to serve?"

"Quite ready"—Brown held up the clock—"and exactly on the dot of 1. When have you ever had dinner ready so promptly, Mrs. B.?"

Brown began to swell visibly with self satisfaction, but when his wife returned from a tour of inspection in the rear of the apartment there was a queer little smile about her lips which made him uneasy.

"I hope you're not very hungry," she remarked.

"Why?"

"Because dinner won't be ready for two hours."

"Wh-what do you mean?" gasped Brown. "Didn't I do everything all right?"

"Yes, except light the gas in the range."

Inspired.

"Do you know what great scheme Sister Susan had?"

"No; do tell me."

"Why, she went out and gathered all the fall leaves she could find in real damp places and pressed them in the family Bible on the birth record pages, so that all the ages written there were stained up past reading when they opened it again."

Grasping at a Straw.

"Pshaw!" said the judge. "There's no reason why you people should be divorced. Go home and make up. There are no grounds" —

"But, judge," the man frantically interrupted, "she hasn't told you the whole truth. I pushed her downstairs once, and it was miraculous that she wasn't killed or crippled for life."

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND JEWS.

Terribly Sad Parade of Afflicted Nation's Sons in New York.

New York, Dec. 5.—One hundred thousand Jews, each wearing a band of crepe on the left arm, marched under a myriad of black banners through the principal streets of the east side yesterday, accompanied by bands playing dirges, in memory of the Jews massacred in Russia. Hundreds of women and children, grouped in singing bands, were scattered throughout the long parade.

The procession marched to the plaza in Union square, where it resolved itself into a mass meeting to formulate resolutions. Brief but terse resolutions were read by their leaders to the thousands of paraders. The voting was done orally, with a great shout, in which the resolutions were adopted unanimously. After outlining the Russian atrocities and calling upon the United States to interfere in behalf of the Jew, the resolutions continue:

"To our overwhelming shame, disappointment and sorrow, we realize that eternal vigilance is the price of the Jewish life, and we urge our people to take up arms against their assailants and if need be, to sell their lives most dearly. We call Jews everywhere to the defence of the Jewish people."

DIXON SENTENCED.

Judge Sends Jewellery Thief to Penitentiary For Long Term.

Woodstock, Dec. 5.—Walter Dixon, the man arrested for the jewel robbery, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning and heard four different charges laid against him. The charges are all in connection with the one robbery, but have reference to the property stolen from various members of John White's family.

Dixon chose not to plead, waived examination and elected to go before Judge Finkle for trial.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon Dixon was brought before Judge Finkle and arraigned.

He pleaded guilty to all four charges, but asked to be leniently dealt with on the ground that he had relatives in England who would look after him, and he wanted to go there and end his days.

Judge Finkle sentenced Dixon to five years in the penitentiary.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Gladstone's Early Joys.

When Mr. Gladstone was quite an old man it chanced that he and Mr. Chaplin were staying at the same country house together on a visit. One night after dinner the Grand Old Man asked Mr. Chaplin whether his grandmother had not lived in a certain street in Mayfair. Mr. Chaplin replied that she had done so. "Well," said Mr. Gladstone, "I remember it distinctly. I lived next door to her for awhile when I was a child. She used to give evening parties. When the carriages were assembled to take up, my brother and I used to creep out of bed—it was in the summer time—softly open the window, get out our squirts and discreetly fire away at the coachmen on the boxes. I remember the intense delight with which we used to see them look up to the sky and call out to ask each other whether it wasn't beginning to rain."

Wonderful Miniature Book.

The smallest bound book in the great collection of miniature books owned by the New York Library society is a campaign document issued in 1852. It bears not only the distinction of being the smallest volume in the great collection referred to, but has been pronounced by experts in bookdom to be one of the tiniest books in existence. It contains but fourteen leaves, each of which is closely printed on both sides in microscopic type. Each leaf is one and one-half inches in length and seven-eighths of an inch in width. The title page bears the following inscription: "Life and Public Services of General Pierce. Respectfully Dedicated to General Lewis Cass. Concord Press, 1852."

BABIES AND THE PARSON.

How His Scheme For Keeping Them Quiet Was Spoiled.

The Rev. Myron Hall was a gifted young man and a conscientious worker. Nature had endowed him with abundance of brains and also abundance of nerves. He was exceedingly nervous. Any noise in his congregation would completely rattle him. Yet when Mrs. Woodby's baby cried during service on the first Sunday in his new pastorate in the hamlet of H. he had, with bravado, told the congregation not to mind the baby; that he could make as much noise as it could. But when the next Sunday two and the third Sunday four babies cooed and mammaed and bowled in chorus it was more than he could stand. He was just on the point of offering a deadly insult to the various mothers by asking them to leave the church when his guardian angel came to his aid with a splendid suggestion. Immediately his plan was put into operation. A party of ten young girls of the congregation gladly consented to mind the babies during service in the Sunday school room. The scheme worked splendidly. There were no more babies in the congregation and no more noise.

For two months all went well. Then the evil one came into this paradise in the form of Freddie Smith. Freddie had been to town on Saturday. For the fun of the thing he bought a bag of gumdrops, half of which were the real kind, the other half filled with pepper.

The next morning, just as the Rev. Mr. Hall was waxing eloquent, Freddie slipped into the schoolroom and treated the babies to gumdrops—mostly the pepper kind—and slipped out again.

If a regiment of artillery had suddenly commenced to batter down the church it could hardly have created a greater panic than that which followed. It was simply awful, overpowering, terrible.

The effect upon the congregation was instantaneous. They rose as one person and moved toward the Sunday school room. Fifteen frightened mothers headed the procession in a stampede, followed more leisurely by fifteen dignified but worried fathers. Then came elder brothers and sisters, neighbors and the minister. The Sunday school nursery collapsed from that moment and was never resumed.—Magazine of Fun.

No Smoke For Him.

There is a clever young physician in Philadelphia who has never been able to smoke a cigar. "Just one poisons me," says the youthful doctor.

Recently the doctor was invited to a large dinner party given by a New York friend. At the conclusion of the repast, when the women had left the table, cigars were accepted by all the men except the physician from Philadelphia. Seeing his friend refuse the cigar, the host in astonishment exclaimed:

"What, not smoking? Why, my dear fellow, you lose half your dinner!"

"Yes, I know I do," meekly replied the doctor, "but if I smoked I would lose the whole of it!"—St. Louis Republic.

Her Opinion of Him.

"Yaas," said Cholly, "I was introduced to Miss Peppry lawst evening, and I fawncy she confused me with some one else. She seemed puzzled."

"Yes," replied Miss Sharpe. "She told me afterward that you did impress her like the average puzzle. 'So simple when you know it.'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Step by Step.

"I want to do great things!" exclaimed the ambitious young man to the old financier. "How, sir, would you advise me to go at it?"

"To begin with," drawled the elderly millionaire calmly, "I would advise you first to accomplish something small!"

Cause and Effect.

Tom—I started to propose to Miss Hoamley-Rich last evening, but I lost my courage.

Dick—And didn't she help you out?

Tom—No, but her father did. That's when I lost my courage.—Catholic Standard and Times.

"He was too proud to beg and too honest to steal."

"Poor man! What happened to him? Did he starve?"

"Worse than that. He had to go to work."

DIED FROM OPERATION.

Opening of the Inquest into Young Woman's Death.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 5.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Miss Clarke, the young lady operated on by Dr. Preston, and whose death is believed to have been caused by abortion, was begun last night. Nothing conclusive of a startling nature turned out. It was shown that Preston had given a prescription for ergot, but it was not proved that the drug was for the victim of the operation.

Bosanell and Roberts, doctors, who performed the post-mortem, testified that the girl had died from the operation which caused the abortion.

The mother of the girl swore her daughter knew she was going to die.

Sensational evidence is expected at the next session of the inquest.

ADMIT INSOLVENCY.

C., H. & D. and the Pere Marquette Are in Receiver's Hands.

Cincinnati, Dec. 5.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and the Pere Marquette Railroads yesterday were ordered placed in the hands of a receiver by United States Circuit Judge Henry Lurton, and Judson Harmon, formerly United States Attorney-General, was appointed receiver, giving bonds for $200,000.

Application for a receiver was made by Attorney Lawrence Maxwell, jr., on behalf of Walter B. Hurn of New York, a creditor of both roads, and was agreed to by the defendants, in answers admitting the principle charges of insolvency.

THE PLUMBERS.

Hearing Begun Before Mr. Justice Clute in Toronto Assizes.

Toronto, Dec. 5.—Mr. Justice Clute resumed the hearing of the Plumbers' case in the Assize Court yesterday and will keep at it from day to day now until it is completed. The evidence given was along the same lines as that which has been given in the other case in the Police Court, regarding penalties, bonuses, the agreement with the Union for a mutual house-cleaning, the effort to keep off competition, and the agreements with supply houses through which it was sought to cripple independent plumbers.

Trampled to Death.

Brockville, Dec. 5.—The death occurred in the General Hospital of Albert Breese, one of the promising young farmers of this district. The other afternoon he had ridden one of the farm horses to an enclosure on the farm to drive out some horses that are pasturing. Just what occurred will never be known, for he was alone. It is supposed he fell from the horse he was riding, and was trampled upon by the others. He unconsciously dragged himself to the house, and later was removed to Brockville. An examination showed that the base of the skull was terribly injured. Breese was only thirty-three years of age and unmarried.

More Marine Disasters.

Yarmouth, N. S., Dec. 5.—As the schooner James was entering this harbor in a gale, the foreboom knocked overboard one of the crew named John Ewatt of West Dublin. No trace of him was seen afterwards.

At Meat Cove, C. B., at 8 o'clock yesterday morning the steamer Lunenburg was seen ashore outside Sand Beach, abreast of Amherst Harbor, Magdalen Islands.

A North Sydney despatch says: The schooner Ohio, which left Grand Bank, Nfld., on Nov. 15 to load coal at this port, has not been heard from, and it is feared has been lost.

Killed By Falling Tree.

Guelph, Dec. 5.—James Lowes, a former well-known resident of Guelph, is dead as a result of injuries sustained in being struck by a falling tree at his home, 12th line, Peel. On Friday, Lowes, in company with his son and others were in the bush chopping wood. They were cutting down a tree of unusual size when it broke in two and fell. One portion struck Lowes across the back, and several of his ribs were broken, and he sustained severe internal injuries. Deceased was 69 years of age. Besides a widow, three daughters and two sons survive.

Injured By Gas Explosion.

St. Catharines, Dec. 5.—A gas explosion occurred yesterday morning in the Nasmith Co. bakery. Miss Mary Goffin, a clerk in the store, was burned on the head and arm, and William Lynn, foreman of the cake department, is in the hospital suffering from bad burns on the head, face and chest.

BLOOD HUMORS

PIMPLES
BLOTCHES
FLESHWORMS
HUMORS

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by unseemly Blotches, Pimples, Eruptions, Fleshworms and Humors, and various other blood diseases.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted, as well as pain and regret to their friends.

Many a cheek and brow—cast in the mould of grace and beauty—have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and their possessor rendered unhappy for years.

Why, then, consent to rest under this cloud of embarrassment?

There is an effectual remedy for all these defects, it is,

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

This remedy will drive out all the impurities from the blood and leave the complexion healthy and clear.

Miss Annie Tobin, Madoc, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending your Burdock Blood Bitters to any one who may be troubled with pimples on the face. I paid out money to doctors, but could not get cured, and was almost discouraged, and despaired of ever getting rid of them. I thought I would give B.B.B. a trial, so got two bottles, and before I had taken them I was completely cured and have had no sign of pimples since."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, for over 30 years, and has cured thousands in that time. Do not accept a substitute which unscrupulous dealers say is "just as good." "It can't be."

Supplementary Meetings Have Been Arranged

Four Farmers' Institute Meetings in January in West Peterborough — Series of Winter Meetings Will Open in Lakefield on Thursday —The Speakers Who Will Address the Gatherings— Are Experts in Their Lines.

AN INTERESTING SERIES ASSURED

To-morrow the first of the series of winter meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute will be held in Lakefield, when, in both the afternoon and evening, interesting meetings will be held, the speakers being the president, Mr. C. W. Nash, Toronto, and Mr. W. C. Shearer, Bright.

The secretary of the institute, Mr. Wm. Collins, has received word of the supplementary meetings. The places and dates are as follows:

Ennismore, January 3.
4th Line, Smith, January 4.
Stewart's, Otonabee, January 5.
Selwyn, Smith, January 6.

The speakers for these meetings will be Messrs. W. S. Fraser, Bradford, and W. C. Shearer, Bright.

The annual report of the Farmers' Institute gives some interesting information about the speakers who have been delegated to attend the meetings in the ridings.

Fraser, W. S. Bradford. — Mr. Fraser is one of the pioneer Institute workers of Ontario. In the early days when Institute work was in its infancy he attended the meetings as the "practical" man, on a deputation composed largely of college professors. He is a thoroughly practical farmer, and has lived on the same farm for fifty years. He is well acquainted with most of the farm problems, and, having been over the entire Province on Institute work, has become a valuable worker.

Subjects—"Noxious Weeds and How to Deal With Them," "Seed Selection," "Clover and Its Uses," "Sheep Management," "Bacon Hog," "Soil Cultivation, Underdraining," "Feeds and Feeding." Evening — "Home Life on the Farm," "Something Needful for Farmers."

Nash, C. W., 94 Lee avenue, Toronto.—Mr. Nash has an international reputation on the subjects that embrace natural history. He has long been an authority on birds, and has written bulletins, both for the Department of Agriculture and for the Department of Education on this important subject. His talks also deal with plant and insect life, as well as the rearing and breeding of domestic animals. Probably there is no one on the staff who can better interest young people at Institute meetings than Mr. C. W. Nash.

Subjects—"Chemistry of the Soil," "How Plants Grow," "Breeding of Domestic Animals," "The Value of Our Birds," "Our Insect Pests," "Nature About the Farm," "The Enemies of the Pea Crop and How to Deal with Them."

Shearer, W. C., Bright.—Dairying is the particular department of farming in which Mr. Shearer has been eminently successful. He is thoroughly practical, a good speaker, an Institute man of experience for some years past, and is a most acceptable delegate. As will be seen from his subjects, Mr. Shearer is also prepared to discuss the bacon, seed and corn questions.

Subjects—"Rotation of Crops and Selection of Seed Grain," "Corn in Drills or Hills for the Silo?" "The Cultivation of Mangels, Potatoes and Turnips," "The Bacon Hog and His Feeding," "Selecting a Dairy Herd." Evening—"Pure-bred Poultry for Boys and Girls," "Making a Success on the Farm."

Publow, G. G., Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario, Kingston.—"The Care and Production of Milk for Cheese Factories," "The Importance of Properly-built, Well-equipped and Sanitary Factories," "Skill and Forethought Essential in the Manufacture of Cheese," "The Cheese Industries of the Dominion."

With this array of speakers and practically excellent selection of subjects, the meetings should be of decided interest and profit.

WOMAN'S NEED

AT THE CRITICAL PERIODS OF HER LIFE AND HOW IT IS BEST SUPPLIED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

We are sometimes asked why Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so successful in curing the ailments peculiar to women, and this is the explanation:

The feminine organism is a regular network of nerves, and consequently requires an enormous quantity of rich, nourishing blood.

At the critical times such as the dawn of womanhood, the child-bearing and nursing age and the change of life, nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate.

The blood is drawn away from other parts of the body, and the result is neuralgic pains and aches, failure of the digestive system, and a run-down condition of the body generally.

Dr Chase's Nerve Food supplies exactly what is most needed at these times—the very elements from which rich blood and vital nerve force are made.

Women who suffer from weakness and irregularities from painful periods and distressing headaches, from tired, worn-out feelings, and the disorders of the digestion, will be surprised at the benefits obtained from the use of the great food cure of Dr. Chase.

Mrs. Chas. Keeling, Sr., Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"It is a pleasure to tell what great benefits I have derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I am fifty five years of age, and for about five years my life was one of great suffering from nervousness, weakness and extreme physical exhaustion. I could not sleep, and hot flashes would pass through my body from feet to head. I consulted our family physician and two other doctors, but they told me about my time of life I was likely to be troubled that way. I continually grew worse, and despaired of ever being cured. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food came to my notice, and as we have Dr. Chase's Receipt Book, I had confidence in the doctor. I was so surprised at the help I received from the first box that I brought three more. They built me right up and made me feel healthy and strong again. They have proven a great blessing to me, and I hope this testimonial will be of help to some weak, nervous woman suffering as I did."

It is well worth your while to put and, while the blood and nerves are being revitalized and the form rounded out, note your increase in weight; so that you may have positive proof of the blood-forming value of this great medicine. 50 cts. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on every box.

Severe on a Witness at Plumbers' Case

Mr. Mann of London Told to Leave the Box By Judges.

WHILE WITNESS EXPLAINS

Anxious to Illuminate Former Evidence Judge Clute Intimates That He Does Not Believe the Witness — Central Supply Association— Plumbers Closed Shops East of Rat Portage to Kingston.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—The feature of the plumbers' case in the Assize Court yesterday was the unsuccessful attempt of a witness to convince Mr. Justice Clute that he was thoroughly truthful. Mr. A. W. Mann, of the Canada Brass & Supply Co., London, was in the witness-box several days ago, and swore that the company had not refused to supply goods to anyone on the ground of their not being members of the Plumbers' Association. When Mr. DuVernet confronted him with a letter in which he refused goods to Messrs. Guest, of this city, for that very reason, he swore the letter was true, but when his Lordship demanded a reconciliation of the two statements, he declared that the reason given in the letter was a subterfuge; that the firm's credit was not good, but that he did not care to say so. The judge told him he did not believe him.

There Was Discrimination.

Mr. Justice Clute—"Do you swear now that your house did not discriminate?" "What do you mean by discrimination?"

"Answer that question." "I think there was discrimination."

"Then why did you swear there was not?" "I swore they didn't refuse to supply a certain thing. I had the option of selling to some 95 per cent., or of selling to five per cent., and as a business proposition I quite naturally sold to the 95 per cent., and did refuse to sell in cases."

"You can explain as you like but you have not explained the variance in your testimony yet." "I was telling the truth, and I thought you were under the impression that I was not."

"I was under the impression that in one case you swore one way and in another the other way." "I am here to tell the truth, and I would not go into the box to do anything else."

"It was manifest that in one case you were discriminating, and you swore point blank you were not," said his Lordship, decisively. The witness started to explain that he had not refused people because they were not members of the association, but he was cut short by the judge's saying: "I will not argue."

Told to Leave the Box.

Mr. Mann repeated that he had sold to the larger proportion of the market, but that he had refused to sell to some people, as correspondence in the hands of the Crown Prosecutor would show.

"You were not admitting it in the box," observed his Lordship.

"I was trying to answer right, that is what I was there for. Don't you understand me now, my Lord?"

"Nobody assumed there was any misunderstanding of your evidence except yourself," said his Lordship.

"To have a judge on the bench tell you he didn't believe you was rather a hard blow to a man, and I wanted to explain," Mr. Mann continued.

"I thought you distinctly deserved it, and I think so still," broke in Mr. Justice Clute sharply. "You can leave the box."

Central Supply Association.

Samuel J. Frame was the chief witness put in by Crown Attorney Curry, who conducted the prosecution during the afternoon in the absence of Mr. DuVernet. Frame is a confidential clerk in Jenkins & Hardy's office and admitted having acted as secretary-treasurer of the Supply Association a number of times. He was a cautious witness.

He described the formation of the Central Supply Association organization meeting which took place in Hardy's office. The original members were: The James Morrison Brass Co., the James Robertson Co., the Ontario Lead and Wire Co., the Stevens Manufacturing Co.

The agreement upon which they worked was: We the undersigned, agree to form an association to cover plumbers' supplies at a list price and discount, hereafter to be agreed upon."

On Dec. 11, 1902, the following resolution was passed: "Resolved, that each firm notify all its agents and travelers that association prices are firmly in force and must be rigidly adhered to."

The Closed Area.

In a later motion towns west of Kingston and east of Rat Portage were declared to be closed. All prices submitted within that area were to be at association prices.

B. J. Morris described the formation of the Central Supply Association. All the old funds were deposited to the credit of the bank account of the new association.

"Did you know of the understanding between members of the Plumbers' Supply Association and the Master Plumbers?" asked Mr. Curry.

"I knew there was a working arrangement between several members of the Supply Association and the Master Plumbers."

"The Plumbers' Supply Association became a branch of the Central Supply Association, and you were trying to form other branches?"

"I suppose that is correct."

"Who managed the association?"

"Jenkins & Hardy."

"What caused the delay in signing the agreement submitted by Watson, Smoke and Smith?"

"We were awaiting the result of the Crashley case."

"Why so?"

"There were dozens of interests to be combined under that agreement. We were trying to get in the brass companies and the soil and lead pipes. There would not have been any money in it for the Toronto plumbers unless the whole of the province was brought in. They would be forced to work under a disadvantage of having to pay 7 1-2 per cent."

The court adjourned till to-day.

NEW CABINET NEXT WEEK.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman So Notifies the King.

London, Dec. 6.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman saw King Edward at Buckingham Palace yesterday and accepted the task of forming a new Cabinet.

The Duke of Devonshire, Liberal-Unionist, and former lord president of the council, was among the callers on the new Premier before the latter went to the palace, and in political circles importance is attached to the visit, as possibly signifying some kind of a working agreement on certain points of policy between the anti-protectionist Unionists, of which the Duke has been the recognized leader since his secession from the Balfour Cabinet, and the new Government.

The following official announcement was made last night:

"Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman informed King Edward that he will be unable to submit his proposed arrangements in connection with the formation of a new Government until Dec. 11.

"King Edward left London yesterday afternoon to visit Lord Allington at Crichel, Winborne.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD

APPLIED AS A COLD CREAM ACTS AS A MEDICINE.

Wherever applied, its healing and nourishment is instantly absorbed by the pores. It strengthens and builds up the tissues underlying the skin and Firm, Healthy Flesh is the result.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is no new experiment. It has been in use for more than fifty years and during that time thousands of women and men have used it with entire satisfaction.

That it is not to be classed with "Cold Creams" and other things of like superficial potency is proved by the fact that it is prescribed by leading physicians and used in hospitals for the nutrition of invalids whose stomachs are too weak to digest food.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD should be used by every woman who has the least desire to be attractive. It is the only preparation that will round out hollowed, thin cheeks or scrawny neck with Firm, Healthy Flesh and Remove Wrinkles from the face and hands, no matter how deep the furrow.

FOR DEVELOPING THE IMMATURE BUST or to make the breast firm, large and beautiful nothing can equal it. To prevent the breasts from shrinking, after weaning baby, mothers should always use DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD. It will also restore a bosom to its natural contour and beauty lost through nursing and sickness.

ON SALE AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is $1.00 a box, but to introduce it into thousands of new homes we have decided to send Two (2) boxes to all who answer this advertisement and send us $1.00. All packages are sent in plain wrapper, postage prepaid.

FREE. A Sample Box—just enough to convince you of the great merit of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD—will be sent free for 10 cents, which pays for cost of mailing. were safe, and Nellie, the older child, was placed on the man's back with her blanket wrapped around both, without which the man said he surely would have frozen to death. Thence they tramped through the snow to their new home.

When the baby was seven months old her mother became ill with the ague (a very prevalent disease at that time), and remained so for nine months, during which time her chief food was potatoes and occasionally gruel made with flour and water. Also a woman from Cobourg gave her a hen which laid an egg every day, and this was always given to the sick mother, who said it was that which kept her alive. To add to their discouragements, one day while at dinner, the shanty took fire. The father picked up the mother and baby, and, carrying them out, left them on a flat stone in the snow.

And I can see that stone every time I pass that way," said Aunt Margaret. The shanty was burned to the ground, and only a few things were snatched out.

A second log house was at once built on Fairy Glen Farm. The baby was attended by her brother, who first chewed the food himself and then fed it to her. He said she became just like a little bird, opening up her mouth to receive it. After a time she was taken to Cobourg to be tended properly by a woman who had a row. As her father was carrying her there he became hungry, and, laying her down, began to eat the huckleberries growing around; but he wandered off and lost the child. After a desperate search he found her. But she was just the colour of the earth, so covered was she with mosquitoes.

As there were no oxen the men had to draw the logs for their shanties and for burning, themselves. It took twelve men to pull one log, so one can imagine how tedious the work was. The men and women both worked skidding the logs into heaps, while the children gathered chips and flung them on top to be burned. It seems a pity that such beautiful wood should have been wasted then, which we would prize so highly now. After a time some tried to make money by selling the potash made from the ashes in the burnt fallows, but they did not succeed very well. Money was so extremely scarce that the settlers forbade their relatives at home writing, as they could not afford the postage, which was one shilling and four pence per letter.

When the logs were burned the ground was hoed between the stumps, and potatoes were planted, which grew abundantly in the rich, new soil. As long as the men had money they got flour from Cobourg by tramping thirty miles along a blazed trail and bringing a bag home on the back. But when the tiny supply of money was done they got no more credit at Cobourg, but had to thresh the little wheat they grew themselves among the stumps, by beating it with flails on the hard ground. This was done by the men at night. After shopping in the woods from early dawn. They separated the chaff by throwing the grain in the air on a windy day and thus letting the chaff blow away. This was called winnowing. They took the grain, one bag at a time, to the lake shore, and in a tiny boat of their own manufacture, went up the Otonabee to Peterborough, then called "The Camps," pulling their boat overland past the rapids where the locks now are. At this itself was a good day's work, the grinding had to be done at night, and on the next morning they started home again with their precious freight.

When Aunt Margaret's father got oxen, her brother made a wooden sleigh called a jumper, and took wheat to Cobourg four bags at a time. For a bushel of wheat he received not money, but the princely exchange of one yard of factory cotton or a red bandana handkerchief, which costs now ten cents. The reason of this was that on the front they grew enough wheat for their own use, and had not yet begun to export.

Aunt Margaret's father had the first horse in Otonabee, and so was considered rich. Then he bought three sheep at Cobourg, and drove them up on the frozen lake. They were placed in a tiny pen directly in front of the door, but alas, a wolf came one night and devoured the three! After a time he got a cow, and so had the luxury of milk and butter. They tapped the trees and made maple syrup and sugar. They fortunately had a large pot for "boilin' down," which was very slow work when done in the house. One old woman, a new arrival, was told how to make sugar, but as she was not succeeding quickly enough to suit her, she glowered into the pot of boiling sap and impatiently exclaimed, "I dinna see however ye mak' sugar oot o' that stuff. I has been boilin' at it for twa long 'oors and I dinna see onything like sugar yet." If there was a good run of sap during the day they had to work till midnight boiling it down, to be ready for the next day.

Till Aunt Margaret was nine years old she had no boots or stockings. In winter she and the other children used to go out in their bare feet and see which could go deepest into the snowbanks. When they became cold they ran into the house and stood beside the fire with the melting snow running down their limbs.

When she was ten years old, she and a number of other children were driven down in a big wooden sleigh to Lang's house in Stewart's Clearance to be christened. The cause of the delay in baptism was the infrequent visits of a minister from Cobourg. As the sleigh load was passing over a still-existing corduroy road the sleigh upset, and all were thrown out but Margaret, who held fast to a rope joining two corners of the sleigh.

Just about the same time, she went to school in Keene for six weeks. "That was all the schoolin' I got," said Aunt Margaret. Morning and evening she walked a distance of five and one-half miles. But the teacher was very brutal. He held that the only way to teach a child was by beating it continually." His favourite mode of punishment was to have the children hold the tips of their fingers together, and then he would strike them with a heavy ruler. Every time they drew back the hand and he fanned the air they received two strokes to intone for his loss in dignity. He never whipped them but they went home blistered.

Aunt Margaret always worked outside, always doing a man's work till she was married. "What would you think of starting to cut a ten-acre field of grain with a sickle?" she said to me. Her bridal party rode to Peterborough on horseback, the bride's bridesmaid being chosen because she was the only woman around excepting the bride, who could ride on horseback. But on the way the bride's horse became beyond control and dashed on, with the bride clinging in terror to its mane, and the rest of the party in hot pursuit behind. However, there was no accident, and the wedding took place in St. John's church.

It might not be out of place to supplement a little of the life of a certain Archie Cameron, who lived quite near Aunt Margaret, as it displays a different view of the life of the pioneers—a rather degrading, though rather amusing view, I must confess. But, as Aunt Margaret said, "Ye mustn' judge all early settlers by the Cameron family."

Archie was forced to leave Scotland to escape being prosecuted for poaching. He came out with his fathers and some of his brothers, and settled on the fourth line in Otonabee, a few miles from Aunt Margaret's father's shanty. But Archie disliked the country and ran away, and by some means passed safely through the dense forests to Monreal. But here he met his mother and the younger children on their way out, and, stealing a boat, rowed them across the river, and piloted them thence to his father's shanty.

All the family, but Archie, were great six footers, and were also fighters, Archie so much so that he gained the name of "Fighting Archie," and, as the pious old Scotch say, in awed tones, "an awfu' sweerer." He was very illiterate, but, nevertheless, was made trustee of Allandale school, in connection with two other men, one of whom could write, but the other, having neither the accomplishment of reading nor writing, was blind. With such trustees is it any wonder that we hear amusing stories of our grandparents' school days? If the applying teacher could read the tenth chapter of Nehemiah he was accepted. These three trustees undertook to examine an applicant on subjects of which they knew practically nothing themselves. They could come to no decision, and at last Archie becoming tired, impatiently exclaimed, "Oh, let the devil treat and we'll pass him." How careful he was of his children's education!

At that time the teacher lived in the school with all his domestic furniture in the class room. The hens made their nests on the bed. Needless to say, it was filthy. Archie had no delicate sense of honour. The school teacher once bought a pig from him, so Archie took him the worst in the drove, a long, skinny, fox-like one, which had never fattened; but the teacher knew too well "Fighting Archie's" pugilistic propensities to say anything further than "Pork's pretty stringy, Mr. Cameron!"

Not far from Archie's home lived a family from England. They kept sheep, and the father used to pick, card, spin and weave the wool himself. He also knit for each of his children a woollen suit all in one piece. Then he made warm, tight-fitting caps, which he called "stable coolies." This was their principal clothing both for summer and winter except in summer, they went bare-headed. They ran wild, like foxes in the woods.

Once, while at a logging bee, it started to rain, and one odd old character to escape getting wet, crawled into a hollow log. Archie Cameron did not see this, but some of the others did, and began to bet him that his yoke of oxen, of which he was very proud and boastful, could not draw the fog. Archie made up his mind that he would show them, and, hitching his oxen to it, set off down the hill at full speed, the log with the old man inside, rolling over and over after him.

At every bee whisky flowed as freely as water. The men always got to fighting brutally, with handspikes and every available weapon, and then went home with faces all cut and bleeding horribly. Indeed, murders were sometimes committed. In one shanty, as a fight was in full progress, someone dropped a large bunch of straw down through the wide chimney into the fireplace, and the house was almost burned before the fire was extinguished.

Archie rented his farm, reserving for himself a fine piece of pasture land. But one day he found his tenant's oxen on his pasture. He resolved to have revenge, and calmly took the oxen to a particularly out-of-the-way place, where the owner found them after searching steadily for two weeks.

At this time they used to sit up all night with a corpse, like at a wake. Of course there was carousing, just as on any merry occasion. One old man sang at his wife's wake out of a school reader. The words were one of the prose lessons on minerals, but he said you could sing prose every bit as well as poetry, if you but "minded the stops."

"Fighting Archie" has long been dead, but Aunt Margaret is now eighty-five, and her senses are still remarkably unimpaired. She spends her spare time in reading, of which she has done a great deal considering the circumstances. As has been said she is an illustration of the healthfulness of this climate, notwithstanding the dangers and privations incident to early settlement in a new country.

When we read of such struggles and disappointments, are we not inspired to make more of the wonderful advantages we possess over the pioneers in every way? Even if we could appreciate the hardships, we cannot understand the heartbreak and loneliness which sometimes took possession of them. This is our native land and our home, to them it was an awful wilderness in which everything was foreign; so can we wonder at their passionate longing for some familiar object—for the heather on their Highland hills, and the primrose in the glens? Many of them did not live to enjoy long the fruits of their labours, but it remains for us, their children, to be duly grateful for the grand heritage we have fallen heirs to.

Oliver Mowat Was Released

Mr. McClellan's Schooner Arrives at Bowmanville.

Oshawa, Dec. 4.—The schooner Oliver Mowat, that ran on the sandbar off Bluff Point, near Oshawa Harbour last Tuesday morning in a snow storm, was successfully pulled off to-day by the wrecking steamer Donnely, of Kingston. Fortunately the storm soon subsided, and there has been very quiet weather since. The Donnely removed one hundred tons of coal, about one-fifth of her cargo, and was then hauled to tow her into deep water, and then into Port Bowmanville, where she was bound with her cargo for John McClellan. The boat is very little the worse of the mishap.

Mr. John McClellan is a brother of Mr. J. Harris McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal.

Catharine Parr.

Catharine Parr, the sixth wife of the much married Henry VIII., owed more to her intellectual than to her personal charms. She was not good looking, but had a pleasant face and a world of tact. So skillfully did she manage her troublesome husband as actually to turn him against some of the most trusted of his own officials. Once an order was made out for her arrest on a charge of heresy, but she got news of the matter and so cleverly flattered and soothed Henry as to effect a complete reconciliation, and when the officers came to serve the order he drove them out with curses and threats.

Brave or Reckless?

When a young man on a small salary and with the future very uncertain gets married we claim he is as reckless as if he jumped into water and couldn't swim. The romantic may call it courage, but it is pure recklessness.

All Broke Up.

"She was very much affected, was she not, at the bad news?"

"I should say so. Her eyes dropped, her voice broke, her face fell, and finally she burst into tears."

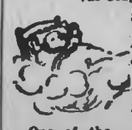
CURE SICK HEADACHE.

The Song of the Cradle.



Bye, bye! Hope rises high:
There's a sweet little cradle hung up in the sky;
A dear little life that is coming to bless;
Two soft chubby hands that will pat and caress;
A pure little soul winging down from above;
A darling to care for, a baby to love.

One of the grandest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y.

This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organism specially concerned in motherhood, and makes the coming of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain.

"I wish to state that I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with very good results," writes Mrs. Katie M. Annis, of Hudson, New Hampshire. "Had been in poor health for over four years and had been twice in the hospital. My husband brought some of your 'Favorite Prescription,' and it has carried me easily through my last two confinements. We are now blessed with two healthy children, and I am sure your medicine has done me more good than all the other treatment I have ever received."

BAD HEADACHES generally arise from bad stomachs. Foul breath, bitter taste, coated tongue, sour eructations or belching of gas, are common symptoms though not all present in every case. To cure, take small doses, only one or two each day, of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by him over 40 years ago. One or two a laxative, three or four cathartic.

The Utter Folly Of The Toronto License Outrage

(Toronto Globe.)

Premier Whitney's surrender to the corrupt element in his own party is not only a bitter disappointment to the better class of his supporters, but is also a piece of amazing political folly. If ever a man had a chance to make a record for himself, and to render worthy public service in the politics of Ontario, that man was the Hon. J. P. Whitney. Ten months ago he took up the Premiership with a majority of forty-two in the Legislature, with no inconvenient public promises, and with a free hand in the forming of his Cabinet. He owed his success to no one man or group of men among his followers. He could select or refuse whomsoever he would. He made open and frequent acknowledgment of his debt at the at the polls to thousands of Liberals, and his deliberate promise was that his Administration would take cognizance of that Liberal support, and would be honest, clean, and in the interest of the whole people. Under such conditions Premier Whitney took office ten months ago.

How has he used his chance? Little by little he yielded vantage-ground to the only enemies he had who could injure him. The Liberals were not his enemies, for in the House they were not strong enough to embarrass him, and in the press and in the country they were ready to give him every opportunity to make good his pledges of honest and efficient administration. His enemies were in his own political party, the henchmen of his supporters, the hungry and unscrupulous office-hunters, the favour-seeking grafters, and those men in Parliament who are in politics for the pickings and the perquisites. They were Premier Whitney's enemies, as their ilk are are the enemies of every Premier and the bane of every Government. But he might have rooted them every one. With the majority he had, with his independence of any clique or class, and with a solid body of public opinion, both Liberal and Conservative, favourable to a strong, non-partizan, progressive policy in all departments of the Administration, he was autocrat and master of the situation. Had he stood against the spoils system, weeding out of office only such Liberals as were unfit, and appointing, to the vacancies only such Conservatives as were capable, he might have held the Premiership as long as he wished to his own credit, to his party's advantage, and to the satisfaction of the public. That is what he might have done.

At this moment Premier Whitney is in very great danger of sacrificing every strategic advantage of a large majority and an independent support, and of allowing those very advantages to be made to serve the vulgar, sordid, selfish ends of the corrupt and disloyal among his followers. In the matter of the Toronto license scandal his talk about "public interests" and "responsible government" shows that either he is ignorant of the real facts or he is trying to hide them behind shallow pretences which deceive nobody. If the Premier does not know that behind the change in the Toronto license staff and the resignation of the commissioners is the Tammany hand of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, whose behest, in the interests of his ward "workers," the other Toronto members are too weak or too good-natured to resist, and if the Premier is not aware of the discredit that is coming to his Government through the reported manipulation in mining claims in Northern Ontario, then he is in sore need of a friend and adviser with the knowledge of the men in the street and the fidelity of a Nathan. The sycophants who fawn upon him because he is Premier, and the placemen who carry favour for the sake of preferment, and the false friends who prophesy smooth things because it is pleasant, and the party newspapers that know the facts but lack the courage—none of these could be relied on even to hint at unwelcome truth or to urge a disagreeable task. And the Premier says he was "astonished." Like the average politician, he thought the little circle of place-seekers represented public opinion.

It would have been in his own self-defence as well as in the truest interests of the public had Premier Whitney resisted at every point and by all manner of means every demand and every scheme, no matter how seemingly innocent, pressed by men of the Nesbitt faction and of the Gamey type. They have no convictions of public duty, they care nothing for the public good, and they cannot be loyal to their party leader. Mr. Ross might have saved himself and his government and rid the ship of a decade's deadweight of barnacles, had he one-quarter of Mr. Whitney's majority, but immeasurably worse than barnacles on the keel is the presence of buccaneers on the bridge with a gun at the captain's head. And that is the utter folly of last week's surrender.

Three 'Phone Companies Are After Franchises

Brantford, Dec. 4.—Three telephone companies are struggling for a franchise in Brantford. The Bell Company desire to hold what they have, an exclusive franchise. The Canadian Machine Company and the Ontario Telephone Company are looking for competitive franchises. The Canadian Machine Company desire a twenty-one years' agreement, with an option for municipal ownership; prices to be $25 for business and $15 for residence 'phones, and the Ontario Company want a twenty years' franchise at $25 for business and $18 for residence, with certain reductions for party lines.

Agitation is being renewed for the erection of a suitable memorial to climb the city's title to the name Telephone City. It is proposed to erect a monument to the inventors of the three different telephones in this city. No trouble is expected in getting funds.

A Billion Of Wheat; "Dan" Mann's Forecast

At the grand banquet tendered the Canadian Northern Railway officials at Edmonton a day or two ago, Mr. D. Mann, the president, replied to the toast to "The Canadian Northern". In the course of his remarks he said:—

"We have built a fine line with splendid grades, our engineers have succeeded in securing grades from the foot hills of the Rocky mountains to Fort William and Port Arthur on Lake Superior, a distance of 1,365 miles of 26 feet to the mile. The physical condition of the road is first class in every way and will enable the operating department to operate a road to your satisfaction and to ours.

"We intend to inaugurate a tri-weekly service. We have ordered eight new solid vestibuled trains equal to the best on the continent of America. This equipment consisting of sleeping cars, dining cars and day coaches and lighted throughout with acetylene gas, is equal to the best and most modern equipment on this continent. You will have the satisfaction of having a beautiful first class train arriving at and leaving your station daily and equal to the finest train entering the largest cities in the United States and Canada.

"The country tributary to the Canadian Northern railway for nearly one thousand miles is largely in the fertile valley of the great Saskatchewan river and is in my opinion the most fertile and most productive country tributary to any line of equal distance in the world. It is nearly all within the main belt where there is abundance of natural rain fall and where from 80 to 90 per cent. of the land will produce wheat. Every station with a possible exception of two where the road passes between the Duck and Riding mountains, will be a grain receiving station. This country which I have described and which is tributary to our lines of railway will, I feel sure, produce as much wheat as Professor Mayer stated the Northwest would produce. If five or six per cent of the available land which is under cultivation in this country can produce 100,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, I predict that when this country is fairly well settled it will produce ten times that quantity or one billion bushels of wheat.

You are indebted to the minister of the Interior (Hon. Frank Oliver) and to the members of parliament of this western country, who urged the government to assist us in building this great road from Lake Superior to the capital of Alberta. They have guaranteed the bonds of our road, which enabled us at the very outset when we needed financial aid most, to secure money at a low rate of interest. There is no doubt that they showed good judgment, as the fact of the government guaranteeing our bonds will never cost the country a dollar.

"With regard to our plans, we intend to connect our western system with our eastern system. We have 800 miles of railway in the older provinces, 400 miles of which is main line, and hope that the next great celebration will be when we inaugurate a train service from Edmonton to the Atlantic coast.

Hon. C. W. Cross, on behalf of the provincial government said that Mr. Mann had said that the Canadian Northern railway was unique in being the only railway to enter the capital in coming to Edmonton, they were reaching the very centre of the province and there were still 400 miles to the north of them in which to build railways. The advent of the railway was a great thing for the city, but it was a greater thing for Alberta. He wished, as a member of the government, that the Canadian Northern railway would meet with every success in their enterprise.

Mr. Clouston Vice-President And Manager

Gentleman Well Known Here Promoted to Vice-Presidency of Bank of Montreal—Prosperous Year for the Bank Reported—Increase in Deposits and Circulation—Available Assets $68,000,000—A Good Year.

LORD STRATHCONA SENDS RESIGNATION

Montreal, Dec. 4.—Lord Strathcona's resignation of the presidency of the Bank of Montreal was received by the shareholders at the annual meeting to-day, but it was understood that at a meeting of the directors to-morrow he will be appointed honourary president, and that Sir George Drummond will succeed him as president. The Board of Directors was increased from nine to ten, the addition being Mr. E. C. Clouston, whose title of general manager will be increased to-morrow to vice-president and general manager. The principal features in the financial statement for the year ended October 31, 1905, were the increase since last year of two million dollars in circulation, an indication of the universal activity in business and of $7,750,000 in deposits not bearing interest showed an increase of $16,000,000. The immediate available assets stood at $68,000,000, a greater amount than, as a rule, was considered necessary, but in view of the rather uncertain future of continental finance, owing to the state of affairs in Russia and the somewhat boom conditions in this country, it was thought advisable to be strong in any case. The bank was in good position to take advantage of any desirable business offering.

In the annual addresses of Mr. Mowston and Sir George Drummond the word prosperity was said to be written large in the records of this year in Canada. There was at the same time a warning for every one to set his house in order and a plea for safeguarding the supplies of lumber.—Globe.

The document has created much stir because it also repudiates the Conservative campaign against Socialism.

Smallpox Is Prevalent Near Peterborough

Dr. Hodgetts States That it Exists Between This City and Belleville—Also Cases in Neighbourhood of Coe Hill—General Impression That it Was Chickenpox—Advice to the People to Get Vaccinated.

DOCTORS CANNOT RECOGNIZE DISEASE

Dr. Hodgetts, Provincial Medical Health Officer, has reported to Dr. Sheard the following places where smallpox is prevalent: Barrie, Flos Township, Ayr, Melancthon Township, County of Dufferin, Owen Sound, Dundalk, township in neighbourhood of Coe Hill. There are also cases in the counties on the border between Northumberland and Hastings, and along the line of the G. T. R. from Belleville to Peterborough. Dr. Hodgetts states that it has been the general supposition that the disease was merely chickenpox.

Dr. Sheard learned last night that there were no less than sixteen cases of smallpox in Vaughan Township. Commenting on the prevalence of the disease in outside places, Dr. Sheard said it was highly important that travellers going from Toronto, or visitors leaving the city, should be vaccinated.

"I consider it almost a miracle that out of a population of 208,000, Toronto has only had fifteen cases of smallpox," said Dr. Sheard. "In all our cases, no person has caught the infection that has been vaccinated recently. Even the child of six years of age who has been the cause of so many cases was not vaccinated, but just as soon as she was vaccinated the disease began to leave her. If the citizens desire to escape the infection, I would advise them to take the precaution of being vaccinated. It is almost impossible for Toronto to be free from the disease, so long as we have so many cases in the adjacent townships."

Dr. Sheard also suggested that it would be a good idea if the doctors of Toronto would take advantage of the Swiss Cottage Hospital to study the disease when in its early stages. He states that the doctors cannot be expected to know a case of smallpox in its early stages when they perhaps have never seen a smallpox patient.—Toronto Star.

Canoes For The Hudson Bay Co.

This week the Herald Bros., of Gore's Landing, received an order from the Hudson Bay Company for a number of canoes to the value of $1,700. The above firm has bright prospects ahead, and if the plans now under consideration materialize, the factory may come to Cobourg in the near future.—Cobourg Post.

The Curling Club Meeting Announced for to-night has been postponed, on account of the Concert, until Monday Evening next.

Peterborough To Midland

SURVEY COMMENCED FOR

C. P. R. Short Grain Route

New Line Will Form Junction With Main C. P. R. Line at Peterborough—Survey Party Arrived Last Night and Will Commence Operations at Once—Will Work Westward From Here to Midland—Many Advantages Will Follow Construction of the Line.

The survey of the new grain route of the C. P. R. from Midland to Peterborough will be commenced to-morrow. The survey party of sixteen members arrived last night, and are staying at the National Hotel.

Mr. Gourlay, head of the party, states that they will at once begin operations, working eastward from Peterborough. The undertaking of the survey is a large one, and the greater part of the winter will be occupied with it. A second party, working eastward from Midland, will commence operations after Christmas and will meet that working from here.

The definite announcement that the line will join the main line of the C. P. R. at Peterborough, will be heard with general satisfaction by the citizens, and the immense accompanying advantages will at once be apparent.

The short route proposal has been one much mooted for some time past, and though it has been a practically assured fact that the line would be constructed, the exact location was not definitely known. The C. P. R. has, in the past, been to a considerable extent handicapped in the handling of grain in the eastern territory by reason of the fact that they had no harbour upon Georgian Bay where the transfer of the cargoes of the great lakes boats might be effected with facility.

The traffic on the new line will be a heavy one, and the advantages locally of having the junction with the main line located here, can scarcely be over-estimated.

The survey party has been engaged in Western Ontario, and have removed to Peterborough from Stratford, where they recently finished a survey.

Cereal Company And Its Newest Product

Report That American Cereal Company Will Embark in the Manufacture of Puffed Rice—Mr. Oscar Kirn, of Chicago, is in the City in Connection With This New Departure.

The American Cereal Company, according to reports, is contemplating producing a new cereal, and with this in view, Mr. Oscar Kirn, the mechanical superintendent of the company, is in the city. He is looking over the present plant to ascertain what new machinery will be required for the manufacture of the the new cereal, which will be puffed rice. This food has but recently been placed on the market and it has met with such a good reception, and the demand has been so satisfactory, that the local company has, it is reported, decided to embark in its manufacture.

It is probable that this new departure will very materially increase the production of the company's works here, and even the enlarged mill will be taxed to its full capacity to supply the demand for the goods made here.

Rural Dean Houston Dead

Rector of a Cornwall Church Died Suddenly.

Special to The Examiner

Cornwall, Dec. 7.—Rev. Rural Dean Houston, rector of Trinity Church, Montreal, for the past seven years, died suddenly at 3 a.m., to-day. He had been ailing since last August, but was able to be out yesterday. The immediate cause of death was an attack of heart failure. Robert Lockie Mulock Houston was born at Carleton Place 55 years ago. Before coming to Trinity Church here, he was successively rector of Lansdowne, Merrickville and Iroquois. He leaves a widow, one son and two daughters.

Mr. Fitzgerald Better To-day

Speaks in Appreciative Terms of Pembroke Cottage Hospital.

The condition of Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald to-day shows a slight improvement, though last night was passed somewhat restlessly.

Mr. Fitzgerald and the friends who were with him during the critical portion of his illness in Pembroke, speak in the highest terms of praise of the treatment accorded him at the Cottage Hospital at that place, where he was confined after being stricken with paralysis. This institution was built and is maintained through the efforts of the ladies of the town. The closest attention and utmost kindness were shown the patient during his confinement there, by the nursing staff, who are equally accommodating in both the public and the private wards. The hospital is at present crowded with typhoid patients.

When stricken Mr. Fitzgerald was at a place called Tapp's wharf, situated about twenty miles north of Pembroke, whither he went on official business, accompanied by Mr. Brightman. He was detained for about eighteen hours on the shore of the Ottawa River, waiting for the boat to convey him to Pembroke.

There is to-day the slightest return of feeling in his left leg, though it is feared that he will perhaps never fully regain the use of his right arm. His hosts of friends will hope for a speedy convalescence.

Lamented Death Of Miss Robson

Deceased Lady Was a Native of North Monaghan

This morning about 9 o'clock the death occurred of Miss Kathleen Robson, at the age of 61 years. Deceased, who was the eldest daughter of the late Ralph Robson, was born in North Monaghan, and had lived in this county all her life, the last 40 years of which have been spent in Peterborough. Her death occurred at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. Frank Smith, George street. She had been ill for the last ten weeks, and her death was due to cancer. She leaves three brothers, John, Andrew and Robert, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. W. G. Moore, also of Peterborough. Her parents are both dead. She was a constant member of St. Andrew's church, and her death will be deeply deplored by her wide circle of friends. Funeral on Saturday to Little Lake Cemetery.

GEORGE STREET

An Elopement From Tweed

A Runaway Couple Traced to Toronto From That Town.

Chief Constable Ellis, of Tweed, came to Toronto last night and sought the aid of the Toronto police to detain his married daughter who had left her husband and home yesterday morning. His daughter left with a married man, who lived near other home, and came by way of Belleville to Toronto. Her father got trace of the baggage and managed to locate the runaway couple at a York street hotel in this city.

Chief Ellis desired the police to take the woman into custody. He was prepared to issue a warrant charging his daughter and her companion with the theft of a large sum of money and silverware, which he said, they took with them, but the hour was so late that the police could do nothing. Chief Ellis was told to return early this morning in time to prevent their taking a trip to New York. They had arranged to be called in time to take the train. Chief Ellis is accompanied by his son. The runaway woman is 24 years old and her companion almost 30.—Globe.

Belleville Was Simply Delighted

On Tuesday night the English Grand Concert Company, which appears here to-night under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., were in Belleville, and the Intelligencer says of it:

As to the performers, there was, first of all, Madame Beatrice Langley, undoubtedly queen of that "instrument with a soul," the violin. Little Miss Myrtle Moggy, a pianiste from the Antipodes, must have have caused many an ambitious pianoforte student to sigh: she was brilliant, dainty and sympathetic to a high degree. In her numbers Miss Morgan shone as a premier vocalist, with a glorious voice the possibilities of which were made absolutely the most of. Mr. Stanley Adams, baritone, was not one whit behind the other members of the company. A most accomplished vocalist, with a better voice, it would be hard to call to mind.

$50.00 Reward.

The above reward will be paid to any one who will recover the body of the late Lewis Bell, within the next four days, or give information that will lead to its recovery.

License Commissioners Met And Did Nothing

The Board of License Commissioners met this morning in the office of the secretary, when the question of the transfer of the license of the C.P.R. Hotel to Mr James Allen, was discussed in an informal way.

The application has not been advertised yet, so that definite action could not be taken.

The chairman of the Board informed the Examiner to-day that nothing whatever was done at this morning's meeting.

Interest Sunday Schools In Children's Aid Society

A suggestion has been made to the Examiner that in view of the fact that the Children's Aid Society is sorely in need of funds with which to carry on the work which it has undertaken, it would be a good idea to interest the children of the various Sunday schools in the society and to hold a special children's Sunday, when contributions might be made to be applied to the work of the society.

It appears that one Sunday school has already taken the matter up, and All Saints' school will, on Sunday, December 24, hold a special children's service, when an offering will be taken up for this most deserving society.

The gentleman who suggested that this plan be adopted by all the schools of the city, was of the opinion that it would be an excellent thing to secure the interest of the children in this society, and that if they entered into the spirit of it with enthusiasm the result would be that the funds would be very materially augmented. The suggestion is an excellent one and should be encouraged.

Bible Society Receives Reports From Officers

At the Annual Meeting Which Was Held Last Night—Finances in a Satisfactory Condition—The Election of Officers Took Place—Sheriff Hall Re-elected President — Address by Rev. Mr. Thompson—Progress of the Society.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BIBLE SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Bible Society, the new title given the former Upper Canada Bible Society, was held in the school room of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and was attended by representatives of the different churches in the city. The school room was about half filled, and a satisfactory interest was manifested in the work of the Society, which in Peterborough has been most successful. The reports presented from the officers of the Society, the secretary and treasurer showed that the affirs were being well conducted, the treasurer reporting that the sum of $314.34 had been raised by the society last year.

The chair was occupied by Sheriff Hall, and there were present the following clergymen. Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. W. Bennett, Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings and Rev. F. J. Scott. After the opening hymn, announced by Rev. Dr. Torrance, prayer was offered by Rev. F. J. Scott. In the absence of the Secretary, Rev. J. G. Potter, who was out of the city, the report prepared by him was read by Rev. Dr. Torrance, while the chairman read that of the treasured, Mr. John Crane. The Secretary's report is as follows:—

Secretary's Report.

The Treasurer's report will show that last year exceeded its predecessor by some $30.00 in the collections for the Society's work. A special collection of $64.00 for the Centenary Fund increased the gifts of last year.

The Society is deeply indebted to the Collectors who, with considerable sacrifice of time and effort, did such successful work.

Owing to the complaints that have come from Collectors concerning the ignorance of many regarding the operations of the Society, the Treasurer and Secretary thought it wise to issue a brief circular and to have such placed in every home in town. This has already been done and we therefore trust that the collectors will find their task more congenial, and that the citizens will the more readily give to this very worthy give to this very worthy cause.

Recommendation.—That the collectors of last year be asked to continue the work this year, and that the Secretary be empowered to make any additions necessary.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES G. POTTER.

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. John Crane, was as follows:—

The Officers.

The election of officers took place and resulted as below:—

President—Sheriff Hall.

Vice-Presidents—Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. W. Medj. MacKay, Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev. Wm. Major, Rev. W. J. Dolliffe, Rev. J. G. Lewis, Rev. W. J. Orothers, Rev. Wm. Bennett, Rev. F. J. Scott and Rev. D. H. Bruce.

Secretary—Rev. J. G. Potter.

Treasurer—Mr. John Crane.

These officers were those who were elected last year, and were re-elected this year, on motion of Rev. Dr. Torrance and Mr. D. W. Dumble.

In accepting the office, the President expressed his appreciation of the honour shown him. He was deeply interested in the work of the Society, not only because of its objects, which were commendable, but also on account of his associations with the the Society here. His father was the first secretary and treasurer of the local branch and had also filled the office of president, while he himself had also filled these offices.

The chairman then introduced Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, the representative for this district of the Bible Society, and, in prefacing his address the speaker conveyed to the local Society a vote of thanks, which the general Society had passed in recognition of the excellent work which the collectors had performed in this city. The suggestion had been made that on this occasion it might be appropriate to give some facts on the growth of the Society, in view of the fact that the centenary anniversary had but just been celebrated. In the past century, he said, great progress had been made. On March 17th, 1804, the British and Foreign Bible Society was formed, as a result of a little Welsh girl, who, in her eagerness to read the Bible had walked to London to procure a copy. This Society was the first to give the Bible to the Welsh in their own tongue, and then the motto of the Society, that of supplying the Word of God to all the people of the world in their own tongue was decided upon.

It had been born in troublesome times. It was at this time that the the services of Nelson were required on the sea, and those of Wellington on land. Many obstacles had been met without the majority have been overcome. One of the greatest obstacles, and one which had not yet been overcome was the mistrust which the heathen feel in the efforts of Christians to give them the Bible. The most serious, however, was the fact that the Government, and even the church had been opposed to the movement to give the Word of God to the heathen. But, happily, most of this has passed away.

A Century's Work.

During the past century no fewer than 190,500,000 copies of the Bible have been circulated, and in the distribution there are at present engaged 930 colporteurs and 700 Bible women on the field, the latter working under 40 different organizations. In China the colporteurs have gone 200 miles farther than any other missionaries.

Evidence of the growth of the missionary work, as a result of the operations of this Society largely is furnished by the fact that while a century ago there were four missionary boards, to-day there are 580, and 100 missionaries have increased to 60,000, with 78,000 native helpers. The contributions to missions then were $75,000, while at the end of the century they were $90,000,000. Out of the 2,000 languages spoken in the world the Bible has been translated into 200.

The two forces which have been instrumental in lifting up the world are the Bible and the missionary.

Looking forward, the speaker said that the doors were opening to the Word of God, and the prospects for its extension are bright. Japan and China are both in sore need of the Bible, and, in the case of the former, it is a question of Atheism or Christianity. Recently, in Bible Society work there had been a new departure, and on April 20th last the Canadian Bible Society was formed, as distinct from the Upper Canada Bible Society. The new Society had not broken its connection with the parent body in England. She was, however, a dutiful daughter and was now mistress of her own house.

The importance of the work in Canada is evidenced by the fact that in Winnipeg alone there are no less than 30 different languages spoken and into each of these the Word of God has been translated.

At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Thompson's address the offering was taken, and the meeting closed with singing and prayer.

A deputation from the British and Foreign Sailors' Society was received at the Hotel De Ville, Paris, and presented the municipal council with a piece of oak from the Victory. The inscription explained that it was given to M. Brousse in memory of the French sailors who fell at Trafalgar.

The governor of New South Wales, Australia, receives $35,000, with a private secretary and orderlies paid for by the state. The governor of Victoria receives $25,000. Queensland's governor receives the same amount.

Safeguard the Children

AGAINST CROUP AND COLDS BY ALWAYS KEEPING AT HAND

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

There are some reasons why Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the most suitable treatment obtainable for children.

It is pleasant to the taste, and children like to take it.

It is composed of simple ingredients of proven value in the cure of throat and lung troubles.

It is positively free from anything of an injurious nature, and can be used with perfect safety with the smallest child, so long as directions are followed.

It is wonderfully successful in the prevention and cure of croup.

It promptly relieves even the most severe chest colds and brings about a thorough cure.

You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, for it is the standby in thousands of homes, where time and again it has proven its exceptional worth.

When you make up your mind to safeguard your children by keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, do not allow your dealer to persuade you into taking something on which he has a larger profit.

Mrs. Wm. Ball, Bracebridge, Ont., writes:—"I can recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine most heartily for all forms of colds, and I think if every family would use it for their little ones it would save lots of worry and expense and find it prompt and lasting in its effects.

"My three youngest boys had whooping cough this winter and we could get nothing to help them until we sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment.

In the hour of emergency, when croup or colds seize your child, the cheap substitutes will fail you, but Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine never disappoints. 35 cts. a bottle, at all dealers.

Bride and Groom Were Welcomed

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hickey's Reception at Ymir, B.C.

The Ymir, B.C., Herald, of December 1st, has the following item, which will be of interest to many persons in this county:

"Mr. Jas. Hickey and his bride returned from their honeymoon trip from the east on Monday evening. The bride, whose maiden name was Minnie O'Neill, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, of Kinmount. They were married at the Roman Catholic church, Galway, on October 17th, by Rev. P. J. O'Leary, Parish Priest, in the presence of about one hundred invited guests. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Foley of Lakefield, while the groom was supported by Mr. Maurice Hickey, brother of the groom.

"During the week the many friends of Mr. Hickey in Ymir decided to do something to show their regard for him and his bride. Mr. Hickey has been a favourite among the young people of Ymir, and it was decided to give a dance in honour of him and his bride. This took place in the Miners' Union Hall, on Thursday evening, and was largely attended, a large number coming from Erie, Salmo, and the Ymir mine and mill to greet their old friend and offer congratulations. A thoroughly good time was enjoyed by everyone present up to two o'clock in the morning, supper being served at midnight at the McLeod House.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will take up their future residence at Erie, where Mr. Hickey is employed at the Arlington mine. Their many friends wish them a long and happy married life."

Norwood Man Had Revolver

Arrest Made Yesterday in Eastern Village by Constable Cochrane.

That a bibulous individual with a revolver in his possession, is not a desirable citizen, appears to be the opinion held in Norwood, and for this reason, James Stillman was last night conveyed from the eastern village and placed in the county jail.

He was found lying in the arms of Morpheus in a "stall" at one of the village hotels, and the knowledge of his possession of a revolver was the cause of an information being laid before Judge Edmison, who was in the village in connection with another case. Stillman was arrested by High Constable Cochrane and brought to Peterborough last night. The case will be heard in the course of a few days.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

G. J. Sherry Is New President

Elected by Conservative Association of East Peterborough.

Special to The Examiner.

Norwood, Dec. 6.—The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Conservative Association was held here this afternoon in the town hall, Mr. Birdsall presiding. The officers for the ensuing year were elected. A very good attendance was present, including representatives from the whole of the riding. Dr. S. P. Ford briefly addressed the meeting, pointing out the need of thorough and complete organization, the making special reference to the forty years of work given by the president, Mr. F. Birdsall and Mr. Geo. Sherry, secretary, also suggesting that the meeting appoint some younger men. He therefore moved that the thanks of this meeting be tendered Mr. Birdsall, and also that he be elected honourary president, which was carried by a standing vote, to which Mr. Birdsall briefly replied, thanking them, after which Mr. Sherry was elected president. Mr. Sherry gratefully acknowledged the honour and made some pertinent and appropriate remarks present the work ahead of the association. The following gentlemen were then elected vice-presidents: Hugh Train, Jas. Peoples, E. C. Squire, R. McCuthcon, Thos. Wilson, John Reid, Israel Church, Jas. Thompson, C. B. Coone, John Hale, Stephen Miller, W. J. Fitzgerald and G. Whibbs. Dr. S. P. Ford was elected vice-president for the riding. Mr. W. A. McMaster, of Havelock, was elected secretary, and Mr. C. A. Ghent, also of Havelock, treasurer.

The following were elected members of the Executive Committee:—Adam Humphries, Frank Post, John Shaughnessy, Andrew Post, Henry Moore, Wm. Parker, John Thorne, S. S. Joyce, A. B. Greenbank, Thos. Wilson and Dr. J. R. Fraser.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King.

Compensations of Modest Incomes

Atlantic Monthly. — Our good friend with $1,000,000 a year can not eat more or better food, or drink much more or better drinks, than we can. If he does he will be sorry. He can have more places to live in, and enormously more and handsomer apparatus of living, but he can't live in more than one place at once, and too much apparatus is a bother. He can make himself comfortable and live healthful. So can we. He can have all the leisure he desires, and go where he likes, and stay as long as he will. He has the better of us there. We have the better of him in having the daily excitement and discipline of making a living. We may beat him in discipline, too. We are apt to get more than he does—the salutary discipline of steady work, of self-denial, of effort. This is enormously valuable to soul, body and mind. He can't buy it. We get it thrown in with our daily bread. We have rather better chances than he of raising our children well. We are as likely as he to have good friends worth having, and to find pleasure in them.

Local Option And The Tourist Trade

Rev. D. R. Clare Writes to The Examiner on the Question—Cites Instances to Prove That it Benefits Trade.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In last week's issue I gave you a few testimonials which I hope proved to your readers that local option is really a moral, and not as some suppose, a business issue.

In the municipality of Mariposa local option has been in force for a number of years. In this township there are two villages, Little Britain and Oakwood, each about eight miles from Lindsay. When the campaign was on people were prophesying that the business would all go to Lindsay, since the whole trade was a farmer's trade.

Mr. A. O. Hogg permits me to say most emphatically that business never was better in that place, and he is in touch with all the business that is done there, from grain exporting to the smallest items in family grocery lines. He says hotels are dead forever in Little Britain and Oakwood. Any person in Lindsay or Mariposa will be frank in stating that he has not a peer in business ability in that section of Ontario.

Does local option hurt summer trade?

I have it from one of the most reliable residents of Harvey that Mr. Eastwood acknowledged that he never had the trade he has had this summer. I withhold the gentleman's name only because I did not ask permission to use it.

The proprietor of the hotel at Bridgenorth told a man who wanted to buy him out that he did not want to sell, as his trade was the best it ever was.

I was a guest at that hotel, and I know he received $9 and $10 a week for board (from numbers of people who would not have stopped twelve hours there had there been any signs of liquor on the premises.

I have yet to hear of a drunk I have yet to hear of a drunken man at Buckhorn when there was not clear evidence that the liquor came from an outside point. I have made it my business to ascertain from tourists of all kinds their opinions as to the benefits of local option. Their opinions are all one, i.e., the bar is a nuisance and a hindrance to summer traffic in a place. It keeps the best class of tourists away.

I understand that the local stores of Bridgenorth and Buckhorn are prospering better than ever since local option came in force.

So again I would emphasize that this question is a moral, and not a business, question. And it business is to be lugged into the discussion then as far as the evidence goes, I think the facts that have come to us prove conclusively that the bar is a detriment to the trade of a locality.

The money spent that way would be far more useful if spent for dress goods, groceries or local improvements.

Turning to the moral issue, what plea is there for the open saloon? The wise man of old said, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." What more need one say?

Once for all let temperance people rally and drive this monster from the home, the community, and then from our country. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your indulgence, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
D. R. CLARE.

THE LARGEST CIGARS ever manufactured have arrived in London from Havana. Each cigar measures sixteen and one-half inches in length and six inches in circumference, and weighs a quarter of a pound. Many husbands will be in a state of apprehension should these prove to be of the Christmas present variety.

A Scottish grower has dug 223 potatoes, weighing 43 lbs., from one root, which were exhibited at the Horticultural Hall, London.

Strenuous Seeker After Grace At Cordova

Bibulous Individual Makes an Attack Upon Church Door During Revival Service—The Preacher Was Struck in Melee—Attacking Man Used Boots as Weapons for Battering Purposes—Information Laid at Havelock.

HEARING OF CASE FEW DAYS HENCE

Things were somewhat mixed at a Free Methodist Revival Service, held a few nights ago in a church at Cordova, near Havelock.

A strenuous seeker after grace, it appears, went to the length of trying to batter his way to salvation through the doors of the sacred edifice. The weapons of attack used were a pair of XXX cowhide boots, and if the welder exhibits an equal amount of force, the hinges on the "Pearly Gates" will scarcely withstand the attack, and it will probably become necessary to inaugurate a sacrifice sale in the jewellery department of "slightly damaged" ends and remnants of pearl mosaic. Whether the "sole" of the attacking party was materially benefitted has not been determined.

But it was when the minister in charge of affairs, made his appearance that the climax was reached, he receiving a solar-plexus bump a la Jim Jeffries.

The attacking man was evidently in a more or less bibulous condition, and with several companions, visited the church. For some reason the door was closed,—hence the attack. The preacher, it is understood, suffered rather severely.

An information, or several of them, it is understood, have been laid with Magistrate Matheson, and the case will be heard in the course of a few days. The place of trial has not been determined but will be fixed to be heard before Judge Edmison.

Christmas Social Was Enjoyed

A Delightful Evening Spent at the Y. W. C. A. Building.

Over two hundred young women gathered at the Young Women's Christian Association last night for the Christmas social. The rooms were lighted by Chinese lanterns and the grate fires. The evening's fun began with games. Suddenly sleigh bells announced new arrivals, and, into the midst of the crowd, burst Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, carrying a large pack. It was their first appearance this season, and their early coming and generous supply of Christmas goods, promises well for the boys and girls on Christmas Eve. Every one on the room was presented with a gift, and the honoured guests were delighted and happy all through the proceedings. After refreshments of apples and candy all present departed with Santa's first gift of the season.

KIDNEY DISEASE AND ITS DANGERS CAN BE QUICKLY CURED BY
DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Kidney disease comes on quietly, it may have been in the system for a long time before you suspected the real cause of your trouble. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as, brick dust deposit in urine, higly coloured, scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent urination, stone in bladder, etc.

Perhaps you did not know that these were symptoms of kidney disease, so the trouble kept growing worse, until Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Dropsy, and worst of all, Bright's Disease have taken hold of your system.

Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken at the first sign of anything wrong. There is no other safe way, (plasters and liniments are useless), as the trouble must be eradicated from the system.

Doan's Kidney Pills go to the seat of the trouble, strengthen the kidneys, and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble. Mr. Thomas Mayhew, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes: "For over four months I was troubled with my kidneys, and my back got so lame I felt miserable all over. After taking five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was as well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

CANAL CONSTRUCTION.

The news article which appeared in the Examiner yesterday, suggesting the intention of the Dominion Government to proceed immediately with further construction work on the Trent Canal is, we believe, correct. Though not backed by explicit official declaration, there is very reasonable grounds for believing that it is correct. If it is not true, it should be made true. There are many reasons why work should at once be begun. In Peterborough Sir Wilfrid Laurier explicitly committed his Government to the completion of the work, and there is urgent necessity for making the canal available for transportation purposes. The wheat-fields of the West are developing by gigantic strides, and the present congestion of every avenue of outlet, represents conditions which must be removed. The West cannot develop, and become peopled, without additional means of transportation. The tide of settlement will be stayed, if settlers cannot have some reasonable assurance that the wheat they grow will find a market. The reasons for delay in making contracts for continued construction, have disappeared. The surveys have been completed, and the Dominion treasury is over-flowing; prosperity is abounding on every hand, and there does not appear to exist any reason for further delay.

With such conditions prevailing—conditions more favourable than at any precedent period in the history of the canal—the local friends of the work should be astir. For, whatever the transportation merits of the system, its local importance and value cannot be over-estimated. It is necessary for the greater prosperity of the city, and the whole district through which it passes. If the canal is completed for general transportation purposes, the country, as a whole, will be benefitted, and Peterborough and the district will reap the incidental advantages, none the less important because they are incidental. Therefore the local friends of the canal should be on the alert—strike while the iron is hot. If, as intimated, the Government intends to resume immediate construction, it will be no harm to strengthen its hands, for powerful interests are powerfully arrayed against the project, and it may be assumed that no stone will be left unturned to defeat it. It, therefore, behooves the friends of the canal to enter upon active work, and if, as is very probable, the Government has decided to continue the work, to take steps to make assurance doubly sure.

HON. MR. AYLESWORTH AND HIS LAW PRACTICE.

The Review joins the pack that is howling at the heels of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Postmaster-General. The room for criticism of the Laurier Government must be very limited when such petty grounds of attack are used as objecting to his retaining connection with his law firm. Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. Mr. Mulock, Sir John Thompson and other great lawyers retained their connection with the law business in a consulting capacity, and Hon. Mr. Aylesworth is entitled to do the same. Hon. Mr. Aylesworth may have acted in the courts for the Consumers' Gas Company of Ottawa, but if he accepted a brief before he took office as Postmaster-General, it is natural that after he has worked up the case he should wish to see it through, and deal honestly and fairly with his clients. That Mr. Aylesworth will continue his practice in the courts is not probable, for such a course would be open to criticism. Hon. Mr. Aylesworth has accepted the position of Postmaster-General, and assumed the responsibility attached to the office, and there is no doubt that he will satisfactorily perform its duties. We may expect him to apply to it the same great intellectual and executive ability which has placed him in the place he now occupies in the law. We may expect him to apply the same industry, ability and energy, the same patriotic spirit be manifested in his management of the Canadian case before the Alaska Boundary tribunal. He will not neglect his public duties for his law practice. He must have counted upon the sacrifice of an income many times greater than his official salary. It would better become his little critics to judge him by his course and to give him an opportunity to show whether he intends, in his capacity as a Cabinet minister, to live up to the high ideals which have influenced him hitherto in his successful career.

WOLVES AT COBALT.

It is bound to come out, the Brockville Recorder thinks. For some time there has been a good deal of gossip about what was going on at Cobalt that was not entirely creditable to the Ontario Government. The Toronto Telegram, (Conservative) has these two mysterious paragraphs in its issue of Saturday last:

Hon. J. P. Whitney has already been run into trouble by an overplus of Foy-Pyne advice. A steady diet of that advice would ruin a Goliath. And Mr. Whitney would almost need to be a Goliath to grapple with the troubles that are looming up in the future. All the strength he can develop outside his party lines will be needed to hold off the wolves that are gathering at Cobalt.

The Gillies limit outside of Cobalt has not yet been opened to prospectors. About half the Conservative members of the Legislature are interested in prospects that have been sighted in that limit. They have agents camping on the "showings" in the hope that when the limit is declared open influence will give them a title to the claims they have chosen.

Yes, and if what has been told the Recorder be true, there is much more to be said than that.

LAKE STORM LOSSES.

A Detroit newspaper puts the known loss by the recent storm on the great lakes at $2,000,000. Some idea of the extent of the disaster may be obtained by combining the known total loss:

Matasfa, steamer, total loss	$250,000
Edenborn, steamer, total loss	255,000
Crescent City, steamer	250,000
Lafayette	250,000
Madeira	175,000
Spencer	35,000
Amboy	10,000
Outhwaite	45,000
City of Holland	30,000
Appomattox, broken up while ashore	90,000
Monilla	175,000
Monkshaven	175,000
	$1,720,000

In addition to these there are missing boats, which, if lost, will swell the total to a much larger figure. Among these are:

Angelina	$250,000

The cost of lightering and getting stranded vessels off the bottom, towing them to port and subsequent docking and repairing will make the total storm damage so large that it will be almost equivalent to the value of the entire lake marine a few decades ago. Steel Trust boats were the chief sufferers, for the storm conditions were such that the best of the shipping had to take the chance of disaster. Not only was there a hurricane of wind, but a blinding snow storm as well. Had there been plenty of sea room most of the vessels might have saved themselves by heading into the storm and attempting to ride it out. They completely lost all land marks and several were caught in positions where it was practically impossible to avoid the shore or the outlying islands.

These are the Artists you will hear if you attend the Concert in the Grand Opera House tonight; Miss Hope Morgan, Soprano; Mme. Beatrice Langley, Violiniste; Mr. Stanley Adams, Baritone; Miss Myrtle Meggy, Pianiste.

Peterboroughs' Prosperity

How it Influences the Sale of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos.

It is interesting to note the sturdy growth of the spirit of prosperity among Peterborough citizens in connection with the material and commercial evolution of our city.

As an indication of Peterborough's prosperity it is remarked that our citizens are no longer inclined, nor find it necessary, to invest in that which is cheap or inferior, but instead are fast becoming permeated with the correct idea that "the best is the cheapest."

The strongest proof of this tendency, if proof were needed, is found in the fact that nearly all the pianos supplied throughout Peterborough district during the past season have been of the highest possible grade. The celebrated Gerhard Heintzman piano is the one referred to as being in the greatest demand, as is evidenced by the large number of recent patrons of the well-known and ever reliable firm of Gerhard Heintzman, Limited, which list is as follows:

Hon. J. R. Stratton, Peterborough Conservatory of Music (both Grand and Upright), Young Women's Christian Association, Mrs. A. L. Davis, F. H. Dobbin (Daily Review), Ladies' Aid George street Methodist church, Mrs. Geo. Scott, W. H. Robertson (Daily Times), Arthur Poe, A. Peters, Johnson Cooney, Mrs. John Henry, Mrs. Sarah Johnston, Y. P. S. C. E. (Presbyterian church, Keene), M. Lyle (manager Canadian Canoe Co.), Geo. A. Baker, Giley Stone, Mrs. George Mather, Miss May Kennedy, Wm. Shortt (Lang P.O.), H. E. Bayley, H. W. Morphet (Toronto Loan and Savings Co.), D. H. Downie, J. C. Chambers, Mrs. A. Palmer, R. D. Rolyon, Mrs. W. E. Talbot, Chas. C. Wiley, Wm. Bolton, Miss A. Kindred, E. V. Davey and others.

The family of Senator Cox, of Toronto, formerly of this city, have within the past six months purchased four Gerhard Heintzman pianos.

Mr. W. H. Isaac, local salaried representative, and Mr. Ruse, superintendent of agencies, through whom the purchases were made, may, with the Gerhard Heintzman Company, be congratulated upon this phenomenal increase of customers.

What Christmas gift can compare with the gift of a piano—especially a Gerhard Heintzman piano?

Hear the English Grand Concert Company in the new Opera House to-night. It will be the musical treat of the season.

Knox Church Skating Rink

The executive committee of the Knox Church skating rink have already the best of prospects for a successful season. The secretary, G. C. Stewart, 220 Wolfe street, gives information that a number of tickets have already been sold and applications for hockey hours have begun to come in. The rink is situated on the corner of Wolfe and Reid streets and is touched by the Street Railway and is 110 feet long by 74 feet wide, with an excellent gravel bottom. The dressing room is in three compartments—a ladies' and a gentlemen's room separated by a general waiting room, and all well heated and lighted. Arc lights are being suspended to illuminate the ice and the rink will be in charge of an experienced caretaker so that those who patronize it may rest assured of satisfaction and attention. Owing to the uncertainty of the weather the rink will not be formally opened for ten days.

Winter Houseparty Tour Cuba and Mexico.

The cheapest and best trip ever run south. So much interest is centred in those two points of speculation. Here is an opportunity to visit them both and see and compare for yourself. Every point of interest will be visited, the trip going further south than any other ever run. American trips cost as much for Mexico alone. Patronize home industry when it is the best. The train will contain every possible luxury, the menus in an elegant dining car equal to those of the best hotels. The management is thoroughly experienced in the running of special trains and quite familiar with Mexico, the doctor who will accompany the train having lived in Mexico for fifteen years.

The going trip takes in all the best of Kentucky, (Mammoth Cave), Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, with nine days in and about Havana, Cuba, stopping at the best American Hotel, Mardi Gras in New Orleans, Louisiana, Texas— Houston and San Antonio, and all of Mexico, taking circle trips to interesting and beautiful points that sometimes extend three and four hundred miles. On the return, Austin, Eureka, Hot Springs and St. Louis are visited.

Black Knights Elect Officers

The Annual Meeting Was Held Last Evening.

The annual meeting and election of officers of Royal Black Preceptory, No. 251, Royal Black Knights of Ireland, took place last night in their hall, Simcoe street. Those elected to preside over the destinies of the lodge for 1906 were:—

Worshipful Preceptor—Sir W. H. G. Armstrong.
Deputy Preceptor—Sir H. T. Everett.
Chaplain—Sir Robt. Weir.
Registrar—Sir W. A. Parker.
Treasurer—Sir Robt. Wilson.
1st Lecturer—Sir A. McDonald.
2nd Lecturer—Sir F. Magee.
1st Censor—Sir J. C. Waldie.
2nd Censor—Sir Robt. Maxwell.
1st Standard Bearer—Sir E. J. Donner.
2nd Standard Bearer — Sir John McHarry.
Pursuivant—Sir J. A. McWilliams.
1st Committeeman — Sir J. H. Briggs.
2nd Com.—Sir Jas. Trow.
3rd Com.—Sir J. F. Leason.
4th Com.—Sir Robt. Bolton.
5th Com.—Sir Jas. Garside.
6th Com.—Sir W. J. Bradfield.

The question of commemorating the 217th anniversary of the closing of the gates of Derry was discussed, and it was decided to hold a banquet on Dec. 18th, as a fitting celebration of that event. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for this social function.

The English Grand Concert Company, which arrived in this city today, is looked upon by music-lovers as the peer of any Concert Company touring Canada this season. They will be in the Grand Opera House to-night.

Excellent Exhibition Of Homespuns

Display at Women's Art Association Exhibition Has Been Greatly Admired—A Large Number of People Visited the Rooms — Philanthropic, as Well as Educational Value to Canada.

ENTERTAINMENT ARRANGEMENTS

Many people have, since its opening yesterday, visited the Exhibition of the Woman's Art Association in the old Y.W.C.A. rooms, Brock street, and have been greatly delighted by its general excellence. The exhibition remains open each afternoon from 2 till 6 o'clock, and will also be open on Friday evening.

A special feature is the large and varied display of homespuns, which includes habitant homespun draperies and rugs, Scotch and Irish tweeds and linens. The exhibits also comprise many fine examples of Persian, Russian and Galician embroidery and needlework, as well as many valuable laces, including Limerick Clones appliqué, Maltese, Duchess and Honiton. The Indian basketry is also a feature. This is bead, bark and quill work, made by the women of Canada in their own homes.

A chief source of interest is, however, the homespuns.

These industries, in which the Irish, Scotch and French settlers were skilled when they came to Canada, have been revived; their production increased, and merit advanced by the supervision, exhibition and sales under the auspices of the Woman's Art Association, as well as societies in Europe with which the Woman's Art Association is affiliated.

The Woman's Art Association made a large exhibition of these goods at St. Louis.

Her Majesty Queen Alexander, H.R.H. the Princess of Wales, H.R.H. the Duchess of Argyle, Princess Louise, Her Excellency Countess Grey, the Countess of Aberdeen, the Countess of Minto, Lady Laurier, Mrs. Mortimer Clark and many other prominent personages have purchased and worn these materials.

The work of the Woman's Art Association in exploiting these home industries is, while philanthropic, of commercial and educational value to Canada and Canadians.

Mrs. A. H. Stratton will serve tea to-morrow afternoon, and Mrs. Donnstoun upon the following day.

POSTPONED

The Curling Club Meeting announced for to-night has been postponed on account of the Concert, until Monday Evening next.

Night School For Employed Boys

General Interest Has Been Manifested in the Work.

The interest in the Y.M.C.A. night school for employed boys has been excellent this season, under the direction of Mr. J. C. Smyth, of the central school, who has charge of the class.

The students enrolled attend every session, and are making progress in the study of arithmetic, writing, spelling and reading.

Last night at the close of the class a social hour was held. Short speeches were made by Messrs. Smyth and Williamson, while each boy told his occupation, age, etc. No less than nine different trades are represented in the class.

A very practical talk on "Success" was given by Mr. J. C. Shook, general manager of the Dickson Company. This was very much enjoyed by all present.

Refreshments were served, and the social closed with the National Anthem.

The Fire By-law Will Benefit All Citizens

Some of the Reasons Advanced Why it Should be Supported by the Ratepayers—Public Meetings Will Probably be Held to Discuss the By-law—Great Need of Improved Fire Protection—Terms of the By-law.

A CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION PLANNED

To-day the first publication of the bylaw to authorize the City Council to borrow $25,000 to improve the fire equipment of the city is being made, and in accordance with the terms, the third reading will not be given until after the ratepayers have voted on it at the municipal elections on New Year's Day.

The preamble to the bylaw says:—"The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the Council of the said City has reported that it is necessary to provide for improved fire protection by the purchase of suitable land for, and to erect a new and modern Fire Hall thereon, and to equip the same in a proper manner, and to instal a fire alarm system, and to purchase a Chemical Fire Engine, a new Fire Steamer, Extension Ladders, Hose and other necessary apparatus for efficient fire protection in the said City at the estimated cost of twenty-five thousand dollars, and it is desirable to pass this bylaw to be submitted to the vote of the duly qualified electors of the City of Peterborough to authorize the borrowing of the said sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for the purposes aforesaid, which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this bylaw."

That there is a grave necessity existing for the improvements to the fire-fighting apparatus as enumerated in the bylaw, no one who has given the matter any thought, can dispute, and those who have fathered the project have strong hopes that the ratepayers will appreciate the necessity and support the bylaw. The improvements will benefit every class of citizens, not simply those who are living in the centre portion of the city, or who have business places there, but the residents of the outlying portions. If one of the large industrial concerns in the city were destroyed, the mechanics who live, the majority of them, away from the centre of the city, would feel it most severely perhaps.

It will thus be seen that any measures adopted to benefit one portion of the city will prove of universal benefit. It is probable that a public meeting will be held towards the close of the year, when the whole matter will be gone into and explained thoroughly.

The Best There Is

In these days of cheap substitutes there is a great inclination to buy something "just as good" in place of the genuine article.

In Gold Watches

this is particularly true. You can have two Watches side by side and one will look as well as the other and yet there may be a difference of $25.00 or $50.00 in the cost. Ottawa Still Cannot See It

The Ottawa Citizen on the Intermediate Championship.

The Ottawa Citizen has a hard task on its hands to convince itself that the Rough Riders II. were not responsible for the Intermediate Championship game fizzle. It said yesterday:—

The Citizen has tried to look at the football situation in all its aspects this season from an entirely unbiassed viewpoint. (With all due respect for the opinions of the press outside the two places concerned most it is now utterly unable to see why Ottawa should be held responsible for the intermediate mix-up.

The teams were ordered to play in Brockville. Neither aggregation cared to play there for the reason evidently that there wouldn't be enough people pay at the gate. That was mistake number one and was made by both teams. Then after consultation Peterborough agreed to play in Ottawa. As neither organization could agree on officials these were appointed by President Clancy, who in so doing performed his duty in such cases. Then Peterborough refused to come on the ground that they did not know the officials. That was another mistake. Ottawa then wired asking them to name and bring their own officials. Still another mistake. The Peterborough team had no business to attempt to bulldoze Clancy or anyone else. The rules say that the president shall appoint officials in the event of the clubs failing to agree. The rules make no allowance or stipulation that the men selected be known to the clubs. The clubs are supposed to take the president's selections and play under them. Ottawa had no business either to attempt to make overtures to Peterborough concerning officials after the president had appointed them. It would have been a nice throw-down of authority had the teams agreed on officials different from those selected by Clancy. If they were unable to agree before he was forced to act they should have remained unable to agree after he had acted if only to be consistent. And Clancy might have compelled the teams to play under his officials no matter how unanimous they might have become afterward in regard to others or declare the game off as far as the championship was legally concerned.

RUGBY.

Sisseton, S. D., Dec. 6.—William Baine the famous Indian half-back on the Wisconsin university team two years ago, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Night Watchman Mahoney.

Baine, who is said to have been drinking, drew a revolver and began firing promiscuously.

Mahoney appeared on the scene and ordered him to cease firing, whereupon the Indian turned his weapon on the officer. Before he could shoot again, however, Mahoney drew his revolver and fired, shooting Baine through the head.

Baine had acted as coach for the Brookins agricultural team during the past season.

HOCKEY

Winnipeg is Ready For Them.

It is to be hoped that when the Ottawa hockey team visit Winnipeg this month they will have their championship seven filled. With the same team that successfully defended the Stanley Cup last winter, Ottawa has one of the smoothest working pieces of hockey machinery ever seen on ice. With one or two of the regulars out of the line-up, the cogs do not work so well, and the artistic mechanism is spoiled. This was shown last spring in the series of games against Rat Portage. In the first match McGee and Gilmour were missing from the forward line, and although their places were taken by husky juniors, the team as a whole played so poorly that the Thistles had them completely outclassed, scoring almost at will. Then the frightened Ottawas induced the two players in question to turn out again, and the marvellous change that resulted is too recent to need recalling. It was not so much the strong game played by McGee and Gilmour individually, but it was the perfection and the finish it gave the team play. Individually, the Thistles were far superior to the Ottawa. None of the latter were so fast as Griffis, Phillips or Bellefuille, and they were no better shots, but when their forwards went down the ice they were in line, and the puck slipped from one to another in a style beautiful to see, and tantalizing to the goal-keeper, who never knew when to expect the shot. That was where Ottawa offset the better form shown otherwise by the dashing westerners, and that, more than anything else, retained the Stanley Cup in the capital. The Ottawas have figured largely in the limelight of publicity as an aggregation of sluggers. Their men are old enough to know all the tricks of the game, and they play anything but parlour hockey, but at that they are one of the cleverest teams that ever stepped on ice, and out here, where a good player is readily recognized, the Stanley Cup holders are sure of a hearty welcome."—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Review again flunks and oysters only cost fifty cents a quart. There's where you get the cheap spirit. In spite of their talk of ante-season phallenges everybody realizes that the reason of refusing to accept the Examiner's challenge is because they simply haven't got the nerve to take it up. As for the sporting editor of this journal dreading the mange, which inspiration he probably got from reading the turf column of this paper, the Examiner man would not have to go very far to treat a case of hockey mange or rather "yellow" fever. But the sporting editor of the Review had better keep his nose out of the turf business altogether, for to him it is like venturing on thin ice, and then again he may dream that Dan Patch will shot at the local ice races, and this would simply be another chance for the "horse laugh" or rather a horrible night mare.

The Electrics of Ottawa have organized for the season. Many local hockey enthusiasts will well remember the time that the Electrics of Ottawa defeated the home team in the days when Walter Phelan, Lionel King and a number of other old players upheld the cause of the crimson and white in the old Charlotte street rink. The score at this match was 2-1 in favour of the Electrics, who had destroyed upon their sweaters a band from which flashed electric "zigzags."

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 6.—The Berlin bicyclists held their first practice last night, about two score of pucksists getting in some excellent work. On the seniors Mickus, Gregg, the Cochrane brothers, McGuinnis, Knell and Schmit were out. The only absentee was Pete Charlton, who is rehearsing as an end man in a minstrel show in aid of the hospital. Berlin opens the season here with Galt on Christmas.

The St. George's Arrowsmiths and Varsity clubs all want a game with Berlin before New Year's.

BASKET-BALL.

It would be a splendid idea to organize a Carpet Ball League in Peterborough this winter. Many towns and cities in Western Ontario have one. Ottawa Race Dates Settled Programme for Coming Winter Ice Meet Arranged.

The schedule of races for the Ottawa winter ice meet has been arranged. Many Peterborough horses will be entered in these races and great interest is being manifested throughout Ontario and Quebec in this event. Peterborough, too, will have the most successful race meet, either ice or turf that ever was held here. The Eastern Ontario circuit will be conducted on a mammoth scale this winter, and promises to be an unqualified success.

Following are the schedule and officials for the Ottawa meet:—

Officials.

Patron—His Excellency the Governor General.

Honorary Presidents — T. Cameron Bate, Esq., Hon. N. A. Belcourt, Lieut. Col. C. E. Turner, (Ex-United States Consul General) Newton J. Ker, Esq., City Engineer.

"This great ice meeting with its $9,000 in stakes and purses, opens on the third of February and closes on the 10th of the same month. It is scarcely necessary to add that its reputation for past good management has made it one of the most popular clubs on the continent, and every horse owner possessed of speed at the winter way of going knows he will have a fair chance of win good money at the Ottawa meeting. Make a note of the important fact that entries to the stake races close on Friday, the 15th of December, and entries to the class close on the 3rd of January, and should be addressed to E. McMahon, secretary-treasurer, Ottawa, Can."—Canadian Sportsman.

THE TURF.

The outlook for the ice racing at Ottawa this year is the brightest that the association has ever had. The entries close the middle of this month for the stake events, and some have already been received. The list includes entries from many well known cities in the States as well as all of the principal places in Canada.—Toronto News.

ONLY A Common Cold

BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED. PNEUMONIA, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CATARRH or CONSUMPTION IS THE RESULT.

The first dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will relieve.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, allowing the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep, and often effecting a permanent cure.

We do not claim that it will cure Consumption in the advanced stages, but if taken in time it will prevent it reaching that stage, and will give the greatest relief to the poor sufferer from this terrible malady.

Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark.

Mr. Wm. O. Jenkins, Spring Lake, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cold settled on my lungs. I bought two bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup but it only required one to cure me. I have never met with any other medicine as good."

Price 25 cts., at all dealers.

Irish National Convention In Dublin, Ireland

None But Home Rule and None But John Redmond, M.P.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN OUTLAWED

Irish Nationalists a Unit In Favor of a Legislative Assembly For Ireland —Will Not Join the Liberals, Although They Rejoice at the Death of the Unionist Anti-Home Rule Government.

Dublin, Dec. 7.—The Irish National convention was opened at the Mansion House yesterday under the presidency of John Redmond. There was a good gathering of members of Parliament and delegates from all parts of the country.

Neither William O'Brien nor Timothy M. Healy was present, but their absence did not seem to affect the cheerfulness of Mr. Redmond, as he congratulated the convention on the death of the Unionist anti-home rule Government, which he attributed to the blows of the Irish representatives in Parliament. He painted the prospects of the Irish in roseate hues and said the realization of their hopes depended almost entirely on themselves.

For Irish Legislative Assembly.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin moved a home rule resolution condemning the present system of governing Ireland and continuing:

"We solemnly assert that no new system of government in Ireland will be accepted as satisfactory except a Legislative Assembly, freely elected and representative of the people, with power to make laws for Ireland, and an Executive Government responsible to that Assembly; and this convention declares that the Irish National party cannot enter into an alliance with or give support to any English party or Government which does not make the question of granting such an assembly and executive to Ireland the cardinal point of its program."

The resolution was carried by acclamation.

Wm. O'Brien Outlawed.

Resolutions were passed denouncing the Government of Ireland, outlawing Wm. O'Brien and his supporters unless they sign the party pledges, expressing disbelief in the promises of the Liberals and pledging absolute support to John Redmond, as leader of the Irish Parliamentary party.

The moderates were howled down and their speakers forced to leave the platform.

The convention also passed a resolution condemning the proposed conference of the supporters of Lord Dunraven, Thomas W. Russell, Timothy M. Healy and John Dillon on the ground that it would be interpreted as an abandonment of the claim for home rule.

There is no evidence that the incoming Liberal Government can expect more support from the Nationalists in the next Parliament than the Unionists have received, unless Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman plumps for home rule. The declaration of the leaders and the resolutions passed at yesterday's session mean continued opposition to the Government until absolute home rule has been granted to Ireland.

A SUDDEN TWINGE

of pain is generally the first warning of the attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous uric acid which is the cause of the disease.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me of rheumatism after I had tried a dozen remedies without relief and also gone West in search of health," writes Harry Kitter, of No. 1665 6th Street, Denver, Colo. "Only those who have suffered from this dread malady know the pain and misery I endured for over five years. Whenever the weather was damp or cold my troubles were increased and my joints would be so stiff and sore that I was hardly able to move about, and often unable to dress myself. I used a number of highly recommended medicines, but they had no effect whatever on me, and I came to Colorado hoping to regain my health, but failed to obtain the relief I had hoped for. A gentleman in the house where I lived advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and in four months and a half after I began using it I was a well man, and have had no touch of it for the past seven months."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Pierce's Pellets. These tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not beget the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor. Put up in vials; always fresh and reliable.

Sakharoff Is Shot Dead By An Assassin

Former Russian Minister of War Killed By a Woman.

FIRED 3 REVOLVER SHOTS

Harrowing Details of Whipping by the Order of Gen. Sakharoff of the Peasants He Was Sent to Pacify—Fear That the St. Petersburg Garrison Will Mutiny—Count Witte Becoming Discouraged.

London, Dec. 7.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated Dec. 5, sent by way of Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, says:

"Lieut.-Gen. Sukharoff, former Minister of War, was assassinated to-day. The Government has deputed Gen. Sakharoff to visit the Province of Saratoff for the purpose of quelling the agrarian riots there. A woman belonging to the so-called "flying column" of the revolutionary movement called at the house of the Governor-General of Saratoff at noon to-day and asked to see Gen. Sakharoff.

"She fired three revolver shots at the general, killing him on the spot."

The tiding reached St. Petersburg last night. Count Witte charged Lieut.-Gen. Rudiger, Minister of War, with the task of breaking the news to Madame Sukharoff.

The event has created a profound impression in St. Petersburg, owing to fears that the revolutionists here will follow the example thus set.

Fear Capital Troops Mutiny.

London, Dec. 7.—The correspondent of The Times at St. Petersburg says:

I am informed on excellent authority that a revolt of the St. Petersburg garrison is certain to occur.

The newspapers print harrowing details of the whipping by order of Gen. Sakharoff of the peasants whom he was sent to pacify.

Shadow of a Dictator.

London, Dec. 7.—The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent wires:

The spectre of a military dictatorship, which has been looming on the horizon, is slowly gaining consistency and sharpness of outline.

I am personally convinced that Count Witte's faith in the good sense and political tact of the Russian thinking classes, which recently was as firm as a rock, is gradually weakening, and with it his hopes for the carrying out of the liberties promised in the Emperor's manifesto.

There are signs of a collapse of the post and telegraph strike.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Matin says that letters received from Manchuria describe a terrible situation among the soldiers there. The men practically are starving and refuse to listen to their officers. Harbin has been pillaged and the position of Gen. Linevitch is an extremely difficult one.

Aged Man Suicides.

Dutton, Dec. 7.—David Magill, a man of sixty-five years of age, whose home is in Detroit, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid while at the Queen's Hotel here yesterday afternoon. He has been in depressed spirits for some time past.

Warships Remain Inactive.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The Foreign Office here considers that the controversy between the powers and Turkey is practically closed and that only details remain to be settled previous to securing a satisfactory adjustment. The international fleet is remaining inactive pending the conclusion of these details.

Strike Ties Up Newspapers.

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 7.—The boycott of the compositors against the newspapers which are opposing universal suffrage is extending. Sixteen dailies yesterday, either could not be published or appeared in restricted form.

London, Dec. 7.—Eight hundred men, the last representatives of the British army in Canada, arrived at Liverpool Tuesday.

A DARK CANVAS.

Germany's Terrible Load of Debt Painted by Chancellor Von Buelow—Relations With Britain.

Berlin, Dec. 7.—Chancellor Von Buelow yesterday opened the debate in the Reichstag on the Government's new measures for increasing and adjusting taxation so as to properly meet the Empire's increased requirements. The Imperial finances, he said, presented a troubled picture in comparison with those of Great Britain and France. Germany had been living from hand to mouth. The deficits which had occurred since October, 1898, were even larger.

The Empire, until 1875, was free from debt. Now it owed $875,000,000 for which $25,000,000 in interest was required. The debt of the Empire and those of the confederated German states amounted to $3,750,000,000, or over $62 per capita.

The United States, while Germany had been increasing her debt to the great sum he had mentioned, had reduced her debt of $3,450,000,000 to a fraction of the amount. The other great states also had regular plans for the gradual reduction of their debt.

Germany's expenditures, in spite of severe economy, had increased rapidly and in advance of the income.

Relations With Britain.

Taking up the matter of foreign relations, the chancellor admitted that Germany must reckon with a deep-seated antipathy in Great Britain, but he greeted with satisfaction the recent signs of an improved feeling on the part of the British people toward Germany. He said he fain would see therein the beginning of the restoration of a mutual understanding now interrupted between the two great peoples of a similar civilization. Between Germany and the other two members of the triple alliance, the chancellor said not the slightest conflict of interests existed; nevertheless, Germany must be strong enough to stand alone without allies if need be.

The chancellor then discussed the Moroccan question, pointing out that Germany had well grounded rights and "was not playing the role of wanton mischief-maker. He maintained that Germany was a peace-loving nation, and said that the idea of German thirst for revenge against France was absurd.

Group Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. William McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

Goes For Trial.

Kingston, Dec. 7.—Feldman, alias Yark Thompson, from Toronto and Montreal, implicated in the McKay robbery here, was committed for trial yesterday. The evidence was chiefly circumstantial.

Tax on the Slot Machines.

Montreal, Dec. 7.—According to a decision rendered yesterday by Judge Weir, the Bell Telephone Co. is liable to pay a tax of $5 to the city on each of its slot machines.

Comparison Never Injures the Reputation of a Good Article—That's Why

THE

is so popular to-day! It is the most up-to-date Range on the market and the most economical Fuel saver. You may secure one at a price in keeping with the merits of the Canada. Quality is more important than price when buying a Range. You cannot be but satisfied on both scores, if you buy one of the Canadas.

This Range is made in Canada.

It is guaranteed by the

Moffat Stove Co.

The opinions received at 137 Hunter street concerning The Canada Steel Range coincide with the maker's and seller's opinion—namely, "A Good Baker," "A Perfect Cooker." "Just the Range to bake with," —this is the tone of the testimonials. There must be someting meritorious about the Canada, something about it that absolutely forces a buyer to say, "I'll take this Range." Your patronage is invited.

Port Hope Talks Of New Industry

His Worship Mayor Chalk has received a communication from a large iron manufacturing concern asking what inducements could be offered to have them locate a branch of their industry in Port Hope. They are desirous of locating in some likely town, and knowing of the excellent sites for factories in Port Hope, and having seen by the press that a charter had been granted for the Northumberland and Durham Power Company, which intended developing Healey Falls power they felt satisfactory arrangements could be made to have a branch of their concern established in Port Hope. They require 1,000 horse power and a guarantee of 500 additional 1,000. The mayor is at present in communication with the company, and every effort will be made to have them locate here.—Guide.

UNNA DEFINES A CAUSE

European Skin Specialist Says Dandruff is Caused by Parasites.

Upon that theory, proved beyond a doubt, a cure for dandruff was sought after. Scientists, chemists, druggists and physicians all took a hand, and the successful issue is the present product known as "Newbro's Herpicide."

This remedy actually kills the parasites that infest the hair bulbs, does its work most effectively and contains not an atom of substance injurious to anything else than the germ alone. Herpicide causes the hair to grow as nature intended it should—soft and abundant.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for a sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Wm. Campbell, of Keene, is in the City to-day.

The Peterborough Uni sity students will hold their annual dance on New Year's Night.

Mr. R. Rumpog, travelling freight agent, Allan S.S. Line, Toronto, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Gilroy, representing the Geo. Matthews Co., Hull, Quebec, is registered at the National.

Mr. Fred English, of St. Helens, spent Saturday with his sister, Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, Peterborough.

Mr. D. Hughes Charles has gone to Woodstock, Galt and other Western cities on a vacation of ten days or two weeks.

Mr. Bert Mollood and cousin, of Peterborough, were visiting their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crossley, Clarke, recently.—Port Hope Guide.

Mrs. G. M. Cory and baby, of Petrolea, are the guests of relatives in this city. Mrs. Cory will be here a couple of weeks.—London Advertiser.

Mr. Harry Jobe who for over four months has been ill with appendicitis for which he was operated on has returned to his work in the G.G.E. Works, this week.

Miss Rose Guerin returned to Peterborough Monday evening after spending a few days with relatives in town.....Mr. Wm. Rutkins, Inland Revenue Officer, Peterborough, was in town to-day.—Lindsay Post.

Rev. P. J. McGuire, of Downeyville, spent Friday and Saturday in Hastings.....Mr. and Mrs. Julius Carter, of Havelock, and Mr. Robt. Carter, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Carter, Sr.—Hastings Star.

Mr. Herbert D. Keilty, of the circulation department of the Mail and Empire, Toronto, is in the city in the interests of the above journal. Mr. Keilty, who is a graduate of Ottawa College, is a nephew of Rev. Father Keilty, parish priest, Douro. This is the first visit Mr. Keilty has made to Peterborough since 1893, and he is very much surprised at the splendid progress the city, then a town, has made in the interval of his former and this visit.

THE LATEST SPORTS

The Schedule of Games Arranged

Peterborough Hockey Club's Games for This Season.

The schedule of the games in Intermediate, District No. 2, in the O.H.A. was arranged yesterday in Port Hope, when representatives of the three teams in the district were present. Those representing the clubs were:

Port Hope, C. Curtis.

Cobourg, W. Bentley.

Peterborough, C. G. Graham, (Convenor.)

The schedule as adopted at the meeting was as follows:—

Dec. 27.—Port Hope at Cobourg.
Jan. 1.—Cobourg at Port Hope.
Jan. 5.—Cobourg at Peterborough.
Jan. 6.—Peterborough at Port Hope.
Jan. 12.—Port Hope at Peterborough.
Jan. 15.—Peterborough at Cobourg.
Jan. 17.—Cobourg at Port Hope.
Jan. 19.—Port Hope at Cobourg.
Jan. 22.—Cobourg at Peterborough.
Jan. 24.—Peterborough at Port Hope.
Jan. 26.—Port Hope at Peterborough.
Jan. 31.—Peterborough at Cobourg.

The home games are:—
Jan. 5.—Cobourg.
Jan. 12.—Port Hope.
Jan. 22.—Cobourg.
Jan. 26.—Port Hope.

Those away from home are:—
Jan. 8.—At Port Hope.
Jan. 15.—At Cobourg.
Jan. 24.—At Port Hope.
Jan. 31.—At Cobourg.

This will give all except one of the home games on Friday, and those away from home on Monday and Wednesday.

Both the Port Hope and Cobourg teams this year will be strong, and the prospects are that some great games will be played in this district this season.

BOXING AND WRESTLING.

Tom Jenkins says that the strangle hold in wrestling should be barred.

In England the strangle hold is allowed. Jenkins thinks that when an athlete uses this deadly grapple he causes his opponent excessive pain and bodily harm. He also declares that a referee should have the power to compel a competitor to release a hold which is used to punish an opponent.

"The strangle hold" says Jenkins, "renders a man unconscious in time. On account of its brutality alone it should be barred."

"I also think that the full Nelson and lacing the fingers should be forbidden. They are used in England to tire a man and then to turn him over."—Montreal Herald

The strangle hold is barred in nearly all Canadian wrestling matches. Anybody who has ever had this decidedly unpleasant hold placed upon him will readily agree with Jenkins. The full Nelson is barred in all Canadian amateur wrestling, but is a favourite hold of the professionals. It is not nearly as bad a hold as the strangle as there is a chance for a man to spin out of this hold or double upon his opponent.

SNOWSHOEING

The Emerald Snowshoe Club, of Montreal, held its first tramp last Tuesday. The clemency in the eastern part of Canada evidently favour the devotees of this sport.

AMUSEMENTS

English Concert Company Arrives

Madame Beatrice Langley, Miss Hope Morgan, Miss Myrtle Meggy, and Mr. Stanley Adams, all members of the English Grand Concert Company, have arrived from Belleville, and are guests at the Hotel National. A splendid programme has been prepared for to-night's concert, and it is pretty safe to predict that the opera house will be well filled to welcome these excellent artists from the Mother Land. The coming of the English Grand Concert Company, bids fair to be one of the treats of the season. As this will be the only opportunity local music lovers will have of hearing this concert company no one should allow it to pass.

Interesting Dramatic Event

On Monday evening the citizens will have the privilege of hearing in dramatic readings, a Peterborough boy who has won bright laurels on the stage, Mr. Walter B. Cluxton, grandson of the late Wm. Cluxton, one of the most prominent amateurs of music during his life here, will give a dramatic reading of Tennyson's beautiful "Enoch Arden." Mr. Cluxton adopted the stage as a profession in London, England, eight years ago, and has achieved striking success. The very fact that he was chosen to support an artist like Beerboum Tree, and later Edward Terry, is representing the "hall mark of artistic rank. He has scored large success as "Piff" in "Piff Paff Pouff." Mr. Cluxton will be assisted by Miss Ethel Shepard, of Toronto, a brilliant dramatic soprano, who has just returned from Paris, where she has been studying opera. She has appeared in public only once in Toronto at the Whitney reception, and was an eminent success. Mr. Frank Blatchford, of Leipzig and Berlin culture, pronounced the most brilliant violinist of Toronto, will also contribute to the programme. Miss Alice B. Roger, our clever pianiste, will assist in solo and accompaniment. It is thus seen that in addition to the "Enoch Arden" reading, a programme of variety and unusual excellence will be provided.

Expert to Meet Commissioners

This afternoon at five o'clock Mr W. E. Fuller, the expert, from New York, who has been brought here to report on the condition of the city's water supply, and on the proposal to instal a filtering system; will meet the Water Commissioners, and submit to them, informally, his plans.

The chairman of the Board this afternoon informed the Examiner that he had not discussed the matter with Mr. Fuller yet, and knew nothing of his proposals.

Good Cause For Alarm

In these days of plentiful surgical operations the following story is interesting:—

A husband came home one evening to find a note left for him by his wife. Carelessly he opened it, but as he read his face blanched. "My God!" he exclaimed, "how could this have happened so suddenly?" And, snatching his hat and coat, he rushed to a hospital which was near his home.

"I want to see my wife, Mrs. Brown, at once," he said to the head nurse, "before she goes under the chloroform. Please take my measure to her at once."

"Mrs. Brown?" echoed the nurse. "There is no Mrs. Brown here."

"Then to which hospital has she gone?" asked the distracted husband. "I found this note from her when I came home," and he handed the note to the nurse, who read:—

"Dear Husband,

"I have gone to have my Kimona cut out.

As a Convalescent Food.

Mr. Wyman N. Thomas, Ompah, Addington Co., Ont., writes:—My wife had congestion of the lungs and other troubles, and became very weak and run down. By the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that built her up."

Last Christmas Mail.

Parcels meant to reach England by Christmas day must be mailed here not later than 12 o'clock on Saturday, December 9th. So do not forget your Old Country friends, but call at Stratton's and select your Xmas remembrances, be they ever so small or so large. Come early and often to the Peterborough Book Store.

A Triple Murder And Suicide Are Reported From Near Shelburne

Shelburne, Ont., Dec. 8.—Word was received late last night of a triple murder and suicide in northern part of Melancthon, about ten miles from here. James Coulter, a farmer, murdered his wife, daughter and son, and then shot himself. It is supposed he murdered the boy in the barn first by striking him with an axe, and then shot his wife and daughter and himself. Further particulars are not to hand.

LATER.—Dr. Moore, of Hornings' Mills, who was alled to the scene of the crime, is of the opinion that it was committed about 1 p.m. on Thursday. The wife and daughter were washing the dishes at the time. The daughter and son were alive when the doctor reached the home. The girl died shortly after and the son died about 6 p.m. They were both unconscious and unable to give any information.

Farmers' Institute Meetings At Lakefield

A Most Successful Opening to the Series of Winter Meetings Under Auspices of West Peterborough Institute—Three Meetings Held—Annual Meeting of Women's Institute—A Delightful Programme Rendered at Evening Meeting.

The first of a series of meetings arranged for the coming winter, under the auspices of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, was held yesterday afternoon at the Town Hall, Lakefield. Splendid addresses by Messrs. C. W. Nash, Toronto; W. C. Shearer, Bright, and Miss Laura Rose, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, were delivered on topics of vital interest to the members of the Association and the farmers generally. To say that both the afternoon and evening meetings were successful in every particular is expressing the matter mildly. The speakers were very capable and convincing and a delightful programme given at the evening session was very much appreciated by an audience of over four hundred people. Mr. Thos. M. Hunter, President, Mr. Wm. Collins, Secretary, and several other members were present at the meetings. The West Peterborough Women's Farmers' Institute also met during the afternoon at the Foresters' Hall, Lakefield, and at this meeting Miss Rose delivered a very fine address on "The Composition of Milk."

The men's afternoon meeting was opened by a few remarks by President Hunter. Mr. Hunter expressed deep regret that one of their former members, the late Mr. C. D. Moore, had been called away since the last meeting of the Association, Mr. Hunter characterized him as a man of great energy and ability and said that his irreparable loss would be greatly felt throughout the community. At the conclusion of his remarks he introduced

Mr. Nash.

Mr. Nash remarked that the attendance was not very large, but said that if a few remarkably good men come to a meeting and threshed the subject out thoroughly they will set a good example and their work will spread over a large area. The

Returns To The City to Accept Managership

Mr. E. J. Brown Will be Made Manager of the Local Exchange of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company—Was Formerly Consulting Engineer for the Toronto Railway Company—Enthusiastic Believer in Machine 'Phone.

MACHINE 'PHONE HAS GREAT FUTURE

That the machine telephone has come to stay is evident from the attitude which electrical engineers are assuming towards it. Mr. E. J. Brown, of Toronto, formerly consulting engineer with the Toronto Railway Company, under Mr. Fisk, the resident consulting engineer, and at one time a resident in Peterborough, has joined the staff of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, and has arrived in the city to assume the duties of his position.

The intention is, it is stated, to have Mr. Brown assume the local management of the Company, though in the meantime he will be under Mr. Lorimer, and will acquaint himself with the details of the machine's construction.

Mr. Brown was, up to eleven years ago, a resident of Peterborough, and prior to his removal to Toronto was employed with the Canadian General Electric Company. Since then he has been, as stated, with the Toronto Railway Company. In common with other electrical engineers, Mr. Brown became interested in the machine telephone, and, according to his statement, the more he learned about it the deeper his interest became, and when the proposal was made that he should join the staff of the local company he accepted the offer readily.

In his opinion the machine is the coming telephone, and he predicts that there is a great future for it.

Mr. Brown is an enthusiastic believer in the future of the Lorimer system of telephones, and informed the Examiner that the system is attracting widespread attention among the engineering profession of both Canada and the United States.

After the whole list of subscribers has been supplied with 'phones, Mr. Brown will assume the management.

Peterboros' Waterworks Plant Praised

Mr. W. E. Fuller, Consulting Engineer, Stated it is Superior to the Ordinary Plant—The Question of Filtration Being Taken up by the Water Commissioners—Generally Speaking, the Equipment Here is Satisfactory.

WILL PREPARE REPORT ON LOCAL CONDITIONS

"The Peterborough Waterworks System is superior to the ordinary system in a city of this size," was the statement made to the Examiner last night by Mr. W. E. Fuller, of New York, a representative of Messrs. Hazen & Whipple, consulting engineers on waterworks and sewerage systems. Mr. Fuller, as was reported by the Examiner, was in the city at the request of the Water Commissioners, with a view of having him go over the ground, and of making a report on the question of the installation of a filtration plant, which has been under consideration by the Commissioners for some little time. He was here two days, and during that time has been investigating the conditions pretty thoroughly. He has been up the river to Lakefield, and has inspected the pumping plant, and the conditions surrounding its operation. It was after he had made this inspection that he made the statement quoted at the beginning of this article. He went considerably further, and said that it was much more complete than he had expected, and he had found the plant in good shape, and the records well kept. The management was complimented upon the excellent condition of the plant, and, as far as the water was concerned, Mr. Fuller stated that it looked clear, and this, too, was much better than he had expected to find.

Clarification Necessary.

It would, however, be remarked, be necessary to adopt some system of clarification of the water. The sewage from Lakefield, and the summer residences at Stony Lake made it impossible to have absolutely pure water. He had made no analysis of the water, though, and was unable to state positively its condition.

Mr. Fuller explained that there were two systems of filtering in general use — the mechanical, and the slow sand processes. Each had its advantages, as well as its disadvantages, and he could not say which would be the better for Peterborough. The slow sand process would cost, say, one-third more to instal, but the operating expenses would be less than those of the mechanical. To operate the latter successfully, it would be necessary to employ a bacteriologist and chemist, and the plant would require, to give the best results, constant attention. His experience had been that a filtering plant was either very good or very bad, and in order to keep the mechanical system from being the latter, it would be necessary to engage expert help.

Will Report on Conditions.

The result of Mr. Fuller's visit was that he was commissioned by the Commissioners to have his firm prepare a report, from the data which he gathered while here, covering the whole operation of the system, and their recommendations for the installation of the filtering plant. This report will be very complete, and with it the Commissioners will know just what condition the system is in, and they will be able to proceed intelligently.

It must be understood that no decision has been arrived at, as yet, to instal the filtering system. The Commissioners are now gathering information which will guide them in their action in the future.

In procuring this information they could not have applied to a better authority than Mr. Hazen, who is the head of the firm of engineers, and under whose direction the report will be prepared. He designed the first filtering plant installed in America, that at Albany, N. Y., and since that time has had charge of a large number of similar installations, among the cities for which he has designed plants being Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D. C. He has reported on a number of plants, and has designed in all about ten systems.

First in Canada.

At the present time, Mr. Fuller states, there is not a standard filtration system in Canada, and if this city decides to instal one, it will be the first in the country.

This fact is evidence that the Commissioners here are progressive, and are fully alive to the requirements, and are keeping up with modern methods in the management and operation of the plant.

The filtration system which Mr. Fuller had in his mind for Peterborough would occupy about one-half an acre of land, and he saw no reason why it should not be located in the vicinity of the waterworks pumping station. As to the cost, he was not prepared to make an estimate at the present time, the local conditions governing to a large extent, the cost. He would recommend one amply large to accommodate the maximum capacity of the pumping plant, and the pipe and fittings could be made sufficiently large so that it could be added to unit by unit, and the cost of extension would be small, because the pipes and fittings would not require to be changed. He figured that a plant would about double itself in twenty years.

Pleased With Plant.

Mr. Fuller expressed himself as being greatly pleased with all that he saw around the plant of the waterworks here, and is of the opinion that the management is excellent. It gives evidence of a business-like Board of Commissioners, which, he was assured, Peterborough possesses.

It will be some little time yet before Mr. Fuller's report will be presented to the Commissioners, but, in the meantime, he believes that the citizens have nothing to fear from the water.

S. A. Junior Corps' Annual Entertainment

Large Attendance Last Night at the Barracks—Enjoyable Programme Was Presented—Continuation of Sale of Work Brought Gratifying Results—Short Address by Staff-Capt. Kerr—Advances Made in Sunday School Work.

PROGRAMME WAS MUCH ENJOYED

The annual entertainment of the Salvation Army Junior Corps was held last night at the Barracks, and proved the unqualified success that Salvation Army events of this kind invariably are. A bright and attractive programme, was presented by the young workers in the Army, and was greatly appreciated by the large audience which assembled. A feature of the evening was the continuation, after the conclusion of the programme, of the sale of work. Staff Captain Kerr, Superintendent of the S. A. Maternity Hospital and Rescue Home, Toronto, who delivered an address here on Tuesday evening kindly consented to remain and gave another short address in connection with the sale. The results were highly gratifying the sum of over $25.00 being secured from this source alone.

The chair was occupied by Mr. R. C. Hamund who performed the duties in his usual happy manner. The solos, drills, recitations, etc., which constituted the programme were throughout rendered so with great pleasure, and the little ones contributing acquitted themselves with utmost credit. The programme was as follows:—

Recitation. "Mr. Bob and Jim"...Jessie Fowler
Solo, "Over the Line" ... Grace Dickens
Recitation "Dreams" ... Hattie Cummins
Flag Drill ... ... By the Drill Class.
Solo, "Wonderful Power" Elsie Northcott
Recitation. "Something for Jesus" Eva Stevenson
Organ selection. "Queen City March" Ethel Card
Chairman's address, Staff Capt. Kerr
Recitation. "A Weather Rhyme" Amy Lang
Motion Song. "I Think When I Read" Company of Girls.
Recitation, "The Complaint of a Hornet" Mary Bloggs
Duet, "A Sunbeam" Hilda and Flora Case
Selection. .... Brass Band
Recitation. "Capt. Lucy's Promotion" Ethel Wright
Song. "Two Sorts of Daddy" Boys and Girls
Solo, "Junior Soldier" ... Alice Carter
Recitation. "Johnnies' Complaint" Eddie Stevenson.
Reading. "A Song Never Finished" Ethel Payson
Solo, "Trust and Obey" ... Mabel Johe
God Save the King.

The selections contributed by the band were excellently rendered and much enjoyed. The Children were trained for their respective parts in last night's programme by Sergeant-Major Vincent, who spoke briefly last night with reference to Sunday School work. During the past four years the work has doubled both in interest and in attendance. The attendance last Sunday eclipsed all previous records.

Were Passed at Annual Meeting East Durham Convention.

The annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Durham was held in the Town Hall here on Tuesday. Dr. A. C. Beatty, of Hope President, in the chair. The attendance was not up to the standard, on account of it being an off year, but it was none the less enthusiastic. The old officers were all re-elected.

Mr. R. Vance, who has perhaps not missed a convention in forty years was unable through illness to be present, but sent a letter of regret, also expressing the hope for a very successful meeting.

The revision of the constitution being considered it was moved by Mr. E. Outram and Mr. T. H. Collins, and carried that no change be made. The proposition was to reduce the delegates from 215 to 110. The following delegates spoke on the subject:—Col. Ward, J. J. Preston, T. H. Collins, C. McNeil H. B. Lawson, E. Outram and others, all agreeing that the larger representation was the more desirable.

Moved by Col Ward, seconded by E. Outram, That the President, Secretary and Mr. C. McNeil be a committee to draft and forward letters of condolence to the families of those of our old co-workers who have departed this life since our last annual meeting, the late Mr. T. Dixon Craig, Thos. Grandy, Wm. McMaster, John Hawkins, Thomas Wm. Alex Noble, sr., James Leslie and D. G. Trew.—Millbrook Reporter.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE

Dangers and Pain of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women as this time draws near is not without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dread of impending evil, sounds in the ears, timidity, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period, and may be relied upon to overcome all distressing symptoms and carry them safely through to a healthy and happy old age.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Madame Louis Belleau, of 17 Ramsay St., Quebec, Que., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound assisted me to pass the change of life with but very little sickness and pain, and I am pleased to give it my endorsement, for I feel that it is the medicine which every woman should take. I am the mother of three children, and when I reached the age of fifty naturally my health was none too good, and I feel sure that if I had not taken your Vegetable Compound I should not have passed the climax safely. I took it off and on for two years and now find that I am in splendid health and strength and feel younger and better than I did ten years ago. Much praise to your medicine, and may all suffering women learn of its value."

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Melrose Abbey Factory Sold

Mr James Craighead, the proprietor of the Melrose Abbey cheese factory, on the Norwood road, has disposed of the building and good will of the business to Mr. Andrew Mathison of Havelock. Mr. Craighead, who has conducted the factory most satisfactorily and efficiently during the past six years, will, it is understood, go into the lumbering business. Mr. Mathison, the present owner, has a very enviable reputation as a cheesemaker, and should continue to maintain the high class quality of the Melrose Abbey product.—Standard.

Western Fair At Guelph

An Annual Event of Interest to Stockmen.

On Monday in the City Hall, at Guelph, the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair will open, and will continue during the whole week. This is an annual event of great interest and profit to live stock breeders.

As a practical educator the Fair is unsurpassed. Everything that is seen or heard tends towards one object — the advancement of agriculture. A study of the different animals on exhibition gives one a definite idea of what constitutes the correct type of animal to command the highest price in the best markets, while the lecturers deal with the evolution of these types. Comparison between live animals and dressed carcases of the same animals as allowed by the Block Tests, gives a splendid demonstration of the relationship between outward appearances and inward qualities. Any person interested in any department of the Winter Fair cannot afford to be absent from this exhibition.

Special railway rates have been secured for this Fair. From points in Ontario west of and from Kingston and Sharbot Lake, except west of North Bay, tickets may be purchased at single fare for the round trip, good going December 12th to 15th, good to return up to and including December 18th.

THE HAIR BRUSH

Breeds Dandruff, Which Causes Falling Hair and Finally Baldness.

Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says that dandruff is as contagious as any other malevolent disease, and that one common source of the spread of dandruff is the use of the same hair brush by different persons. The way to avoid catching dandruff or any other disease from another's brush is to insist on the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It not only kills the dandruff germ but it is also an antiseptic that will prevent the catching of any disease whatever through contagion of another's brush. Sold by leading druggists. Send ten cents in stamps for a sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

$10 Came at Opportune Time

Incident Illustrating Straits of Children's Aid Society.

A striking illustration of the financial straits in which the Children's Aid Society at present are, was furnished yesterday afternoon, when a woman applied to Mr. Peter Campbell, secretary of the society, for an indemnity of $10 due her in connection with the maintenance of some children.

Mr. Campbell was about to reply that the funds were absolutely exhausted, when a $10 bank note from The Examiner was providentially laid upon his desk—and the debt was discharged.

The money was contributed by the Ladies' Aid of the Mark street Methodist church and was handed to The Examiner.

Interest Grows In the Meetings

The interest continues to grow in the meetings in Mark street church. Last evening men in the prime of life and young men bowed together at the altar seeking forgiveness of sins. Two prayer meetings are being held each afternoon in different parts of the Fifth Ward. To-night Rev. J. E. Moore will assist the pastor.

FOOD OR STIMULANT.

Ask your doctor if when he orders a patient to drink lots of pure milk he advises the addition of a large quantity of whiskey. He'll tell you "no" very emphatically. Yet there are people who, when ordered to get Scott's Emulsion, will accept some wine, cordial or extract of cod liver oil and think it is the same thing or better. If you want and need cod liver oil in its best, purest and most easily digested form, get Scott's Emulsion. If you want whiskey, that's another matter, but don't look for the same results.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situate, receive authority for some one to make entry for him

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

Farmers' Institute Meeting at Lakefield

man who doesn't come to the Farmers' Institute meeting simply because he doesn't take any interest in the matters discussed is the man who generally depends upon the good example set by his neighbour. "Chemistry of the Soil," the subject upon which Mr. Nash spoke, is a very important subject and is particularly of importance in countries where the soil has become barren. The speaker was not aware of the condition of the soil in this district; but it was well to be informed on this subject for if its principles are properly applied the soil will never run out. As far as plant rotation was concerned it was perfect in old days, but man broke in on Nature's rotation and in time the soil in many instances became impoverished and the plant food in the soil gradually disappeared. In time the cultivation of plant life became an impossibility. The tillers of the land then sought after and secured better methods and implements. And at this time farmers were taught that implements and mechanical labour was all that was necessary to obtain the best results. The fertility of the soil was exhausted. What was to be done? The fertile elements that had been taken from the soil had to be replaced by artificial means—there was no other alternative. The constituents of the soil had to be tested and chemicals to supply the lacking elements used.

MR. T. M. HUNTER,
President of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, the First Meeting of Which Was Held Yesterday.

But in order to directly purchase the necessary chemicals a man had to be rich. In the first place it is necessary to know what the soil can do for the farmer and what the farmer can do for the soil. In order to grow a satisfactory crop the soil must have a proper proportion of water. It is no use without it. Water is essential to a plant but there can be either too little or too much. Nature provides for all contingencies. In deep water many kinds of plants will grow. An agricultural plant doesn't require too much water. Years ago there never were any droughts. The rainfall was uniform throughout the seasons and streams never ran dry, and wells never failed. The problem of the water supply is one of the most serious that we have to face in this country. In order to have the proper proportion of water the soil needs to be 20 to 25 per cent. timber land. About 88 per cent. of our land is arable; the balance cannot be profitably cultivated. We have cut timber from our waste land and this is difficult to replace. Rocky ranges of land have been cleared and the rains, thaws and freshets have washed away the earth. Steep banks of streams and rivers have been stripped of every tree and sapling and the water rolls uninterrupted by down their banks and not a blade of grass can grow. Had a sufficient number of trees been left they would have been a source of revenue to the farmer. Municipalities, counties and even the government have caused the marsh lands to be drained so much that the farmers have not water in the swamps to water their stock. The matter is very serious and either some method to hold back the water will have to be adopted or else irrigation will have to be resorted to. There had been no lack of rainfall during last summer; there had been no lack of snowfall during last winter, but still the water supply for purposes of nourishing the products of the farm is at a premium. As soon as the sun melts the snow, muddy rushing torrents carry tons of soluble nutritious matter and plant food into Lake Ontario. The lakes during the last few years are higher than they have ever been before and yet the farmers back of them are crying for more Water. The Eastern States because of the cutting of their trees without display of judgment or discretion are victims of the water scarcity plague also, and it is now one of the live questions on the American side of the line, what is to be done in the matter of the inferior water supply of the Eastern States. It is impossible by any mechanical work to maintain the fertility of the soil. Although there are about fifteen or sixteen others the principal elements essential to plant life are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Nitrogen is very easily exhausted and very difficult to replace.

In the growth of the crops nitrogen represents growth and development. There are some points in Ontario where soil is nitrogenous. If the land is wet nitrogen is not available. It requires also phosphoric acid, which represents the growth of the fruit, and potash is essential in the ripening process.

Clover is Valuable.

The clover plant is perhaps the greatest reliance in supplying nitrogen to the soil. It, with the assistance of vegetable life, is capable of taking free nitrogen from the air, and this it stores up in small nodules. These are formed by certain bacteria, which store up nitrogen. Hence clover can be grown from the soil, and the latter is enriched. Clover, however, exhausts phosphoric acid and potash. The growing of clover is the most useful thing a man can do on a farm, but it may not always be economical. Barnyard manure must also be used.

The speaker closed by referring to the effects of the vertical action of water on the soil, saying that it was one of the most useful processes in connection with the soil. Sometimes land was found in a good mechanical condition, but the plants we desire to cultivate there will not grow. This land is sour, and it is not necessarily on account of dampness. To test the land, take some in a vessel and put blue litmus in it. If it turns red the soil is sour. In that case use lime. Sour lands are rarely found where there is limestone.

At the close of the address an animated and profitable discussion took place on the subject.

Mr. Shearer's Address.

Mr. W. C. Shearer, of Bright, Ont., then gave an address on "The Rotation of Crops and selection of Seed Grain." Mr. Shearer is a practical farmer, and his address was full of points which, if carried out, would be a great benefit to the farmers of the community. His knowledge has been gained by practical experience on his own farm, and thus he is very well prepared to discuss anything of interest to the farmers. He handled his subject in a manner that made it most clear to those present, who showed that they thoroughly appreciated it by the intelligent discussion after the address.

Mr. Shearer first dealt with the rotation of crops, and discussed this important part of farm life in a thoroughly practical manner. In the first place the main object was to make all the money possible, and at the same time to preserve the fertility of the soil. Mr. Shearer described the short rotation system used on his own farm. The first year clover was planted, and the field afterwards used for pasturing purposes. Next (year mixed grains were used; the third year roots were planted, and in the fourth the field was seeded down. In the fall of the first year the field was ploughed about five inches in depth. A mixture of oats, barley and flax was put in. The flax improved the quality of the oat crops. The next fall the field was ploughed about six inches deep. During the winter the manure was taken out, although he did not approve of putting out manure if the snow was very deep. The manure should be thoroughly spread.

Women's Institute.

The Women's Institute also held a most successful meeting in the Foresters' hall in the afternoon. The president, Miss Clara Burgess, was in the chair and about fifty ladies were present, and evinced a deep interest in the proceedings.

The Women's Institute was organized about five years ago and is in a most flourishing condition. It has grown from small things to be a most successful organization, the membership at the present time being about eighty. The Institute is doing good work in Lakefield and is endeavouring to enlarge its sphere of influence to include Bridgenorth, Selwyn and other districts in West Peterborough. Meetings are held every month at which helpful and interesting papers are read. The officers are as follows:—

President—Miss Clara Burgess.
Vice-President—Mrs. J. E. Kelley.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. G. Fitzgerald.
Directors—Mrs. F. E. Kline and Mrs. E. Bravender.

Mrs. B. C. Gale, one of the best workers in connection with the organization, is leaving for Whitby Island, Seattle, Wash., in a short time and her departure will be greatly regretted by the members.

Miss Rose Speaks.

Miss Laura Rose of the Ontario Agricultural College delivered a helpful address on "The Composition of Milk" in the afternoon and her remarks were listened to with close attention by the ladies present.

The ladies held a tea in the Foresters hall, at which the representatives of the Farmers' Institute were present and passed an enjoyable social hour. The repast was a sumptuous one and the ladies proved themselves ideal hostesses.

Mr. T. M. Hunter, the president of the Institute, in an appropriate speech at the conclusion of the supper, thanked the ladies for their kindness.

Evening Meeting.

The hall was packed for the evening session, a large number of Lakefield citizens turning out in addition to the farmers. The meeting was bright and interesting. The addresses given were of a most instructive character, while the musical programme was a delightful one.

The reeve of Lakefield, Mr. E. A. Tanner, occupied the chair in an efficient manner. In his opening address Mr. Tanner spoke of the importance of Canada's agriculture and said that the people of Europe were looking to Canada to provide the food for the world.

Mr. W. C. Shearer was the first speaker, his subject being "Making a Success on the Farm."

Mr. Shearer expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large attendance present. One of the first things in success was to get all the information possible. He urged the necessity of keeping the boy at school every day in the school period, and of taking more interest in the country schools. It was an advantage to send the boys to Guelph.

He couldn't get too much knowledge. It is also necessary for the girls to receive a good education. He urged upon the girls to attend the McDonald Institute at Guelph.

He wouldn't say that all the boys on the farm should stay there. Some of the best business men come from the farms. The railroad attracts a large number of farm boys. He would like to tell those boys that all that glitters is not gold on the railroad.

The chances of success of a young man on the farm were good compared with those of a young man aspiring to be a mechanic. On a dairy farm there were long hours. At night, however, they did no. have to work so long. He spoke of hired men, and expressed the hope that those present were saving their money, and gave instances of the success attained by men who did not foliably squander their wages.

The orchestra then rendered a delightful selection which was well received. Miss Kline followed with a delightful solo, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," in excellent voice and was warmly applauded.

How Much are We Worth?

Miss Laura Rose gave her most interesting address on this subject, "How Much are we Worth?" Miss Rose expressed her pleasure at attending the Women's Institute meeting in the afternoon. They had had a splendid meeting and she would urge upon the women who had not done so to join at once. It was doing a good work throughout all Ontario. Homes are being made brighter; husbands get better cooking, and wives are getting better looking.

As a nation let us think how much Canada is worth. At one time it was looked upon merely as a rather unimportant colony. Now we have assumed a place of our own and are no longer designated as Americans. We should be proud to assume the name of Canada.

Lord Strathcona, Sir William McDonald, Goldwin Smith, and other well known names, were referred to. The great manufacturers helped to advertise Canada, and did much to show its worth. We should not be jealous of them. Most great men had climbed through perseverance rather than through ability.

The speaker spoke of the large trees of British Columbia, the immense wheat fields of the North-west, the lumber interests of Quebec, and the fishing and mining interests of Nova Scotia. Ontario was, however, the fairest jewel in all the setting. Miss Rose's advice was that anyone with a comfortable home should stay in Ontario.

Ontario the Best.

She spoke of the anxiety in planting seed on the prairie and of the difficulties encountered from drought, hail, frost, etc., but she did not want to run down the west but to make the people of Ontario more content with their homes.

Miss Rose spoke of the derision accorded to public men sometimes, and the way they were treated by the general public. The people were cruel in their judgment. Public men should have sympathy instead of cold criticism. It is in the home that true worth should be shown. If there is any place we should show our lovable spirit it is in our homes.

Miss Rose was loudly applauded at the conclusion of her address.

A selection that aroused much enthusiasm was a male chorus, "Heroes and Gentlemen." The stirring selection was rendered most effectively. Misses Hunter and Nelson contributed a duet on the piano in a clever fashion and were received with a marked manifestation of approval.

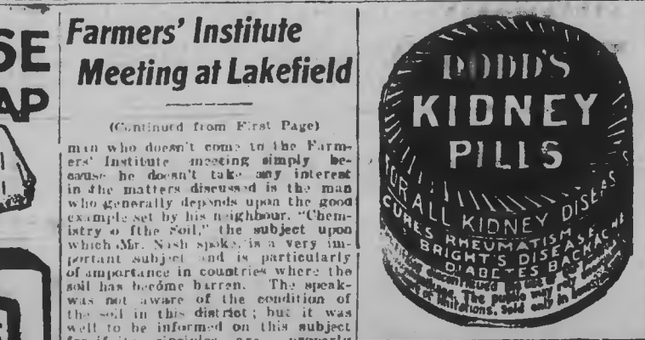
Mr. C. W. Nash.

Mr. C. W. Nash was then introduced and gave a most interesting address on "Nature on the Farm." Mr. Nash is a most eloquent speaker, and his description of animal life on the farm was listened to with great attention. He told of the habits of the various animals and birds, to be found in agricultural districts, in a manner which held his audience from first to last.

A well rendered selection by the orchestra was then given, after which the male chorus was heard to good in a selection.

Before the meeting dispersed a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. T. M. Hunter, was passed by those taking part in the entertainment.

The Lakefield meetings were among the most successful ever held in this district, and to Mr. Wm. Collins, the energetic secretary, and the president, Mr. T. M. Hunter, much of the credit is due.



A POINTER WORTH HAVING.

The merits of Ozone are well known, but in buying it one must be sure to get the purest form. Also, Ozone should always be taken along with "Celery King" the famous tonic laxative. The purest form in which Ozone is put up is "Solution of Ozone" (the coupon kind) and each bottle of this brand contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free.

No other firm in the world can give "Celery King" with Ozone. We give because our Ozone thus brings the highest results. In addition, you get just about twice as much "Solution of Ozone" for your money as of other kinds, and you also get it in the purest and most concentrated form. EDITORIAL NOTES.

The reported assets of the Bank of Montreal, which, old as it is, comes up every year like a giant refreshed with new wine, is placed at the comfortable figure of $158,232,378.98. Note the odd cents at the last of that opulent row of riches. Now, if this were a church tea fight there would be an auction sale of surplus cake to raise the two odd cents to make it even money.

Mr. Borden, the nominal leader—the member of the Conservative Opposition who signs the pay-roll—is going to speak at Athens. St. Paul preached at Athens, and a few hundred years later the late Rev. T. De Witt Talmage attempted to fill his shoes. History repeats itself. Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke at Athens, and now Mr. Borden is treading in his oratorical footsteps.

Out in Seattle they are looking forward to the time when Seattle will be a greater centre of commerce and Population than either London of New York. The census figures show, the Montreal Gazette points out, that for every new inhabitant Seattle secured in ten years ending with the census year, 1900, London secured 48, or in other words that London is growing 48 times as fast as Seattle. In addition, London has the mere trifle of 6,500,000 of a start on the Pacific coast town. It is well when one develops ambitions to develop reasonable ones.

The average tenure of life of British Parliaments and Governments since 1841 has been only three and one-half years. It would seem that the British elector is more fickle than the Canadian voter, or that party lines are less strictly drawn in the Old Land than in Canada. The Macdoanl Government previous to the present one, held office for eighteen years. The present Laurier Administration has been in power nearly ten years, and as far as present indications go, promises to equal in time the record of the preceding Government. Measured by results and in comparision with national growth and development under the late Government, the Laurier Administration has been in power for twenty-five years; for the country has made more progress, achieved greater inter-national prominence made greater and more rapid strides towards nationhood than in the quarter of a centuary preceding.

The Canadian Farmers' Sun says: "A representative of the Canadian General Electric Company, in addressing the Tariff Commission, at Peterborough, said the protection accorded his company, as against British competition, was only 16 2-3 per per cent., but he did not ask more, provided the duty on his raw materials was not increased. The Canadian General Electric Company is engaged in a new line of industry, and calling not only for large capital, but technical skill of the highest order. If this industry can get along with less than 17 per cent. of protection little attention need be paid to industries which have asked for anywhere from 35 to 100 per cent.

The Toronto News thus refers to a comment of the Stratford Herald, Conservative, upon the attitude of the former:—The Herald says that the Whitney Government have a long way to travel in the way of official displacements before they will be confronted with the spectre of the spoils system; that no Government in Canada has been as considerate towards officials as the Whitney Government; that the civil service is packed with the results of thirty-three years of Liberal Administration; that the partisanship of many of these officials has been notorious, and that the number who have been dismissed is very small. It is not necessary to enter into comparisons of the work of the axe under different Governments, beyond repeating what we have already said, that hitherto the spoils system has not prevailed in Canada at all. The point is not what others have done, but what is now being done and proposed, and whether the dismissal of the Toronto Inspector can be defended on any other doctrine than that of spoils.

The Toronto News is still harping upon the iniquity of Archbishop Langevin sending a pastoral letter to the electors of Saskatchewan. The complaint being that the latter are unduly influenced in the exercise of their franchise—though the News claims that the Archbishop's action will help Mr. Haultain. The News adds that "such a letter, designed to influence an election would have meant serious trouble to the writer." So would the fact of Protestant ministers taking the stump to influence an election as they are doing in Saskatchewan in Mr. Haultain's interest. The firebrand party which the News has revived, used to call itself the Equal Rights party, but in the resurrected form of the firebrand party the equal rights plank seems to have been chopped up to make fuel for the flames. What Archbishop Langevin does in relation to influencing elections is fiendish, diabolical. What Protestant clergymen to with the same object is all right. Now, it would be better if both parties would confine their activities to their ecclesiastical duties, and if it is wrong for one party to dabble in politics it is wrong for the other.

THE COMMERCIAL OUTLOOK.

Both Sir George t Drummond, the vice-president, and Mr. Clouston, the general manager, in addressing the meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal, spoke in satisfactory terms of the condition of trade in Canada. A great harvest of high quality has been reaped in Ontario and the West, and on the whole fair prices are being received by the farmers. These results are satisfactory in themselves, and in their effect on trade, and are promising as to the future. To quote again what was quoted at the meeting, "the immense wealth so long stored in the virgin soil of the great western country will be gradually developed, and the fact that Canada is destined to become one of the greatest food producing nations in the world will soon become apparent to all in the volume of her exports." With the increase in agricultural production, there has been, and if a wise public policy is pursued there will continue to be, a development of the other industries that contribute to a country's wealth and progress. The railways also are extending their lines so as to increase and profit by the growth of agriculture in the West, and so also help the (trade) of the East. The conclusion of peace in Asia will have its effect on Canada as in other parts of the commercial world. Really, as far as the prospects are concerned, the situation could not be greatly improved. As was pointed out by Mr. Clouston, however, these are not times for carelessness or loose methods of business operation. Rather they should be taken advantage of to prepare for the time of slower trade, which, though long kept off, will come in the end. To quote Mr. Clouston's words: "Collections should be pressed and manufacturers should husband their resources and strengthen themselves in every way; for they are, to a great extent, prosperous by the grace of their neighbours, and when adversity comes to other countries the American bargain counter will be opened for Canada and our manufacturers and their employees will surely suffer." This advice is not that of the preacher alone. The statement of the bank's assets and liabilities shows that its practice is on safe lines, over sixty-eight millions of its hundred and fifty-eight millions of assets being held in a shape to enable it to meet any emergency, sudden or otherwise, that the conditions in Canada or elsewhere may give rise to.

THE WASTE BY FIRE.

In a paper by Mr. Alcide Chausse, it is stated that nine lives are lost by fire every year for every 100,000 of population. "If the loss of life is appalling the loss of property is disgusting. Our fire losses are equal to a tax of $25 per head per family. We have burned up one thousand millions of dollars worth of property in six years. Most losses, so called, are really but exchanges, one product turned into another form; a loss, perhaps, to many but a gain to some one. Not so with fire; that loss is final, absolute, and the visual one is actual.

New York averages 8,700 fires a year, Chicago, 4,100. We burn up three theatres, three public halls, twelve churches, ten schools, two hospitals, two asylums, two colleges, six apartment houses, three department stores, two jails, twenty-six hotels, one hundred and forty flat houses, and nearly sixteen hundred homes every week of the year. We may say that every person who lives or has business in buildings, is more or less exposed to danger by fire, owing to our recklessness, or criminal carelessness or ignorance; but setting aside such broad terms we have estimates that there are 33,000 lives daily in danger; that is, there are that many people directly exposed to fire, people who escape from burning buildings, lives that are in imminent peril. No war, however bloody, shows any such average of lives daily exposed to destruction. And what is being done to prevent this terrible loss? A little, almost hopelessly little, in the way of prevention, though much as a palliative. We throw water upon our fires, and are constantly endeavouring to throw it more scientifically, and expect the next fire to burn less fiercely because thereof. As far as cure goes note how little we have done. In all this broad continent there are but 3,000 buildings that can be called fireproof, and that very largely only in their structural parts, that is, fire-proof buildings like those in Baltimore, whose steel frames and terra cotta floors withstood the attack, where all else about them, the stone, the marble, the wood, went the way of all things combustible or destructible.

Winter Houseparty Tour Cuba and Mexico.

The cheapest and best trip ever run south. So much interest is centred in those two points of speculation. Here is an opportunity to visit them both and see and compare for yourself. Every point of interest will be visited, the trip going further south than any other ever run. American trips cost as much for Mexico alone. Patronize home industry when it is the best. The train will contain every possible luxury, the menus in an elegant dining car equal to those of the best hotels. The management is thoroughly experienced in the running of special trains and quite familiar with Mexico, the doctor who will accompany the train having lived in Mexico for fifteen years.

The going trip takes in all the best of Kentucky, (Mammoth Cave), Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, with nine days in and about Havana, Cuba, stopping at the best American Hotel. Mardi Gras in New Orleans, Louisiana, Texas— Houston and San Antonio, and all of Mexico, taking circle trips to interesting and beautiful points that sometimes extend three and four hundred miles. On the return, Austin, Eureka, Hot Springs and St. Louis are visited.

C. P. R. Survey Party Locates

Remarkable Pigeon in Possession of Member of the Party.

The C. P. R. survey party which arrived in the city yesterday to commence the survey of the new, short grain route from Peterborough to Midland, located their camp this morning near the residence of Mr. William McCormack, Victoria street, city, and have already commenced operations under the superintendency of Mr. Gourlay.

Mr. D. Tough, chef of the party, has in his possession a pigeon which is something of a rara avis. Mr. Tough secured the bird some months ago while engaged in Western Ontario. While at work he observed it, and picking it up discovered that one leg was broken.

By careful attention upon the part of Mr. Tough the pigeon subsequently recovered from the effects of the fracture, and since that time absolutely refuses to part company with the genial chef, who has, during the intervening months, had it as a constant companion in both sleeping and waking hours. A peculiarity about this pigeon is the fact that it will under no circumstances light upon any inanimate object, and its preference is Mr. Tough's shoulder. It is given a short fly each day.

Sacred Oratorio Will be Enjoyed

The sacred oratorio, "Christ and His Soldiers," which the choir of St. John's church will give in the church on Tuesday night, December 12, promises to be one of the musical treats of this season. The public should encourage the choir in its effort to provide them with a sacred musical programme, and doubtless there will be a large attendance.

All who are present will be furnished with a copy of the words of the solos and choruses in order that they may follow the singing. This will add materially to the enjoyment.

Geo. McFadden Succumbs To Tuberculosis

Was Well Known in Peterboro'—Contracted Severe Cold While in State of Michigan—Relatives in This City—Was a Member of the St. Peter's T. A. S.—Funeral Will Take place on Sunday Afternoon at 3 O'clock.

THE SAD DEATH OF POPULAR YOUNG MAN

The death occurred this morning at 12.30 o'clock at the family residence, 414 Dublin street, of Mr. George McFadden, son of Mrs. Margaret McFadden, of this city.

The late Mr. McFadden contracted a severe cold when he was in the state of Michigan and came home about a year ago. He was employed by Mr. R. A. Dutton after he returned to Peterborough, but the trouble became worse and worse and he finally succumbed to tuberculosis.

Deceased, who was a member of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was well known in this city where he was held in high esteem.

Besides his mother he leaves to mourn his death three brothers and one sister. The brothers are Edward, of Bay City, Mich., and Frederick and John, of Peterborough. His sister May (Mrs. Harry Overend) is also a resident of this city.

He was a cousin of Mr. Martin McFadden, Peterborough, and a nephew of Mr. Michael Haggerty, Bay City. He was predeceased by his father, Mr. Martin McFadden, six years ago. The late Mr. McFadden was identified with the grocery business while in Peterborough, having been employed by Mr. R. A. Dutton, Minnesota Bros. and other local merchants.

The funeral will leave the family residence at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, where religious service will be held thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment. Friends of the deceased are requested to omit floral contributions.

Making Progress With Instalation

The Canadian Machine Telephone Company, the Examiner is informed by Mr. Lorimer, is progressing well with the installation of the central system, and in a short time the balance of the subscribers' 'phones will be connected up. Since operations were commenced in the work of connecting the 'phones up, thirty or forty persons have come to the office to ask for telephones. This is an indication that the 'phone which will talk, "but never tell," will prove popular.

Leather Goods.

Of course every price is much lower at the Peterborough Bookstore than usual. That is one of the reasons why the Radical Reduction Sale is particularly important. This is one of the best stocked leather goods stores in the country. We have a full assortment of carriage bags, envelope bags, purses, card cases, combined purses and card cases, music folios, music rolls, military brushes in leather cases, toilet and jewel cases, etc. Any of these make delightful Christmas gifts. Farmer's Team Runs Amuck

Knocked Horse and Wagon Over and Almost Ran Down a Lady.

An exciting runaway occurred yesterday afternoon on Aylmer street. A team, said to belong to Mr. James Barrie, of Douro, got away from their driver on that street and made things lively for a while. Coming north at a pretty rapid pace, they collided with Mr. John Mervin's butcher wagon standing at the shop near the corner of Hunter street, and upset both wagon and horse, injuring the latter slightly. The team continued on its course, and a lady walking along the street had a very narrow escape from being run down. She sought refuge behind a tree.

The team was stopped at the corner of McDonel street by running between a tree and the walk.

The wagon and harness were slightly damaged, but otherwise no injury was done.

Death Occurred In Toronto

Demise of Mrs. Alfred Manning in That City This Morning.

The sad intelligence was received in the city this morning of the death in Toronto of Emily King, wife of Mr. Alfred Manning, formerly of Peterborough. Mr. Manning, the bereaved husband, is a brother of Messrs. Edward and George Manning, of Peterborough, the latter of whom went to Toronto to-day.

The late Mrs. Manning was the only remaining daughter of Mr. John King, of Peterborough, and lived here previous to their taking up residence in Toronto about ten or twelve years ago. Three children survive, one daughter and two sons, viz., Lily, William and Melville. No particulars have been received with regard to the death further than that it occurred at about eight o'clock this morning. The deceased has been in poor health for some time.

The Reduction Of Licenses

To-night the City Council will meet in Committee of the Whole to consider the question of the proposed reduction of liquor licenses in the city. At the request of the council the Ministerial Association and the License Commissioners will meet with them to discuss the question.

There is little doubt that the council will pass a bylaw to submit to the people at the munisipal elections to obtain their opinion on the proposal to reduce the number of licenses in the city.

The Best There Is

In these days of cheap substitutes there is a great inclination to buy something "just as good" in place of the genuine article.

In Gold Watches

this is particularly true. You can have two Watches side by side and one will look as well as the other and yet there may be a difference of $25.00 or $50.00 in the cost. The average purchaser finds out the difference either when told by the seller or after wearing his watch a while. When you buy your Watch there is no doubt about it. You know you get just what you are buying and there's no guess work about it. Isn't that comfortable buying.

Pork Packers May Have To Close Plants

Scarcity of Bacon Hogs is Developing an Alarming Situation—Mr. T. F. Matthews, of the Local Packing House, Tells of the Difficulties Experienced Here—Department of Agriculture Will Institute an Enquiry—A Serious Matter.

PRICE OF BACON HOGS ARE SOARING HIGH

The pork situation is one which consumers and packers may well view with some alarm. It appears that there is at the present time a very decided scarcity of bacon hogs in the country, and it is stated that as a result of this shortage of supply many of the large pork packing establishments in Canada may have to close down. At present the majority are running on short time.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, of the Geo. Matthews Company, Limited, informed the Examiner yesterday that the local packing house was experiencing great difficulty in securing sufficient hogs to supply the demand for bacon, in fact they were unable to do it, and the situation is developing into a serious one.

As a natural result of the scarcity the price is soaring, and yesterday in Toronto the price quoted was $6.37 1-2 cents per cwt. and the prospects are that they will go higher still. The situation is one which is engaging the attention of the Department of Agriculture, as indicated by the following from the Ottawa Free Press:—

The scarcity of bacon hogs in Canada has become so pronounced that the department of agriculture has begun an inquiry into the situation. A scarcity of pork usually develops about November, but this year eclipses all previous records.

Reports have been received in the live stock commissioner's office that pork packing establishments are on the verge of closing down owing to the inability of buyers to secure the hogs to keep the plants in operation. Exceptionally good prices are being offered and the farmers who are fortunate enough to have pigs for sale receive six dollars a hundredweight for them wholesale.

Mr. James B. Spencer, assistant live stock commissioner, is prosecuting the investigation and at the conclusion of his work he will make a report which it is hoped will wake up the farmers to the opportunities within easy reach for making more money out of the hog industry. The farmers at the present time are not following the most advantageous plan of raising pigs, fit for the packing houses. Too much grain is fed. This is an expensive fodder, while forage crops are just as useful and far cheaper. Besides this there is a lack of co-operation and the farmers, as a whole, are not able to keep up the supply.

The English market is steadily supply, and, while Canada cannot send over so fine a product as Ireland and Denmark, it can fill the general demand. It is contended by experts here that Canadian pork should occupy a similar position on the English market to cheese shipped from the Dominion. The Canadian export trade of pork is worth thirteen million dollars a year.

The department learns that in Prince Edward Island there is 30 per cent. less hogs than a year ago, when there were 48,000. There are none for export. New Brunswick is not able to sell any for export either, and Quebec is no more than able to supply the local demand. In these provinces representatives of Ontario packing houses are looking in vain for hogs. In Ontario, also, which produces 80 per cent. of all the bacon Canada sends to England, there is a falling off.

As a result of these conditions, the large packing establishments are not paying. Some are running with half the machinery, a condition in manufacture which is not profitable. Applied to pork packing it is increasing the cost about 30 cents for each dressed hog.

Ontario Cobalt Written Up

The Wonderful Wealth of New Ontario Deposits—Forbidding, Barren Wilderness on the Surface resting on Untold Millions—Carload of Ore Worth $90,000—Land That Would Not Bring 10 Cents an Acre Now Worth $100 Square Inch.

FORTY ACRES HELD AT ONE MILLION DOLLARS

Mr. Frank C. Carpenter, whose opportunities for gathering information are world-wide, is enthusiastic about the riches of Cobalt. In a letter published in The Buffalo Express of Saturday last he says:—

"Three years ago the land about Cobalt would not have sold for ten cents an acre. To-day some of it would bring $100 a square inch. There is one tract of 40 acres within a stone's throw of where I am writing that you could not buy for $1,000,000 in cash, and all about here are other 40-acre tracts which their owners estimate at from hundreds of thousands to millions of dollars. Nevertheless, the land lies in the heart of the wildest woods on this continent. It is rocky and swampy, and it would take a quarter section of it to feed a goat.

"Its value lies in the enormous silver deposits which have recently been discovered. The rock is streaked with great veins of almost pure silver ore. Three or four million dollars' worth of this ore has already been shipped, and carloads of it are now on the way to New York, which are worth $25,000 to $30,000 a car. A carload of the best picked specimens from a certain mine is said to have sold for $90,000, another carload for $50,000 and another for $40,000.

In the meantime, the people here deem themselves rich beyond the dreams of avarice. The land has been staked out for miles in every direction, and hundreds of prospectors with hammers in their hands and great packs on their backs, held there by straps around the forehead, are tramping through the woods looking for new ore fields."

Mr. Carpenter says that at present there are about 20 mines being worked. Some are owned by Buffalo people, some by New York parties and more by Canadians. The field as far as defined is about three miles square, with the very richest mines within a radius of two miles. It embraces Lake Cobalt, and there has been a proposition to drain the lake in order to mine the veins that run under it, but this has not been permitted by the government. The land will be opened next August, and a great rush is looked for.

Some of The Examiner's readers may not have a very clear idea of what cobalt is, and this Mr. Carpenter helps to make clear, as follows:

"This cobalt-silver ore is a comparatively new thing in Nature. Cobalt and silver are frequently found together, but nowhere in such quantities as here. Cobalt is a mineral something like nickel in its properties. It is used to make paints and pigments, and it is generally known as cobalt blue. It forms the colour for all of the finest blue china. The metal is also valuable for toughening steel, and for this reason it can never fall below the value of nickel, which is now worth 30 or 40 cents a pound. It now retails for $2.50 a pound, and its value in connection with the silver here is estimated at 60 cents per pound. So far the ore here is mined only for the silver, and its price is based upon the silver it contains."

It is of the greatest value to New Ontario to have its treasures investigated and advertised by a writer of Mr. Carpenter's reputation, a syndicate journalistic correspondent of solid repute, possessing, as he does, the entry into the very best newspapers on the continent. It is by such means that the capital New Ontario lacks will be made available, and with adequate capital its possibilities can hardly be measured.

Five Hundred A Popular Game

A New Drawing Room Game Being Introduced Here.

The Examiner is introducing a new game in Peterborough, and from present indications the prospects are that it will prove to be one of the most popular of the many parlour games played here. It is the game of "five hundred," and is a combination of euchre, pedro and whist. It is already being played here to a limited extent, and gives promise of becoming very popular. In a number of other places it is being taken up with enthusiasm, and there is little doubt that in Peterborough it will soon attain a considerable popularity. The Examiner is printing score cards for the game, and they may be procured at this office. On the back of the score card pad are the rules of the game, which are as follows:

1. For three handed, (as usually played, use all the cards above six spots; for two handed use all the cards above eight spots; four four handed play partners, and use all cards above four spots. Joker is always used.
2. Deal three cards to each player three times around; then one to each, leaving remainder for the widow.
3. Each player has one bid; the highest bid makes trumps, takes the widow, discards all but ten and leads.
4. When "no trump" is played, the cards rank as in whist with the joker only as a trump card.
4. When playing a "no trump" hand, whoever leads the joker calls for any suit desired, and a card of the suit called for must be played upon it.
6. If the player takes the number of tricks bid, or more, he scores only the number which his bid called for in schedule. Should he take every trick, however, he counts 250; or more if his bid calls for it.
7. Each player other than the bidder counts ten for every trick he takes.
8. Failure to take the number of tricks bid sets the player back the number his bid calls for.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. William McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

American Election Expenses

The Republican National Committee in the last Presidential campaign in the United States spent $1,800,000, which sum, it is declared, is $900,000 less than was used to elect McKinley in 1900, and $2,000,000 less than in 1896. These sums are large in themselves, but when it is remembered that in 1904 about thirteen and a half million ballots were cast, of which Mr. Roosevelt got 7,624,489, it will be seen the money was used in big operations, and may not have been used for any but legitimate purposes. A national committee's fund is not, however, the only one that is drawn on in a Presidential contest, nor does it represent anything approaching the entire expenditure of a party in a Presidential year.

SICK HEADACHE

Many varieties of headache exist, those most prevalent being sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, etc.

Headache is an effect of disease, the cry of the suffering body for relief from some oppressing disorder.

Undoubtedly the cause must be removed in order to cure the headache permanently. Wrong action of the stomach, liver or bowels is responsible for nine out of ten cases of headache.

In sick headache (a very common form) there is sometimes nausea and vomiting and usually constipation.

In nearly all forms of headache

has proved itself a specific—a medicine that has cured where all others failed.

Keep the stomach, liver and bowels in perfect working order by the use of nature's regulator and tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters, which cures all forms of headache by removing the cause.

Miss L. Smith, Morrisburg, Ont., writes: "I desire to let you know how much good Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I was troubled with headaches all the time, and could get no relief, until a friend told me of your Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles of it, I can say that I am completely cured."

B.B.B. is for sale at all druggists and general stores. Do not accept something "just as good."

Merchants Rubbers

POINTERS FOR RUBBER BUYERS

An up-to-date shoe dealer is usually a good rubber judge—he is quick to discern the comparative points of excellence that pass unnoticed by the ordinary man.

Many of the largest merchants have stocked exclusively with Merchants Rubbers. They know that the high grade materials used, the exclusive methods employed and general care exercised in their manufacture mean increased wear and pleased customers.

This fact is a good guide to the ordinary buyer.

Merchants Rubbers have the fit, style, appearance and wearing qualities that cannot be obtained in any other brand of rubbers.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—A dozen or more master plumbers and members of the Supply Association faced a vigorous accusation yesterday in the Assize Court, when Crown Prosecutor A. E.
